Mischa Auer has been added to the cast of 'Oh, Charlie' at Universal for the new footage which is being shot with Ted Lewis and his show and the Andrews Sisters. All of the principals who appeared originally in the Abbott and Costello comedy, including Richard Carlson, Evelyn Ankers, Joan Davis, Marc Lawrence, Milton Parsons, Shemp Howard and Frank Penny, have been recalled for the new footage, which will require at least two weeks to film.

Lewis, his band, and entertainers, including Geraldine Ross, eccentric dancer; Kay, Kay and Katye, adagio dancers; Jeanne Blanche, singer; Charles (Snowball) Whittier, comedian, and the La Ahn Sisters, singers, will appear in the new scenes. Lewis will record his old favorites, 'I'm the Leader of the Home Town Band', 'Me and My Shadow', 'When My Baby Smiles At Me', 'Isn't She a Pretty Thing', 'Murder', 'The Sunny Side of the Street' and 'Just Around the Corner'. The Andrews Sisters will record 'Aurora' and 'Sleepy Serenade'.

DRAMATIC ATTACK ON FCC AT NAB CONVENTION

CHAIRMAN FLY LEAVES ANGRY

Ethridge closed his speech. Fly had been under the impression he would be asked to answer Ethridge from the same rostrum, but Miller made no move in this direction until the meeting was adjourned.

Miller then rushed after Fly, who was on his way out of the hall, and asked him whether he wanted to reply at the afternoon session. FCC chairman, almost inarticulate with anger at what he considered an inexcusable discourtesy, retorted that would be too late, and something to the effect that he didn't play according to Miller's rules.

Ethridge's broadsides at the commission were greeted with frequent outbursts of sustained applause and later comment was split between expressions of admiration for what some termed his courage and the feeling that Ethridge had gone overboard on his vitriol and personal excoriation and that episode might result in President Roosevelt accepting the broadcasters' stand against FCC as fundamentally directed at the administration.

Commission had released its report while Ethridge, on assignment from Roosevelt, was in the midst of preparing a set of recommendations for changing radio rules and regulations. Ethridge, regarding this action as a personal affront, resigned from the presidential assignment.

ETHRIDGE CHARGES

With Fly seated beside him on the dais, Ethridge stated he was not renouncing his support of the New Deal but he did want to warn if the country does lose its democracy it won't be because of the New Deal but because 'pretorian guard of bureaucrats has taken command'. He charged by its terms of the monopoly report that the commission was trying to take network affiliates into protective custody and described the report's provisions as a trap which would take broadcasting into government operation, and these provisions were intended to be punitive and not constructive.

Ethridge also questioned the good faith of the commission in anything it has proposed, and warned if trouble comes from this attempt to alter the structure of relations between the networks and stations, Roosevelt must blame the majority commission, which seems to welcome it.

Several hours after Ethridge's speech, Samuel Rosenbaum, WFIL, Philadelphia, and Paul Morency, WTIC, Hartford, Conn., resigned as chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of Independent Network Radio Affiliates. WFIL is partly owned by a mortgage house, and WTIC by Travelers Insurance Co. Report at the convention was that in the case of Rosenbaum his resignation had been suggested by his employer because of possible repercussions resulting from Rosenbaum's tieup with IRNA, which has gone on record as backing NBC and Columbia's stand against FCC anti-monopoly orders. Rosenbaum denied the report, stating he had quit because of press of other duties.

BMI ANNOUNCEMENT

In the morning session, which dealt with Ascap and BMI, the convention, after listening to a report from BMI executives, passed a resolution 'reaffirming obligation of the broadcasters to perpetuate BMI'. Announcement was made BMI was reducing its service to subscribers by 30% and that cost of the first year of BMI's operation totalled $1,973,000. It was explained BMI, under its consent decree, was offering broadcasters a per program plan as well as a blanket contract, but it was urged that BMI be supported on the blanket basis.

Niles Trammell, NBC prexy, who also spoke at this gathering, stated that even when NBC made a deal with Ascap, providing terms are satisfactory, NBC would go on supporting BMI. Mefford Runyon, CBS vice-prez, expressed a similar alignment with Ascap, but terms of this deal were not discussed because of possible conspiracy implications, as one speaker pointed out.

Only network official to air his views on the monopoly report before the convention was Edward Klauber, CBS executive v.p. He said if the commission had its way the broadcasting industry would be thrown into chaos, and out of this 'terrorization' would come government operation.

and gave Travers whom Thomson had loaned AGVA for 30 days, the title of secretary.

The report that Thomson was resigning is said to have been prompted by criticism by two national board members of his appointment of Travers to take charge of the local office. Election of Travers as secretary, however, disclosed that the local AGVA board had full confidence in both Thomson and Travers and apparently closed the issue so far as national officials were concerned. It was the national board that originally asked Thomson to straighten out the affairs of the AGVA local here. He declined to act until the local board made a similar request.

AGVA yesterday issued the following statement:

'The Los Angeles local of the American Guild of Variety Artists reaffirmed its confidence in Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, as temporary administrator of its affairs, and elected Lee Travers, Mr. Thomson's representative, local executive secretary at a special meeting this afternoon. Reports circulated in New York that Mr. Thomson had resigned as administrator of the Los Angeles AGVA are in error. Mr. Thomson will continue to advise with Mr. Travers and the local until their affairs are on an even keel. The AGVA local notified the board in New York of its action in a letter sent tonight.

'Since the new administration began its work with AGVA, revenues of the local have increased 100%, and the services to Variety performers have been augmented by the addition of a night representative who is on duty from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m.'

Dwight Taylor has closed deal with the Shuberts to revive playwright's 'The Gay Divorce' in eight eastern cities. Dorothy Stone has been set as cast nucleus. Cities already on schedule are Detroit, Chicago and Boston.

Ray Bolger leaves for New York this weekend to talk over offer from the Shuberts for dancer to do the Fred Astaire part in the revival. Bolger will also get together with Lee Ephraim on possibility of going into 'Under Your Hats' with Beatrice Lillie.

HUGE REPUBLIC BUILDING PROGRAM WELL UNDERWAY

Republic has already spent one-third of the $2,500,000 allotted for new building and studio improvements, begun last October, and still has work scheduled that will eat up the total during the next two years. Extensive building program was launched Oct. 15, 1940, with the $250,000 Mabel Normand sound stage, and since that date another $500,000 has been expended under company's plans to promote its facilities for turning out its yearly schedule of pictures, having 66 slated for 1941-42. Program was mapped out by Herbert Yates with M. J. Siegel, president of Republic Productions, and building activities are being supervised by C. L. Lootens.

Future construction will include the dismantling and reconstruction of the mill into a new property department, while the present property rooms will be made into the men's and women's wardrobe department. As a starter on this section of the plan, work already is under way on a block-long business street near the new mill stage.

Work on a new studio restaurant and coffee shop will start immediately following okay on present designs by Yates. Other progressive improvements on company's north lot will include permanent sets such as an English village, a French village, dock and wharf sets, a tenement district, city park, and various types of residences. A large stage, duplicating the Mabel Normand building, has plans completed, but actual construction work is awaiting a report from the Flood Control Department as to its plans for taking care of flood waters in the Los Angeles river.

Work already completed includes a new back lot stage housing a modernized mill and carpenter shop; a miniature designing shop and shooting stage with new lighting effects. Stage's roof is so constructed that a half-acre space is allowed for the shooting of out-of-doors miniatures, and building cost in excess of $150,000. A new scene dock, tin and set sheds, blacksmith shop, plaster shop, plumbing and paint shop, all newly equipped. Paint shop has the only water wall-type spray booth used in the film industry. Construction office building has been completely modernized and has new offices to house the art department and drafting rooms for architects. Front lot has new cutting rooms and combination projection and screening room attached to the editorial building. Three miles of new asphalt paving has been added to the streets. An automatic sprinkling system has been installed in all buildings where film is handled and the studio's underground fire system and electrical distribution system have been enlarged.

that these revisions will result in an increase of approximately $500,000 per year in the earnings of atmosphere players. It also would eliminate the necessity for many adjustments, since regular extras would receive $10 per day for all calls, and the $5.50 brackets would be confined to mob and street scenes.

As soon as the deal between the Producers and the SAG is inked, the Standing Committee will be in a position to proceed with its plan to eliminate some 2,000 casual extras from the industry in order to create more work for those players who have no income outside of the motion picture field. Some producers were apprehensive that limiting $5.50 calls would up the cost of B pictures, but they are reported to have finally given their okay following conferences with Kenneth Thomson, SAG executive secretary, who has handled most of the negotiations.

Hollywood Inside

STARTING Saturday, new government regulations for the London area will extend the nightly motion picture theatre deadline from the present 7 o'clock to 8:30 and 9:30 to accommodate marked increase in business during the past few weeks. This is the word received here by Metro from Sam Eckman, its official in charge of theatre operations in London. Eleven film houses are affected, including Metro's three acers, the Empire, the Ritz and the Carleton. Metro's trio draws the first extended permission, running open until 9:30 p.m. London film houses will go alternately in two groups on the extended time. London houses are reported in past few weeks to be breaking all war-time attendance records. Better protection against night raids, longer daylight hours and better organization generally are credited for increased business.

ATTACHES of the Metro studio publicity department are understood to have contacted a number of the Hollywood correspondents Tuesday to tip them on Universal's sneak preview of 'Bachelor Daddy' at the Warners theatre in Huntington Park. Tip was apparently made in the hope that writers would pass up the Metro sneak of 'Lady Be Good' at the California theatre in Huntington Park in their excitement to catch the Universal film. Correspondents' own tip service supplied them with the data on the Metro screening and picture was caught anyway, in spite of fact that studio used no lights on the theatre and made every effort to keep their showing on the q.t.

FRANK CAPRA and Robert Riskin are paying $40,000 to Frank Lloyd Productions for the screen rights to 'The Flying Yorkshireman', which they hope to make with Charlie Chaplin playing the title role. Capra and Riskin will not receive the radio rights in this deal. Eric Knight, who wrote the story, originally sold it for around $1,000. Under an arrangement with Lloyd, whereby he was to help on the screenplay if Lloyd made it, Knight will get an extra piece of change, less than $3,000. Lloyd bought it from Eddie Cantor for $22,000. Cantor was one of the later owners of the piece. Earlier owners were Earl Carroll and Sidney Skolsky. Skolsky paid $5,000 for it.

Old Man Baseball sprang to life
many a long year back
And the youngest vet who battles yet is a kid named Connie Mack.

Baseball is show business. Its acrobatics have outlived those of vaudeville and its ancient theme, bat-meets-ball, is still carrying on in spite of heavy competition from Hollywood's boy-meets-girl.

Tomorrow the State of Pennsylvania, in particular, and the baseball world, in general, is celebrating an anniversary of Cornelius McGillicuddy, who whittled his name down to Connie Mack years before the Hollywood boys thought of trimming titles down to fit marquees.

Connie's life story, which is practically the story of baseball, is about to be written by Ann Morgan, who writes screen plays and is still a Philadelphia baseball fan, which demonstrates a tremendous amount of civic pride. When Connie was out here with his Athletics for Spring training, he handed Ann the exclusive rights to his biography, book, radio and film, with a modest apology: 'I don't think I'm big enough for history.' Anybody who can run a ball club in Philadelphia for 40 years is deserving of a biography, a medal and a monument in Fairmount Park.

Bob Murphy hopped off for Las Vegas to help his fellow buckaroos celebrate the Helldorado festival. He toted five 10-gallon hats, a total of 50 gallons, which is just about par for a cowhand celebration.

Then there was Clarence Brown, who sought surcease from the turmoil of Hollywood, a week of Nevada quietude, and set his plane down in the middle of Helldorado.

Film Preview and Review

Pirates On Horseback

(Western Drama)

Paramount production and release. Stars William Boyd. Supporting cast: Russell Hayden, Andy Clyde, Eleanor Stewart, Morris Ankrum, William Haade, Dennis Moore, Henry Hall, Britt Wood. Producer, Harry Sherman. Director, Lesley Selander. Screenplay, J. Benton Cheney, Ethel La Blanche. Photography, Russell Harlan. Art director, Lewis J. Rachmil. Film editor, Fred Feitshans, Jr. Previewed May 15. Running time: 69 mins.

For the 35th time Harry Sherman and his acting and technical associates at Paramount have rung the bell with another Hopalong Cassidy picture, 'Pirates On Horseback'. This one, enhanced by the beauty of California mountain scenery and the excellent photography of Russell Harlan, ought to fare as well as its predecessors.

William Boyd is again the happy-go-lucky wanderer with his two pals, Russell Hayden and Andy Clyde. Brave and undaunted, the gallant trio comes to the rescue of Eleanor Stewart when a gambler and his gang try to gain control of her rich mine.

Morris Ankrum is the leader of the gang, as big a heel as ever preyed upon a lonely girl. Ankrum's gang first shoots Britt Wood, who dies with the secret of his lost mine. Clyde, a distant relative, hears of the murder and comes with Boyd and Hayden to the prospector's shack. There they find Miss Stewart, the slain miner's niece, already in possession. She welcomes their aid in searching for the treasure. Boyd finds a note containing a clue to the location of the shaft. Ankrum learns of the note, convinces the girl that the three pals are crooks, captures them and then tries to force her to give him the mine. Boyd and his pals escape. While Miss Stewart struggles with the gambler, Boyd comes to his saloon and gives him the old one-two in a session of fisticuffs that will have the Hopalong fans howling with glee.

Boyd, Hayden and Clyde turn in their usual swell performance. Miss Stewart makes her picture debut as the leading lady. She carries off her assignment with few traces of hesitancy and gracefully adorns those scenes in which she appears. She faintly resembles Joan Crawford, although she has a definite charm of her own. Ankrum makes an adequate villain. William Haade, Dennis Moore, Henry Hall and Britt Wood give excellent support.

Lesley Selander's direction is up to his usual Hopalong standard. Screenplay, by J. Benton Cheney and Ethel La Blanche, does not move as swiftly as some of the other Cassidy adventures, but it is by no means dull. Producer Sherman and Art Director Rachmil have again found magnificent scenic backgrounds.

Jane Withers Assigned 4 H Club Yarn

'Young America', story woven around activities of farmer youths who comprise the 4 H Clubs, will be next starring vehicle for Jane Withers at 20th-Fox. Executive Producer Sol M. Wurtzel has assigned Sam Engel to write the script. Jane will probably attend 4 H national encampment at Washington, D. C. this June, and picture is slated to roll around July 1.

Strange Alibi

(Melodrama)

Warners release of a First National production. Cast: Arthur Kennedy, Joan Perry, Jonathan Hale, John Ridgely, Florence Bates, Charles Trowbridge, Cliff Clark, Stanley Andrews, Howard da Silva, Wade Boteler, Ben Welden, Joe Downing, Dick Rich, Paul Phillips, Joe King, Paul Stanton, Eddie Chandler, Robert Homans, Dudley Dickerson, John Hamilton, William Gould. Director, D. Ross Lederman. Associate producer, William Jacobs. Screenplay, Kenneth Gamet. From story by Leslie T. White. Dialog director, Frank Fox. Photography, Allen G. Siegler. Film editor, Frank Magee. Assistant director, Lee Katz. Reviewed at Warners Hollywood, May 15. Running time: 64 mins.

Fast-moving crime plot with a trick finale makes this one a pretty good entry for the cops and robbers trade. Production has been deftly staged and directed by D. Ross Lederman, with a strong accent on action rather than wordage. Result is a peppy, even if conventional, meller which will easily hold its own as supporting fare.

Continuity is smooth most of the way, with only a few slow spots. Major defect in scripting lies in a series of anti-climaxes, which are temporarily disconcerting. Director has, however, overcome these hurdles by keeping yarn moving on the double-quick.

With little waste of footage narrative plunges into the vortex of a big city crime wave when the chief of police, Jonathan Hale, suspicious of men in his own department, arranges a fake quarrel with youthful detective Arthur Kennedy. A phoney fist fight is staged in the station crowded with policemen, and Kennedy, who has been suspended for 30 days, turns his badge in for good. As a renegade copper Kennery then worms his way into confidence of the racketeers who are headed by two police officers. Boy is then framed and sent up for life on rap of killing his own chief and benefactor.

Tempo of suspense is maintained and quickened through the prison sequences with the getaway involving chasing episodes, gunfire, a race against a speeding train, and an auto crackup, following which Kennedy manages to reach the city. Here he uses a dead gangster to prove his innocence and trap the mobsters in uniform into the compromising situation that results in their apprehension.

Romantic interest is of secondary importance, with Joan Perry spotted in insignificant role opposite Kennedy. Okay performances are turned in by Kennedy, Jonathan Hale, Cliff Clark, Stanley Andrews and several others. Production has been nicely mounted.

New York Court Weighs U.S. Plea on Schine Circuit Decish

New York, May 15.—The Circuit Court of Appeals today reserved decision on the plea made by the Internal Revenue Department to reverse the decision of the Board of Tax Appeals in favor of the Schine circuit and grant the Government $68,955 deficiency income tax and $9,202 excess profits tax claimed from the theatre chain.

The Government contends tax is due on $630,805 received by Schine in 1933 from the Fox Metropolitan as forfeited rent deposit on the cancellation of the lease on 20 Schine theatres to Fox Metropolitan. Schine claims, and the Board of Tax Appeals upheld the claim, that the rent was due under the 1929 tax and that the statute of limitations has voided the Government claim to it.

Police Comish Passes Up Pic Censorship; Hits Legits

Proposed Police Commission censorship of motion picture theatres, hanging fire for several months, was passed up at the last session of the Police board and a recommendation for a new ordinance calling for control of stage shows only was endorsed. Testimony was offered at the meeting, attended by attorneys and representatives of major studios and theatre chains, that there were no grounds for complaint that motion picture houses were running lewd shows and film theatres should not be included in the censorship measure.

New ordinance endorsed for stage shows would operate similarly to the present control of the 315 cabarets that come under the licensing power of the Commission. It would mean that the Police Commission would have the power to suspend or revoke licenses of stage show producers presenting offensive shows. In the past two years the Commission has found it necessary to revoke only two licenses of cabarets for offensive shows.

Skipping of picture theatre censorship in the new recommendation means film houses are given a clean bill of health under their present operation.

PRODUCTION SPURT BONANZA FOR CAMERAMEN

cently placed under term contracts, especially among the veterans, is that the draft was presumed to take a considerable number of cinematographers from among the younger group.

At 20th-Fox four cameramen have been signed to term deals within the past six weeks, and one operator has been elevated to full-fledged lenser. New additions at this studio are Lucien Andriot, Virgil E. Miller, James O'Neill Taylor and Harry Jackson. Joe MacDonald was promoted to first camera and assigned to 'Charlie Chan In Rio'. First cameramen previously and still under contract are Peverell Marley, Arthur C. Miller, Ernest Palmer, Leon Shamroy, Edward Snyder and Edward Cronjager, under Daniel B. Clark, head of the department.

Warners has an all-time high of 71 men in its camera department, eight of them under term contract. These latter are Elmer Dyer, Tony Gaudio, James Wong Howe, Bert Glennon, Ernest Haller, Charles Marshall, Ted McCord and Sol Polito. Top lensers at Warners are above draft age, but production activity has called for big increase in lens department.

Paramount assigns production increase as reason for its increase in cinematographers. Six are under term contract. Recently added to one or two picture deals are John Seitz, for 'Sullivan's Travels', Johnny Mescall, for two pictures, 'The Night of January 16' and 'Henry Aldrich For President'; Daniel Fapp, promoted from assistant to first by Ted Tetzlaff when latter was promoted to director, and Theodor Sparkuhl and Karl Struss, both of whom returned to Paramount a few months ago.

Metro has 12 cameramen under contract, including Ray June, Robert Planck, Clyde De Vinna, Leonard Smith, Charles Lawton, Hal Rosson, Sid Wagner and Karl Freund.

Other studios show the same trend in comparable number of camera wielders and proportion of increase in recent weeks.

Chairman Fly Slaps Back at NAB After St. Louis Brush-off

nated by a Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance combo. David Sarnoff, NBC chairman of the board; William S. Paley, CBS prez, and Neville Miller, NAB prexy, were the objects of Fly's blast, as earlier in the week he leveled criticism at Sarnoff and Paley for their control of 86% of radio's night time power and wattage. Fly further remarked that two men run the show and a couple of others do the chores.

When reporters accepted Fly's invite to visit his room, the FCC chairman said he had declined to accept an invitation to again address the convention as he had learned that NAB members had adopted a resolution calling for a congressional investigation of FCC's recent anti-monopoly report. He intimated that this was the subject he would have discussed had not the action been taken by the broadcasters.

The convention resolutions committee dished out gobs of posies for various execs of the organization. Given pats were Vice-President Henry A. Wallace for the attendance of Fly at the conclave, and Fly for his frank and open discussion of many controversial questions confronting the industry at the moment.

Convention winds up tonight with the election of several new directors. A dinner at which entertainment was produced by Nat Abramson, head of WOR artists bureau, added to the gaiety. Among the performing talent were George Jessel, Quiz Kids, Jane Froman, Rose Bampton, Henry Morgan, Stan Kavanaugh and Giovanni. Hedda Hopper flew from Hollywood to be the honor guest at the banquet.

SCHLESINGER SCG SESSION TONITE

The Leon Schlesinger unit of the Screen Cartoonists Guild meets tonight to discuss the progress of its negotiations with the company and to consider counter proposals submitted to the workers. While the SCG has authorized a strike if a deal is not set, both company executives and union tops expressed the belief that an amicable agreement will be reached.

Leon Schlesinger stated last night that the two groups were only about $8,000 apart and that he felt certain they would be able to get together on wages. He said he had offered increases of $20,000 annually, but that the Guild demanded $48,000. He stated his offer was later raised to $25,000. The Guild also has made certain wage concessions in the upper brackets in an effort to get together with the company.

of Joseph M. Schenck from the directorate and board membership, is the only new face added to the directorial slate in Schenck's place.

Vast majority of the common and preferred shares were represented at the meeting in person or by proxy, with all 12 directors receiving nearly an unanimous vote.

W. C. Michel presided at the session, taking over at the suggestion of Sidney Kent, company prexy, who was unable to attend the full meeting.

The annual organization session of the new directorate followed the stockholders' meeting and unanimously elected Kent president, Place chairman of the executive committee, Michel executive vice-president, Darryl F. Zanuck and William Goetz vice-presidents, Sydney Towell treasurer, W. J. Eadie comptroller and Felix Jenkins secretary.

Regarding election of Place as chairman of the executive committee, Kent issued the following statement:

'Herman G. Place, for many years a vice-president of the Chase National Bank, was today elected chairman of the executive committee of 20th-Fox, severing his connection with the Chase National Bank. This move was in the interest of reinforcing the organization in New York. Place has been a director of 20th-Fox for several years and is well known to the personnel of the company'.

Following the meeting it also was announced that Kent entered into a new five-year contract with the company which expires May 31, 1946.

SWG REPORTED REJECTING PROD. COUNTER PROPOSALS

The Screen Writers Guild is set to turn thumbs down on the Producers' counter proposals when they are brought up Monday night (19) at the Guild's emergency membership meeting, it was disclosed last night by shop stewards who have been contacting studio writers. They said the scriveners were practically unanimous in feeling that the terms are not acceptable, and indicated there probably would be a demand for an immediate strike vote.

A statement by the SWG yesterday also indicated that the Producers' offer does not go far enough. The statement said in part:

'Although hesitant to predict what action the membership might take in the present crisis, the Writers Guild negotiating committee was far from optimistic that the Producers' counter proposals would be accepted by the Guild body in their present form. On the contrary, it was believed by the Screen Writers Guild leaders that there might be an extremely unwelcome response from the film writers to the proposed new agreement'.

Pledges of support have already been received from the Radio Writers Guild, and the Authors League of America, composed of the SWG, the Dramatists Guild, and the Authors Guild has wired for news of the negotiations, with the idea of putting up a solid writer front in event the film scriveners and Producers are unable to get together. The emergency meeting will be held in the Blossom room of the Roosevelt hotel.

Warners Cancels Out Its Deal with Hoyt's In Australia

New York, May 15.—Contract of Warners to play its pictures with the Hoyt's Circuit in Australia is being cancelled by mutual consent upon delivery of the final 1940-41 product this fall. The deal had several years to run, but it is reported Warners has been seeking to cancel it for some months.

Although Hoyt's hopes to secure a new contract with Warners under new terms, Greater Union Theatres admittedly has been trying to make some Warners deal. Greater Union already has Paramount, Universal, Columbia, Republic, Monogram and part of the Metro product.

Hughes 'Outlaw' Gets Hays Okay After Amicable Changes

New York, May 15.—Board of directors of the Hays office today approved 'The Outlaw', Howard Hughes pic which is ready for a 20th-Fox release. The Production Code Administrator seal was issued following negotiations with Hughes whereby certain eliminations and changes will be made under an amicable agreement worked out between the Haysians and Hughes.

Originally the Haysian outfit directors had reaffirmed the decision of Joe Breen, PCA chief, rejecting the picture as first presented to him prior the producer's appeal to the board. The Hays directors even suggested more changes in the film than Breen originally asked be made when he first viewed the picture.

Milton Lazarus Sues Dramatists Guild On Col Play Deal

New York, May 15.—Milton Lazarus, dramatist, has filed suit in Supreme court against Elmer Rice as president of the Dramatists Guild, the Authors Guild of America, and Authors League. Playwright claims $25,500 damages on grounds that defendants refused his request for a concession on his play, 'Every Man for Himself', which would have enabled Lazarus to sell the script to Columbia Pictures. Action came to light in Supreme court when the case was set for May trial.

'Every Man for Himself' did not have the required three weeks on Broadway or 75 performances out of town but Lazarus claims the defendants could have waived the rule to allow the sale of film rights.

Prod. Labor Group Will Talk ADG Pact Tues.

The Producers labor relations committee will meet Tuesday (20) to act on the proposed basic agreement with the Art Directors Guild. The deal provides for recognition of the Guild as collective bargaining representative for the directors, Guild shop, screen credits, etc., but does not call for adoption of minimum wage scales, because of the wide difference in salaries received by the directors and their assistants. The pact was negotiated by Fred Pelton, producer labor contact.

Disney Turns Down SCG Grievance Arrangement

Walt Disney Productions yesterday turned down a demand of the Screen Cartoonists Guild that the company recognize a grievance committee to handle current problems of Guild members pending a decision by the National Labor Relations Board on a complaint charging the Federation of Screen Cartoonists is a company union. Disney took the position it would be illegal for him to deal with another union so long as the Federation remains the designated bargaining representative for employes.

NLRB attaches said that 'under ordinary circumstances' it would be illegal for an employer to deal with one union when another had been designated as bargaining representative, but hinted that the present circumstances might not be termed ordinary. They added, however, that there was nothing illegal in an employer discussing grievances with any employe or group of employes.

The SCG also is asking that the company post notices that it intends to remain neutral and will not try to influence employes in any way in the choice of a bargaining agent, and that executives and supervisors will be notified they are not to interfere, and that if there is any interference it will be immediately reported to Walter Spreckels, Disney labor contact.

The NLRB hearing on the complaint charging that Disney executives sponsored a company union in the Federation is scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday (19). In advising Disney representatives that he would ask the board to issue a complaint, William R. Walsh, acting regional director, stated that he felt the evidence was conclusive that the company 'had dominated and interfered' with the union, and at a time when certain employes were expressing an interest in the SCG.

The SCG, which recently signed a contract with Metro calling for substantial wage increases and which is now closing an agreement with George Pal, has developed into one of the biggest crafts in the film industry. When deals are inked with Disney and Leon Schlesinger, the group will have a membership of approximately 1,500.

ARNOLD CHAIRMANS GROUP ON SOUTH AMERICAN TRIPS

Plans for a talent survey of the film industry with a view to arranging a series of Southern American trips similar to the recent goodwill tour to Mexico City, were approved last night at the first meeting of the board of directors of the Motion Picture Society for the Americas. The survey will be made by a subcommittee chairmaned by Edward Arnold, prexy of the Screen Actors Guild.

It was disclosed that the United States government had requested such trips because of the feeling that the Mexico City trip had done much toward kindling more friendly relations between the southern Republic and the United States. The board also approved plans for entertaining the Navy chiefs-of-staffs from Latin American countries here tomorrow. They will be taken on a visit to 20th-Fox in the morning, will be guests of honor at a luncheon at Metro, and will be entertained at dinner that night by the Navy Department.

Y. Frank Freeman presided at the board meeting last night in the new Society headquarters on Wilshire. Kenneth Thomson sat in as executive secretary of the group. Board members attending the session were Frank Capra, Samuel Goldwyn, David O. Selznick, H. M. Warner, Fred W. Beetson, William Goetz and Francis Alstock, John Hay Whitney representative.

Mental Hazards Cited By Wobber In U.S. B.O. Decline

Mental hazards, rather than physical factors, are responsible for the general decline of film grosses throughout the country, according to Herman Wobber, distribution chief for 20th-Fox, here on production conferences with studio executives.

Uncertainty over the part the nation is destined to play in the international situation and its own future, Wobber declared in general analysis of the present box office condition, explains the unsatisfactory picture theatre business of the moment.

'Uncertainty affects the box office more adversely than any sort of definite action, no matter which way the action might turn', Wobber said. 'Business was worse in England just before the outbreak of war than it was right after Dunkirk, for example. The same thing was true in many countries, repeating the experience in the United States in 1917.'

Theatre men nearly everywhere, Wobber stated, had been greatly disappointed in the amount of money coming through their tills as a result of the billions being spent in national defense. The circulation of vast sums has had very little effect in show biz in the major cities. But benefits have been marked in San Diego, Tacoma and other towns where, in addition to government expenditures, there had been population increase.

There should, however, be a break soon, he declared, and when it does come there will be a tremendous box office boom.

H'wd Theatre Alliance In Bankruptcy

Hollywood Theatre Alliance, Inc. WHO'S WHO!

FILM Industry has been working hard on cooperating with National Defense projects and problems. However, in so doing, it has failed to work on one within its own ranks which is very serious. This problem is a vital one and should have immediate attention. It is a simple one to solve, and in the long run its solution will be a great service to the United States in case of emergency.

Problem is that the industry does not know who is working for it. There may be a lot of saboteurs and foreign government liaison personnel within its ranks, and the industry, with the exception of one company, has no way of checking properly—its who's who!—of foreign or alien personnel.

Hollywood Inside

PEGGING the price tag of film players for guest duty on an airshow will be the determining factor in the future status of LifeBO's 'Hollywood Premiere', now up for renewal or replacement. William Esty agency is contending that its Friday night guestars would be reasonably compensated if payoff is commensurate with the coin paid on Kraft Music Hall. Program has a cealing of $1,500 and deal is generally wrapped up in a package which calls for appearances on other J. Walter Thompson shows. Jean Hersholt, head of Motion Picture Relief Fund, is reported holding out for the same coin paid players on the Lux broadcasts. Stars are paid as high as $5,000 on this hour show. Richard Marvin, radio head of the Esty agency, is now in New York submitting the various proposals to the sponsor and is expected back next week to present a counter proposition. Screen Actors Guild has the signed agreement of Lolly Parsons to quit after the current quarter if her manner of operation conflicts with SAG policy. Understood that if no agreement can be reached on a price scale for guesters, Esty and Lever Bros. will expunge the Parsons setup and immediately substitute another program, believed to be Vox Pop, with Wally Butterworth and Parks Johnson. Program wraps up for $3,000 weekly and in season achieved a Crossley rating double that of the highest mark touched by the Parsons player-free show. LifeBO turn is budgeted at around $4,000 weekly and it is said that the soap firm is willing to add another $2,500 to pay the talent on the renewal. This figure is below what would be demanded by Relief Fund, which just now is awaiting a renewal on its own Screen Guild Theatre by Gulf Oil. Petrol outfit is understood to be holding back until assured that it will not have to compete against a cut-rate talent show.

HAL ROACH believes he can repeat with Marjorie Woodward the quick initial exploitation given Victor Mature and Carole Landis to make them important names within a few months after signing contracts. He bases his anticipations on Miss Woodward's receptions in Chicago and Boston where she ran into a college lads feud on Harvard campus when she had come as guest and 'the most promising beauty in Hollywood' for the annual Hollywood Lampoon dinner dance. She has worked in only one picture. She also appears in mag spread in connection with Leslie Charteris murder mystery essay. At Atlantic City she was hostess at cocktail party tossed for 1,000 exhibitors by United Artists at the Variety Clubs convention.

GORDON WILES, director who has also been art director, writer and technician in several other studio departments, has evolved a method of presenting a rehearsal of scripts as they are ready for the camera, including sound and graphic visualization, so that producer may see almost exactly what he may expect to get in the finished production. Wiles, who has just completed 'Forced Landing' for Bill Thomas and Bill Pine, draws every major scene and camera angle in a voluminous sequence of sketches. These he uses on flip-overs. He makes a record on acetate of the dialog, with the script writers and stock actresses reading the roles, and also records music the same way. Cost of preview is around $3,000.

FILM exchange managers and bookers report themselves pleasantly surprised by the quality of men apparently available to the Government for service on arbitration hearings. Decisions arrived at in many clearance cases to date indicate an amazingly keen analysis and comprehension on the part of arbitrators of the nature of the complaints filed by exhibitors. Astonishing to trade wise exchange men, also, is the grasp which the arbitrators appear to have of the complicated film business and of the new ramifications under the consent decree with which many picture men confess themselves baffled.

'DOCTORS DON'T TELL' comes down off the shelf again at Republic after three years as a frozen asset. It will be Albert J. Cohen's next production after 'Puddin' Head.' Story has been lying idle because studio didn't quite know what to do with it—whether to make it as a drama or with the stress of medicine. Now it goes as drama. Several months ago Sol C. Siegel, now at Paramount, wanted to make a picture called 'Nurses Don't Tell', but Republic protested the similarity of title and was reminded again of its doctor yarn with the resultant renewed activity on script.

From the musical comedy, 'Sunny'; book and lyrics by Otto Harback and Oscar Hammerstein II; music by Jerome Kern. Musical direction, Anthony Collins. Orchestral arrangements, Anthony Collins and Gene Rose. Photography, Russell Metty. Art director, L. P. Williams. Gowns, Edward Stevenson. Edited by Elmo Williams. Recorded by Richard van Hessen. Theatrical decor, Marco Montedoro. Set decorations, Darrell Silvera. Special effects, Vernon L. Walker. Assistant director, Kenneth Holmes. Dances created by Leon Leonidoff; assisted by Aida Broadbent. Previewed at the Academy, Inglewood, May 16. Running time: 97 mins.

Musical-minded ticket buyers will find this version of 'Sunny' to their liking. Tunefully strung together with the melodies of the old stage piece, picture is showmanly handled in all departments to give full value to the Jerome Kern music and the particular talents of its cast headliners. Under the producer-director guidance of Herbert Wilcox, the star, Anna Neagle, clocks off a smart credit, and the two male leads, Ray Bolger with his dancing and funning, and John Carroll with his romantic assignment and vocals, figure importantly.

Story is held to the minimum necessary to provide an adequate basis for the introduction of the musical numbers, but has polished dialog and situations to carry the proceedings off smoothly and logically under the scripting hand of Sig Herzig. Miss Neagle, a circus star, falls in love with John Carroll, a wealthy Southerner, under the influence of a New Orleans Mardi Gras. Plot complications take the form of Carroll's relatives and their attempts to break up the romance, but love triumphs for the happy ending.

Miss Neagle handles her four songs easily with melodic charm, 'Who', which dominates the production; 'Do You Love Me?' 'Sunshine' and 'Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms'. Her dances and dramatic portions are equally impressive.

Bolger, circus dancer and funny man, socks over two dance routines that equal anything previously filmed and makes every bit of his footage stand out. Carroll continues to live up to the promise shown in earlier film ventures, and displays his vocal prowess with 'Sunny' as a solo, and duets with Miss Neagle on two of the other songs.

Edward Everett Horton delivers his standard brand of chuckles in fine fashion. Grace and Paul Hartman don't miss a trick in selling

Lady From Louisiana

(Melodrama)

Republic release of Berhard Vorhaus production. Cast: John Wayne, Ona Munson, Ray Middleton, Henry Stephenson, Helen Westley, Jack Pennick, Dorothy Dandridge, Shimen Ruskin, Jacqueline Dalya, Paul Seardon, Major James H. MacNamara, James C. Morton, Maurice Costello. Director, Benard Vorhaus. Screen play by Vera Caspary, Michael Hogan and Guy Endore. Original story Edward James and Francis Faragoh. Production manager, Al Wilson. Photography, Jack Marta. Supervising editor, Murray Seldeen. Film editor, Edward Mann. Art director, John Victor Mackay. Music director, Cy Feuer. Previewed May 16. Running time: 83 mins.

Romantic, exciting and fast-moving in its melodramatic unfoldment under Bernard Vorhaus' skillful pilotage, 'Lady From Louisiana' stands among the best and most entertaining offerings turned out by Republic.

The story utilizes as plot pattern the control and operation of the old legalized Louisiana lottery and its ramifications, for this narrative, into the realms of power politics and crime. It is a well developed, smoothly told and picturesque script by Vera Caspary, Michael Hogan and Guy Endore, providing credible and interesting roles for John Wayne, Ona Munson, Ray Middleton, Henry Stephenson, Helen Westley and half a dozen other players in support. Original story, carrying the fundamental entertainment elements is by Edward James and Francis Faragoh. Plot core is flanked by many melodramatic excitements, appropriately photographed by Jack Marta—fist fights, two killings, a storm smitten court-house where a trial is in progress and the thunderous thrill of the Mississippi on a violent flood rampage with a steamboat used to ram shut a break in the levee.

All these visual and dramatic elements are thoroughly exploited by Bernard Vorhaus, who carries both the producer and the director responsibilities with unerring showmanship. He also manages to get top performances from the entire cast and to steep the picture in atmosphere which is authentic to the period and the old city behind its then precarious dikes, especially the French tenderloin section where much of the crucial action takes place.

John Wayne turns in a solid enactment as the young northern attorney who comes at request of a crusading reformer, Helen Westley, to eradicate, by legal means, the lottery controlled by Henry Stephenson.

Ona Munson, in her second appearance since 'Gone With the Wind', is beguiling as Stephenson's daughter, a flirtatious belle, who takes over management of her father's properties without knowing their nature until the revelation which reconciles her with Wayne after a

Bury Me Not On the Lone Prairie

(Western)

Universal production and release. Cast: Johnny Mack Brown, Fuzzy Knight, Nell O'Day, Kathryn Adams, Harry Cording, Ernie Adams, Jack Rockwell, Ed Cassidy, Don House, Lee Shunway, Pat O'Brien, Frank O'Connor. Directed by Ray Taylor. Assistant director, Charles Gould. Screenplay, Sherman Lowe. Associate producer, Joseph G. Sanford. Photography, Jerome Ash. Reviewed at the Hitching Post, May 16. Running time: 58 mins.

This rough-and-tumble meller harks back to the gold mining era when claimjumpers reasoned things out with bullets. It's moderately exciting fare and serves as a field day for Fuzzy Knight's concertina-playing and mugging. There's the usual quota of fist and gun battling. Story opens with a gold strike by three men who are rubbed out by a group of toughies. One of the prospectors manages to tell of the attack before he expires and Johnny Mack Brown then vows to hunt down the killers.

Fuzzy Knight handles the role of the village clown who wanders off into the hills on a bear hunt, finds gold, loses his memory from a blow on the head, and is captured by the heavies who try to find out where the strike was made. Knight goes completely daffy and insists he's back in the Civil War days.

A few okay cowboy singing sprees unfold as story progresses, with a campfire number possibly the best. Nell O'Day and Kathryn Adams register photographically.

Sheriff of Tombstone

(Western)

Republic production and release. Cast: Roy Rogers, George 'Gabby' Hayes, Elyse Knox Addison Richards, Sally Payne, Zeffie Tilbury, Michael Morris, Hal Taliaferro, Harry Woods, Jay Novello, Jack Ingram, Helen Gibson, Carl Sepulveda, Payne Johnson, June Muir, Boots Brown, Roy Bancroft. Directed by Joseph Kane. Screenplay, Olive Cooper. From original story by James Webb. Photography, Bill Nobles. Reviewed at the Hitching Post, May 16. Running time: 60 mins.

Roy Rogers and bewhiskered George 'Gabby' Hayes register unusually good as a team for films of this type—Rogers as the heroic law defender with Hays as the sharpshooting comic. Production has been handled satisfactorily from the staging as well as the casting angles. There are a couple of sequences that are reminiscent and good impressions of more pretentious drama.

Action is maintained at a fairly good pace all the way through, with the usual sprinkling of gunfights, brawls and chasing episodes. Sally Payne puts across a western barroom ballad about a guy named 'Two-Gun Pete', assisted by a bartender chorus. She later sings a torch number which is okay but not quite as suitable. Songstress impresses as a strong entry for comedy and vocal assignments, though not the type for romantic feminine leads.

Story is conventional material patterned about a crooked mayor of Tombstone who hires a notorious killer named Shotgun Cassidy (Harry Woods) as sheriff in order to run the Carson family off their mine. Roy Rogers appears on the scene, impersonates Shotgun for a while, and turns the tables. Zeffie Tilbury, as Granny Carson, turns in a good performance, while Jay Novello and Elyse Knox are adequate in supporting roles.

The Return of Daniel Boone

(Western)

Columbia production and release. Stars Bill Elliott. Supporting cast: Betty Miles, Dub Taylor, Ray Bennett, Walter Soderling, Carl Stockdale, Bud Osborne, Francis Walker, Lee Powell, Tom Carter, Edmund Cobb, Rodik Twins. Directed by Lambert Hillyer. Assistant director, Milton Carter. Screen play, Paul Franklin and Joseph Hoffman. Story by Paul Franklin. Film editor, Mel Thorsen. Photography, Philip Tannura. Previewed May 17. Running time: 60 mins.

Standing of Bill Elliott with considerable following among horse opera addicts will carry this one through the grinds for the usual returns. Productionally, however, film lacks speed and drive. Weak comedy sequences are primarily responsible for slowing the proceedings. The Rodik Twins, figuring in this phase as two guitar-playing cowgirls on the make for Dub Taylor, are acceptable, but comedy interludes are overlong, painstakingly unfunny and serve chiefly as interference to smooth narration.

Bill Elliott plays the grandson and namesake of Daniel Boone, frontiersman. He appears in Pecos in the nick of time to prevent the crooked mayor from selling out all the ranchers by means of exhorbitant taxation. Hired to enforce collection of the tax money, Elliott brings the criminals to justice. Plot structure is fundamentally unconvincing and rather uncertain, with climax dependent on pinning culpability on the ringleader because he knew the combination to the sheriff's safe. Bill Elliott registers favorably as the strong, silent (except when shooting) man of the west, handles a gun and a horse with skill, and photographs well.

people employed by them. And right now, this method is a mistake.

There are several hundred or more foreigners employed in studios here. Many of them come from nations that are none too friendly to democracies. Many of them quite possibly could be foreign government agents. And if some of them were compelled to give their entire history, it is quite likely that the United States Government might be interested in them selfishly—yes, selfishly for the good of our government and the people who seek shelter within its domain.

RECENTLY an effort was made to check on an alien who had been employed in one of the studios. At first the studio stated he was not on the payroll. After being asked to go further into the matter, execs replied the man had been off the payroll for four months. They said the record showed he was born in an Axis power country, had dependents living in another country—but no further information about him was recorded or obtainable. There are around 100 other aliens employed at this particular studio, and should an emergency arise and an effort be made to check the histories of any of these people—should they suddenly vanish—the Government would be out of luck.

WE ARE hopeful there are no people employed in the industry who might be destructively inclined toward the United States. But if there are, and should a check be required on them, the studios should start immediately to get a thorough history so that for National Defense purposes the industry would be helpful to its Government.

It might take a little time to get the necessary history of all, but the time taken now will be well worth while should a situation arise internationally that might cause the United States to take under its wing people who quite likely would be found ready to function for governments that are belligerently inclined toward ours.

Charge also was leveled by NAB that Fly had made his charges after declining repeated invitations to address the delegates following the talk of Mark Ethridge, in which he flayed Fly's administration of the Federal Communication Commission.

Board of NAB was reorganized without representation from Mutual as Fred Weber, general manager of that network, withdrew his name as candidate for re-election. His act followed the withdrawal of three principal stockholders of Mutual because of differences with the leadership of the other major nets over the FCC monopoly report and dispute with American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers.

Representatives of newspaper-owned station met over the weekend and discussed plans for assembling and presenting data at hearings before FCC on whether they should be allowed to continue the dual operation. Harold Hough, manager of three stations operated by Ft. Worth Star-Telegram, presided.

He declared that radio has helped recruit 375,000 skilled workers for the two branches of the service and will continue its aid for the enlistment of 10,000 flyers for the Navy and 30,000 for the Army wing. He added that radio is assisting in the sale of defense bonds and aided in obtaining nearly $30,000,000 for war relief in Europe and elsewhere.

Boothmen Threaten 'Road Call' In Universal Jam

Motion Picture Studio Projectionists Local 165 has voted to ask the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes to invoke the 'road call' against Universal Pictures unless the studio agrees to employ projectionists on machines now being operated by film cutters. It was agreed that if the International fails to act, James Brigham, Local 165 prexy, will be instructed to call a special membership meeting to take a strike vote against the company.

A motion to take a strike vote was made at the meeting Friday, but after some discussion an amendment was adopted providing for first asking cooperation of the International. It was pointed out that five projectionists are new being deprived of jobs at the studio, and that efforts to eliminate the situation have extended over a period of years. The membership was unanimous in agreeing that the time had arrived to force action, several stating that the union could eliminate its out-of-work list by strict enforcement at all studios of the IATSE contract requiring that only IATSE members handle projection machines.

It was reported that at least one projectionist is being deprived of a job at RKO, Paramount and Republic under similar circumstances, but that the work of at least five projectionists is being done by film cutters at Universal. It was indicated that the other studios would fall into line if Universal agreed to employ projectionists. It was stated that the Society of Motion Picture Film Editors was anxious to cooperate, but that it had no alternative when its members were directed to man the machines.

If the International agreed to invoke the 'road call' it would mean that the IATSE would refuse to handle Universal productions pending settlement of the grievance.

PINS AND NEEDLES

Latest version of this perennial Labor Stage musical revue, current at the Biltmore, has lost none of the spicy satire and sparkle that established it as a three-year favorite in New York. Since the one-year Broadway run of this, the most recent of the revised 'Pins' editions, several new skits have been added, notably 'The Poker Players', in which are four easily recognizable characters known as Adolph, Phui, Jot and Benny. This is a hilarious cutthroat play for power sketch about the Nazis, Japs, Fascists and Soviets. 'Alone On a Lone Prairie' and 'Hold On To Your Hats, Boys', also are new additions, all of which were necessitated because of the 16-week run in Chicago and other long engagements on the road.

Song and dance man Bernie Gould displays remarkable versatility in takeoffs on Hitler, Senator Bob Reynolds and the cowboy who hates the lone prairie. Others prominent in the cast are Harry Clark, Al Eben, Millie Weitz, Dorothy Harrison, Ella Gerber, Elise Bregman, Ida Mandel and Allan Saxe. Standout numbers are 'The Red Mikado', a parody on Gilbert and Sullivan and all the recent Mikados on Broadway, in which Lindbergh, Henry Ford and Capital figure largely; 'The Harmony Boys', a satire on Fritz Kuhn, Father Coughlin and Senator Bob Reynolds; 'Paradise Mislaid', in which Clifford Odets comes in for a ribbing.

Tunes, dances and dialog, shrewdly designed to pan groups as well as individuals, including the D.A.R. and G-Man Edgar Hoover, are consistently amusing despite occasional bitterness.

Harold J. Rome wrote the lyrics and music, Joseph Schrank wrote the skits, Robert H. Jordan is responsible for the staging and Louis Schaffer produced. The show is here for a run of two and a half weeks and possibly longer, depending on grosses. It's geared at $1.50 top for Friday and Saturday nights, $1 top week nights, and 75c top matinees.

VICTORIA AND HER HUSSAR

This foreign importation fits snugly enough in the operetta revival cycle at the Mason, even at the advanced tariff of 99c, but it won't find sufficient favor with local theatregoers to warrant any extra trips to the bank. It's too dated and continental, albeit well performed and tuneful in its content. It's being staged for the first time in this country, although the notices credit it with great success in the capitals of Europe. Which might conjure up the thought, if it's so terrif, why hasn't it been done here before? It would pale before such competish as Friml, Romberg, Hammerstein, Kern, Herbert, Harbach, et al.

Whatever its fate, it does present a cast standout in Vicki Campbell, recent English musicomedy fav and a definite bet for filmusicals. Possessing a warm soprano voice and a neat flair for dramatics, she is the stately type of the Irene Dunne order. If that isn't enough for the film scouts, she's also a looker and plays the title role with the ease and grace of the finished prima donna that she is. She's worth a few hundred feet of any studio's test celluloid.

Her supporting cast is over par for this operetta cycle. Glen Bard, the romantic hussar, is shy on dash but uncorks a nice set of pipes. Pamela Caveness as the pert maid, and the comedy antics of Herbert Wiere and John Pelletti, lend capable aid to the breezy unfoldment of the Graustarkian tale that roams over Japan, Russia and Hungary for colorful scenic effect.

Considering the scale out front and on stage it is an ambitious effort in mounting and costuming. Chorus of some 25 mixed singers and dancers is well drilled and goes through the routines with precision and verve.

Arthur Spitz, Impresario of Mason operettas, will keep the house lighted through the summer, the reports being that he has fresh bankrolling for the enterprise. There was some talk of closing couple of weeks ago when trade began to dwindle, but the upped night scale and additional backing is expected to give it the needed resuscitation.

The Producers are said to have offered a minimum wage of $50 per week, and to have renewed their old demands for ownership of all story material turned out by scriveners during their layoff periods. It is understood the two groups also have not been able to get together on the Guild demands for abolition of all speculative writing and for elimination of flat deals under $5,000.

The Guild executive board met Saturday afternoon to complete plans for tonight's session. At that time, the following statement was handed out:

'The Screen Writers Guild faces the most important issue in the organization's history tonight armed with telegrams from the major guilds and unions expressing sympathetic encouragement in the critical stage of current negotiations with the Producers. These wires will be read to the Writers Guild meeting, which promises to overflow in attendance, prior to submitting the film producers' counter proposals by the negotiating committee for the writers.

'Wires poured in over the weekend to Sheridan Gibney, president of the Screen Writers Guild, from Herb Sorrell, of the Painters Local; the Screen Actors Guild, the Screen Directors Guild, Screen Cartoonists Guild, Screen Publicists Guild, Set Designers, Screen Readers Guild, Laboratory Technicians, Screen Office Employes Guild and the Musicians Union. It was reported the SWG would meet with representatives of other unions tomorrow night.

The Producers-SWG pact expired April 10, and at that time the writers announced that the skeleton agreement would not be renewed.

Minneapolis Arbiter Decision Upholds Distributors

Minneapolis, May 18.—First decision in an arbitration case here upholds the distributors right, under the consent decree, to restrict a particular exhibitor from showing its pictures with vaudeville or from advertising them in newspapers as part of dual bills even though other theatres in the community have been permitted these practices. Paramount gave such violations of application provisions as its reason for refusal to approve a contract with David Gillman for servicing the latter's Gayety, local downtown grind house. Arbitrator P. J. Mackey, ruling in the distributor's favor and against the complaining exhibitor, held that it had not refused to license its pictures to the exhibitor in violation of consent decree's Section 6.

Gillman had charged Paramount's $20 average price for pictures was 'exorbitant' and its restrictions constituted 'unreasonable booking conditions.'

Network Plugs, 8 A.M. to 1 A.M.

As the result of a poll taken among majority of music publishers, Accurate Reporting Service, which logs radio plugs, last Tuesday (13) eliminated NBC and CBS from its listening posts and confined its network plugs checkup to WOR, New York, key for the Mutual network, which, that same day, resumed broadcasting Ascap music. By its change in policy, Accurate Reporting Service left Broadcast Music Inc. without any established checking source for its own plugs on the three CBS and NBC outlets. BMI announced last Friday (16) it expects to start furnishing this information Monday (19) via master logs obtained from NBC and CBS. Following are the leading plug tunes which prevailed on Mutual during the four days starting Tuesday through Friday night, thus explaining the small number of plugs since the weekend is not included. Furthermore, Mutual network's log, which is a temporary arrangement, now eliminates daytime checking and starts its listening post from 5 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Industry in Huge Welcome To L-A Naval Staff Officers

Mickey Rooney and his break-away drums (strictly an ad-lib on the part of the snares) were a good sample of the enthusiasm behind the film industry's welcoming luncheon Saturday at Metro to the visiting officers of the Naval General Staffs of the Latin-American Republics. An industry affair, each company contributed heavily of production time and talent to clearly show their position on solidarity between the two Americas.

Every available film name, both talent and executive, were on hand to pay tribute to the visitors, with Y. Frank Freeman, president of the Motion Picture Producers Association, acting as official host for the industry. Speeches were brief, as were the introduction of the various personalities in attendance, so that the more serious side could quickly make way for the top array of entertainers to give the naval chiefs a large order of Hollywood hospitality.

Freeman, speaking of the tour of the Latin-American officers, said, 'We are trying in the best way we know how to show our appreciation of the work you are doing for the Americas.' He emphasized the importance of motion pictures doing everything possible to maintain good will among the peoples of North and South America in a brief talk of welcome to the visitors. Jock Whitney called for a toast to the naval visitors, and Vice Admiral Jose Machado de Castro e Silva, Chief of the Naval General Staff of Brazil, spoke briefly and introduced Rear Adimiral Gustavo A. Schroder, Chief of the Naval General Staff of Uruguay, for a short talk. Whitney then took over again and made a fast introduction of the film names present, each coming in for a bow to the crowd of around 400 present.

Cesar Romero emceed the entertainment program, doing the introductions in Spanish for the benefit of the visitors.

Schlesinger Closes Studio in Pact Row with SCG

tops said that Schlesinger had jumped the gun, and that his action amounted to a lockout of employes since no stoppage of work had actually started. SCG leaders, however, said the only real difference with the company was over the length of contract to be inked, and expressed hopes that an agreement would be reached within a few days which would permit reopening of the studio.

The SCG submitted a one-year contract, but Schlesinger insisted on a three-year deal. The union said that because of unsettled conditions and the rising cost of living, it did not feel justified in tying up the men's wages for three years, unless the contract provided for reopening it annually on the question of wages, as is provided in contracts of the Screen Actors Guild, Screen Direcotrs Guild and other studio crafts. The union also is demanding a minimum of $85 per week for Class 1 animators, with Schlesinger seeking to set the figure at $75.

The union stated that Schlesinger formerly agreed to a one-year contract, and that it felt this issue was settled when it started negotiating on wages. George E. Bodle, counsel for the Guild, said an answer to the SCG demands was awaited from Harry G. Sadicoff, Schlesinger's attorney, but that none was received and the workers then learned that the plant had been closed.

Attorney Sadicoff issued the following statement for Schlesinger:

'In December, 1940, a committee of employes of Leon Schlesinger called upon him for the purpose of discussing increased wages, etc. Several amicable conferences were held and many of the requests of the employes were agreed to by Mr. Schlesinger, and everyone involved was of the opinion that the friendly relationship that had theretofore existed between Mr. Schlesinger and his employes would continue.

'Thereafter, as a result of outside influence, the monetary demands were increased about 300%. Thereafter, conferences were held culminating in an ultimatum being issued to Mr. Schlesinger on May 17, 1941, by counsel for Screen Cartoonists Guild, that unless the demands were met on or before Monday, May 19, 1941, at 10 a.m., a strike would be called.

'Mr. Schlesinger has answered the ultimatum so given him, by rejecting the demands and accepting the strike, and the studio is now closed. The strike is not of Mr. Schlesinger's choosing and he is sympathetic to his loyal employes and those dependent upon them who will suffer as a result of the strike. He intends to negotiate for an early settlement of the controversy and is hopeful that the studio will not long be closed; but same will be closed as long as the union makes demands upon Mr. Schlesinger that are impossible of fulfillment.'

The union said that about 185 workers would be affected by the closing order.

Variety Clubs Accolade Negro As Outstanding Humanitarian

Atlantic City, N. J., May 18.—Variety Clubs award to George Washington Carver, 82-year-old Negro scientist, as the outstanding humanitarian of the year, closed the seventh annual convention last night. The Tuskegee Institute research department head, who came from Georgia against his physician's orders, accepted the award in a speech aired by the Mutual Broadcasting System. His development of innumerable peanut by-products saved the South from economic strangulation from dependence on cotton.

John Harris, Pittsburgh, Variety Clubs founder, presented the award to Dr. Carver. Father Flanagan, Boys Town founder, who won it two years ago, made further eulogy of the Negro scientist.

Finale banquet was attended by 1,500 members from 24 cities and a flock of filmites, including Dorothy Lamour, Barney Balaban, Lew Ayres, Laraine Day, Andy Devine, Jean Hersholt, Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy, Wayne Morris, Edward Norris, Helen Parrish, Walter Pidgeon, Phil Regan, Ronald Reagan, Marjorie Weaver, Fay Wray, Jane Wyman, Robert Young, Joe Bernhardt, Stanton Griffith, Jack Cohn, Frank Morgan, Carole Landis, Charles Lang and Walter Wanger.

Wanger, in the principal address, lashed out against the 'group that tells the film industry that it has no right to support the Administration. They attack us for supporting National Defense, this group whose chief spokesman says he is in favor of a negotiated peace,' he declared.

'LAUGHTER NOT ENOUGH'

'Laughter alone is not enough in films, but morale must be hardened so that we can face facts. Radio has made controversy entertainment. We too must accept the obligation to attack ignorance that saps our morale—just as newspapers, magazines, books and radio are doing. Our duty is to entertain, but great entertainment can also be enlightening', Wanger said.

All classic literature is entertainment—but plus an idea, the producer pointed out. His address was a refutation of the charge of Hollywood war mongering. He emphasized that of 350 pictures last year only 10 departed from the usual western and boy-girl stories.

Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, also indirectly hit Senator Burton K. Wheeler's charges by congratulating the film industry on service during the crisis.

The Carver award was a moving and highly dramatic incident in the windup of the most successful convention of the seven years that Variety Clubs have been holding these annual get-togethers.

The convention in 1942 will be held in Hollywood, with the Los Angeles tent as hosts.

Behind the gaiety and the fun a note of patriotic determination pervaded the convention and its numerous meetings. Showmen from all sections gathered to exchange ideas. Censensus is that America is waking to the full realization of the cold, hard facts that the wars in Europe and Asia are now this country's principal concern.

Mayor Taggart paid high tribute to showmen for their continuing contribution to the essentials of national morale.

'The morale of the American people', he said, 'must remain on its present high level. No such undermining of government and people must be permitted here as assisted in the fall of France. In this respect, the Variety Clubs through their sponsorship of amusement and gaiety are making a vital contribution by helping to overcome internal agitation upon which unfriendly parasites exist.'

Summation of the charitable work which the various clubs have conducted during the past year reveals $800,000 as having been raised and distributed in the different localities.

Officers were re-elected. They are John H. Harris, of Pittsburgh, chief barker; R. J. O'Donnell, Dallas, first assistant barker; Harry Kalmine, Pittsburgh, second assistant; Edward Rubin and James Balmer, both of Pittsburgh, property man and billboy, respectively.

Official guests from Washington were U. S. Sen. Tom Connally, Texas; Sen. James Meade, New York; Sen. Carl Hatch, New Mexico; Edwin Halsey, secretary of the U. S. Senate; J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, and state officials.

ney employes, pointing out that the agency formerly certified by the NLRB no longer is in existence. The union also said its unfair labor practice complaint against Disney would be pushed before the NLRB. Leaders said the new Disney organization was merely 'the same old company union in a new suit and with a new name.' It also was reported that Anthony O'Rourke, who was retained as an arbitrator between the company and the Federation, would step out of the picture now that the Federation has been abandoned.

William R. Walsh, acting regional director of the NLRB, was reported studying the case to determine whether to proceed with the hearing. Both the company and the new employe group are expected to oppose holding a hearing on the ground that the organization complained of has been disbanded. Pamphlets advising employes of the action were reported to have admitted that the old Federation was a company union.

The following wire was sent to the company executives by William Littlejohn, president of the SCG:

'Agency formerly certified by the NLRB as collective bargaining agent for Disney employes having dissolved, there is no longer any obstacle to recognition of the Screen Cartoonists Guild Local 852 as bargaining representative for animators, assistant animators, inbetweeners, layout men, sketch artists, painters, inkers and other artistic and production employes, exclusive of persons employed in supervisory or executive capacity and office and clerical employes, cameramen, film, sound and studio technicians, film editors and employes within jurisdiction of recognized studio crafts. Union therefore demands immediate recognition as collective bargaining agency for said employes and commencement of negotiations. Union is willing to exhibit membership records for purpose of establishing an overwhelming majority of said employes have designated union as their sole collective bargaining agency. Immediate reply is requested.'

Disney in a recent statement said he was willing to bargain with the group designated by his employes, adding he was legally bound not to recognize the SCG so long as the Federation remained as the certified agency of the NLRB. American Federation of Labor tops said this obstacle was now removed and that it would push for recognition of SCG.

BAN ON AXIS PRODUCED FILMS UNDERWAY IN U.S.

New York, May 19.—United States Senator James Meade of New York is said to be preparing to take up the matter of banning Axis produced films from the United States with the State department in Washington. Meade, it is said, feels definitely that circulation of such pictures, most of which have propagandistic backgrounds, should be banned from exhibition on American screens, whether in theatres or privately.

Also expected that one of the main subjects to be taken up at the MPTOA convention in Hollywood next month will be recommendations that the Axis made films be banned, with Max A. Cohen, president of the Allied Exhibitors, MPTOA unit of New York, leading the onslaught in that direction.

ACTOR RECLASSIFICATION

The Screen Actors Guild negotiating committee spent some time yesterday in conference with the Producers, and then adjourned to meet later this week when it is believed the proposed contract revisions will be finally approved. These include reclassification of extra pay brackets so as to limit employment of $5.50 extras to calls for 50 or more players, and establishment of a $10 to replace the current $8.25 and $11 calls.

After standing by for a week on salary to see how Miller lighted Miss Young, McGill prepared to take over. Union tops said the star then stepped in and in no uncertain terms stated that McGill could not handle the camera. Union tops were peeved over the move and were attempting to place McGill, who they said was a highly capable cameraman, in another spot.

THAT mating call touch in Warners 'The Bride Came C.O.D.', with which James Cagney lures Bette Davis to him, is being waxed by the studio. Discs, when readied, will be sent to colleges throughout the country. Cagney will make the recorded call as he did in the film. Picture has him making a wild coyote yell in the dead of night when he and the actress are alone on the desert. Call is again made at the fade of the picture just as he and Miss Davis enter the nuptial chamber after their marriage. Idea behind sending the platters to colleges is to popularize the mating call among students as it is worked in the picture.

U. S. NAVY purchases of small boats along Pacific Coast have complicated plans and schedules for studios using any considerable number of little craft. Many of the marine mosquitos which had been lined up previously by agents for use in various films have been pre-empted by the Navy, compelling film companies to replace them, sometimes with craft regarded not quite so suitable. Latest company to feel the dearth of small boats and forced to make replacements is 20th-Fox for the Dunkirk evacuation scenes in 'A Yank in the R.A.F.', which are to be lensed on the beach at Point Mugu.

IN CONTRAST to attitude of Coast publicity directors toward attendance of critics at sneak previews the RKO home office press department is staging sneak previews on 'Sunny' for newspaper and magazine writers. RKO is labeling the pre-release showings 'sneak previews.' Company has arranged 35 single-performance showings of the picture in theatres throughout the country. Critics are told in advance what they will see, but regular patrons have no idea. Theatre merely advertises there will be a 'sneak' preview at a certain time, keeping silent on the name of the film.

THE secret which Walter Winchell was going to let all the clippers and ships at sea in on Sunday night is still very much his own. Just as he blurted 'it's no secret' the mike went dead when the control chappie flipped the switch. Although no info was forthcoming yesterday from New York, best guess around NBC here was that he tried to slip through a verboten item and probably chuckled that he put one over on the monitors. It's not so easy to laugh off a cold mike.

Blood and Sand

(Drama)

Carrol Naish, John Carradine, Lynn Bari, Laird Cregar and Vicente Gomez. Balance of cast: William Montague, George Reeves, Pedro D Cordoba, Fortunio Bonanova, Victor Kilian, Michael Morris, Charles Stevens, Ann Todd, Cora Sue Collins, Russell Hicks, Maurice Cass, Rex Downing, John Wallace, Jacqueline Dalya, Cullen Johnson, Larry Harris, Ted Frye, Schuyler Standish. Directed by Rouben Mamoulian. Associate producer, Robert T. Kane. Based on novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez. Screenplay by Jo Swerling. Photographed in Technicolor. Photography, Ernest Palmer and Ray Rennahan. Technicolor director, Natalie Kalmus. Music direction, Alfred Newman. Art direction, Richard Day, Joseph C. Wright. Film editor, Robert Bischoff. Costumes, Travis Banton. Set decoration, Thomas Little. Previewed May 19. Running time: 123 mins.

This potent drama of love and danger, pride and death, if given its natural line of exploitation, may well be one of the foremost grossers of the year. In Technicolor it gets magnificent presentation, and the grip of its fundamental tragic story cannot be denied. Tribute to the narrative, from the Ibanez novel, is the fact that many of the older film customers still recall so vividly its first screening, back in 1922, when Valentino delivered his memorable Juan. Since then much writing about the ritual and punctilio of bullfighting and the mood in which the Spanish folk attend this theatre of death in the sanded arena have more or less familiarized Americans with the national sport-drama of many Latin countries and its hazards.

This new version, then, has more latitude in some respects, despite the closer censorship restraints on the actual maneuvers in the arena. The lives of the principal characters have been farther expanded, made more familiar to American audiences. In this very aspect it may also have lost something of tragic passion for the more exacting audiences. But 'Blood and Sand' has great holding power for the masses in its characterizations, its atmosphere, its lesser excitements, pomp and spectacle and finally in its great moment when the toreador, reconciled with his young wife after an escapade with a notorious siren, walks into the arena to be tossed to death on a savage horn.

The scenes on the hot sand as the capes flash scarlet before the charging bull and the sword does its appointed service, the scenes in the balconies, the whole elaborate ritual, are breath-taking both in color and sustained suspense. Actual long shots made in Mexico City are deftly matched in with the close work of Tyrone Power and his fighting quadrillo. Here the Technicolor blazes and dazzles and excites to high emotional pitch.

PAR 'DRAFT' PREEM FOR ARMY CAMP GIVEN WASH. GO-BY

Paramount's request for permission to hold its press preview of 'Caught In the Draft', service comedy, at Camp San Luis Obispo, in conjunction with a regular Tuesday night Bob Hope broadcast has been turned down by Army Headquarters in Washington. Nix was made on the grounds that such a stunt would hamper draftees' training by losing an entire day, plus setting a precedent for other studios to act upon. Army has no objections to regular evening broadcasts at the various training camps because little if any time is lost.

'Caught In the Draft' will now have its press preview at the Alexander theatre, Glendale, Friday night. Hope's Tuesday (27) air show, dedicated to the picture in which he appears, will broadcast from San Luis Obispo under official approval. Dorothy Lamour, also in the film, will go along with Hope's air troupe of 47 people to appear on the show.

Paramount had first tried to stage its preview at Fort Ord, but was unable to work the matter out with the Army. Officers at San Luis Obispo are understood to have favored stunt if Washington's approval came through.

Pic Defense Group Forms Committee To Handle Acts

The Motion Picture Production Defense Committee has announced the formation of a sub-committee to be known as the Committee on Talent and Camp Recreation to handle all future requests for the appearance of picture talent in Army and Navy camps. There is a possibility that 'smileage books' used during the last World War will be adopted again. Funds derived from sale of the books were used to defray the costs of operating the theatres and furnishing other entertainment.

Cameramen, however, were admitted to the plant yesterday morning, but when they went out for lunch they did not return, having notified the Guild they would conform with its request for cooperation.

A new attempt to reach an agreement with Schlesinger executives will be made this afternoon when a committee from the Schlesinger Guild unit and other SCG representatives confer with Harry G. The Guilders, however, have offered to draft a three-year contract, if provision is made for reopening it each year on the question of wages. The union said it did not feel justified in tying up the men's salary for three years because of unsettled conditions due to war and the rising cost of living.

Play Review

RIO RITA

There's little else besides the comicalities of Joe E. Brown to distinguish this initial offering of the L. A. Civic Light Opera Assn. from a dozen other productions of the lilting operetta since it left Broadway for the provinces. The casting misses fire in more than one part. Voices are adequate but looks and glamour are lacking, save for Mary Healy, who isn't the happiest choice for the juvenile partnership with (her husband) Peter Lind Hayes as the newlyweds.

That there are plenty of folk among the citizenry still pushovers for the nostalgic tunes of Harry Tierney and Joseph McCarthy, with a few modern embellishments by Maestro Edward Ward, Bob Forrest and Chet Wright, was amply testified by the packed Philharmonic at the seasonal takeoff of the four-week festival last night. They were hanging from the top shelf, which is tantamount to watching the show from the Goodyear blimp.

Brown is sure-fire for laughs as the scheming attorney, mistaken for the Kinkajou. His facial contortions and perfect timing of gags make for excellent foiling against the background of intrigue and romance back and forth across the Rio Grande.

Suzanne Sten's Rita lacks sparkle, although her voice carries her through the role acceptably. Walter Cassel, late of radio, is the dashing ranger heart interest without the dash. A strong set of pipes stands him in good stead. Hayes carries the second comedy lead effervescently but fails to distinguish the part. The others are typical of a home town production. Lillian Bond makes a belated appearance in the second act.

Best of the production numbers is 'If You're In Love You'll Waltz', backed up by the Aida Broadbent dancers. Cassel lends his robust voice to this standout as he does to most of the others. 'Kinkajou', 'Song of the Rangers', 'Following the Sun Around' and the title number will be somewhat disappointing to those who remember the Ziegfeld production. If any of the McCoy Texas Rangers walked into the house they'd probably start shooting up some of the chorus men acting as the hardy law enforcers along the Panhandle.

Considerable license is taken with the book of Guy Bolton and Fred Thompson to effect a modern streamlining. Program credits Milton Lazarus with the book revision. Comedy is so broad and timely that Peter Hayes slips in a plug for the Grace Hayes Lodge and Brown alludes to a strong drink as 'Ascap applejack'. Edwin Lester produced and Zeke Colvan staged.

Being a civic promotion the piece won't languish. The downtown dailies will see to that. Strictly on its own, it wouldn't pay off any fancy dividends.

NATHANSON MOVE EXPECTED TO FOMENT HYPO BIZ

Toronto, May 19.—Resignation of N. L. Nathanson as president of Famous Players of Canada and all Canadian members of board of directors is expected to precipitate sharp competition in theatre operation across the Dominion. Pitted against Nathanson and his associates will be J. J. Fitzgibbon and a new Famous Players directorate. Nathanson is expected to draw an important post in Canada's aircraft industry and will devote more time to his position as vice-prez of Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

Main issue which culminated in the walkout of Nathanson and his directors was whether Famous of Canada is to be governed by Americans or Canadians. Resigning with Nathanson were W. D. Ross, F. B. McCurdy, A. E. Dymant, Major A. P. Holt, T. J. Bragg and Clarence Robson. Elevated to the presidency is Fitzgibbon, Paramount representative and v.p. in charge of theatre operations. BIOFF REVEALED AS IA TIE ON DEFENSE PIX

Willie Bioff, convicted panderer and now facing trial on income tax exasion charges, has been designated by George E. Browne to see that there is no labor tieup involving production of Defense Program films for the Army and Navy. The appointment of Willie as personal representative of the prexy of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes with his authority limited to Defense pictures was disclosed yesterday when he appeared in United States District Court with his attorney, George Breslin, to ask for a continuance of his trial, which had been set for June 24.

Judge Paul J. McCormick ordered the case continued until the September term when it will be reset, after William F. Hall, assistant U. S. attorney, stated he had no objection to a postponement. Hall said he was desirous of interviewing several witnesses, and that the government would not object to have more time to prepare its case.

Breslin displayed a batch of telegrams from Browne, one notifying Bioff of his appointment, and another advising Fred Pelton, Producer labor contact, that Willie was the 'logical man' to see that film production in connection with the Defense program goes ahead without any interference or labor tieups. The attorney said the government was anxious that there be no delay in producing the films, and said Browne had stated Willie 'was the only labor official available' who could give necessary orders to assure 'immediate shooting'.

It was pointed out to the court that many of the pictures will be produced at widely separated Army posts, and that labor disputes might arise at any of them. It was indicated that Bioff would try to remain in Hollywood and handle any differences by telephone and telegraph.

First Arbiter Case Under Decree Here Gets Postponement

The first clearance case filed in Los Angeles territory with the American Arbitration Association under the consent decree, involving George Bromley and Alex Mounce (Campus theatre), scheduled for hearing on Thursday, has been postponed. Ezra Edward Stern, attorney for the plaintiffs, has waived place on the calendar due to illness of George Bromley until such time as Bromley recovers.

As a result of the Campus theatre case postponement the O. W. Lewis complaint in connection with the Mission Playhouse of San Gabriel will be heard instead. Herbert Cameron, attorney for the State Railroad Commission, will act as arbitrator.

O. W. Lewis, owner of the Playhouse, claims that first run houses are getting too much clearance protection over his theatre. His complaint names Paramount Pictures, Warner Brothers, Vitagraph, 20th Century-Fox, Loew's, Inc., and the MGM Picture Exchange. Rufus Bailey, attorney for Lewis, is asking general reclassification of clearance in San Gabriel, Alhambra and vicinity.

TENTATIVE DEAL ARRANGED FOR DISNEY CONSENT DECREE

agreed to the stipulation when it was explained the company would not be required to admit that it had dominated or attempted to dominate the recently scuttled Federation of Screen Cartoonists. It was stated the decree would merely require the posting of a cease and desist order, and the disestablishment of any relations between the company and the Federation, which was certified by the board in 1939 as collective bargaining representative for the workers.

Ryan said he would like to confer with William R. Walsh, acting regional director of the NLRB, today before officially agreeing to the stipulation. Lessing, who had asked for the continuance because his services were necessary at the studio the next few days, also stated he would like to confer with a company attorney who is now in Sacramento.

Following the hearing it was reported that Disney executives had requested a meeting for 8:30 a.m. today with the grievance committee of the Screen Cartoonists Guild. It was understood, however, that the committee would refuse to meet with the executives unless the SCG attorney, George E. Bodle; Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644, and Aubrey Blair, organizer for the American Federation of Labor, were permitted to attend. These three have handled most of the negotiations with the studio. The meeting was called off, however, when Hugh Presley, Disney personnel manager, stated he was meeting with the group as a committee of employes and not as representatives of SCG.

After the government had introduced its exhibits at the hearing, Gunther Lessing read a statement denying the company had dominated or attempted to dominate any organization of employes, and offering to bargain with any union 'that fairly represents a majority of the employes'. He also introduced two pamphlets, one stating the Federation of Screen Cartoonists had been disbanded, and the other telling of the formation of the American Society of Screen Cartoonists. He also displayed a wire from Attorney Bodle demanding immediate recognition of the SCG and offering to display its membership records for the purpose of establishing that it 'represents an overwhelming majority of the Disney employes.'

Lessing interjected several remarks that the government should investigate to see if it was 'trying a dead body', the Federation having been disbanded. Examiner Paradise promptly reminded him that the 'body' being tried was Walt Disney Productions. It was then that the examiner suggested the two parties apparently were not far apart and inquired as to the possibility of stipulating on a consent decree.

Col. R'cding Parleys Set for Today

Negotiations between Columbia Recording Corp. and its striking employes will be resumed at 1 p.m. today in the offices of Edward Fitzgerald, United States labor conciliator. Following a meeting between the two groups yesterday, Robert Kennedy, chairman of the negotiating committee for the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers Union, stated he felt there 'were possibilities of progress being made.'

The three major obstacles to an immediate agreement were reported to be the company's demand for a no-strike clause in the contract, departmental seniority, and minimum wages. The union is insisting on continuance of plant-wide seniority, and is insisting on the right to strike if the company violates the agreement. The company has offered a wage tilt of two cents per hour, with the union demanding a raise of 10c per hour.

bullfighter, from an ardent boyhood to married manhood, with an uneffected, direct manner, taking his deadly craft as a matter of fact but acknowledging also always the hour of fear between the time of prayer and the moment the bulls charge in. Very girlish, very naive, is the complementary role of his young wife, played by Linda Darnell who gives it charm and sympathetic appeal. Seductively contrasting is Rita Hayworth as the temptress of the arena aces who for a devastating interval takes Power away from his ingenuous bride. Miss Hayworth takes another stride toward her assured position among the stars-in-demand. Acting honors, however, actually go to Nazimova as Power's mother, sad with the clairvoyance of his fate and sadder still to see him decline from the high pinnacle of his profession because of defects of character. Anthony Quinn contributes a notable performance as a rival matador. J. Carrol Naish has several indelible scenes as a discarded veteran of the bloody sands. John Carradine, in revolt against his profession and one of power's entourage, is excellent. Lynn Bari is the bullfighter's sister. Laird Cregar creates an arresting figure in the role of the top ranking bullfight critic, whose notices make and unmake the dandies of the ring. A dozen other players make their parts impressive, including Pedro De Cordoba, Fortunio Bonanova, Vincente Gomez (with his guitar), William Montague, Maurice Cass, and Rex Downing in the juve role of Power as a boy.

Director Rouben Mamoulian parades his characters in sharp relief and his alternately gay and sombre narrative with fascinating suspense against the broad colorful canvas of cafe and bullring, serenade and boudoir. He marches the tempo slowly to build up the fateful moment in the afternoon when the bull outmatches the man, caught in an instant of relaxed caution as he faces the two women who have rivaled for his loyalty. Mamoulian, dramatist and artist in his sense of color, has translated the great Ibanez tale to the level of the general American audience for widest appeal and has capped every entertainment element with brilliant direction.

Darryl F. Zanuck has packed all his showmanship into the production, with Robert T. Kane as his associate, giving it prodigal presentation, careful organization, a quality brand from every department.

Jo Swerling's screenplay vividly and coherently achieves his task of selective character portrayal and narrative from the riches of the novel. Ernest Palmer and Ray Rennahan speak in eloquent Technicolor with their cameras, and Alfred Newman gets extraordinary musical virtue into his haunting score, foreboding and tragic to fit the picture's keynote.

SWG ORDERS $50,000 WAR CHEST

with company representatives is known. The next parley is scheduled for Tuesday (27).

It also was announced that representatives of all major Guilds and unions now in negotiations with the Producers will meet with the SWG executive board tonight at Guild headquarters. It was stated the purpose of the meeting is for a discussion of common problems, exchange of industry information and adoption of unified methods to be used in collective bargaining.

The meeting was one of the largest attended Guild sessions since the SWG campaign which resulted in dissolution of the Screen Playwrights, Inc. The membership was unanimous in voting confidence in its negotiating committee. Between 600 and 700 writers attended the session, presided over by Prexy Sheridan Gibney.

When the suggestion of war chest was made a motion was offered that a chest of $100,000 be raised. This was amended to call for a minimum of $50,000, but it was indicated that the fund probably would reach $100,000. Subscriptions of $500 and $1,000 were offered from all parts of the floor. It was suggested that an assessment be ordered so it would hit all scriveners who are working and everybody would carry a part. This was promptly okayed, but it was agreed that all who desired could make donations. Marc Connelly and other top writers were the first to okay the war chest and offer donations. The meeting opened with a report from the negotiating committee. The committee stated that the Producers in the last few days had shown an inclination to talk, and for the first time had offered counter proposals to the original demands of the Guild. They said while these proposals were not satisfactory, they indicated that the Producers were more inclined to make a deal.

It was disclosed that in answer to the Guild's demands for a minimum wage of $150 per week for writers with one year's experience the Producers had offered a minimum of $50 for a writer after one year's experience, $75 after two years, and $100 after three years. The Producers also refused to raise the minimum of 80% Guild shop. The Guild asked for a one year agreement, with the Producers insisting on a 10 year contract. Company representatives agreed to the elimination of speculative writing if some method could be found for defining it, but insisted on the ownership of all material written by writers during their layoff period.

PRODUCERS COUNTER

The Guild demanded a minimum of two weeks employment for writers receiving under $500 per week, and the Producers countered with an offer of two weeks guarantee for scriveners receiving under $250 per week, and one week's guarantee for writers receiving between $250 and $500.

The Guild asked for abolition of all flat deals under $5,000, but finally reduced this to $2,500. The Producers counter-proposal called for abolition of all flat deals under $1,000 for westerns and $1,500 for features.

After the meeting Prexy Sheridan Gibney handed out the following statement:

'More than 600 members of the Screen Writers Guild meeting at the Hotel Roosevelt last night unanimously voted a minimum war chest of $50,000 and empowered the Writers bargaining committee to stand on original contract demands from the Motion Picture Producers. If the results of the negotiations are not acceptable to the membership, a strike vote will be called. Additionally the membership gave a unanimous vote of confidence to the negotiating committee.

'The Blossom room of the Hotel Roosevelt was filled to overflowing when Sheridan Gibney, Screen Writers Guild prexy, called the meeting to order. A brief history of the contract demands and the series of negotiations opened the meeting. Twenty-one telegrams of sympathy and support were read from every major union and guild including the State Federation of Labor and the CIO, the latter which offered the support of its 100,000 Los Angeles members. Personal telegrams were received from Orson Welles, Lillian Hellman, Dudley Nichols, Moss Hart and Alice Duer Miller.

VOLUNTARY PLEDGES

'Before the war chest resolution, which taxes each member, was put into form and adopted, $28,000 was spontaneously pledged from the floor and members were continuing voluntary pledges of from $25 to $500 and $1,000 after the meeting was adjourned. This $28,000 is in addition to the $50,000 goal.

'The turnout for what was considered the most crucial meeting in the history of the Screen Writers Guild, was the largest since the body was formed many years ago. The general feeling of the membership was in complete accord with the negotiating committee in the matter of the Producers' counter proposals being unacceptable.'

SO LONDON'S HAPPY

London, May 20. — While American exhibitors cry about daylight saving, theatre men here are rubbing their hands gleefully over double daylight time. Clocks, which were pushed one hour ahead last winter, advanced another hour recently. So daylight now lasts until nine o'clock and will be even later as the season advances. The longer it remains light the more people can go to the theatre, as bombers don't arrive until dark.

STYMIED ON WESTERNS

Deal between Producers and the Screen Actors Guild is being stymied by certain companies which specialize in the production of westerns. Executives are apprehensive that the proposed agreement to limit the employment of $5.50 extras to calls of 50 or more players would up the cost of cowboy films to a prohibitive figure.

The SAG is gathering figures to offset this contention, and will arrange another meeting with the company representatives as soon as this data is completed. A tentative agreement has already been reached to abolish the current $8.25 and $11 brackets and to replace them with a $10 ticket. This reclassification, however, is interlocked with the $5.50 limitation.

Chas. Koerner Indicates RKO Division Changes

New York, May 20.—Indications are that Charles Koerner, new RKO theatre head, will seek to eliminate some of the division setups of the RKO circuit and consolidate several of these groupings into more easily handled units. Hollywood Inside

WHEN war broke out, and even before it came, Hollywood studios made several pictures with full war backgrounds. 'Confessions of a Nazi Spy' was the most successful of these. Public reaction to many of the pictures was not as strong as their producers had hoped, with the public apparently not requiring proof that the Nazi philosophy is inimical to democracy. The drama of war, however, is not being neglected in what appears to be a new trend in films with the war as background. Paramount started the new trend with 'One Night in Lisbon', using the war only as atmosphere. Now Edward Small, in 'International Lady', is making a war background picture with no political implications. There is no propaganda in Small's film and the Nazis are not mentioned by name.

SPECIAL meetings of branch and district exchange managers will be held by several of the major distributors prior to the start of the selling season in each case in order to acquaint sales staffs as much as possible with the workings of the consent decree. As far as the majority of exchange men are concerned the consent decree is still a closed book, with sales policies to be formulated by the trial and error method. As evidence that New York home office executives are not a great deal wiser on consent problems than their men in the field is the fact that branch and division managers in Los Angeles and elsewhere have been asked to send along any ideas they may hit upon which may even remotely aid in clarifying future sales policies.

TWENTIETH-FOX is having difficulty finding sufficient office space to accommodate the unusually large number of new executives and a total of 55 writers on the lot. Jam-up of space has resulted in a number of scribes having to do their writing chores at their homes or other quarters until shifting around of studio offices can be arranged to take care of everyone. Company had five writers doing their work off the lot, in addition to Marcus Goodrich, author of 'Delilah', who has been scribbling at home for the past two weeks. KALEIDOSCOPIC wardrobe to cost $100, consisting of at least five basic costumes and susceptible of 17 color variations, has been devised by Warners fashioneers and has been worked into top commercial tieup with a leading Hollywood store as a promotional feature for 'Million Dollar Baby.' Stunt will carry total store display, feature yarns, ad tieups and radio plugs in advance of local showing of film. On Monday also, Grace Nolan plugs unusual campaign on newscasts over KHJ and KECA.

INDIVIDUAL members of the Hollywood correspondents group are being told by a studio publicity top that their difficulties on the preview situation can be ironed out quickly if they will drop a certain newspaper man who considers himself a 'fuehrer' from their committee. Correspondents thus approached have all nixed the idea of dropping the man named. Feud between the publicity director and the correspondent in question began several years ago and has never been forgotten.

DESPITE unfavorable criticism and the generally pessimistic attitude that prevailed during roadshow engagements 'The Great Dictator' now promises to make a tidy profit for Charlie Chaplin. Indications are that the film will better $1,000,000 on domestic gross alone. The production actually cost about $1,400,000 instead of the $2,000,000 generally reported.

There once was a time when the White Wings ranged in the lee of the prancing steeds
Arrayed in their glistening polo hats to attend to the civic needs.

But the snappiest group in the civic line from the North to the Southern Pole
Is the squad that toils on the boulevard as the Hollywood Paper Control.

With all the hosses working on studio ranches and studio race tracks, the chief impediment to traffic on Hollywood blvd. these days is paper, consisting largely of rejection slips, torn-up manuscripts, date notes and whatnot. The literary clean-up is performed daily by a squad of paper-picker-uppers whose uniforms would make a squad of admirals look like a squad of okies. Hollywood can shoot a snipe on the curb with more aplomb than a belted earl shooting a pheasant on his game preserve.

Cliff Nazarro is worried about playing a half-wit in 'Miss Susie Slagle's.' He is wondering if they will hand him a half-salary. In which case, he will double-talk his agent.

Milton Berle, who has departed temporarily from what he calls the corner of Clinging Vine and Hollywood, is in New York aiming to produce 'Keep Punching, Brother', a tale of gag writers—not pugilists. If he could scare up a few heavyweights imbued with that idea, Milton could move into the Garden as co-producer with Mike Jacobs.

Hollywood's good will campaign has achieved amazing results in South America. The boys down there are playing gin rummy.

It behooves those collegiate orange-throwers to have a care. Maxie Rosenbloom is about to play 'Harvard, Here I Come.'

First is was 'Mr. and Mrs. Smith.' Now comes 'Mr. and Mrs. Cugat.' Hollywood grows more and more domesticated.

One of the most expressive utensils of household equipment is the bathtub. Cecil DeMille's were carved out of marble and plated with gold to indicate the luxury of ancient Rome. Now comes 'Belle Starr', a tale of rugged pioneer days. So the heroine is dunked in a tin tub.

Old Vicente Blasco Ibanez will be warmed, spiritually, by the news that his 'Blood and Sand' is going over so well. The book netted him approximately one dozen tamales.

'Fair as a star when only one is shining in the sky', an old poet wrote before films were invented. It still goes when Hollywood throws a picture with only one femme in the cast.

Shining Victory

(Drama)

Warners production. Features James Stephenson, Geraldine Fitzgerald, with Donald Crisp, Barbara O'Neil, Montagu Love, Sig Rumann and George P. Huntley, Jr. Supporting players: Richard Ainley, Bruce Lester, Leonard Mudie, Doris Lloyd, Frank Reicher, Hermine Sterler, Billy Bevan, Clare Verdera, Crauford Kent, Alec Craig. Director, Irving Rapper. Executive poducer, Hal B. Wallis. Associate producer, Robert Lord. Screenplay Howard Koch and Anne Froelick. From the play by A. J. Cronin. Photography, James Wong Howe. Art director, Carl Jules Weyl. Film editor, Warren Low. Sound, Dolph Thomas. Gowns, Howard Shoup. Orchestral arrangements, Hugo Friedhofer. Technical advisor, Dr. George C. McDaniel. Musical director, Leo F. Forbstein. Music, Max Steiner. Assistant director, Jesse Hibbs. Previewed at Warners Beverly theatre, May 20. Running time: 86 mins.

'Shining Victory' is distinguished by top flight performances, easy direction and production, and neat scripting to mark it as a capable dramatic entry sure to find favor with nearly every type audience. Its best playing time will be outside the key city first runs because of lack of known draw names. Irving Rapper, former Warners dialog director making his feature directorial bow, had the advantage of the talents of James Stephenson and Geraldine Fitzgerald to make the event worthy of note. He has presented the picture's problems with distinction and well rates further directing assignments. His style is smooth and he has given importance to every contributing bit in the film to add to the dramatic values.

Adapted from the A. J. Cronin play by Howard Koch and Anne Froelick, screen play is compact and believable in spite of the old plot basis around which it is woven. Stephenson, a medical research genius is cast out of Budapest after he protests the theft of his long work into mental disorders and their treatment by a government-favored doctor. He takes his bitterness to a sanitarium in Scotland where he has a chance to continue his work on new patients. There he finds success, love for his assistant, Geraldine Fitzgerald, and a great tragedy when she dies in a fire set by an insanely jealous coworker, Barbara O'Neil. The death of Miss Fitzgerald will seem unnecessary to many viewers, who will probably wish for a Hollywood compromise so that the story could have ended on a happier note.

Stephenson and Miss Fitzgerald tellingly put over their characters, each complementing the other for full realization of every phase. Both are particularly outstanding. Donald Crisp merits a big credit for his work as a supporter of Stephenson's experiments. Miss O'Neil is fine as the hospital attache, slowly reaching insanity through physical repressions. Montagu Love is extremely capable as the commercial head of the institution. Sig Rumann emphasizes an important bit. George P. Huntley, Jr. makes his part of a young doctor count. Billy Bevan and Alec Craig, with brief and lighter roles, are good. Leonard Mudie and Doris Lloyd contribute excellent support, as do the others in the cast.

Associate Producer Robert Lord has given the production skillful handling and good taste. James Wong Howe's camera work is noteworthy, as are the musical and other credits.

Bund or German Govt. Finances NY Nazi Propagandist Flicker

New York, May 20.—The Bund or the German government is financing the overflow attendance during the last two weeks at the New York showing of the Nazi propaganda film, 'Sieg im Westen', it is charged. DAILY VARIETY has learned that many of the so-called patrons of the theatre in the Yorkville section pay no admission but present membership cards in various Nazi organizations. The theatre is later reimbursed by 'some other source'.

The heavy attendance, frequently resulting in a line of 400 persons outside the 500-seat house during the two-week period ending today, is not spontaneous. Besides the free admission angle Nazi and Fascist organizations in the metropolitan New York area are pressuring members to attend or else.

Preparations on the film have not halted entirely as a result of the disagreement between the actress and the director, but little footage had been shot before Miss Davis left the lot to go home.

By ALTA DURANT

RONALD COLMAN and Mrs. Colman, accompanied by Joseph H. Steele, of the RKO flackery, plane out today for New York where the actor will take a week's vacation. This will be his first trip to New York in seven years. Next Friday night he goes to Buffalo to make a personal appearance for a war relief show. . . . Irving Sindler, property man on 'The Little Foxes', will have his name in that picture in bigger type than it's ever been set in before. 'Sindler & Son, Meats' is the legend on a billboard used in one scene. Sindler had first worked his name out on a burlesque theatre playbill, but it had been scratched off when the camera rolled. He has had his name displayed in every picture he has worked on.

Ben Oakland figures he hasn't done so badly by being placed in class 3A by the draft board. 'It's better than my Ascap rating', he flipped.

RENNY McEVOY, son of J. P., is writing the continuity for his father's comic strip, 'Dixie Dugan.' . . . Commodore of one of the oldest and most exclusive yacht clubs of southern California, who is also a pic name, has been shorn of office and membership because of unpaid bills. . . . Milton Berle has written his 43rd song, 'As Far As I'm Concerned', and will introduce it at his NY Paramount theatre appearance June 11.

Ninety per cent of Warners 'Out of the Fog', screen version of 'The Gentle People', is composed of night scenes, the remainder of murky daylight and fog. Cameraman James Wong Howe had peculiar lighting problems for which there was no precedent.

TWENTIETH-FOX had its top call of chorus boys and girls and extras yesterday, using 258 in three pictures. Finale sequence in 'Sun Valley Serenade' used 80 skaters; 120 extras were employed in 'A Yank in the R.A.F.' and balance worked in 'Belle Starr.' . . . Harriet Hilliard is coming back to films after a year's retirement, and will move here with her family. Ozzie Nelson, her husband, plans to make flying visits to the Coast and Miss Hilliard will ditto east between pictures. . . . Gloria Swanson will give the winning wreath away Saturday to the victorious horse in the Ben Ali Haggin Stakes at Hollywood Park. . . . Paul Gerard Smith will lecture before the Beverly Hills Women's Club June 2 and the Wilshire Ebell Club June 9, on the subject of 'Lancashire Lad', which he wrote with Pat O'Malley. . . . Helen Welty is staying at NBC as secretary to Robert Schuetz in the Recording department. . . . Jean Pettebone, fashion editor and mag contact, airlined to New York for a week's style scanning. . . . Dorothy Lewis is in from New York to prepare for femme lead in Republic's 'Ice-Capades of 1941.' She has been starring in the Hotel St. Regis ice show. Studio has her under options.

Schlesinger Strike Called Off; 100% Closed Shop Dealt

yesterday at a conference between Harry G. Sadicoff, Schlesinger attorney; Henry Bender, production manager; Aubrey Blair, American Federation of Labor organizer; George E. Bodle, Guild counsel; Rita Raven, SCG secretary, and a Guild committee composed of Chuck Jones, John Carey and Jerry Chiniquy. The pact is effective immediately, and calls for a 100% closed shop.

Other provisions provide for an eight-hour day, five-day, 40-hour week; all workers to be hired through the Guild, with a proviso that if the union can not furnish the desired men within 48 hours, the company can hire outsiders. Such employes, however, must join the Guild within 15 days.

All employes receiving $35 per week and under must be raised to the minimum scales. No worker is to receive an increase of less than 10%. The workers are given six holidays off per year with pay, and one week's vacation with pay. The deal provides that an arbitration committee will be set up to handle all grievances and disputes.

Union tops estimated that the total wage increase granted workers will amount to approximately $36,000 per year. They said the original offer of the company called for a tilt of only $19,000. There was a difference of only $5 per week on one classification, and Schlesinger finally agreed to concede it. The contract will run for three years, with provision for opening it annually for wage changes.

Both groups expressed their satisfaction that an amicable agreement had been reached. Schlesinger closed the studio Sunday after receiving notice from the Guild that a strike would be called at 10 a.m. Monday unless a deal had been set. The cameramen joined the walkout at noon Monday, having advised the Guild that they would conform with its request for cooperation.

The Guild adopted a vote of thanks to the International Photographers Local 659, Studio Transportation Drivers Local 399, and Laboratory Technicians Local 683 for their support, and thanked other film unions for their offers of cooperation.

GREEN PUTS XTRA WAIL TO AFL

William F. Green, prexy of the American Federation of Labor, in a letter to an extra leader here yesterday, stated that the extra setup in the Screen Actors Guild will be called to the attention of the AFofL Executive Council which convened in Washington Monday.

The extra had charged that the SAG took in 20,000 when there is daily work for only 800, had promised them their own organization to be known as the Junior Screen Actors Guild, but later canceled the original setup. He said the Class B members outnumbered the Class A members 8 to 1, and yet were denied a vote or voice in the affairs of the organization.

A Guild spokesman stated last night that it was rather peculiar that Green said he had no authority to remove George Scalise, now serving a prison term; Willie Bioff, and others, and yet suddenly did find he had authority to interfere in the affairs of an AFofL organization whose policies and the very things he proposed to investigate had been endorsed by a vote of the Guild members themselves.

Commentator Arden Airs After Release On U.S. Charges

Robert Arden, whose commentary under the billing of 'Your Foreign Correspondent' is heard five times a week over KFWB, was back on the air last night after being released on bond on charges of illegal entry into this country from Austria. Immigration authorities yesterday took him into custody, the specific charge being that he overstayed his leave on a visitor's visa.

In referring to his predicament on last night's broadcast, Arden, whose real name is Robert Kligler, quoted Mark Twain, saying, 'Reports of my death are greatly exaggerated'.

Dr. Cowen, dentist, who bankrolls the Arden series, will continue the broadcasts, it was said last night. Arden will appear for hearing before immigration officials in six weeks.

Republic Reports Big Jump In Western Sales

were told yesterday as the first quarterly meeting was concluded after a two-day session at the studio.

Republic had a 35% increase in actual playdates and liquidation in its Western sales division for the six months period ending June 1 over the corresponding period for last year. Same figure, said Herbert J. Yates and James R. Grainger, who presided at the meeting, was generally maintained for the company all over the country.

Republic product for the same period was shown in more Class A houses than ever before in the company's history. Pictures included 'Sis Hopkins', 'Melody Ranch', 'Mr. District Attorney' and 'Rookies On Parade'. Same note of optimism was sounded at the sales confab for the next three months period because of the advance bookings on such films as 'Lady From Louisiana', 'Angels With Broken Wings', 'The Singing Hill', 'Puddin' Head' and 'Ice-Capades of 1941.'

Exchange men and salesmen reported that Republic's serials currently in release, 'Adventures of Captain Marvel' and 'Jungle Girl', would turn in business comparable to grosses on 'The Lone Ranger', which played 8,000 theatres and grossed a million dollars.

In the Westerns field, the record made by the Don Barry pictures was cited for its increase from 4,000 accounts when the feature started to a current 5,700 in a year's time.

Company has three times as many players under contract at the end of the six months period as it ever had before, totaling 32. Policy of developing new talent will be continued full tilt, Yates stated. Procedure of bringing in top-notch radio talent from various districts, a policy initiated by Republic, also will be maintained.

Present at the meetings Monday and yesterday were J. T. Sheffield, franchise manager of Republic Pictures for the Northwest; Francis Bateman, Los Angeles branch manager; Sid Weisbaum, San Francisco exchange manager; Ed Walton of Seattle, and Gene Gerbase of the Denver exchange.

Yates and Grainger planed to Chicago last night to preside at the combined Midwest and Southern regional quarterly conventions (22-23), and from there will go to the final meeting in New York (27-28).

WHITNEY, FOREIGN MANAGERS DISCUSS L-A PROGRAM

New York, May 20.—Jock Whitney talked with foreign managers of major film companies in the Hays office this week regarding plans to carry out the industry's Latin-American good will program. He also apparently fathered a good will program of his own, being elected to ex-officio membership in the Foreign Managers Group.

The action followed criticism by export men that Whitney's division of the Rockefeller Committee was taking steps in South America without consulting exporters. Such squawks reaching Whitney's ears resulted in the meeting at which he agreed they probably know better than anyone else what South Americans want by way of a good will program.

During the discussions means of using a lend-lease law to extract frozen coin from England also were considered.

20th Files Claims To Two Police Gazette Titles

New York, May 20.—20th-Fox surprised the trade last week by filing a claim to the titles, 'Sins of New York as Exposed By the Police Gazette' and 'Sins of America as Exposed By the Police Gazette'. Studio doesn't intend to use either tag, but merely wants to protect the angles of a Police Gazette expose contained in the script of 'Coney Island'.

Script was just completed by Edward Van Every, New York Sun sports writer.

Navy's Newsreel Censor of Strike Indicative

New York, May 20.—The Navy Department's censoring last week of newsreel coverage of shipyard strikes is seen as an indication of possible things to come. The Navy's explanation for scissoring virtually all the material on the subject was that it showed vessels under construction. The action climaxed the increasing strictness in banning items which newsreel men say contained nothing of military value.

Of the 400 feet made by Paramount in a roundup of the whole shipyard strike situation the company received less than 50 feet back from the Navy as 'suitable for release'.

Another Meeting Today On Col. R'cdg Strike

Columbia Recording Corp. executives met yesterday with a committee representing its striking employes, but when the session was adjourned the two groups were still far apart on seniority rights, and a non-strike clause. It was stated another meeting will be held today in the offices of Edward Fitzgerald, United States labor conciliator.

Newman To Sit in On Projectionists 150 Wage Hearing

International Representative Steve Newman of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes is scheduled to sit in at a special meeting of the Projectionists Union local 150, to be held tomorrow night to map negotiations for wage scale deals.

Confabs will primarily revolve about counter proposals recently submitted by Charles Skouras, Fox West Coast prexy, with Newman advising on policy to be adopted by boothmen.

The projectionists originally asked circuit operators for vacations with pay. Theatre chains nixed this proposal and offered a 5c per hour increase for boothmen providing the latter agreed to a three-year contract. Union officials then offered to compromise on a 5c per hour increase each year for three years, with Skouras submitting a new counter proposal. Projectionists will meet again with F-WC execs within a few days.

tled recently when its officers organized the American Society of Screen Cartoonists.

The Studio laid off 18 workers yesterday. The company said the move was designed to cut expenses, but the Screen Cartoonists Guild was closely checking the situation to determine if any of the employes were released because of their Guild activities. It was reported that one of those given a layoff was treasurer of the Disney unit of the SCG and that several others were members.

The complaint against Disney was brought by the Screen Cartoonists Guild, which is now demanding recognition as collective bargaining representative for the workers. The Guild claims to represent an overwhelming majority of the employes, and has offered to disclose its membership records for the purpose of establishing that fact.

If the consent decree is approved, Disney will not be required to admit that he 'dominated and interfered' with the Federation. Its abolition, however, removed the organization as a certified NLRB representative for the employes.

PCCITO To Follow Through on Ascap Seat Tax Here

Independent exhibitors are planning to follow through on action contemplated for some time past, on the Ascap theatre seat tax, currently ranging from 10c to 20c per seat annually, during the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners convention which is to be held at the Ambassador hotel June 9-12. The seat charge will be among the major problems to be tackled. Other subjects which will figure prominently in the discussions will be the consent decree, 5-group picture buying, possible theatre expansion, arbitration and short subjects.

Advance registrations indicate an attendance of over 1,000 theatre owners, including approximately 400 from the West Coast and about 600 from other parts of the country. The convention committee of the PCCITO, composed of Rotus Harvey and Ben Levin of San Francisco, Hugh Bruen and Jack Y. Berman of Los Angeles, and Bob Poole, executive secretary, in session yesterday to complete details, will continue confabs for a few days more. The committee has met with Jock Lawrence and Frank Seltzer, representing the Association of Motion Picture Producers, to discuss arrangements for complete industry cooperation with both the MPTOA and the PCCITO. The Pacific Coast group will act as hosts to MPTOA visitors.

SOEG STREAMLINES BATTLE OUTFIT TO SPEED CONTRACTS

The Screen Office Employes Guild has reduced its negotiating committee to four members in an effort to coordinate the work and speed up agreements for the 2,000 White Collarites employed by major companies where the Guild has been designated as collective bargaining representative. Members of the committee are Blanche Cole, George Macon, Ben Batchelder, Glen Pratt, with Attorney George E. Bodle sitting in to call the legal shots.

The Guild formerly had different committees to negotiate with the various studios, drawing its personnel from a panel of 19. In addition, the Guild is considering a plan to employ a full-time business representative to handle the affairs of the organization. The proposal has already been okayed by SOEG tops and will be submitted to a membership vote at the next general meeting early in June.

BIG RKO BUDGET BOOSTS

Minimum budgets are being hiked up to 100% increase on number of forthcoming RKO pictures which heretofore would have been held to rigid coin allotment in the B brackets. Studio also has decided at recent conferences presided over by George Schaefer not to make any more quickies. Step is part of the preparation for the blocks-of-five quality which will meet the strong initial competition from all companies affected by the consent decree in August.

On 'Lord Epping Sees a Ghost', latest entry in the 'Spitfire' series, the budget has been upped around 25%. On 'Parachute Battalion' the increase has been 50%, represented largely in stronger cast. 'The Marines Are Ready' also will get healthy budget boost. These three are first to feel the application of broader latitude in coin levels, with merit rather than classification as the gauge.

Hollywood Inside

THE proposed suit by independent exhibitors to restrain Ascap from collecting the theatre seat tax may be filed in the U. S. District court before the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners convention gets underway June 9. The convention committee of the PCCITO yesterday met with Attorney Albert J. Law, who has just returned from Washington after an absence of about a month, for consultation on the contemplated action. The complaint, formulated several months ago, has been delayed while a number of exhibitors were making decisions to become party to the action which is now prepared and ready for submission. The PCCITO does not figure in the complaint as a corporate body since it never paid any seat charges to Ascap. The brief, as now outlined, seeks an accounting of the monies paid to Ascap by theatre owners during the past few years and damages as well as the halting of all future seat tax payments. The possibility of filing the action before the convention opens has been discussed but this will depend on whether a numerically and otherwise imposing lineup of exhibitor plaintiffs enter their names in the complaint before June 9. Other exhibitor problems were also discussed with Law by the convention committee yesterday. Rotus Harvey and Ben Levin, committee members from San Francisco, are scheduled to pull out either today or tomorrow.

THE tourist invasion of studios is producing the annual and ever-increasing headache for the departments upon which falls the burden of piloting them around and the actuaries who figure the cost of this kind of enforced 'entertainment.' Recent influx resulted from the Women's Bowling Congress with its 100 teams, each comprising from two to six members, and each team having a letter to studios from some exhibitor or home town newspaper editor. Studios already are beginning to feel the backwash of tourist trade which used to go to countries now in war area and who now are heading west to California and Hawaii.

Assistant director, Chuck Hansen. Previewed at the Studio City theatre, May 21. Running time: 100 mins.

Here is a rollicking bit of nonsense that hides a lot of heart beneath its foolishness and seems destined to capture a considerable quantity of its title dollars at the box office. 'Million Dollar Baby' is brimful of fun and some spicy lines that gathered gasps from the preview audience. Credit for this one rests squarely upon the shoulders of its principal players, Director Curtis Bernhardt and the scripters, Casey Robinson, Richard Macaulay and Jerry Wald.

May Robson comes back to the America she deserted 31 years ago to right a wrong done by her father. Determined to give $1,000,000 to the heirs of the wronged man, she finds a granddaughter, Priscilla Lane, is the only descendant. What happens when a bargain store salesgirl is suddenly the mistress of that much money gives ample justification for the erratic and laugh-provoking behavior of the characters. Finding she is losing her happiness because of the coin, Miss Lane, in a wild, sustained spree, sheds her bucks and recaptures the musician who spurned her money.

The three young people in the starring roles, Miss Lane, Jeffrey Lynn, the attorney aiding Miss Robson, and Ronald Reagan, the musician, are a delight to watch. The breezy romance between Miss Lane and Reagan is skillfully commanded. Both rate high praise. Lynn gives his role an easy assurance that merits equal rating.

Miss Robson, the Miss Wheelwright who discovers America (the picture's former title) makes the younger cast members work hard to match her delivery. A flawlessly conceived characterization. Lee Patrick contributes another of her perfect hard-boiled gals, this time a bubble dancer. Helen Westley is swell as the slatternly old boarding house keeper. George Barbier, a sly lawyer; Nan Wynn, John Qualen, Walter Catlett, Fay Helm, Richard Carle and other supporting players each stand out in their assignments.

Bernhardt's direction captures every laugh and puts tenderness into the wisecracking love scenes. Pro-

Naval Academy

Columbia production and release. Features Freddie Bartholomew, Jimmy Lydon and Billy Cook. Balance of cast: Pierre Watkin, Warren Ashe, Douglas Scott, Warren Lloyd, James Butler, Joe Brown, Jr., David Durand, Tommy Bupp, John Dilson, William Blees. Directed by Erle C. Kenton. Based on story by Robert James Cosgriff. Screenplay, David Silverstein and Gordon Rigby. Photography, John Stumar. Film editor, William Lyon. Assistant director, Tommy Flood. Previewed May 21. Running time: 65 mins.

The naval school training theme has been given compelling and intelligent, though not very original treatment in this 'teen-age cadet drama. But though the idea of turning boys of indifferent moral and mental calibre into staunch, loyal, honest, fearless defenders of the nation has been told on the screen before, it's a subject which has mellowed rather than deteriorated with the passing of time. Basically the story is reminiscent of 'Tom Brown's School Days', especially since Freddie Bartholomew and Jimmy Lydon are teamed up again with Billy Cook as the third musketeer. Given naval uniforms and appealing to current national defense sentiment, the production holds interest following a slow start and builds up to several intensely absorbing episodes.

Jimmy Lydon gets the strongest play as the kid from the reform school who is given a chance to make the grade in the naval academy. On his showing rests the fate of other boys in the reformatory under a plan to give them the same break if Jimmy comes through.

The sullen, bitterly cynical boy with two strikes called on him from the start because of his reformatory background, starts off on the wrong foot at the academy by challenging the established conception of heroism. He derides the institution to which his father, a naval hero, first gave his health and eventually his life.

Gradually the boy is won over by suggestion and environment rather than disciplinary measures and the time comes when he insists on taking a petty robbery rap for another cadet because he thinks the latter belongs to the navy through his family and upbringing. The climax, with a school court martial as the setting, has Bartholomew refusing to let another take the blame for his mistake, and the real culprit, Billy Cook, arrives for a last minute to save all concerned.

Films of this type are both topical and useful at this time in fostering and developing national unity and the proper respect and admiration for the country's fighting services. That the story is familiar in both theme and treatment does not detract too greatly from the essential principles of entertainment. Comedy efforts in the school hazing sequences are strained and unnatural,

Attorneys Seek To Slow First Arbiter Case Before AAA Here

Attorneys for all the major film and theatre companies involved in the first clearance case under the consent decree in the Los Angeles district, coming up before the American Arbitration Association today, have entered a motion with Walter H. Elliott, secretary of the AAA, to postpone the hearing until next week. Rufus Bailey, attorney representing plaintiff, O. W. Lewis, operator of the Mission Playhouse, San Gabriel, has offered no objections to the delay, but postponement of the hearing will be governed by the decision of Herbert Cameron, attorney for the State Railroad Commission, who will act as arbitrator.

In his complaint Lewis is asking for product 28 days after Pasadena instead of 21 days after Alhambra. Fox West Coast Theatres, the Alhambra Amusement Co. and the Edwards Theatre Circuit are concerned as well as Paramount Pictures, Warner Brothers, Vitagraph, 20th Century-Fox, Loew's, Inc., and the MGM Picture Exchange.

If granted this will be the second postponement on the calendar of the American Arbitration Association, the first being in connection with the Campus theatre case which was given a hoist due to the illness of George Bromley, one of the operators.

LEWIS SEES SUMMER MUSIC, COMEDY CYCLE

Accent will be on music, comedy and variety this summer, with a diminution of heavy dramatics and audience participation shows. That's how the radio picture looks to W. Bennett Lewis, vice-prez in charge of programs for CBS, here to parley with Charles Vanda, Columbia's western division program chief, on another series of 'Forecast' airplays. From 10 to 16 programs will comprise the series, evenly split in originations between the two coasts, with Vanda producing those emanating from KNX.

New ideas and techniques will be tried out on the summer time, Lewis said, on the dual premise of experimentation and showcasing for fall buyers. Series takes off July 14 and likely moves into the Monday time niche vacated for the hiatus period by Lux.

Among the new summer shows will be two series dedicated to defense workers and those in military service. Programs will be piped into the camps as the government has tabooed broadcasts from cantonments.

Lewis said fewer shows are dropping off for the summer this year than ever before, necessitating fewer substitutes and maintaining a high standard of entertainment throughout the off-season. He will remain here for two weeks, interviewing new talent and auditioning various types of programs for the 'Forecast' series.

GOLDWYN DENIES DAVIS RIFT

Samuel Goldwyn yesterday issued a statement saying that Bette Davis is not on a 'sit down' strike and denying rumors that she would not return to the cast of 'The Little Foxes'. Goldwyn said that Miss Davis had been declared ill and unable to work in the film by two physicians, Dr. Paul Moore, her personal physician, and Dr. Dorrell G. Dickerson, representing Lloyd's Insurance Company. It was the opinion of these doctors, Goldwyn said, that actress should rest for at least another week or 10 days before returning to cast, and he and Director William Wyler would proceed upon that advice, arranging the shooting schedule accordingly. Production, meantime, is continuing uninterrupted.

Neither Bette Davis nor her attorney, however, issued any statement that she wished to continue working in 'The Little Foxes'.

Official Washup Of Disney Case Skeded Today

An official washup of unfair labor practice charges against Walt Disney Productions is scheduled for today, when a stipulation calling for a consent decree to be entered will be presented to James C. Paradise, trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board. The hearing was recessed yesterday until today to give attorneys for the company, the NLRB and the Screen Cartoonists Guild time to give the stipulation a once-over. All parties have tentatively agreed to it, although there may be some discussion today on its phraseology.

In the meantime, the SCG was pushing its demands for recognition as bargaining representative for Disney employes, claiming to represent 85% of the workers. However, John Gray, hired by Disney to handle publicity, stated he had been advised by the American Society of Cartoonists that it expected to have a majority by tonight and would then demand recognition.

The Society was organized by officers of the old Federation of Screen Cartoonists, which was scuttled after the NLRB issued a complaint charging that the Federation was a 'company dominated union'. The SCG claims the Society is the same organization, dressed up in a new suit and with a new name, but Federation officers insist it is independent and that company executives had nothing to do with its formation.

American Federation of Labor tops are scheduled to meet tonight to discuss the Disney situation and plan future moves. The San Fernando Valley Central Labor Council has already named a committee with power to act to investigate the advisability of placing Disney products on the AFofL unfair list. The Teamsters is one of the AFofL crafts seeking recognition, and there is a possibility they would be asked to stop deliveries if the SCG decides to take drastic action in an effort to force recognition.

Disney has stated he is ready to bargain with any fairly designated union selected by his employes as their bargaining representative, but his attorney, Gunther Lessing, is insisting on an NLRB election before extending such recognition.

The one-day strike at Leon Schlesinger Studio has been settled, and the workers returned to their jobs yesterday. The company signed a three-year contract with the SCG, calling for substantial wage tilts for all employes, a five-day, 40-hour week, and improved working conditions.

UNIVERSAL ALLOCATES 160G FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Universal has appropriated $160,000 to continue its new building and improvements at the studio under a plan that will eventually result in complete modernization of the lot and equipment. Work will get under way immediately on a new two-story office building to quarter 30 directors and writers.

Building will be erected back of the recently constructed executive quarters and the present writers structure will be moved to accommodate new building. A new fireproof vault building is scheduled for construction alongside the accounting offices and the lot's school house will be remodeled.

All streets on the lot will be covered with macadam paving and complete modernization of the machinery department and the prop department will be included in the current fund.

IA GROUP LEADERS URGE STRIKE VOTE PRESSURE

in forcing reopening of their agreements, have about given up hope of getting any aid from that source. In fact, many of them are openly charging that Prexy George E. Browne and other IATSE leaders have given orders for the Producers to negotiate with the locals, but not to make any deals without getting an okay from the International.

Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, has been in the east for several weeks, but no move has yet been made to set a date for the annual Studio Basic Agreement Conference. The international head of one of the studio unions recently stated there was nothing of sufficient importance to warrant holding a conference at this time. Since then, however, several of the studio unions in the agreement have forwarded their demands east with a request for action. The IATSE is not in the Studio Basic Agreement, but usually meets with Producer representatives about the same time the Conference is held.

There is a possibility that the groups may get together at the conclusion of the Washington meeting of the American Federation of Labor Executive Council which convened Monday. If the session is called, the Producers are prepared to demand an eight-hour day instead of the current six hours, and probably will oppose demands for any drastic pay increases.

The agitation for action on the local demands is being headed by old-line IATSE members who were not affiliated with the United Studio Technicians Guild. They are anxious to secure the support of the International, but are opposed to letting the negotiations get out of their hands for fear of being handed another one of those 10% wage tilts like last year, when they claim the workers were 'sold down the river'.

'The Watchman' in the 'Hollywood Merry-Go-Round' takes a shot at the International on the question of local autonomy for the locals. After reviewing the efforts of International Photographers Local 659 to end dual unionism in the camera field, The Watchman has the following to say about autonomy:

'There are two methods by which a local's membership may be deprived of its full and complete home rule. The first is by seizing direct control of the local union and dismissing its elected officers forcibly. This has occurred twice in Hollywood. All locals of the IA in 1935-36. Local 37 in 1939. There is, however, a more insidious and remote means of seizing control of a local union's affairs which has been and is being exercised by IA representatives. This is accomplished, in collusion with the employer, by sabotage and obstructionist tactics calculated to bring the local union to its knees before the official family of the International.'

Business representatives of most of the studio locals admit that the general membership is demanding that they get some action. Several said the situation was 'getting hot' and that most anything could happen unless some real move is made to negotiate their demands.

Collarites Return To Work at Col. Recording Corp.

Clerical employes returned to work yesterday at the Columbia Recording Corp. The move was engineered by the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers Union when it was learned the White Collarites were being denied unemployment insurance and that they were not eligible for strike benefits since they are not affiliated with the union.

When the union called a strike for higher wages April 11, the clerical workers cooperated by refusing to cross the picket line. They have been out since that time, although the company had issued a call for them to return to their jobs.

Union tops stated that unemployment insurance checks were written for the workers, but were not issued after company officials had protested jobs were available for them. Union tops said they appreciated the cooperation of the Collarites, and immediately suggested they return to work, so the company would be placed in the position of having to put them on salary or else approve payment to them of unemployment insurance. The union said they would be asked to remain out again if it was disclosed they were being used to clear orders or to route records into the western region.

In the meantime, negotiations between the company and its striking employes were continuing. The United negotiating committee headed by Robert Kennedy met yesterday with company representatives and it was understood another session will be held today. Some concessions on minimum wages have been made by the company, leading to the belief that the two groups may get together soon. The company has indicated it favors granting wages to individuals rather than a blanket increase.

Metro Plans 25% of Shorts With Latin-Amer. Background

Metro is working out plans to make 25% of its short subjects with Latin American backgrounds. Studio tops have agreed, generally, that South American shorts will hold plenty of commercial possibilities if they are properly developed. What countries to concentrate on in these films and just what units to send are parts of the whole problem not yet settled. In those pictures dealing with South American countries, it is understood, there will be radical departures from the usual travelogue films.

At the same time, James A. FitzPatrick, working under the Metro shorts department, will go to Mexico within the next six weeks and make four of his travel pix in Technicolor.

Freedley in Capital On New Army Camp Shows

New York, May 21. — Vinton Freedley, who took over the chairmanship last week of the entertainment division of the Citizens Committee for the Army and Navy, was in Washington, D. C., yesterday, attempting to set machinery in motion that will make at least a couple of units touring Army camps by June 1 possible. Producer hopes to have the War Department reverse its ruling against sending out 'medicine shows' to work from the backs of trucks.

Freedley said he thought truck units would be the only logical way to start things in a hurry. Troops will all be out on field maneuvers by the end of June, and the initial program will only last four weeks. Trucks will be abandoned in the fall in favor of larger shows in camp theatres and field houses, which are expected to be completed by that time. Permanent housing for flesh shows is not completed in many camps at present.

Freedley, in line with a recent proposal made by Billy Rose, wants to have several units consisting of name performers and some entertaining fill-ins. He would like to send them on circuits of as many camps as the individuals' time would permit.

Hollywood Inside

MOTION picture production in Los Angeles County totaled $183,768,701 for the year 1939, or 87% of the United States total of $215,664,701 spent for all film production during the year. Figures, released by the Chamber of Commerce from a report received from the Federal business census, show that $95,320,051 of the LA County total was spent within the city of Los Angeles while the remaining $91,448,650 was expended outside the city limits. Nearest approach to the 1939 figure was the $171,943,349 spent for production during 1937. Payrolls during 1939 totaled $130,960,561, or slightly less than 1937's $132,914,402. Personnel also reached an all-time high, with 30,250, as compared to 28,179 for 1937. San Francisco spent only $80,270 during 1939, the only other film expenditures in the State.

SEVERAL well-paid foreign stars are the targets for much adverse comment after the recent visit here of naval officials from various Latin American countries. Visitors were hosted at a lavish banquet, which a number of top femme stars, hailing mostly from the countries of Continental Europe, refused to attend. Industry leaders had hoped for their participation. One star said she couldn't make the patriotic gesture because she had a date with her boy friend that she simply couldn't break. One said she had to go to a war relief committee meeting. Another, who comes from below the border, likewise thought up an excuse. Beside the fact that the dinner had great political importance the foreign actresses have all been (up to now) quite popular in Latin America.

MAYBE it was a hot day or maybe the press agent was just too over-burdened by the fact that he had to turn out a certain amount of copy. Anyway, his mates in the major flackery where he works yesterday gave him wide clearance for turning in a prize piece of publicity on a picture with a naval background. Story dealt with a battleship constructed on the lot. He wrote that the studio, in a panting pursuit after authenticity, had dispatched a crew to the harbor to bring back several gallons of 'authentic bilge water' to place awash in the man o' war's scuppers, etc.

COLUMBIA was blamed in some quarters for causing government officials to toss rocks at the picture industry by producing 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington', an expose of corrupt politics. All the bitterness Washington senators may have felt over 'Mr. Smith' ought to fade when they see 'Adventure in Washington', which tells the story of Senate page boys and shows the officials as honest, kindly men. Lewis R. Foster, who wrote the original story for 'Mr. Smith', collaborated on the screenplay of the latest film with Arthur Caesar.

Film Previews and Review

Billy the Kid

(Melodrama)

Metro release of an Irving Asher production. Stars Robert Taylor. Features Brian Donlevy, Ian Hunter, Mary Howard, Gene Lockhart and Lon Chaney, Jr. Balance of cast: Henry O'Neill, Guinn Williams, Cy Kendall, Ted Adams, Frank Conlan, Frank Puglia, Mitchell Lewis, Dick Curtis, Grant Withers, Joe Yule, Earl Gunn, Eddie Dunn, Carl Pitti, Kermit Maynard, Ethel Griffies, Chill Wills, Olive Blakeney. Directed by David Miller. Screenplay, Gene Fowler. Story by Howard Emmett Rogers and Bradbury Foote. Suggested by Walter Noble Burns' book, 'The Saga of Billy the Kid'. Photographed in Technicolor by Leonard Smith and William V. Skall. Color director, Natalie Kalmus. Songs by Ormond B. Ruthven and Albert Mannheimer. Music score, David Snell. Special effects, Warren Newcombe. Film editor, Robert J. Kern. Previewed May 22. Running time: 94 mins.

The first requisite in making a satisfactory screening of the saga of Billy the Kid for the more critical customers, meaning the large male audience generally familiar with the deeds of that arch-desperado, is to have the title-role player hard enough. Tough and deadly he must be in his thinking and his performance on the Southwest frontier where at the age of 21 this William Bonney had killed some 18 men in individual encounter.

This requirement Robert Taylor fulfills remarkably well. He has the look and the manner, the alternate hot resentments and the icy shooting calm, of the outlaw he represents. Some of Taylor's fans may have thought him too handsome for the assignment; lacking the rugged vigor for the harsh business around which the drama wheels. These are due for a surprise. Taylor is equal to every demand, credible in every situation, and plays the role as one of his finest, perhaps his best enactment.

In the complementary part, the Pat Garret character in the life story of the Kid, but on the screen not so named, is Brian Donlevy, strong and persuasive in a memorable performance. The relationship of these two one-time friends of young manhood, the outlaw and the deputy marshal, forms the bulk of the solid and exciting story contrived from the book by the late Walter Noble Burns.

In approving the screenplay by Gene Fowler from the story by Howard Emmett Rogers and Bradbury Foote, the producer, Irving Asher and Metro executives were careful not to repeat mistakes in the first film about Billy the Kid, made years ago. The present narrative doesn't seek to whitewash the outlaw. That would be to violate the whole burden of the tale, which is the tragic aspect of a young outlaw's defiance of all restraints and the inevitable retribution. But Fowler and Rogers and Foote got into their incident and attitude and gun-blasting encounter a legitimate motivation, within the clearly defined and consistent character of the Kid.

As David Miller directs it—and this is his first feature effort—the narrative carries the note of doom from the very first, when William Bonney, alias the Kid, is a mercenary gunman for one of the lawless tycoons of the New Mexican frontier, and puts a deadly passion behind his shifting loyalties. Adventure In Washington

Columbia production and release. Stars Herbert Marshall and Virginia Bruce. Features Gene Reynolds. Balance of cast: Samuel S. Hinds, Ralph Morgan, Vaughan Glaser, Charles Smith, Dickie Jones, Pierre Watkin, J. M. Kerrigan, Tommy Bond, Billy Dawson, Charles Lind, Mary Currier. Director, Alfred E. Green. Producer, Charles R. Rogers. Screenplay, Lewis R. Foster, Arthur Caesar. Story, Jeanne Spencer, Albert Benham. Photography, Henry Sharp, Allen G. Siegler. Film editor, James Sweeney. Special effects, Donald Starling. Art director, Lionel Banks. Music, W. Franke Harling. Previewed at Alexander theatre, Glendale, May 22. Running time: 84 mins.

Columbia's 'Adventure in Washington', although it is without a pulsing, passionate love interest, ought to fetch the customers handsomely up to the box-office window, for it is a warmly-human, gentle, tolerant and stirring picture of the dramatic lives led by page boys in the United States Senate. It is distinguished by good production, an excellent story and the splendid performance of young Gene Reynolds.

In it there is the heartbreak of a boy who battles against his environment to make good, only to find himself faced with black despair and disgrace. Columbia mined the rich vein of the national capital for heavy grosses on 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington' and on this film, which shows the kindly, humane qualities of those who make the country's laws, it stands a good chance of taking ore from the same pocket.

Story deals with young Reynolds, born on the wrong side of the tracks, who is brought to Washington by Herbert Marshall, his senator, as a page bay. He is a tough kid, ready to fight anybody who crosses him, unwilling, at first, to take the discipline forced upon the boys who run errands in the Senate. Marshall, feuding with Virginia Bruce, a femme radio commentator, has his hands full until the girl comes to his rescue and straightens the boy out. When the boy is wrongly accused by another senator of eavesdropping and is fired by Marshall, he discloses the contents of a naval appropriations bill to a crooked business man in an attempt to take hot-headed revenge against those who let him down. Then he lams, returning to save Marshall from impeachment by confessing that he is to blame. Page boys try him for his conduct and decide that he has earned the right to remain among them.

Reynolds has the largest amount of footage and does a standout job. Marshall is in top form in a sympathetic role. Miss Bruce, charming, easy to look at and a smooth actress, also turns in a fine piece of work. Charles Smith, Dickie Jones, Tommy Bond, Billy Dawson and Charles Lind, as page boys, are genuine American kids. Good support was furnished by Samuel S. Hinds, Ralph Morgan, Vaughan Glaser, Pierre Watkin, J. M. Kerrigan and Mary Currier.

Charles R. Rogers, in his second Columbia production, appears determined to maintain a high standard. Alfred E. Green's direction is practically flawless. Every technical aide is well chosen and each one in the crew contributes his best to the picture.

Thieves Fall Out

(Comedy Drama)

Warners production and release. Cast: Eddie Albert, Joan Leslie, Alan Hale, Jane Darwell, William T. Orr, John Litel, Anthony Quinn, Edward Brophy, Minna Gombell, Vaughan Glaser, Nana Bryant, Edward Gargan, Hobart Cavanaugh, Frank Faylen, William Davidson, Etta McDaniel, Tom Kennedy. Directed by Ray Enright. Based on the play by Irving Gaumont and Jack Sobel. Screenplay by Charles Grayson and Ben Markson. Associate producer, Edmund Grainger. Film editor, Clarence Kolster. Dialog director, Gene Lewis. Photography, Sid Hickox. Reviewed at Warners Hollywood, May 22. Running time: 70 mins.

This Gaumont-Sobel play shapes up as a pleasant diversion for the family trade. Back of the drab, nondescript title which has little bearing on the story, is an amusing little programmer that easily holds its own as supporting fare. It's the type of product which makes duals easier to take and in many cases will probably inspire more favorable audience response than more pretentious B product.

Based on the most elementary of dramatic situations, the young people in love whose respective parents object to the marriage, the yarn unfolds smoothly under Director Ray Enright's guidance and winds up as one of those comedy cops and robbers operas which are currently in vogue.

Jane Darwell, as the sharp-tongued, spirited grandma with a strong yen for radio gangster serials who seeks to dramatize real life, is the motivating spirit, and delivers a corking performance. The production is generally well cast, with Eddie Albert, Joan Leslie, Alan Hale, Anthony Quinn and Edward Brophy among the most notable. Miss Leslie, as the femme lead, photographs attractively and impresses strongly.

While the comedy sequences never touch top rating, the dialog is sprightly and interest is maintained with a minimum of dull spots. Story revolves about the Eddie Albert-Joan Leslie romance, with Eddie working for his father at a low salary and unable to wed until he can provide a home for his intended. Grandma Darwell urges Eddie on to sell his inheritance, which comes due only after his mother dies, and establish a business of his own. Racketeer Collins (Anthony Quinn) muscles in on the money-lending scheme, takes over rights to inheritance, and Eddie's mother is threatened with extinction. Jane Darwell then intervenes and proves to be so tough to handle that the mobsters finally plead with her to go home like a good girl and leave them in peace. Edward Brophy and Edward Gargan, as the dim-witted detectives who promise faithfully to clamp down on the racketeer as soon as Eddie's mother is rubbed out, figure prominently for laughs in floundering attempts to untangle the family mix-up.

Reissue G-B 'Army'

'You're In the Army Now', Gaumont-British production released three years ago, has been dusted off for distribution through 20th-Fox exchanges. The timeliness of the story and title at this time are considerations given for the revival of the 1938 comedy.

could prevent a strike. All that is logical thus far. THE LOGIC FLIES OUT THE WINDOW WHEN IT IS ASSUMED THAT BIOFF IS THE ONLY MAN WHO COULD PREVENT A STRIKE.

Bioff recently spent six months in jail on an old sentence upon conviction on a charge that he enslaved a woman and took her earnings as a prostitute. DURING THE TIME HE WAS IN JAIL THE MOTION PICTURE BUSINESS CONTINUED TO PRODUCE MOTION PICTURES.

THERE is every reason to believe that national defense is not dependent upon the activities of men who can stoop to obtaining a livelihood from enslavement of a woman and taking the receipts from the sales of that woman's body in prostitution. If national defense is based on these standards, can we say that Hitler is anything to be feared?

There is every reason to believe that the splendid men and women engaged in the motion picture business are not dependent upon the leadership of such a character.

If a jury should find that Willie Bioff is guilty of having defrauded the government out of a large sum of money by failing to report a large part of his income, he may go to jail for 10 years. IF WILLIE BIOFF SHOULD GO TO JAIL FOR 10 YEARS MUST WE BELIEVE THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY WOULD BE CLOSED WHILE AWAITING THE RELEASE OF THE MAN WHO TELLS THE COURT THAT THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY CAN OPERATE ONLY IN THE EVENT IT HAS HIS ASSISTANCE?

THE charges on which Bioff faces the Court include one to the effect that he received $100,000 from Joe Schenck while he was negotiating for the workers with the motion picture industry represented by Schenck. Schenck says that the money was merely a loan and was paid back. Bioff claims the same thing. The government charges that it was not paid back but was in fact income.

No conclusions of guilt may be drawn at this time, but if it should be found that the money was income, is there any other conclusion possible than that it was a bribe to the labor leader?

And if the jury should find that the loan or payment of the money amounted to a bribe, then what effect would that have upon the contentions made to the Federal Court that Bioff is an essential leader of the workers in the film industry?

Warners, MG Pulled Off of List In AAA Case

With the consent of all parties concerned, the names of two major film companies, Warners and Metro, were removed from the list of defendants yesterday in the first arbitration case under the consent decree in the Los Angeles district to come before the American Arbitration Association. The case involving O. W. Lewis, operator of the Mission Playhouse, San Gabriel, and the other film company and chain operating defendants, was then adjourned until Monday by Herbert Cameron, State Railroad Commission attorney, who is sitting as arbitrator.

The names of Warners and Metro-Goldwyn were withdrawn from the complaint on technical grounds, concurred in by Rufus Bailey, attorney for Lewis, because these corporations are acknowledged to be exclusively producers and not distributors of films.

Prior to the adjournment yesterday it was also agreed that arbitrator Cameron should inspect the areas involved in the complaint and visit all the theatres in the territory. This inspection will likely take place tomorrow, with Lewis and representatives of the defendants accompanying Cameron.

The hearing is scheduled to continue from Monday (26) for a day or two and then adjourn until June 3 when the defense will submit its case. It appears likely, however, that the hearing will not be completed within the time now scheduled.

Among those present at the AAA offices yesterday were John Bertero, attorney, representing Fox - West Coast, Arthur Freston, for Warner Bros., and Herb Silberberg, for Metro-Goldwyn and 20th Century-Fox.

AFL TOPS MEET TONIGHT ON DISNEY

clear for my employes to do as they please—I won't permit any of my representatives to take a hand in their organization efforts. They are free to join any organization, and we will bargain collectively with the union or organization so chosen.'

SCG leaders said this announcement was contrary to the action of John Gray, Disney flack, who on the same sheet with the Disney announcement, stated that the American Society of Screen Cartoonists claims to represent a majority of the Disney employes and was preparing to demand recognition. He added the Society would have an important statement today. They said this indicated that a Disney official was speaking for both the company and the Society at the same time. The Society was organized by officers of the Federation of Screen Cartoonists, which was scuttled after the SCG complained that it was a company union.

The consent decree handed the NLRB yesterday provided, among other things, that the Disney company cease and desist from:

'Discouraging membership in the Screen Cartoonists Local 852, AFL, or any other labor organization of its employes or in any manner discriminating in regard to their hire and tenure of employment or any term or condition of employment because of their membership or assistance in behalf of any labor organization.'

Although the company was absolved of any past charge of interference or domination of a labor organization, it will be required to post notices in the plant of the consent decree, and directing that it disestablish any relations with the Federation of Screen Cartoonists, etc.

It also was reported today that an effort would be made to arrange a consent election of employes to designate a bargaining agent. It is doubtful, however, whether the Guild would agree, since it now claims to represent an overwhelming majority of the workers.

CBS ISSUES ANALYSIS OF FCC ORDER EFFECTS

enterprise; formation of fly-by-night organizations which will merely serve as brokers and having no relationship with stations or the public; destroy the present orderly system of broadcasting.

Isolating the various clauses of the monopoly report, CBS points out that:

'Third of the new regulations leaves the whole network business open to being shuffled and scrambled every year because the commission says it will not license a station that agrees to affiliate itself with a network for more than one year.

'Fourth would deprive a station of its license if it gives a network any call on its time. This is the arrangement commonly known in the industry as 'option time', which is the only method under which network broadcasting is practicable.

'Fifth regulation, denying a license to any station that failed to reserve in its contract with the network the right to reject a program, serves no purpose other than to create a false public impression that the networks force upon their affiliated stations programs which fall below the station's own standards.

'Sixth regulation is a plain attempt to subordinate the public interest for the sake of discriminating against a network. By licensing and relicensing network-owned stations through the years, commission has affirmed that they are operating in the public interest.

'Rule No. 7, which would make it impossible for one organization to own two networks, is not discussed, but the commission's authority to adopt this regulation is questioned.

'Rule No. 8 proposes to meddle with advertising rates, a threat as dangerous to the individual stations as to the networks. Private contractual arrangements designed to prevent unfair competition are not necessarily undesirable.'

Analysis concludes with the challenge, 'We welcome a congressional investigation into broadcasting at any time, but we oppose the arbitrary and unauthorized seizure of dictatorial powers over free American radio by the commission. Radio in America is dominated only by the listening public—and nobody else.'

'Variety' Title Gets Protection From Illinois Court

Chicago, May 22.—A consent decree holding that VARIETY is the legal owner of the trademark VARIETY has been entered in the U. S. District court for the Northern District of Illinois. The decree provides that a monthly publication heretofore calling itself 'Radio Varieties' will cease and desist from the use of that title as an infringement upon the interests and fame of VARIETY, which has been accepted as the official publication of the show world since 1905.

VARIETY was represented by the Chicago law firm of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levenson & Morse, acting on behalf of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, New York attorneys for VARIETY.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

From the findings of fact made by the court, pursuant to consent of the parties, the court states its conclusions of law as follows:

1. The plaintiff is the lawful owner and user of the trademark VARIETY, originally registered by Sime Silverman on Jan. 18, 1910, and renewed by Sime Silverman for the use and benefit of the plaintiff on Jan. 14, 1930, to remain in force for an additional period of 20 years from Jan. 18, 1930.

2. The plaintiff is entitled to the exclusive use of the trademark and tradename VARIETY in the issuance of trade newspapers and other publications devoted to the activities of the theatre, radio, screen, bands and orchestras.

3. The plaintiff is also entitled to the exclusive use of the name VARIETY in connection with the granting of awards to radio stations, programs or performers for outstanding performance.

4. The defendants are not entitled to use the name VARIETY or 'Varieties' as part of the name of a monthly magazine or other periodical or publication devoted to radio activities, radio programs and radio performers nor in the granting of awards to radio stations, programs or performers for outstanding merit. Such use of the name VARIETY or 'Varieties' by the defendants, because of visual and oral likeness to plaintiff's tradename, necessarily tends to create confusion and to diminish the value of plaintiff's trademark and tradename.

5. The plaintiff is entitled to an injunction perpetually restraining the defendants from using the name VARIETY or 'Varieties' as part of any monthly magazine or other publication devoted to the subject of radio activities, radio programs and radio performers; also to an injunction perpetually restraining the defendants from using the name VARIETY or 'Varieties' in connection with the granting of awards to radio stations, programs and performers for outstanding merit.

career of the antagonists, played on by circumstance, separates them until they are on opposite prongs of law and lawlessness, and the marshal kills his boyhood pall to keep his legal oath. But there is humor and playfulness, a nice thread of romance and much beguiling human sidelight, alongside the grim melodrama to give the picture rich entertainment.

Miller's initial full-fledged directing job is an exceptionally fine piece of craftsmanship in the swift story-telling pace he maintains, in keeping the ring of the characters true, in holding the mood of the tale sound and consistent and giving it powerful tragic passion.

Besides Taylor and Donlevy there are half a dozen strongly etched characters. Ian Hunter turns in a splendid role as the English cattle rancher whose influence on the Kid, when the outlaw joins his crew, for an interval promises to bring out a new and disciplined side of his nature, only to have it veer back into deadlier channels still when the rancher is killed by Billy's former partisans.

Mary Howard plays the decorous sweetheart and bride of Donlevy, who also had captured the secret love of the Kid. The young actress, once in the Ziegfeld Follies, has both skill and an uncommon attractiveness which have been displayed to advantage and which indicate screen importance to come.

Gene Lockhart with his customary ability creates an interesting character for the beef-dealing merchant who controls a gang of frontier thugs to carry on his thieving business. Lon Chaney, Jr. is well cast as one of his henchmen. Henry O'Neill stands out as a courageous editor. Guinn Williams is a blacksmith. Frank Puglia makes his role count as the guitar troubador who rides with the Kid. Cy Kendall, Grant Withers, Eddie Dunn, Ethel Griffies, Chill Wills, Olive Blakeney are others who are marked amongst the generally excellent support.

The picture has driving action, mounting excitement and always something more and deeper than mere riding and gunning and exciting chase. In the main the known pattern of the Kid's life, and the relationship of the main characters in the life drama, are adhered to.

The picture is uncommonly beautiful, even in the general high level of Technicolor merit, in its brilliant and artistic use of the magnificent New Mexico and Arizona backgrounds, especially the scenes in Monument Valley, a desert wilderness of weird butte and organ cactus. This landscape, and its selected use by the eloquent cameras of Leonard Smith and William V. Skall, in itself helps create much of the tragic atmosphere of outlawry in which the action is steeped. Warren Newcombe contributes special effects. The music score by David Snell also fits admirably into the sombre mood as the Kid races to the end of his tether.

Men are bound to like the picture, to patronize it heavily, and women will probably like it also, for it has much more of all 'round dramatic appeal than the pattern which the title might suggest. Strong cast, headed by the Taylor and Donlevy names, will help greatly.

Ralph Dietrich Plans 'Crazy' for 20th

IATSE FIGHT GOING BEFORE LABOR BOARD

bargain, and asking that the NLRB designate the union as collective bargaining representative for all studio laborers and utility workers.

Zeal Fairbanks, business representative of Local 727, stated the Producers have been discriminating against the union and refuse to bargain with it collectively, although it has a closed shop agreement with all of the major companies. He said signed pledges will be filed with the NLRB to show that a majority of the men employed in the studios have indicated their desire to be represented by Local 727 and have designated it as their collective bargaining representative. He said Local 727 was willing to consent to an election or a cross-check of its membership's rolls for the purpose of establishing that it represents a majority of the men employed in the industry.

The discrimination charge against the Producers is said to be based on their recent action in refusing to employ Local 727 men carrying work permits. It is understood that one of the reasons for the move is to forestall any action by the International to jerk the local's autonomy, or for Prexy George E. Browne or other International officials to make a trade at the American Federation of Labor Executive Council meeting in Washington that would give jurisdiction to Studio Utility Employes Local 724, another AFofL studio union which claims authority over the workers.

The jurisdictional tiff between Local 727 and 724 has existed since the United Studio Technicians Guild fight when the SUE voted with the Browne group to help defeat the USTG. Local 727 was formed when Browne and Willie Bioff scuttled Technicians Local 37, and both were given more or less recognition by the NLRB after its election, although Local 727 was handed a contract by the Producers.

Today's move is seen as a test case to put the International on record and see if it intends to back up its locals in the film industry. Several other crafts that have been clamoring for action on their proposed contract revisions are said to be readying move designed to force action and to block any attempt by the International to grab control or to set a deal with the Producers that is not satisfactory to the men themselves.

It will be a hurried wedding for Martha Raye, comedienne of the stage and screen, for her third visit to the altar when she becomes the bride of Neal Lang, Florida hotel man. Miss Raye, in revealing her plans yesterday, indicated that the ceremony will necessarily have to take place with almost time-clock precision. Her wedding party will board a Western Air Express plane at 7:15 tomorrow night, which means Miss Raye will have to leave a set at Warners, greasepaint and all. The couple will go to Las Vegas, obtain a marriage license around 9:30 p.m., and drive about 10 miles to the El Rancho Vegas, smart resort, for the ceremony.

sion, attended by all of the publicity directors except Howard Strickling, who was in New York, the following announcement was made:

'At a meeting held today, attended by Y. Frank Freeman, president of the Producers Association, the Publicity Directors Committee and the correspondents group, it was agreed by the publicists to furnish all their member studios and the correspondents with a declaration of policy, embracing:

'1. The piling up of previews on the same day is to be avoided.

'2. Pictures are to be previewed in Hollywood always prior to showing elsewhere.

'3. A minimum of two weeks clearance shall be given between preview and initial showing, except in cases where physical problems confronting a specific picture forbid such leeway.

'It was further agreed that when necessary the two weeks clearance policy will take precedence over the practice of showing only one picture per day.'

The writers had originally asked for four weeks clearance. The Producer representatives, in arguing against the two weeks clearance, pointed out that they would have to double up on previews in some instances. They said they would try to observe the two weeks clearance, but the writers insisted that wasn't good enough. Then it was finally agreed to okay the two weeks clearance even if previews had to be doubled up or even tripled on the same day.

Writers attending the parley included Louella Parsons, Hedda Hopper, Harold Heffernan, Harrison Carroll, Sidney Skolsky, Richard Pollard, Virginia Wright, Wolfe Kaufman, Edwin Schallert, Fred Othman. It was generally agreed, however, that the feature of the meeting was the fact that the writers reversed the usual procedure when dining with the flacks by grabbing the ticket.

TROUBADOR . . . 1941 MODEL

IT takes more courage to be a writer today than ever before. There are more problems connected with living in these times. There are more rapidly changing conditions in the mediums for which the writer works.

But in spite of everything, golden dreams are still being dreamed by him . . . and out of them will come great stories for a world that has never needed them more.

Browne, Bioff Indicted By U.S. For Extortion, Conspiracy

New York, May 23.—United States federal grand jury of the southern district of New York reported at noon today to Judge Murray Hulbert that it had found indictments on two counts, charging (1) extortion and (2) conspiracy against George Browne, president of International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, and Willie Bioff, Coast labor leader. Judge Hulbert immediately issued bench warrants for arrest of Browne in Chicago and Bioff in Los Angeles. Copies of the indictment are being sent to federal district attorneys of both cities.

Conspiracy and extortion cases were presented to the grand jury by Matthias Correa, acting U. S. district attorney in New York, and his two assistants, Edward J. Ennis and Boris Kostelanetz.

Indictments charge Browne and Bioff conspired to extort the sum of $550,000 over a period of years from 20th-Fox, Loew's Inc., Warners and Paramount. Within the past two days industry executives who appeared before the grand jury and had waived immunity include Nicholas Schenck, president of Loew's; Louis B. Mayer, vice prez in charge of production at Metro; Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th-Fox; Abe Warner, v.p. in charge of distribution for Warners; Pat Casey, labor relations rep for the picture industry, and Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures. Also giving stataements to the district attorney but who has not yet testified before the grand jury is Darryl Zanuck, head of producion at 20th-Fox.

Indictments charge these extortions were exacted over a period of years since 1935 under alleged threats by Browne and Bioff to call a strike against the picture industry, which would call out its 35,000 employes, at least 10,000 of whom are employed as motion picture projectionists in theatres all over the country. First instance is said to have followed strikes called in St. Louis and Chicago in December, 1935.

Present investigation culminatina in the indictments is the direct aftermath of the recent convictions in New York of Joseph M. Schenck and Joseph Moskowitz for income tax evasion. Postponement of the trial of Bioff in California on in-

MOTION picture production in Los Angeles County totaled $183,768,701 for the year 1939, or 87% of the United States total of $215,664,701 spent for all film production during the year. Figures, released by the Chamber of Commerce from a report received from the Federal business census, show that $95,320,051 of the LA County total was spent within the city of Los Angeles while the remaining $91,448,650 was expended outside the city limits. Nearest approach to the 1939 figure was the $171,943,349 spent for production during 1937. Payrolls during 1939 totaled $130,960,561, or slightly less than 1937's $132,914,402. Personnel also reached an all-time high, with 30,250, as compared to 28,179 for 1937. San Francisco spent only $80,270 during 1939, the only other film expenditures in the State.

SEVERAL well-paid foreign stars are the targets for much adverse comment after the recent visit here of naval officials from various Latin American countries. Visitors were hosted at a lavish banquet, which a number of top femme stars, hailing mostly from the countries of Continental Europe, refused to attend. Industry leaders had hoped for their participation. One star said she couldn't make the patriotic gesture because she had a date with her boy friend that she simply couldn't break. One said she had to go to a war relief committee meeting. Another, who comes from below the border, likewise thought up an excuse. Beside the fact that the dinner had great political importance the foreign actresses have all been (up to now) quite popular in Latin America.

MAYBE it was a hot day or maybe the press agent was just too over-burdened by the fact that he had to turn out a certain amount of copy. Anyway, his mates in the major flackery where he works yesterday gave him wide clearance for turning in a prize piece of publicity on a picture with a naval background. Story dealt with a battleship constructed on the lot. He wrote that the studio, in a panting pursuit after authenticity, had dispatched a crew to the harbor to bring back several gallons of 'authentic bilge water' to place awash in the man o' war's scuppers, etc.

Lewis R. Foster, who wrote the original story for 'Mr. Smith', collaborated on the screenplay of the latest film with Arthur Caesar.

come tax charges is directly attributable to the investigation started here last week. Schenck and Moskowitz are out on bail in California pending hearing of their appeal before U. S. circuit court in New York in October or November.

The indictment charged that the extortion and conspiracy by Browne and Bioff started in December 1935, shortly after the IATSE called a strike of theatre projectionists in the Balaban & Katz house in Chicago and St. Louis. The walkout was ordered at the start of the evening shows when thousands were buying tickets. It was called off after one hour.

Pat Casey, producer, labor contact, is reported to have told the Grand Jury that he had no knowledge of the transactions between film executives and Browne and Bioff. The company executives who were called, however, are said to have talked freely, going into all details of the demands for money.

Subpoenas have been issued for Leo Spitz and Sol Rosenblatt, members of the law firm of Rosenblatt and Jaffe—which represent the IATSE.

At that time it was agreed to ignore the demand for improved conditions which the workers have been clamoring for.

CBS ISSUES ANALYSIS OF FCC ORDER EFFECTS

Predicting that the rulings recently promulgated by Federal Communications Commission for the regulation of broadcasting 'will lead to a state of chaos so confusing that the only alternative will be for the government to take over radio', Columbia Broadcasting System yesterday issued an analysis of possible effects, the first reaction to the monopoly report by a major member of the industry.

Among the evils to beset the industry should the regulations become enterprise; formation of fly-by-night organizations which will merely serve as brokers and having no relationship with stations or the public; destroy the present orderly system of broadcasting.

Isolating the various clauses of the monopoly report, CBS points out that:

'Third of the new regulations leaves the whole network business open to being shuffled and scrambled every year because the commission says it will not license a station that agrees to affiliate itself with a network for more than one year.

'Fourth would deprive a station of its license if it gives a network any call on its time. This is the arrangement commonly known in the industry as 'option time', which is the only method under which network broadcasting is practicable.

'Fifth regulation, denying a license to any station that failed to reserve in its contract with the network the right to reject a program, serves no purpose other than to create a false public impression that the networks force upon their affiliated stations programs which fall below the station's own standards.

'Sixth regulation is a plain attempt to subordinate the public interest for the sake of discriminating against a network. By licensing and relicensing network-owned stations through the years, commission has affirmed that they are operating in the public interest.

'Rule No. 7, which would make it impossible for one organization to own two networks, is not discussed, but the commission's authority to adopt this regulation is questioned.

'Rule No. 8 proposes to meddle with advertising rates, a threat as dangerous to the individual stations as to the networks. Private contractual arrangements designed to prevent unfair competition are not necessarily undesirable.'

Analysis concludes with the challenge, 'We welcome a congressional investigation into broadcasting at any time, but we oppose the arbitrary and unauthorized seizure of dictatorial powers over free American radio by the commission. Radio in America is dominated only by the listening public—and nobody else.'

IATSE FIGHT GOING BEFORE LABOR BOARD

bargain, and asking that the NLRB designate the union as collective bargaining representative for all studio laborers and utility workers.

Zeal Fairbanks, business representative of Local 727, stated the Producers have been discriminating against the union and refuse to bargain with it collectively, although it has a closed shop agreement with all of the major companies. He said signed pledges will be filed with the NLRB to show that a majority of the men employed in the studios have indicated their desire to be represented by Local 727 and have designated it as their collective bargaining representative. He said Local 727 was willing to consent to an election or a cross-check of its membership's rolls for the purpose of establishing that it represents a majority of the men employed in the industry.

The discrimination charge against the Producers is said to be based on their recent action in refusing to employ Local 727 men carrying work permits. It is understood that one of the reasons for the move is to forestall any action by the International to jerk the local's autonomy, or for Prexy George E. Browne or other International officials to make a trade at the American Federation of Labor Executive Council meeting in Washington that would give jurisdiction to Studio Utility Employes Local 724, another AFofL studio union which claims authority over the workers.

The jurisdictional tiff between Local 727 and 724 has existed since the United Studio Technicians Guild fight when the SUE voted with the Browne group to help defeat the USTG. Local 727 was formed when Browne and Willie Bioff scuttled Technicians Local 37, and both were given more or less recognition by the NLRB after its election, although Local 727 was handed a contract by the Producers.

Today's move is seen as a test case to put the International on record and see if it intends to back up its locals in the film industry. Several other crafts that have been clamoring for action on their proposed contract revisions are said to be readying move designed to force action and to block any attempt by the International to grab control or to set a deal with the Producers that is not satisfactory to the men themselves.

It will be a hurried wedding for Martha Raye, comedienne of the stage and screen, for her third visit to the altar when she becomes the bride of Neal Lang, Florida hotel man. Miss Raye, in revealing her plans yesterday, indicated that the ceremony will necessarily have to take place with almost time-clock precision. Her wedding party will board a Western Air Express plane at 7:15 tomorrow night, which means Miss Raye will have to leave a set at Warners, greasepaint and all. The couple will go to Las Vegas, obtain a marriage license around 9:30 p.m., and drive about 10 miles to the El Rancho Vegas, smart resort, for the ceremony.

'Variety' Title Gets Protection From Illinois Court

Chicago, May 22.—A consent decree holding that VARIETY is the legal owner of the trademark VARIETY has been entered in the U. S. District court for the Northern District of Illinois. The decree provides that a monthly publication heretofore calling itself 'Radio Varieties' will cease and desist from the use of that title as an infringement upon the interests and fame of VARIETY, which has been accepted as the official publication of the show world since 1905.

VARIETY was represented by the Chicago law firm of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levenson & Morse, acting on behalf of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, New York attorneys for VARIETY.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

From the findings of fact made by the court, pursuant to consent of the parties, the court states its conclusions of law as follows:

1. The plaintiff is the lawful owner and user of the trademark VARIETY, originally registered by Sime Silverman on Jan. 18, 1910, and renewed by Sime Silverman for the use and benefit of the plaintiff on Jan. 14, 1930, to remain in force for an additional period of 20 years from Jan. 18, 1930.

2. The plaintiff is entitled to the exclusive use of the trademark and tradename VARIETY in the issuance of trade newspapers and other publications devoted to the activities of the theatre, radio, screen, bands and orchestras.

3. The plaintiff is also entitled to the exclusive use of the name VARIETY in connection with the granting of awards to radio stations, programs or performers for outstanding performance.

4. The defendants are not entitled to use the name VARIETY or 'Varieties' as part of the name of a monthly magazine or other periodical or publication devoted to radio activities, radio programs and radio performers nor in the granting of awards to radio stations, programs or performers for outstanding merit. Such use of the name VARIETY or 'Varieties' by the defendants, because of visual and oral likeness to plaintiff's tradename, necessarily tends to create confusion and to diminish the value of plaintiff's trademark and tradename.

5. The plaintiff is entitled to an injunction perpetually restraining the defendants from using the name VARIETY or 'Varieties' as part of any monthly magazine or other publication devoted to the subject of radio activities, radio programs and radio performers; also to an injunction perpetually restraining the defendants from using the name VARIETY or 'Varieties' in connection with the granting of awards to radio stations, programs and performers for outstanding merit.

FADIN' TIME FOR WILLIE

HOLLYWOOD has needless grief piled upon it now and then. Other day announcement came out that George E. Browne, prexy of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Motion Picture Operators had appointed Willie Bioff, convicted panderer, as his personal liaison officer for the IATSE to see that labor troubles did not arise or halt the making of Army and Navy training films.

HOLLYWOOD did not like the announcement. Neither did the IATSE boys employed in the studios. They believed that with Bioff facing trial on income tax evasion, as well as his former messing up of things here, he should know enough to leave film labor matters alone.

Then Friday Bioff and Browne were indicted in New York

ITEM in the motion picture column of James T. Hamada on the Nippu Jiji, of Honolulu, illustrates the Oriental mind in regard to news. MOTION PICTURE plans of Tom Harmon, grid prodigy of Michigan, have been knocked into a cocked hat by the draft. Harmon was to have reported to Hollywood, under personal contract with Bing Crosby, immediately after completing his college course in June. He has a draft listing of 1-B, the deferment given all college students. The Michigan football star figured he could start his film career before his turn came along to train for the army. Now, according to word from Detroit, Harmon will go into the army immediately after getting his sheepskin, and film plans are indefinitely postponed. Understood Harmon had been guaranteed something like $25,000 per year by Crosby for work in films and radio, with a spot on Crosby's Kraft Show.

Retakes

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

There must have been a lot of true and honest pioneers,
Good men who braved the western plains in spite of doubts and fears.
Fine citizens who tilled the soil and walked in virtue's ways
And built a noble empire in the rugged early days.
They sleep, forgotten and alone, in some sequestered scene
While outlaws strut as heroes on the motion picture screen.

Baddies, like Jesse James, or Billy the Kid, or Belle Starr, led dramatic lives, which explains their popularity as screen fare. Goodies, as a rule, are about as exciting as spinach.

Still, there are signs of reform in the studios. After those 'Devil' pictures, we are about to be edified by 'Almost An Angel' and 'One Foot In Heaven.'

Hardest working actor in Hollywood is Johnny Weissmuller, who has to climb a tree every other year.

Two studios are talking about filming the careers of Jimmy Walker and Fiorello La Guardia, which would make a perfect double bill. Or wouldn't it?

'Comin' At You' is a tale of the shipyards, not of knuckle game, as you might have suspected.

One of these days 'Boogie Woogie Rookie' will go into a musical clinch with 'Boogie Woogie Maisie'. Jitterboy meets jittergirl.

It is good to see William Farnum back on the screen, even in a character part. It must be a strange feeling for an actor to play a support role in one of his old starrers.

But not on picture shows.

'Chocolate Soldier' is being filmed in 1941 clothes, but is said to retain the old flavor in spite of its new wrapper.

Casting suggestion for 'Four Jacks and a Queen'. Jack Benny, Jack Barrymore, Jack Oakie and Jack Payne.

If 'Charley's Aunt' clicks in a big way it will probably be followed by 'Charley's Uncle'.

'Memphis Belle' became 'Lady for the Night', on account of the original title sounded too much like a Mississippi River boat.

A drama, playing on the stage, enticed a picture guy,
And so he up and bought the play, although the price was high.
And presently it found itself on yonder movie lot,
And there the busy scripters changed the title and the plot.

Caught In the Draft

(Comedy)

Paramount production. Stars Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour. Features, Lynne Overman, Eddie Bracken, Clarence Kolb, Paul Hurst. Supporting Cast: Ferike Boros, Phyllis Ruth, Irving Bacon, Arthur Loft, Edgar Dearing. Director, David Butler. Producer, B. G. De Sylva. Original story and screenplay, Harry Tugend. Additional dialogue, Wilkie C. Mahoney. Photography, Karl Struss. Musical score, Victor Young. Song, Louis Alter, Frank Loesser. Art direction, Hans Dreier, Haldane Douglas. Film editor, Irene Morra. Costumes, Edith Head. Sound, Gene Merritt, Walter Oberst. Previewed May 23, Alexandria theatre, Glendale. Running time: 82 mins.

Paramount's 'Caught in the Draft' is 82 minutes of enormous belly laughter, flippancy and fol-de-rol; 82 minutes of clever and brilliant writing; 82 minutes of admirable film construction, of Bob Hope at his drolly amiable best. Moreover, it is the answer to exhibitors' prayers and ought to smash house records.

In this comedy of draftees, rookies, army routine, parachute leaps, tanks, bombers and the paraphernalia of war, Paramount has achieved a singular thing. There is no hint of propaganda in the story. There is no flag-waving. There is no genuflecting either to the demands of those who want to go all out for England or to those who insist upon America's isolation. Paramount has made a picture with what is, essentially, a war background, but for the first time since the great European conflict began, a film that is filled only with laughter.

If 'Caught in the Draft' isn't funny, then all the critics who will say it is, stretched end to end, would cover considerable acreage. If there are critics queer enough to say their risibilities remain unmoved, then they ought to be laid end to end in a most convenient cemetery. For they will be dead, mere zombies with typewriters, resurrected by some cosmic, jesting ruse to plague living mortals who have the gift of laughter.

Hope plays the role of a picture star forced into enlisting in the Army in order to win the love of Dorothy Lamour, the Colonel's daughter. His agent, Lynne Overman, and his chauffeur, Eddie Bracken, decide to stick with him as volunteers rather than face survival in Hollywood. Hope, whose nerves are shattered by the sound of gunfire, tries every possible trick to keep out of the Army before Miss Lamour's scorn drives him to the recruiting office. Even then, in one of the most hilarious scenes in the picture, he thinks his agent has substituted a bit player for the recruiting sergeant, only to be horrified when his spurious gallantry leads him to the camp commanded by Miss Lamour's father, Clarence Kolb.

Once there he is the dumbest of Men of the Timberland

(Melodrama)

Universal production. Stars Richard Arlen and Andy Devine. Cast: Linda Hayes, Francis McDonald, Willard Robertson, Paul E. Burns, Gaylord Pendleton, Hardie Albright, Roy Harris, John Ellis, Jack Rice. Directed by John Rawlins. Associate producer, Ben Pivar. Original story, Paul Jarrico. Screen play, Maurice Tombragel and Griffin Jay. Photography, John W. Boyle. Art director, Jack Otterson. Film editor, Milton Carruth. Music director, H. J. Salter. Previewed May 23. Running time: 61 mins.

Packed with action, using wilderness background picturesquely and telling its narrative of a timberland fight for natural wealth entertainingly, this Arlen-Devine entry will more than please the steady customers of these features and be satisfactory in its classification anywhere.

Roles give Richard Arlen and Andy Devine ample opportunity to score with complementary characterizations. Arlen is a head man in the U. S. Forest Rangers service. Devine is a tough bull-of-the-woods for the lumber operations which Willard Robertson expects to use for his advantage at any cost. Francis McDonald, in a breed role, is Robertson's killer, using the knife-throw. Linda Hayes, owner of part of the timberlands involved, is persuaded to sign away rights into a partnership and thus shares responsibility with the crook. Paul E. Burns is the comic sidekick of Devine. Gaylord Pendleton is a ranger, on the job with Arlen. All these turn in capable performances.

Two rangers and Devine's pal are killed by Robertson's henchman before the showdown comes, with Arlen persuading Devine in nick of time to let law take its course when latter is about to kill the knife-wielder in fierce battle. Plot action and antagonistic reaction between Arlen and Miss Hayes are deftly interwoven with interesting pictorial activities of timber falling and logging. There are several terrific physical brawls. One of the rangers is killed under a rolling log, set off by McDonald.

John Rawlins salts down a thoroughly competent job of direction, done with color and spirit and easy handling of the cast for solid performances. Melodrama and pictorial considerations both are well taken care of.

Ben Pivar's production supervision is ably evidenced in all the entertainment elements packed into script and carried out by all departments. Paul Jarrico provided a good story foundation, and Maurice Tombragel and Griffin Jay amplified very well in the screen play. John W. Boyle's camera caught the action and explored the landscape splendidly.

Cleary, Albright Set

Lockwood Albright and Jimmy Cleary have been appointed studio checkers for the Screen Actors Guild.

Across the Sierras

Bill Elliott almost hangs up his guns for good in this interlude of his career as Will Bill Hickok. He meets a girl from back east, Luana Walters, who doesn't approve of shooting regardless of the provocation. Wedding bells tinkle faintly for a while but Wild Bill discovers that shooting evildoers is like second nature to him and he gives up the girl to continue as the crusading frontiersman protecting the weak and helpless from the lawless gangs that ravage the cow country. That lapse, when it appears as if Bill is to be lost forever to western fans as a two-fisted fighting man, is the point at which this yarn varies most from previous Elliott yarns.

'Across the Sierras' is amply stocked with enough riding and shooting sequences to satisfy most followers of sagebrush mellers. Elliott turns in a good performance as the man who has put aside the sheriff's badge so that he can fight outlaws in their own fashion. Dick Curtis, as the menace whose nerves finally crack while waiting for the fateful moment to shoot it out with Wild Bill, handles his assignment convincingly. Luana Walters rates a nod on appearance, making the most of the conventional western heroine role in which she is cast, while Dub Taylor adequately fills the niche as light comedy relief and Wild Bill's partner.

HOLLYWOOD PARK opening Friday amazed the crowd who belong to the Turf Club. There was plenty of seating room this year, more tables, etc., and everything was streamlined. Fashion editors pouted a bit because they claimed there was dearth of top women around in startling and style setting raiment. . . . Still from standpoint of Friday being opening and lots of industry gals doing their stipend drawing chores elsewhere, it was real important name crowd on hand both from industry and local social circles. . . . Virtually every industry leader was on hand including Eddie Mannix who arrived just in time for the seventh handicap race. . . . Pic mob sort of shied away from Hysterical and leaned more toward Specify than other entries outside of Woof Woof, with result that many of the so-called smart film bankrolls took a shellacking. . . . Saturday turnout was big, plenty new femme raiments and Turf club backed to the back walls. New table system this year clearing through Henry De Sota, is good idea, as the confusion that has been manifest in past seasons did not pop up on two opening days. . . . Strangers have brought chicken dinner and other evidences of approval and concern to Collin Blair, young actor who is encamped across street from Paramount studio gate with determination to crash into a role in C. B. DeMille's 'Reap the Wild Wind.' Long Island lad says he expected people to regard him as a screwball, but finds response quite the opposite.

Hollwood Stars have offered Keith Richards, Paramount contract player and multiple letter man from University of Pittsburgh, a pitching contract.

STARS of yesterday and today will pay tribute to Harry Carey's 25 years of uninterrupted work in films on Saturday, June 14, at the actor's Saugus ranch. Featuring the day's ceremonies will be the preview of Paramount's 'The Shepherd of the Hills,' in which Carey plays the title role. Carey's first picture, for the National Film Distributing Company at Staten Island, was 'Bill Sharkey's Last Game,' made in 1908. D. W. Griffith brought him here first in 1910 for 'The Sheriff's Baby.' Sharing the anniversary celebration will be his wife, Olive (formerly his leading lady), his son, Steven, and daughter, Ellen. . . . Score of outside cameramen for papes and mags will be angling on the Ann Sheridan hula dance scenes today on Warners 'Navy Blues.' on extortion and conspiracy counts by a United States Court Grand Jury. That indictment was no blot on the IATSE itself or its membership. It was just a method of Government control to halt racketeering in show biz. The indictments were returned by the Grand Jury following the testimony of film company heads to the effect they had paid certain sums of money, around $550,000, to these two individuals, and not to the IATSE, whom the latter were representing.

OF COURSE, neither of the two men have been brought to trial. It will be some time before they are. No endeavor is being made to prejudice their innocence or guilt. That's up to a Judge and Jury.

But in the meantime, Willie Bioff, who always has a happy faculty of embarrassing organizations and people, should have sense of decency not to try to embarrass the United States Government, its people and the IATSE by trying to function as labor liaison for the making of Government training films.

* * * *

WILLIE for once should fade out of the picture, before means are taken to force him out. The Army and Navy Department want no truck with him, neither do the thousands of IATSE members in Hollywood and around the country. Boys in the locals take the position they have been sold out for the last time, and are planning to handle their own negotiations in the future.

* * * *

SO, THEREFORE, a word to the wise is sufficient, and we hope that Willie is sufficiently wise to quit and utilize his time to the purpose of preparing his defense for the two trials he will have to stand in the near future. Self preservation is the first law of nature, so Willie ought to look out for himself by preparing his defense, and not worry about any labor troubles accruing during the making of defense pictures.

Strike at Disney Awaits Word On Guild Report

Walt Disney over the weekend by William Littlejohn, Guild prexy:

'At a meeting Friday night of Disney employes the union committee was instructed unanimously to meet with you personally on Monday, May 26, for the purpose of obtaining recognition of the union as collective bargaining representative for your employes and of discussing grievances, the union committee to report your answer to a special membership meeting called for Monday night. Failure to grant meeting will result in recommendation that union take action to protect the interests of members.'

A motion to take an immediate strike vote was made Friday night at a meeting of the Guild, but officials finally got through a compromise to give the company until tonight to act. Labor tops said the workers felt that Disney had broken faith with them in organization of the American Society of Screen Cartoonists by officers of the Federation of Screen Cartoonists, which was scuttled following complaints to the National Labor Relations Board that it was a company union.

The negotiating committee representing the Disney unit of the Guild is composed of Ken Peterson, Phylis Lambertson, Bill Hertz and Art Babbitt, chairman. Herbert Sorrell, George E. Bodle, and Aubrey Blair, international representative of the American Federation of Labor, will sit in on the parley if Disney agrees to meet with the union.

The Disney unit of the Guild meets at 6:30 p.m. today, and if a strike vote is taken it will then be carried to the full Guild meeting for approval. The Screen Gems and Schlesinger units also are meeting prior to the general membership gathering to talk contracts. It was reported that Harry Sadicoff, Schlesinger attorney, was trying to hedge on certain contract terms that had previously been agreed upon.

The Guild said that the offer of Disney to agree to a consent election of employes to designate a collective bargaining representative would be rejected. They stated the SCG had previously offered to accept a cross check of its membership with the Disney payroll, but that and other concessions were rejected. They said the members feel the company is stalling and that no further concessions will be made.

'Fantasia' Credited With Huge Success At Frisco Geary

San Francisco, May 25.—Grossing an estimated $11,000 on its final week of eight days, Walt Disney's 'Fantasia' enjoyed the distinction of bowing out of the Geary while still doing capacity business. Previous week got $13,000. Efforts of Hal Neides to get an extension failed, 'Citizen Kane' going in Tuesday (27).

With more than 140,000 paid adult admissions, Frisco run of 'Fantasia' is credited with being among the most successful in the country.

dumb rookies and practically makes the guard house his headquarters. He does sentry duty, drives a tank, almost makes a parachute jump and peels tons of potatoes. Overman and Bracken are with him all the way, helping him by their gaucheries to become highly unpopular with Kolb. In a final scene filled with just the right mixture of melodramatic excitement and farce Hope and his two pals save the day, are made corporals, and Bob wins Dorothy.

If Hope isn't the ranking comedian in films he will be after this picture is released. He plays the rookies with superb artistry, getting his laughs by gestures and gags, but getting them big. Miss Lamour is undraped (in a bathing suit) for only one brief scene, but she doesn't lose one ounce of appeal in the 22 costumes Edith Head has designed for her. Overman and Bracken were never more absurdly slaphappy. Kolb gives the Colonel's role a touch of pomposity that is amusing but does not poke fun at the Army. Paul Hurst is excellent as the tough sergeant. Ferike Boros, Phyllis Ruth, Irving Bacon, Arthur Loft and Edgar Dearing all prove most fortunate choices for supporting roles.

In handling the production end on 'Caught in the Draft' Buddy De Sylva, new Paramount production head, has given himself a touch mark to shoot at from now on. If he can repeat with anything like the showmanship he gets into this picture, he will be without a peer. Certainly the standard is a high one, indicative of the new setup at Paramount.

David Butler's direction is smart, smooth, perfectly paced. He realizes every potentiality in the story and brings out the best in every member of the cast. He keeps a sharp eye to authentic comic values, a sense of the fundamentals of certain phases of human nature. Harry Tugend's screenplay is a sound and estimable piece of workmanship, adroitly conceived and well written. The dialog, by Wilkie C. Mahoney, is brilliant. It is written with style, with a consistently polished manner, with a feeling for word and phrase. Karl Struss, at the cameras, adds to the production with splendid photography. Victor Young's musical score is lively, colorful and gay.

When the audience (which didn't know what was coming) read the title frame and saw the name of Bob Hope flash onto the screen, the Alexandria's great chandelier shook with shrieks of applause, a demonstrative tribute that was repeated at the end.

Cocking, survey analyst for the Wage-Hour Division, trains out today for Washington for a consultation with Department officials on the situation in the motion picture and other national industries. for the various classifications will range from two to 15 cents per hour.

The agreement calls for a five-day, 40-hour week. The workers will receive time and half after eight hours, pay for six holidays, one week vacation, double time after Saturday noon, and triple pay for holidays. They also will be allowed five days injury pay, which is the waiting time for workmen's compensation.

The principle of plant-wide seniority is retained, although a compromise calls for modification with reference to certain skilled employes. The new deal provides that either party can call for arbitration of grievances, with a decision guaranteed in nine days. A notice of 48 hours also is required before dismissal of a worker.

The negotiations for the union were handled by William B. THOUSANDS WATCH EASTERN BLACKOUT

Newark, N. J., May 25.—Thousands poured into Newark by auto and bus from as far away as Massachusetts before midnight to witness the first experimental blackout of a large eastern metropolitan industrial area. All lights were doused at 12:15 a.m. for 15 minutes. The crowd was in a New Year's eve mood, filling the sidewalks and streets. The great hush that took place when the mazdas faded was quickly replaced by much kidding and finally sighs of relief when the lights went on again.

Time was too late to affect the theatres seriously, managers said nothing was perceptibly good or bad at the box office. Several downtown houses moved up shows to have patrons on the street before the blackout, one advertising 'come to the show before the blackout, be in time to see it'. Bars got some added trade from the mob, but nothing much. Some were closed for 15 minutes, while others tried out blackout paper on the windows and kept on going, although there was too much interest on the street scene to hold many drinkers inside.

Judge Rulings In Shaw Magazine Yarn Case

Superior Court Judge Emmet H. Wilson, in the libel action brought by former Mayor Frank L. Shaw against McFadden Publications, Inc., last week ruled that Liberty Magazine is not a newspaper, that a feature story writer for the magazine is not a newspaper reporter, and that Dwight F. McKinney, one of the reputed authors of 'The Lid Off Los Angeles' which ran in Liberty, was therefore obliged to answer certain questions.

Kinney had claimed the protection of subdivision 6 of section 1881 of the Code of Civil Procedure which was added in 1935 and which provides that a 'publisher, editor, reporter, or other person connected with or employed upon a newspaper cannot be adjudged in contempt of a court, the legislature, or any administrative body, for refusing to disclose the source of any information procured for publication and published in a newspaper.'

Judge Wilson's opinion said that the validity of this provision was not questioned by counsel for Shaw but that the 'privilege of the witness to disclose the source of his information depends on whether "Liberty" is a newspaper.'

contested in the Canadian courts. Besides the new 20% admission tax, there is also a provincial tax on admissions varying as to the scale in all excepting the Saskatchewan and Ontario provinces. Understood that any action will be based on the theory that this is duplicate taxation, hence one would have to be eliminated.

The Hays office is also understood to be lining up a campaign to represent the industry in hearings on the United States new income surtax, and excess profits taxation so that the companies not having a heavy capitalization would not be unfairly taxed under the new scale.

five for the first portion of its new season features. Decree permits marketing of films in blocks of from one to five.

Of the 10 features that will be ready to screen for exhibitors shortly after July 1, five are in the big-budget class with producer-director and player names that studio figures will give its new season the proper sendoff. The other five, according to the company, while less costly, will stack up for entertainment and name value to give a well-rounded program for exhibitor purchase. Eight have been completed and the two others are almost ready for the cutting rooms.

Just how the first two groups of five will be split up is awaiting the arrival of Neil F. Agnew, vice president in charge of sales, from New York the end of this week. Robert M. Gillham, eastern director of advertising and publicity, will accompany Agnew west to huddle with George Brown, Coast advertising and publicity head, on exploitation plans. It is likely that Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee, and John Balaban will also come here for the product confabs.

Among the five top features to be among the first two blocks are 'Hold Back the Dawn', with Charles Boyer, Olivia de Havilland and Paulette Goddard, directed by Mitchell Leisen and produced by Arthur Hornblow, Jr.; 'Skylark', with Claudette Colbert, Ray Milland and Brian Aherne, on which Mark Sandrich produced and directed; 'New York Town', starring Fred MacMurray and Mary Martin with Charles Vidor directing; 'Great Man's Lady' with Barbara Stanwyck, Joel McCrea and Brian Donlevy, a William A. Wellman production; and 'Nothing But the Truth', Bob Hope-Paulette Goddard starrer which Elliott Nugent is directing and Arthur Hornblow, Jr. producing. 'Truth' is now on its last lap of production and will be ready around July 1.

The other five ready are 'World Premiere', with John Barrymore, Frances Farmer and Ricardo Cortez, which Ted Tetzlaff directed; 'Buy Me That Town', with Lloyd Nolan, Constance Moore and Albert Dekker, which Eugene Forde directed; 'Henry Aldrich for President', directed by Hugh Bennett and featuring Jimmy Lydon, Charlie Smith, Mary Anderson and June Preisser; 'Among the Living', still in work with Albert Dekker, Harry Carey, Susan Hayward and Frences Farmer in the cast and Stuart Heisler directing; and 'Night of January 16', with a cast headed by Ellen Drew, Robert Preston and Nils Asther under the direction of William Clemens.

Studio now has 'Birth of the Blues', with Bing Crosby, Mary Martin, Brian Donlevy and Carolyn Lee in work under the direction of Victor Schertzinger as another of the top pictures which will be ready by Aug. 1. 'Bahama Passage', 'Sullivan's Travels' and 'Glamour Boy' are the others which company hopes will launch its new season selling.

to work moving the musicians instruments in and out of the theatres, even if the men drive up to work in private cars. They also want to drive light trucks used for transportation of the instruments. The theatres are not involved in the action, being innocent sufferers in a dispute between two unions.

When first broached two weeks ago the Teamsters ideas were viewed as having no merit by James C. Petrillo, prexy of the AFofM, and he has, along with Local 802, continued that attitude. Local 802 members have been informed to disregard the picket lines.

The teamsters asked for the support of the American Guild of Variety Artists, but were turned down on the theory that the dispute is between two unions for jurisdiction. If allowed, the Teamsters demand would considerably increase the expenses of traveling bands.

Obituary

WILSON COLLISON

Wilson Collison, 47, playwright and scenarist, died Sunday of a heart attack at his home, 1352 Braeridge Drive, Beverly Hills. He had been in ill health for the past six weeks. According to his wishes there will be no funeral services and burial arrangements are being made at the Wilshire Funeral Home in Santa Monica, probably a private cremation.

Collison, born in Gloucester, Ohio, on Nov. 5, 1893, was only nine years of age when his first story was published by a newspaper and he become known in 1919 when his play, 'Up in Mabel's Room,' written in collaboration with Otto Harbach while working for $18 a week in a Columbus drugstore, became a Broadway success. In 1915 Collison wrote 'Kitty Comes Home.' He collaborated with Avery Hopwood on 'The Girl in the Limousine' in 1919 and again in 1921 on 'Gertie's Garter'. In 1920 Collison wrote and produced 'The Girl With the Carmine Lips' and again in 1922 produced his 'Sweet Petunia'. His widow, Anzonette Lloyd Collison, was starred in both shows. Other solo play credits, in addition to numerous novels, were 'Every Little Thing', (1920); 'A Bachelor's Night', (1921); 'Desert Sands' (1922); 'The Sheik's Love' (1923); 'The Vagabond' (1923); 'Red Dust' (1927) and 'Hard-Boiled Angel' (1933).

For the past 13 years Collison had made his home in Hollywood and was credited with authoring more than 50 screen plays, many of which were serial stories, including the 'Maisie' features at Metro. He last did 'Maisie in the Gold Rush' at that studio. Other film credits include 'Red Dust' in 1932 at Metro; 'Three Wise Girls', Columbia; 'The Crusader', Majestic; 'Red Haired Alibi', Tower; 'Smart Girl', Paramount; 'Woman Wanted', Metro; and 'There's Always a Woman' and 'There's That Woman Again' at Columbia.

In addition to his widow he is survived by a brother, William G. Collison.

OTIS GARRETT

Funeral services for Otis Garrett, 36, director, will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn. Garrett, who had been recuperating from a stomach operation performed last March, died Saturday afternoon at the Doctors and Surgeons hospital, Glendale.

Garrett was a film editor and writer before becoming a director at Universal. In 1935 he collaborated on the screen play of 'Age of Indiscretion' and 'O'Shaughnessey's Boy' at Metro. In 1938 he directed 'The Lady in the Morgue', 'Danger On the Air', 'The Last Express' at Universal and the next year did 'Exile Express' for Grand National, and 'Witness Vanishes' at Universal. The operation performed in March took him off the director assignment on 'World Premiere' at Paramount and he was awaiting a return to health before receiving a new picture at that studio.

He is survived by his mother and three daughters, the eldest, Patricia, born during his first marriage to Mrs. Elizabeth Garrett, and Antoinette and Judith, born during his second marriage to Earlene Heath. He was divorced twice.

JAMES A. MANOS

James A. (Jimmy) Manos, 47, maitre d'hotel for 18 years at the Ambassador Hotel's Cocoanut Grove, died at Cedars of Lebanon Saturday following an illness lasting since September. Masonic funeral services will be arranged this week after the arrival of his two brothers, Pierre and William Demetrin Manos, from Chicago. Manos served during the first World War with the AEF in France and was a Shriner and Scottish Rite Mason.

Before going with the Ambassador he was with the Bristol, downtown, and prior to that with Tait's in San Francisco. He was married twice, his first wife being Mrs. Mildred Manos, whom he married in 1929 and his second, Mrs. Edna Manos, whom he married in 1935.

CLIFFORD F. EVANS

Clifford F. Evans, 41, co-owner with Howard Christie of the Phonofilm Co., manufacturers of coin-operated motion picture projectors, died Saturday of injuries received in a freight elevator at the Christie hotel in Hollywood.

POTENTIAL ANGLES OF FILMS TOLD DELEGATES AT MEET

The motion picture has been the instrument to bring art, music and drama within the reach of the millions of all nations, R. C. Sheriff told 2,200 delegates to the National Conference of Writers, which closed yesterday with a network round table broadcast over KNX. The Conference was arranged by the Authors League of America and was held under sponsorship of the Screen Writers Guild at the University of California at Los Angeles.

'Prior to the advent of films', Sheriff said, 'such thrills were reserved for the minority, the upper strata of society. The motion picture made art and democracy synonymous and presented sentiment and adventure to the vast majority in the simplest form, at lowest cost.'

The keynote of addresses by other authors, novelists, playwrights, and film writers follow:

James Hilton: 'World-wide misgiving in the future of humanity due to the current international upheaval and the streamlined pace set by the mechanized era of today, may point to a decline of the novel reading public and the novelist himself. A writer must write in the prevalent forms that the age gives him. To put the matter in a nutshell, the modern novelist is increasingly up against a mood prevalent all over the world which might be summarized in the two words "So What"?'

LAWSON'S REMARKS

John Howard Lawson: 'Copyright expresses in formal legal terms the individual's right to speak, think and communicate. The preservation of that right is more than a concern of the author; it is the foundation stone of a free literature and a free people. Legislation and contract place limitations on the bargaining power of the author.'

Mary C. McCall, Jr.: 'The timidity and venality of routine and patterned editorial policy is a source of concern to every American old enough to read. It is more than a trade practice which is inconvenient, discouraging, galling to a handful of professional writers. It represents a way of thinking which, if it is allowed to dominate, may destroy us all.'

Sidney Buchman: 'Inasmuch as the entire writing panorama is a picture of things in motion, the writer does not find his place in society, but creates it. If the writer is to understand the role he is to play, as this kaleidscope unrolls, he must be ready to change his creative expression as rapidly as his world around him changes.'

Georgia Backus: 'Just as the novel, play and film developed their own classics, so must radio create its own. Radio today stands at the crossroads and offers a truly great challenge to all writers.'

Paul Franklin: 'The motion picture, in its infancy, was all eyes with no ears. It grew up. Today radio, the new artistic baby, is all ears with no eyes. We hope with the aid of science and the creative genius of the writer to see radio grow up too.'

Ralph Block: 'Story telling has remained the kernel of writing expression since the dawn of human progress. From papyrus to modern color printing, from the first daguerreotype to the Technicolor super de luxe film, form has changed, but its heart, the story—the writing—is constant.'

CHEVIGNY STATEMENTS

Hector Chevigny: 'The radio writer has risen to a position in his field relatively far more important than the writer attained in the same space of time in the picture business.'

Dwight Taylor: 'The time has come for the writer to lay aside his chronic inferiority complex. Modern conditions no longer justify it and he must be ready to take his active place in an active world. He must become a business man in the sense that he produces a commodity which, through the printing press and motion picture machine he has every evidence that people are willing to buy.'

Sheridan Gibney, SWG prexy, delivered the closing remarks. He disclosed that the Conference will be made an annual event, with the 1942 meeting to be held either in New York or Chicago.

SLUW Unfair Practice Complaint Hits Producers

A complaint charging the major film companies with unfair labor practice was filed with the National Labor Relations Board Friday by Studio Laborers and Utility Workers Local 727 of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes. The complaint filed with George Yager, NLRB field examiner, claims the companies have discriminated against members of Local 727, and asks that the union be designated as collective bargaining representative for all laborers in the industry.

The Producers recently refused employment to members of Local 727 carrying work permits. The real purpose of the move, however, is said to have been to block any attempt by international officers to award jurisdiction over laborers to Studio Utility Employes Local 724. Both unions are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, each has claimed jurisdiction since the IATSE fight with the United Studio Technicians Guild.

COUNTY GRAND JURY PROBES IA OFFICERS

panies. The LA Grand Jury inquiry is centered on the activity of IATSE officials in connection with the seizure and sabotage of Technicians Local 37, and their testimony in Superior court relative to invoking the 'special emergency' under which they grabbed control of the studio unions.

In the meantime, the studio locals are in a chaotic condition as a result of the Browne and Bioff indictments. The unions are a beehive of activity. Every possible move is being discussed and explored with the idea of protecting the interests of the workers. One group is known to have been in contact with the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Others are in favor of remaining in the IATSE, but are demanding a new international personnel setup. Some are insisting that Browne and Bioff immediately resign, while others contend that all international officers should call a special convention and then resign.

The situation is said to have been called to the attention of William Green, prexy of the American Federation of Labor, who is presiding at the AFofL Executive Council meeting in Washington. Certain AFofL representatives are said to be recommending that a new AFofL motion picture charter be graned immediately to cover all IATSE studio workers and block any plan to move into the CIO. Such action was taken in the case of the Building Service Employes here after the union head, George Scalise had been ordered to prison.

Fred Billingsley, IA international vice president with headquarters in San Francisco, Harold V. Smith, business representative of the International Sound Technicians Local 695, have been subpoenaed to appear before the LA Grand Jury June 4 at 10:30 a.m. It was reported others might be called. It is presumed they are to be interrogated in connection with the claim of George E. Browne, IATSE president, that he placed telephone calls to secure the consent of all members of the IATSE Executive Board before declaring the 'special emergency' when he sent John Gatelee and Frank Stickland here to take over the studio unions.

Officials of the District Attorney's office directing the IATSE investigation, are reported to have been in contact with William Hall, assistant U. S. attorney who is handling the income tax evasion charge against Willie Bioff, and on which he is now at liberty on $5,000 bond. Hall is understood to have conferred with Joseph Carpenter, former head of the United Studio Technicians Guild, who brought suit against the IA in an effort to regain control of Local 37. Carpenter was president of the local at the time of the seizure.

BIOFF SURRENDERS

Bioff surrendered Saturday on the charge of extorting $550,000 from Producers on the threat of calling strikes, and was released in $25,000 bail, after being photographed and fingerprinted. Hall pointed out that New York authorities had asked that bail be fixed at $50,000, but U. S. Commissioner David B. Head fixed it at $25,000 after attorneys George Breslin and Michael Luddy pleaded that Bioff has a home here, is already under bail in one case, and will be ready to appear at any time desired. It was indicated, however, that the bail will be raised to $50,000, if Mathias F. Correa, acting U. S. attorney in the Southern district of New York is not satisfied with the lower bond. June 5 was set as the date for removal hearing to New York. Attorney Breslin indicated that Willie, who recently served a six months sentence in Chicago for pandering, would not oppose removal.

Browne, who was indicted jointly with Willie, had not been arrested late last night. Telegraphic warrant for his arrest was sent to Chicago, but Browne was reported in Washington attending a meeting of the AFofL Executive Council. It was reported he would surrender today and post bond.

The Government charges that $550,000 in cash to avert threatened strikes of 35,000 motion picture operators, cameramen, technicians, etc., was paid to Browne and Bioff over a period since 1936. Mathias F. Correa declares that $400,000 of the total was paid in that year. The money is said to have been given to Bioff in cash in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100. The money is said to have been extorted from Loew's Inc., Paramount, 20th-Fox, Warners, 'and other corporations unknown to the Grand Jury.'

DETAILS OF FINDINGS

Details of the Grand Jury findings were contained in an official statement issued by Correa. It stated:

'The indictment which contains two substantive counts and one alledging conspiracy, was handed up by a Federal Grand Jury following a lengthy investigation conducted personally by Mathias F. Correa, United States Attorney, aided by two of his staff assistants, Edward J. Ennis and Boris Kostelanetz.

'The Government charges that Bioff and Browne used their high positions in a powerful AFofL union to extort $550,000 for themselves from four of the nation's leading picture producers and distributors with threats to tie up the entire motion picture industry by calling a strike of some 35,000 men and women engaged in the industry's mechanical crafts.'

Following return of the indictments it was disclosed that leading executives of the different film companies appeared as witnesses before the Grand Jury during the past two weeks. It was reported at the U. S. Court building that Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's Inc., Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th-Fox, Barney Balaban, president of Paramount, Abe Warner, vice president of Warners, Pat Casey, Producer-Labor contact, and others had their turn as witnesses in the Grand Jury room.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE

The indictment against Browne and Bioff charges a continuous conspiracy dating to November, 1935. It alleges that four corporations and other corporations unknown to the Grand Jury made payments to the two defendants, who were aided and abetted in their extortion by other persons not named. The indictment alleges that both the threats and payments were made in New York City. The strike threat, it was revealed, was made in 1936.

The indictment is the first of its kind returned in the New York district in which leaders of a labor union have been accused of collecting for themselves from employers on a threat to call a strike. It alleges offenses that are punishable by maximum prison sentences of 10 years and fines of $10,000 on each count. Browne and Bioff if convicted each could be sentenced to 30 years in prison and each fined $30,000.

It was reported here that the income tax evasion charge against Willie Bioff may be revised to include all or part of the $550,000 which he and Browne are charged with extorting from the companies. Interest in IATSE circles here buzzed over the report that others were reported by the Jury to have aided Browne and Bioff in allegedly extorting the $550,000.

The New York Grand Jury is still in session, and it was reported that subpoenas have been issued for Leo Spitz and Sol Rosenblatt, members of the law firm of Rosenblatt and Jaffe, which represented the IATSE.

Meetings Arranged By Units Over Indictments

Business representatives of studio locals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes meet at three p. m. today to discuss means of protecting the interests of members as a result of the indictment of George E. Browne, IATSE prexy, and Willie Bioff. Projectionists District Council No. 2 which meets at 9 p.m. tonight to consider the same question, has invited all officers and board members of the studio locals to attend this session. The Council, which embraces all projectionists south to San Diego except Local 150, is reported to favor maintaining the IATSE but wants a general shakeup in the official International family. It is understood that at these meetings an effort will be made to set up group representation that will result in unity of all the various locals.

The business agents were called into session Friday by Harold V. Smith, chairman of business representatives committee, and head of Sound Technicians Local 695. Several suggestions were made that Browne and Bioff be asked to resign immediately, but one or two representatives took the position that this would be premature as neither of the officials have been convicted of any offense. Others were said to favor asking the International to call a special convention to elect an entire new set of national officers.

Hollywood Inside

CLAUDE BINYON has asked B. G. De Sylva for the screen play assignment on 'Texas Guinan', which Robert Sisk will produce at Paramount around August. Request was made so Binyon could join forces with Sisk on the picture as both were doing the Broadway beat during the time of Texas Guinan's popularity and are familiar with the character. Producer and writer acquired considerable of their Guinan knowledge while covering New York for VARIETY. Whether Binyon will get his request has not been definitely decided by De Sylva as yet, although indications are script will be turned over to him after he completes present assignment on 'Take A Letter Darling'. Paramount purchased all rights to the life of Texas Guinan from Tommy Guinan for around $15,000, which, according to the studio, gives it first call on filming a story around the Broadway name. Mark Hellinger was considering a Guinan story while on the producer roster at Warners and still leans towards bringing her life to the screen but the Paramount deal with Tommy Guinan is said to have forestalled such a production other than on that lot.

COMPLAINTS are piling up against the lack of the proper air conditioning in Fox West Coast's Alexander theatre in Glendale. Recent weeks with temperature higher than average has caused considerable stuffiness in the house and apparently no efforts have been made to insure the comfort of patrons by having the air cooling plant functioning properly. Several studios which have held previews recently at the theatre are now understood to be eyeing it with disfavor because of the heat, which in a number of cases has forced patrons to remove coats and loosen collars in an attempt to reach some degree of comfort.

Time Out For Rhythm

(Musical)

Columbia production. Features Ann Miller, Rudy Vallee, Rosemary Lane, Allen Jenkins, Joan Merrill, Richard Lane, the Three Stooges, Brenda and Cobina, Six Hits and a Miss. Eddie Durant's Rhumba Orchestra, Glen Gray and his Casa Loma Band, Stanley Andrews. Director, Sidney Salkow. Producer, Irving Starr. Screen play, Edmund L. Hartmann, Bert Lawrence. Story by Bert Granet. Based on a play by Alex Ruben. Musical numbers directed by LeRoy Prinz. Lyrics and music by Sammy Cahn and Saul Chaplin. Musical director M. W. Stoloff. Photography, Franz F. Planer. Film editor, Arthur Seid, Art direction, Lionel Banks. Sound, P. J. Faulkner. Gowns, Saltern. Assistant director, Bud Brill. Previewed May 26. Running time: 74 mins.

'Time Out For Rhythm' stacks up as average musical entertainment that will be able to carry top billing only outside of key city first runs. Considerable worth is given to the production by Ann Miller's dancing, and the vocalizing, but other shortcomings prevent its registering for the top brackets. Production values give the appearance of lavish expenditure and the cast is generously spotted with names for exploitation possibilities.

Story is of two New York agents, successful as a team but when girl trouble splits them, both hit the downgrade until circumstance brings them back together again, and is sufficient for the introduction of the seven songs, the comedy, and the elegant dances and two songs by Miss Miller. Her numbers are colorful and easily the standout of the entire production. She has also made strides as an actress.

Rudy Vallee and Richard Lane handle the two male spots. Vallee has a chance to sing two songs and gives the dramatic portions his own style of portrayal that is beginning to find more ease before the cameras. Lane sells himself thoroughly as the other agent, capturing most of the picture's dramatic moments. Rosemary Lane essays the heavy role and sings the opening number, 'Did Anyone Ever Tell You'. Allen Jenkins gets in some comedy as Vallee's aide and has a chance to show his hoofing in one sequence with Miss Miller. Joan Merrill, working with the Six Hits and a Miss in the title song and soloing with 'As If You Didn't Know', is a particularly bright spot in the proceedings. The Six Hits and a Miss are vocally good.

The Three Stooges sock over their zany comedy for surefire laughs. Brenda and Cobina will please only their ardent fans. Eddie Durant's Rhumba orchestra and Glen Gray and His Casa Loma band offer fine presentation of the songs by Sammy Cahn and Saul Chaplin. Pee Wee Hunt, of the Casa Loma band, makes a specialty number of 'Boogie Woogie Man'. Musical direction under M. W. Stoloff and the dance staging by LeRoy Prinz are first class jobs.

Sidney Salkow had a chore in blending the story and specialties together into some semblance of order. The results are creditable. Irving Starr marshalled the production ingredients well. Franz F. Planer's camera work gives much to the staging of the numbers, as does the art direction of Lionel Banks. Writing credits are divided between Edmund L. Hartmann and Bert Lawrence for the script and Bert Granet for the story based on Alex Ruben's play.

20th-Fox Points for Boom During Next Month's Prod.

20th-Fox is pointing for another production boom early next month, after having dropped to a current four productions from the 10 in work two weeks ago. 'Marry the Boss' Daughter', Thornton Vreeland, rolls June 3, and six days later four start simultaneously—'How Green Was My Valley', 'Riders of the Purple Sage', 'Man At Large' and 'We Go Fast.'

'Week End In Havana' starts June 16, to be followed on June 30 by 'Confirm or Deny' and 'Remember the Day.'

Play Review

NAUGHTY MARIETTA

Scarcely better than the first offering is the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Association's second operetta, Victor Herbert's 'Naughty Marietta', with the top roles sung by Francia White and Wilbur Evans. Philharmonic Auditorium was well-filled, attesting to the popularity of Herbert's music and a good publicity campaign.

Sterling Holloway, ot pictures, supplied most of the laughs. Fortunately, he didn't have to sing anything but that sad little ditty, 'If I Were Anybody But Me'. He did it in grand style, with the help of Vera Marshe. Miss White's return to Los Angeles was something of a civic occasion, with a speech by the Mayor. She was in good voice throughout the evening, putting over her numbers with the right measure of dash and brilliance required by her role. Evans was an able Captain Warrington. Warren Hull, as Etienne Grandet, was without any voice at all, but his acting was adequate. Support was good from Harry Holman, Frank Yaconelli and Mady Correll.

Aida Broadbent ballet was much the best thing in the show. Costuming was excellent. Choral ensembles were very weak.

Gable, Turner Complete Tests for 'Tonk'

Clark Gable and Lana Turner are completing tests this week to start 'Honkey Tonk' at Metro next Monday. Frank Morgan has been added to top support role as Miss Turner's father. Jack Conway will direct.

'Blood and Sand' Bally Includes Dance Awards

Working in conjunction with the 20th-Fox studio, George Watters of the Fox-West Coast first run exploitation department has staged a comprehensive campaign for 'Blood and Sand', which gets under way at the circuit's State and Chinese theatres tomorrow. Girl, who is 22, took the test only because Sophie Rosenstein, Warners drama coach, prevailed upon her to read some lines for Lionel Trilling. Drama coach, also from Seattle, formerly was a fellow-faculty member with Mrs. Florence James at the University of Washington. Miss James read from 'The Gentle People' and, following day, took a test in 'The Philadelphia Story' and 'A Bill of Divorcement'. Girl was not angling for the job, taking the test only to please her friend. Her mother and father, Burton James, before going to Seattle, operated a settlement house club in New York where Jimmy Cagney gained his first dramatic experience.

Claire Trevor, Rita Hayworth, Ruth Hussey and Ellen Drew volunteered to appear in the trailer made at Columbia studio last night to help the sale of the government's defense bonds.

ASCAP LOSES APPEAL AGAINST STATE LAWS

no Federal statute specifically granting copyright holders the right to act in concert to protect themselves the states can forbid group action to fix prices and dictate terms on which music can be performed, Associate Justice Hugo L. Black declared.

The decision was a green light for other states to enact statutes of the kind sponsored for several years by the National Association of Broadcasters. Considering the technical points, the highest tribunal held that the three-judge court which outlawed the 1937 Florida law was wrong in failing to consider the legislature's statement that the law could be separated. In regard to the 1939 act the provisions considered by the Federal District court were only trimmings and not the heart of the statute. The same applies in regard to the Nebraska act.

'Federal injunctions against state laws are not to be issued as a matter of course,' Justice Black said, 'and the mere statement of state officers that they will enforce acts of their legislatures is no ''threat'' to inflict ''irreparable injury'' on copyright holders.'

Ascap's only claim to an injunction against the Florida law grows out of the first section—prohibiting associations formed for the purpose of price-fixing—and this section was not passed on by the Federal court, Justice Black observed. 'There is no doubt', he added, 'that the copyright pool is subject to the statute and is designed to dictate the conditions under which copyrighted works can be reproduced.

BLACK'S REMARKS

'Passing upon the possible significance of the manifold provisions of a broad statute in advance of efforts to apply the separate provisions is analogous to rendering an advisory opinion upon a statute for a declaratory judgment upon a hpyothetical case', Justice Black reprimanded.

The consent decree entered in New York, winding up the Department of Justice attack, has no bearing on the fights of states to regulate copyright pools, the opinion held. Justice Black said that states can control purely intrastate transactions and forbid restraint of local trade even if there were no Sherman act. Declared the Court spokesman: 'Unless constitutionally valid Federal legislation has granted to individual copyright owners the right to combine, the state's power validly to prohibit the prescribed combinations cannot be held non-existent merely because such individuals can preserve their property rights better in combination than they can as individuals. We find nothing in the copyright laws which purports to grant to copyright owners the privilege of combining in violation of otherwise valid state or Federal laws. We have, in fact, determined to the contrary with relation to other copyright privileges. But complainants urge that there is a distinction between our previous holding and the question here. This contention is based on the idea that Congress has granted the copyright privilege with relation to public performances of music and that with reference to the protection of this particular privilege combination is essential. We are therefore asked to conclude from the asserted necessities of their situation that Congress intended to grant this extraordinary privilege of combination. This we cannot do.'

Cal. Tenney Bill Appears Dead

Sacramento, May 26. — The so-called anti-Ascap bill prohibiting pooling of musical compositions is apparently dead for this session of the California Legislature. Assemblyman Jack Tenney, of Inglewood, who introduced the measure, has placed it on the ''inactive file' and has no intentions of taking it up.

Tenney is silent on his reasons for abandoning the measure but it is understood he believes Ascap is now living up to most of the provisions of AB 798 and feels that legislation is not necessary after all.

Governor Olson today signed AB 1479, presented by Assemblyman Franklin Potter, Los Angeles, requiring that managers guarantee wages for actors and others employed on theatrical productions. This bill provides that managers must put up security to cover wages with a bank or trust company. The measure becomes effective 90 days after adjournment.

XTRA RECLASSIFICATION SEEN DURING WEEK

The revisions will eliminate the $8.25 and $11 brackets and establish a $10 call to replace them. The use of $5.50 extras also will be limited to call for 50 or more players. The revisions also will provide improved conditions for small free-lance actors and day players.

Van Dyke To Revive 'Thin Man' Series At Metro

Major W. S. Van Dyke II will get his retirement from the U. S. Marine Corps this week, after having served seven months at the San Diego base, and returns to Metro to revive the 'Thin Man' series within the next few weeks. First directorial assignment will be 'Shadow of the Thin Man', a Hunt Stromberg production.

Retirement is based on report by Marines Medical staff after a month's observation at hospital that Van Dyke is afflicted with bronchial disturbance. Official action is to be taken by Marine Corps Survey Board on Thursday, which director will attend in San Diego. Action by the board is a necessary preliminary for permission to return to civilian work. Final action will be taken by the Retirement Board, perhaps two to three months hence.

Van Dyke yesterday explained that he cannot enter into any deal or specify any salary with Metro at this time, but would have to work purely for what the studio might voluntarily offer. He is still on government salary and may not take remuneration from a private job. He will remain in reserve, subject to call in case of emergency. His outfit is the 10th Marines, 2nd Battalion of the 2nd Division.

LEWIS TELLS AAA REASONS FOR CLEARANCE CHANGE

Otis W. Lewis, operator of the Mission Playhouse in San Gabriel, took the witness stand before Arbitrator Herbert Cameron yesterday afternoon in an endeavor to substantiate his complaint against leading distribution companies why picture clearance as applied to his theatre is unreasonable. Lewis has started action before the American Arbitration Association seeking a 28-day clearance off Pasadena, instead of the 21-day clearance off Alhambra now provided his house.

He contended that failure of Alhambra to avail itself of the seven-day availability after Pasadena first run closing was responsible for his being forced to follow 39 to 40 days in some instances, and this, he contends, is being reflected by depleted grosses at the Playhouse.

Following the Lewis testimony adjournment was taken until June 3, at which time the hearing will be resumed.

Earlier in the day Attorney Herbert T. Silverberg, representing 20th-Fox and Loew's, Inc., was successful in having the former company eliminated as a defendant because of its financial interest in the Fox-West Coast operated houses in Pasadena and Alhambra.

Most of the morning session yesterday was devoted to opening statement of Rufus Bailey, attorney representing Lewis, and the introduction of a statement into the records by Arthur Freston (Freston & Files), attorneys for Warners.

Following the Silverberg motion Attorney Bailey admitted that 20th-Fox had a financial interest in the Alhambra Amusement Co., a F-WC subsidiary, but insisted that this did not apply to the Edwards Circuit houses, against which the Lewis complaint is primarily aimed.

Financial holdings of F-WC in the various houses were enumerated by John Betero, of the F-WC legal staff. He stated that 20th-Fox Film Corporation owns 42% of National Theatres Corp., which in turn owns all of F-WC. Latter, he stated, owns the major stock of the United Artists.

In addition to wanting to play product 28 days after Pasadena first run closing, Lewis is seeking to get clearance over Rosemead and Garvey, operated by the Edwards Theatre circuit, and which are now daydated with the San Gabriel Playhouse.

Attorney Bailey called James Edwards (Edwards circuit), as his second witness and then called A. L. Sanborn, who with James Rennie operates the El Monte theatre at El Monte, and who are also seeking clearance adjustments at the hands of the AAA.

Upon resumption of the Lewis hearing next Tuesday indications are it will require four or five days to complete the case for both sides. Lewis hearing is the first of three complaints filed with the AAA, all having to do with alleged unreasonable clearances demanded by major distribs.

MCA TO TAKEOVER COL ARTISTS TALENT BUREAU

lieved the William Morris agency may set a similar deal with NBC's Artist Bureau subsidiary.

Although not as yet official, it is understood that MCA will pay from $250,000 upwards in the takeover. It also is possible that Columbia Concerts division will revert to individual managers in the setup. Deal was engineered by William S. Paley, president of CBS and Jules C. Stein, MCA prexy, who flew in from the Coast a fortnight ago for the purpose.

Understood there will be a contingency in the contract covering possible talent union difficulties, both CBS and MCA officials reputedly taking cognizance of possibility that American Federation of Actors will not like such a mass exchange of talent from one agency to another, despite the fact that many agency contracts with talent permit such assignment.

Deal is one of the biggest ever in agency ranks and stems from Federal Communication Commissions' crackdown on radio networks as monopolies.

It also probably is related to Coast Attorney Martin Gang's blast a few months ago against radio network controlled artist bureaus as monopolies in restraint of the trade of independent agencies. Gang filed a brief with the FCC on behalf of a few Hollywood agencies saying indies could not compete with networks offering performers sustaining time as bait to sign managerial contracts.

It is reported CBS' prexy Paley also had talked with the William Morris agency on same type of deal.

SCREEN WRITERS PUSH CLEARING COMMITTEE

nounces that a series of broadcasts will be presented as part of a large publicity campaign to acquaint all guilds and the public with problems confronting craft groups and unions in Hollywood. Another meeting of Committee representatives is to be called soon.

At the same time it was disclosed that the SWG group named to investigate the advisability of affiliating with a national labor organization will soon become active, especially if the Guild negotiating committee fails to make any progress at its parley with company representatives tonight. Pledges of support have already been received by the SWG from the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The Guild is now raising a war chest that is expected to reach $100,000, and plans to take a strike vote at any time it becomes apparent that an agreement with the major companies is not possible. The SWG executive board met last night to discuss the negotiations and to plan future moves.

Following the board meeting a statement was given out disclosing that steps are being taken to block the sale of story material to the Producers in the event the scriveners call a stoppage of work. The statement follows:

'Formal action in support of the current SWG negotiations with the Producers will be taken at a special meeting of the Authors League Council and the Dramatists Guild membership in New York tomorrow night. This assurance was given the executive board of the SWG in a telegram received from Elmer Rice, president of the Authors League.

'Rice said that the Screen Writers objective seemed moderate and equitable and that he was convinced they will be supported by all the members of the League. In a long distance telephone conversation the executive secretary of the Authors League stated:

'The Council will invoke the provisions of the Authors League Constitution, making effective immediately an order preventing members from accepting employment from Producers and calling for a membership vote to refrain from selling material to Producers during any critical situation arising from negotiations.

'Consideration of definite action to be taken by the Painters Local 644 in relation to the SWG negotiations with Producers was deferred until the next regular membership meeting on June 8, according to notice received last night. In the meantime it was stated by the Painters Local there is a provision on their books stating any member going through a legitimate picket line will be fined.'

session in the Blossom room in the hotel, where the 600 members present voted unanimously to approve the strike action. Similar action was taken in the case of Schlesinger, the Schlesinger unit first voting in favor of a strike and then getting approval from the general membership.

The Guild immediately appointed strike strategy committees in the Disney unit to handle publicity, pickets, ways and means, auxiliary, office, etc. It also was announced that the boycott committee of the San Fernando Valley Central Labor Council is meeting this afternoon to take steps to have the Disney products placed on the unfair list of the American Federation of Labor. Joseph Clarke, International vice-president of the Brotherhood of Painters, is en route here from Tacoma to represent the International in the Disney walkout.

A meeting has been called by Aubrey Blair, AFofL organizer, for 3 p.m. today of all unions involved in the Disney dispute. These are understood to include the Office Workers, Cartoonists, Teamsters, Cameramen, and Film Editors. At that time strike policies will be discussed.

A Guild committee is scheduled to meet with Leon Schlesinger today in an effort to reach an agreement that will prevent the walkout scheduled at that studio tomorrow. Tops said the Guild had already made several concessions to Schlesinger, including one calling for an apprentice period for inkers and painters. They claim, however, Harry Sadicoff, Schlesinger attorney is attempting to hedge on certain provisions that were agreed to before the men returned to work. The situation was discussed yesterday at a conference between Schlesinger and Herbert Sorrell and attorney George E. Bodle representing the Guild.

Guild tops stated there was no other alternative but to order a strike at Disney. They said the 'discriminatory firing' of 14 employes, including five Guild leaders, formation of the American Society of Screen Cartoonists, and refusal of the company to bargain made it necessary that the workers take drastic action in order to protect their interests.

An unsuccessful effort to effect a settlement was made yesterday afternoon at a conference between Walter Spreckels, Disney labor contact, Herbert Sorrell, Aubrey Blair and attorney George E. Bodle. Spreckels, however, said that Disney still refused to recognize the SCG as bargaining representative for the cartoonists without an election by the National Labor Relations Board.

Approximately 800 employes will be affected by the strike order at Disney's. Of that number about 500 are claimed by the Cartoonists. About 185 would be affected by the strike call at Schlesinger's.

lations committee to start negotiating contract revisions.

At the same time, it is reported that a communication was sent to Louis Krouse, IATSE national secretary, apprising him of the action taken and of the situation generally. Krouse also was asked whether the International had any information on the pending Wage-Hour decisions affecting disputed classifications of film workers.

The move yesterday indicated that the studio locals plan to take their problems direct to the Producers instead of dealing with the company labor contacts. It also was a tip off that the 10,000 IATSE members here do not intend to stand for any deal being set by the International in the East. Harold V. Smith, chairman of the IATSE business representatives committee who arranged the meeting, stated he was not in a position to state what transpired, but admitted that the rank and file membership was demanding action.

BIOFF RESIGNATION?

From other sources it was learned that Smith's reluctance to talk probably was based on the objections of at least one business representative to any publicity being given the meetings. Dave Lory, business representative of Laboratory Technicians Local 683, was quoted as having stated he understood what transpired at the meetings was not to be made public. Lory did not attend today's session, but was reported by other business representatives to have attended a recent meeting when it was suggested that George E. Browne and Willie Bioff be asked to resign. Herbert Aller, business representative of International Photographers Local 659, also failed to sit in on the parley today.

Business agents reported to have attended today's conference and to have joined in the request for a meeting with the Producers were Charles Ferguson, electricians; Harold V. Smith, soundmen; Zeal Fairbanks, laborers; Bill Barrett, grips; William Cooley, makeup artists; John Swartz, projectionists; Bill Edwards, costumers; Cappy DuVal, property men.

Another meeting of the business representatives has been called for 3 p.m. tomorrow. In addition to the business representatives the group is being expanded to include two members from each local to sit in and advise with the group.

LITTLE PROGRESS REPORTED IN WRITER, PROD. BATTLE

Representatives of the Producers and the Screen Writers Guild conferred for several hours last night, but were reported to have made little progress towards reaching a contract agreement. The Producers said no statement would be issued on what transpired at the parley, but added that negotiations between the two groups had not been broken off. It was indicated, however, that no date had been set for another meeting.

It is probable that a general membership meeting of the SWG will be called to discuss the situation as soon as the negotiating committee reports. The committee at the last session was instructed to go back to the Producers and try to get a satisfactory deal, but since that time the SWG has proceeded to line up support of other crafts in the event negotiations become stymied and the scriveners decide to take a strike vote.

Hollywood Inside

REPORT coming off the Goldwyn lot explaining why Bette Davis is still ill at her home and work is being held up on 'The Little Foxes' concerns her differences with Sam Goldwyn over her appearance on the screen. Actress has long smarted under critics' descriptions of her as 'bug-eyed' and has grown very sensitive of late about her appearance. When she went before the cameras in the Lillian Hellman play she wore an entirely new makeup, chief advantage of which was extra long eyelashes. These lashes eliminated the prominence of her eyes and, to most of those in the technical crew, greatly enhanced her beauty. Goldwyn, however, took sharp difference with the eyelash idea. He insisted that the role, that of a lady of quality of the early 1900's, made the makeup impossible. After he saw the rushes he is reported to have ordered the false lashes removed. Miss Davis refused to continue until that point had been settled. There were talks between her representatives and those of the producers. She is still reported to be adamant in her stand regarding her appearance, taking the attitude that the long lashes do improve her appearance and do not make her look anything but a lady of quality. Goldwyn spokesmen are still vague about when the actress will return, placing the date as 'some time next week'.

MOST enthusiastic champion of television's imminence on a national scope is Harrison Holliway, KFI-KECA general manager, who viewed a demonstration in New Yorker theatre in Manhattan last week. Projected on 16x20-foot screen, the fights televised by NBC from Jamaica to the receiving point atop Empire State building and relayed to the New Yorker were as clear in detail and action as the average newsreel, declared Holliway. Loud speakers were placed around the house to diffuse crowd noises and create a ringside atmosphere in the theatre. Barring bottlenecks through inability to obtain material necessary to the manufacture of receiving sets, Holliway believes that commercial television will take a decided spurt within a few months after its licensing becomes effective July 1. Not far off, he ventures, is the time when sporting events will be televised to the screens of theatres throughout the country.

CLAIRE E. HOFFMAN, Michigan congressman, is displaying considerable interest in the U.S. government and Los Angeles County Grand Jury investigations into the activities of national officers of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes. The representative, who is urging enactment of national labor racketeering legislation, has contacted IATSE membership leaders here seeking information on the IA setup, particularly with reference to the handling of negotiations and other matters by Prexy George E. Browne, Willie Bioff and other national officers. In the meantime, certain IA membership groups are sponsoring a move to seek the resignation of national IATSE officers and the calling of a special convention to select new heads. The IA situation is reported to have been discussed at the American Federation of Labor Executive Council meeting in Washington, but no announcement has been made as to what, if any, action is planned.

BACKERS of Arthur Spitz poured $23,000 into the ill-starred operetta venture at the Mason theatre. Idea, after the continental manner, was to present the perennials at 59c top. Despite opinion among theatre men that the productions were well done and capably performed, the payees failed to respond in sufficient numbers to keep it going. Through his friendship for Spitz, for whom he worked in Europe, one of the Weire brothers, of the precision acrobatic team which scored in 'Folies Bergere', went for $13,000. Bette Davis donated $5,000 and an unnamed film writer kicked in with another $5,000. When further coin could not be promoted, Spitz bowed out and another 'noble experiment' went the way of most of the others.

WHEN the O. W. Lewis (Mission Playhouse at San Gabriel) hearing is resumed June 3 before the American Arbitration Association defense counsel will move for a dismissal on the ground of no jurisdiction. Should this motion be denied by Arbitrator Herbert Cameron, before whom the case is being argued, the defense will begin the introduction of testimony which it hopes will offset that introduced by the plaintiff at last Monday's hearing. Lewis is seeking to compel the major distributors to zone his house 28 days off Pasadena first run closing, instead of 21 days after Alhambra, and also wants seven days' clearance over the Rosemead and Garvey theatres, operated by the Edwards Circuit, with which he is now day-dating.

THOUGH promotions in exchanges, necessitated under the consent decree due to increased field and exploitation forces, will in the majority of cases be made from within the ranks, one or two cases have arisen in the Los Angeles district where branch managers were obliged to battle New York executives on behalf of the local talent. It was held here that booking personnel should be given any opportunity for advancement that arises and that bringing in men from outside offices would undermine staff morale. Home office executives were convinced and are now reported satisfied that representatives on the home grounds knew best.

Bud Abbott & Lou Costello, Dick Powell In The Navy

(Musical Comedy)

Universal production. Stars Bud Abbott, Lou Costello, Dick Powell. Features the Andrews Sisters, Claire Dodd, Dick Foran, Billy Lenhart, Kenneth Brown, Shemp Howard, The Condos Brothers. Director, Arthur Lubin. Associate producer, Alex Gottlieb. Original story, Arthur T. Horman. Screen play, Arthur T. Horman and John Grant. Photography Joseph Valentine. Special photographic effects, John Fulton. Art director, Jack Otterson; associate, Harold H. MacArthur. Film editor, Philip Cahn. Musical numbers staged by Nick Castle. Sound supervisor, Bernard B. Brown; technician, Charles Carroll. Musical director, Charles Previn. Music supervisor, Ted Cain. Arrangements, Vic Schoen. Gowns, Vera West. Set decorations, R. A. Gausman. Dialog director, Joan Hathaway. Technical advisor, H. E. Harris, U.S.N., Ret. Assistant director, Philip P. Karlstein. Music and lyrics, Gene DePaul and Don Raye. Previewed at the Alexander, Glendale, May 27. Running time: 85 mins.

Here is a box office running mate for that other Universal service comedy, 'Buck Privates'. Geared to ease the strain of these momentous times, 'In the Navy' (shortened for the sake of space) presents another arm of our national defense in a style that will be hard to beat. There is every indication that the enormous gross piled up by 'Buck Privates' will be matched by this zaney entry in the service comedy race. Universal has given Bud Abbott and Lou Costello the support (not that they need it) of other names and the combination of talent makes as pleasant and hilarious an 85 minutes as any ticket buyer could possibly want.

Its story is strong enough to get in every gag, laugh and song without being a stumbling block to the mad pace. The lines are punchy and the roars many in the script by Arthur T. Horman and John Grant from Horman's original. Dick Powell, radio's number one crooner and pursued by women, disappears, only to be ferreted out as one of Uncle Sam's naval recruits by a femme news photographer. Abbott and Costello are sailors, and what sailors! Some of their routines are standard, but each is dressed up to give something new each time around. What happens as the femme pursuit strikes at Powell aboard ship and the two bad boys of the navy hit their merry stride beggars description but the results will tickle the funny bone right down to the shoe tips.

Abbott and Costello dominate the proceedings as only they can. Dick Powell's performance is swell. He stands out with his rendition of the stirring martial air cleffed by Gene DePaul and Don Raye, 'We're In the Navy', and his other work stacks right up on top. The Andrews Sisters have their chance to shine with three numbers alone and a fourth with Powell, as well as carry a necessary story thread. Their work is class in both respects.

Claire Dood sells her part as the femme photog excellently and moves up another notch in importance after being away from the screen for some time. Dick Foran has one of his infrequent chances to sing and his best acting assignment in quite a while and proves himself capably in the mad shuffle. Shemp Howard, Billy Lenhart and Kenneth Brown are seen briefly, but effectively. A fine specialty dance is contributed by The Condos Brothers with hoofing class.

Arthur Lubin crowns himself with another choice credit for successfully guiding the comedy team through what will prove another money-maker for Universal. His handling of the large production dance numbers, tastefully staged by Nick Castle; the music, the comedy and the drama rate him up among the best on the field. Alex Gottlieb also garners credit for his function as associate producer, injecting every possible showmanly value into the picture.

Joseph Valentine's camera work and the photographic effects by John Fulton skillfully add breadth and life to the picture. The art work of Jack Otterson and his associate, Harold H. MacArthur, is first class; the film editing by Philip Cahn fastly paced; the musical direction, supervision and arrangements by Charles Previn, Ted Cain and Vic Schoen, respectively, sell the tuneful DePaul and Raye songs excellently. Credit also goes to the others lending their services to the production so commendably.

PRODUCERS, IATSE LOCALS MEET ON PARLEY DATE

A meeting of business representatives of studio locals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes has been called for 3 p.m. today to discuss future moves in the unions demand for immediate opening of negotiations with the Producers. The group which is seeking to force action on contract revisions has been expanded to include two members of each local in addition to the business agent.

It was reported that the International Photographers Local 659 and Laboratory Technicians Local 683, which did not attend the last session, would have representatives at today's conference. Leaders said they were awaiting a reply from Y. Frank Freeman, prexy of the Producers' Association, to their request for an early meeting with the Producer labor relations committee to talk wages and conditions.

Freeman held several conferences with the Producers yesterday, at which time it was understood both the writer situation and the IATSE locals request were discussed. Freeman declined to say what, if any reply, was being made to the union, but other sources indicated that a meeting between the two groups would be arranged shortly.

Murray Silverstone, United Artists Washup Reported

New York, May 27.—Negotiations are in progress for a bow-out from United Artists of Murray Silverstone. Huddles are taking place between Silverstone and his attorney, Charles Schwartz, on one side, and three of the owners and their attorney, Ed Raftery, on the other.

Owners are Alexander Korda, Charles Chaplin and Mary Pickford, with a fourth shareholder, the Douglas Fairbanks estate, understood taking no part in the proceedings.

Holding up the Silverstone exit is his demand for a 100% payoff of his contract. Head of the distributing organization is said to be getting $3,000 a week, with his contract still having two years to run. Total sum involved is around $300,000.

It has been bruited about the industry for some time that Silverstone and the owners of United Artists did not see eye-to-eye on many subjects from distribution to production.

Danny Kaye, Kraft Deal as Bob Burns Sub Appears Off

New York, May 27.—Danny Kaye, legit and nitery comedian currently in 'Lady in the Dark' on Broadway, probably won't accept the offer of J. Walter Thompson agency for several summer dates on Kraft Music Hall airshow during summer layoff of Bob Burns. Acceptance would involve his going to the Coast, which he isn't anxious to do unless there is a film deal coincidentally.

Understood agency wants Burns to take a substantial cut from the current $5,000 weekly he's drawing, figuring he isn't worth such heavy coin. His contract is up in January.

Agency's New York office yesterday said it knew nothing of Coast report that Bing Crosby is asking a 15-minute supplementary show on Mutual so he can sing Ascap tunes.

New York, May 27.—Broadway sat back tonight aware that the citizenry would be at their radios for the world-waited speech of the President. Early in the afternoon agencies sent back virtually all tickets on hand for tonight's performances. Cancellations were reported away over normal.

Business has been slow at the box offices for some time, but today there was little for the legit treasurers to do. There were some exceptions, of course. Advance sales for hit attractions protected them but the others felt the full bruit.

Picture houses downtown faced the same letdown as did legit but neighborhood theatres had a better chance early in the evening before the President's address.

Kreisler Sees 15% Boost In Universal Shorts Sales

Bernard B. Kreisler, short subject manager for Universal, presented an exhaustive survey of the field to U's Los Angeles district bookers and salesmen at the Ambassador hotel this week indicating possibilities of hoisting revenues from shorts by 15% if proper economic factors are taken into consideration. With charts and graphs to indicate defense coin spending in various districts, Kreisler demonstrated how a knowledge of both future and present government spending can be utilized in selling product to exhibitors in the areas affected. With many of the circuit heads interviewed during his tour of the country of the opinion that under the consent decree the tendency will be towards extended runs and longer pictures, Kreisler found that shorts as fillers would in future get a cold reception from exhibitors unless they were made to provide entertainment.

Cliff Work, vice president in charge of production at Universal, who was present, said that shorts and serials should and would be dignified with more adult appeal to show the same improvement as feature length product in recent years. He could see no place in theatres for the 'spit' serial, 100 feet of new celluloid with 900 feet of stock shots pasted in.

In line with this policy the budget for shorts has been upped to allow for increased animation and Technicolor in the cartoon features. Two Universal series of shorts are being dropped, one being travelogues under the title of 'Going Places.'

Short subject production will hereafter concentrate more heavily on use of name bands with personalities from radio and the stage coordinating with a simultaneous sales drive to make the short department profitable or else.

Among those attending the Kreisler session in addition to Work were Walter Lance, in charge of Technicolor cartoons, William Cowan, short subject musicals, and Henry MacRae, chapter productions. Meeting wound up Kreisler's coast-to-coast tour during which he took up the new short subject sales methods in 30 U offices. He is scheduled to return to New York Friday.

tral directors should be classified as non-exempt under the Wage-Hour Law.

Such classification would entitle the casting directors to time and one half after 40 hours. Company executives, however, contend their offer of a $50 minimum was for 54 hours, with the understanding the directors would be classified as exempt from the 40-hour provision.

Elma Goodwin, business representative of the AFOE, stated the directors preferred the $37.50 minimum which she said was originally agreed to, provided they were paid time and half for overtime. The whole contract situation is expected to be reopened next week, when Mrs. Goodwin returns from Washington, where she appeared before the American Federation of Labor Executive Council in connection with the claim of the Teamsters Union to jurisdiction over certain office workers. NEW YORK TEAMSTER STRIKE TURNS INTO SERIOUS MATTER

New York, May 27.—Comic opera strike by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Local 817, of New York, last Saturday against the Musicians' union, turned into a serious matter as the teamsters aligned themselves against the stagehands for walking through their picket lines. Teamsters are now picketing all legit houses here as well as vaudefilmers playing bands.

Teamsters' dispute with the musicians stems from the haulers' demand that they be given jobs carrying musicians' instruments into the houses, as well as jobs driving trucks or cars carrying musicians or their instruments en masse.

As a result the teamsters are now not only picketing the film and legit houses but are also refusing to haul shows from any theatres.

Festival Films Files Suit Against Kohn On 16 mm. Pix

Festival Films Inc. has filed suit in U. S. District Court charging copyright infringement and asking for a preliminary injunction to restrain Edward L. Kohn, operator of the Movie Parade theatre, Hollywood, from showing 16mm. films entitled 'The Adventurer', 'Easy Street', 'The Immigrant', 'The Vagabond', 'The Fireman' and 'Behind the Screen.'

Plaintiff, represented by Attorney Herbert Silverberg, traces steps by which ownership of copyright was transferred from the Lone Star Corporation to the Van Beuren Corporation which is a subsidiary and affiliated with RKO-Radio, then to the Commonwealth Picture Corporation which eventually sold the rights to Festival.

Action alleges that exhibition of the films was unlicensed and unauthorized and that showing of the films at the Movie Parade theatre from May 1 to 15 has jeopardized deals with other exhibitors to show the pictures at higher admission prices.

Kohn has submitted a plea in which he contends that prints of the 16mm. versions of the films referred to can be obtained from distributors in New York without restriction as to use by any person paying the stipulated rental. He asserts also that these 16mm. pictures have been advertised for rental for several years past in New York City and State and claims that 16mm. rights were conveyed to the Eastman Kodak Co. in 1928. The reply further states that Eastman sold and distributed the 16mm. films to the trade without restriction as to exhibition. It is alleged also that the sound rights to the pictures acquired by the Van Beuren Corporation were subsequent to the rights acquired by Eastman.

U. S. District Court Judge Ralph E. Jenney has continued the case for two weeks for further hearing.

DISNEY STRIKE SPREAD THREAT; SCHLESINGER SIGNS

executive boards before taking official action.

The strike set for 10 a.m. today at the Leon Schlesinger Studio was called off last night when the company signed a three-year contract with the Screen Cartoonists Guild. It was stated that both sides had made certain concessions, but that an amicable agreement had been reached. The pact is subject to reopening annually for negotiations. The deal was set at a conference between Leon Schlesinger, Lyle Shrader, international representative of the Brotherhood of Painters, Chuck Jones, chairman of the Schlesinger Guild unit, and Attorney George E. Bodle.

The Society of Motion Picture Film Editors, which has been seeking to negotiate a contract with Disney and which recently charged the company with unfair labor practices, issued the following statement:

'The board of directors decided to call a general meeting on Tuesday, June 3, at the Woman's Club of Hollywood for the expressed purpose of taking a strike vote in the case of the Walt Disney Studio. Such action must be ratified by not less than 75% of the members in good standing and entitled to vote thereon. A fine shall be levied upon all nonvoting members.'

DISNEY SITUATION

The situation at the Disney Studio was aggravated yesterday when the company discharged Art Babbitt, chairman of the SCG negotiating committee and the highest salaried animator in the industry. Gunther Lessing, Disney attorney, was reported to have stated that Babbitt was let out because of his union activities on company time. This was denied by SCG officials, who stated that Babbitt had even gone so far as to post a notice on his office stating 'Do not disturb, if you want information attend tonight's meeting.' Members of the Disney unit were peeved over the discharge of Babbitt, who was the first president of the recently scuttled Federation of Screen Cartoonists and who was one of the most popular Disney employes. He was under contract and had been with the studio for nine years.

The Guild said it learned that Lessing for some time had been collecting affidavits from Federation leaders pertaining to Babbitt's activities and that Lessing had questioned employes about their union affiliation. They indicated these actions would be called to the attention of the National Relations Board, which recently accepted a consent decree ordering the Federation disbanded, following SCG charges that it was a company dominated union.

SHRADER REMARKS

Lyle Shrader, International representative of the Brotherhood of Painters, stated that Disney products were being placed on the AFofL unfair list by the San Fernando Valley Central Labor Council. He said notification to this effect would be sent to all unions throughout the United States and Canada.

Pledges of support from other AFofL crafts were received yesterday afternoon at a meeting of union business representatives arranged by Aubrey Blair, AFofL organizer in Hollywood. Final plans for the walkout today and establishment of picket lines at 6 a.m. were made at this meeting, as well as a gathering of Disney members of the SCG attended by more than 350. Joseph Clarke, International vice president of the Brotherhood of Painters, arrives today from Tacoma to assist in the SCG strike.

STRIKE DIRECTORS

The strike strategy will be directed by Joseph Clarke, Lyle Shrader, George E. Bodle, Aubrey Blair, William Littlejohn, SCG prexy; Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644, and the Disney Guild leaders, headed by Art Babbitt. Committees are being set up to handle the pickets, publicity, office, etc.

The walkout was ordered when Disney refused to recognize the SCG as collective bargaining reprepresentative for his employes.

PREVIEW OFF

The preview of 'The Reluctant Dragon', scheduled for 4 p.m. today, as well as the buffet supper planned for correspondents at 5:30 o'clock, was called off by Disney yesterday afternoon. Telegrams were sent to the writers stating the preview, which was to have shown the first combination of live action and animation, had been postponed until further notice. Shortly before the announcement, labor leaders stated the situation had been called to the attention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and that the American Newspaper Guild would request its members not to cross the SCG picket lines.

Walt Disney called a meeting of all studio employes at noon yesterday, and made the following statement:

'Threats and rumors of a strike are again in circulation within the studio. I believe it only fair to tell our employes that in the event of a strike the studio will remain open. Continued employment and security of employes in their employment demands that production continue. Full and adequate protection will be given all employes desiring to continue to work.

'We have received assurances from authorities that such protection will be afforded and the studio will supplement the efforts of the authorities in this respect so that order will be maintained.

'BLACKLIST, FINES'

'I further pledge our employes that we will under no circumstances, make or agree to any settlement or other arrangement with any union which would, in any way, bar any of our employes from working in this studio or any other place of employment. No blacklist, fines, or other threatened measures could possibly be made effective except through the agreement on the part of our company in the event of a strike, and such conditions will never be agreed to by our company or by me.

'I desire that it be made plain to all my employes that they are free to join any union which they may select or prefer. We always have been ready, are now ready, and always will be ready to bargain collectively with any appropriate bargaining unit designated by a majority of the employes by secret ballot in an election held for that purpose.'

In an earlier statement, when the SCG was demanding disbanding of the Federation of Screen Cartoonists as a company union, Disney had announced his studio would be closed if a strike was called and there was any violence. Later the company agreed to a consent decree at a National Labor Relations Board hearing which ordered the company to disestablish any relations with the Federation, and to cease and desist interfering with the affiliation of its employes with any labor organization. Officers of the Federation scuttled the organization and promptly formed the American Society of Screen Cartoonists, which the Guild promptly branded as the same old group, with a new suit and a new name.

John Humphrey and Ardell Wray, who have been assistants to Collier Young, head of the RKO story department, have been promoted to writing jobs as scenarists. William Nutt and Paul Perez, readers, have been upped to take their places.

Young made the promotions after conferences with George Schaefer. Schaefer has instituted a policy of promoting RKO people from their ranks and of filling all jobs, wherever possible, with RKO personnel.

His naming of Charles Koerner, former West Coast district manager, to the post of general manager in charge of RKO theatres to succeed John O'Connor, who resigned, was part of that policy. Max Fellerman, assistant to Fred Meyers, stepped into the job of chief film buyer when Meyers resigned. Reginald Armour, former European manager for RKO, was recently made assistant to the president by Schaefer.

William Koenig, Evelyn Edwards, Lillian Bergquist, Deborah Forbes, Hal Levy, John Weber and George Cecala, all of the RKO reading department, are being groomed by Young for scenarists jobs.

New York, May 27.—Opinion of American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers regarding ultimate effect of U. S. Supreme court decision in the Florida and Nebraska cases is in sharp conflict with lawyers close to the music publishing business. Members regard the ruling as merely a barrier to the Society's doing business in those states and not as a sign that Ascap must reorganize its business structure.

Attorneys, however, believe that other states will quickly follow with similar legislation and that the Society should immediately prepare for a readjustment.

Hollywood Inside

COSTS on Metro's 'The Yearling' have mounted to $925,000, with little or none of the footage already obtained able to be used by the studio. Situation which led to replacing Victor Fleming by King Vidor as director, almost led to Spencer Tracy leaving the cast. Tracy is reported to be dissatisfied with the story. Difficulty also centers around Gene Eckman, who plays the role of the poetic young boy on a lonely farm growing up with a fawn. Eckman is reported to be skittish in the presence of the deer, with the result that his fright has spoiled a large number of scenes. Bad weather and Tracy's dislike of the role, as well as some difficulties in obtaining the technical crew are other factors in the delay. Picture has a budget of $2,000,000. Vidor, who has left for the location of 'The Yearling' company at Ocala, Fla., has three weeks more to shoot.

OPINION generally held among exhibitors and exchange men is that there will be no great rush among independent theatre owners to file charges with the American Arbitration Association in the Los Angeles district in the near future. It is considered unlikely that more than 10 or 12 complaints, if that many, will emerge within the next few months pending further clarification of operations under the consent decree. Much will depend, however, on the outcome of the three cases currently on the AAA docket, the first brought by O. W. Lewis, operator of the Mission Playhouse, San Gabriel, which is now being adjudicated. Meanwhile the trade is reported favorably impressed with Herbert Cameron, attorney for the State Railway Commission, who is arbitrating the Lewis clearance complaint.

A NEW RACKET is being worked in Hollywood by the 'We Boys' to try and gimick motion picture personalities. 'We Boys' are using the name of picture stars when telephoning for advertising and donations to phony programs and other confidence schemes. A recent case of their new technique occurred when several filmites received calls at homes from their telephone message services that a 'Bart Marshall' had requested they call him at a given number. In most instances parties contacted thought that it was Herbert Marshall, probably seeking a donation for Bundles For Britain or other recognized war relief agencies, but when they telephoned they found out that it was just another phony gimick being used to collect money and not Actor Marshall at all.

Film Previews

Angels With Broken Wings

(Comedy Drama)

Republic production for Republic release. Cast: Binnie Barnes, Gilbert Roland, Mary Lee, Billy Gilbert, Jane Frazee, Edward Norris, Katharine Alexander, Leo Gorcey, Lois Ranson, Leni Lynn, Marilyn Hare, Sidney Blackmer, Tom Kennedy. Director, Bernard Vorhaus. Associate producer, Albert J. Cohen. Screenplay, George Carleton Brown, Bradford Ropes. Photography, Ernest Miller. Film editor, Edward Mann. Art director, John Victor Mackay. Musical director, Cy Feuer. Songs by Jule Styne, Eddie Cherkose. Previewed at Studio City theatre, May 28. Running time: 72 mins.

Republic's 'Angels With Broken Wings' is not up to that studio's usual standard and will take a lot of powerful selling to put over in the market for which it is intended.

Story is weak, mixed up and dull. Dialogue is juvenile. Acting, wherever the yarn doesn't hobble the players completely, is far from sparkling, save in one or two instances. Direction by Bernard Vorhaus is as good as direction can be in such circumstances.

Gilbert Roland nearly steals the picture in a role that has scant footage, but a role to which he brings a deal of fresh suavity and amusing Latin mannerisms. Mary Lee puts over a song with the same charm she has shown in the Gene Autry pictures. Binnie Barnes, as a conniving ex-wife trying to take advantage of a rich husband through an outlawed Mexican divorce, is as good as the screenplay will permit her to be. Indeed, the same comment must be made about the other players, save Leo Gorcey, who supplies a few good chuckles as a would-be hard guy.

Picture is used to introduce, all in one film, the combined talents of Mary Lee, Jane Frazee, Lois Ranson, Leni Lynn and Marilyn Hare. Miss Hare makes her screen debut, carrying off her tiny role as well as could be done. Miss Frazee, a looker, an excellent dancer and a good singer, is never allowed to do more than look pretty. Miss Ranson, who can also dance and sing, is given little to do. Miss Lynn sings one song more than capably. Billy Gilbert is occasionally funny in his role.

Story, which is the chief drawback, revolves about the dilemma of Sidney Blackmer and Katharine Alexander, who want to get married but can't because Blackmer thinks his Mexican divorce from Miss Barnes is illegal. Her daughters, the Misses Frazee, Lynn and Hare, devise a plot to outwit Miss Barnes, using Miss Frazee's beau, Edward Norris, as a lure. Norris poses as a rich South American, choosing a name from a cigar band. Name turns out to be that of Roland, who comes to New York to investigate, falls for Miss Barnes, then, in a fairly amusing finale (when he knows she is after his dough) pretends to be a fugitive from a mental institution. Marriage of Blackmer and Miss Alexander is made possible at the fade.

Knockout

Warners production. Features Arthur Kennedy, Olympe Bradna, Virginia Field, Anthony Quinn, Cliff Edwards, Cornel Wilde. Supporting cast: Richard Ainley, William Edmunds, Frank Wilcox, John Ridgely, Ben Welden, Vera Lewis, Charles Wilson, Edwin Stanley. Director, William Clemens. Associate producer, Edmund Grainger. Screen play, M. Coates Webster. From a story by Michael Fessier. Dialog director, Gene Lewis. Art director, Stanley Fleischer. Photography, Ted McCord. Film editor, Doug Gould. Sound, Dolph Thomas. Gowns, Damon Giffard. Assistant director, Elmer Decker. Previewed May 28. Running time: 72 mins.

'Knockout' won't cause much of a stir at the boxoffice but capably serves the dual purpose of being a neat little program offering and a good showcase for the developing talents of Arthur Kennedy, its male lead. Its plot is familiar, right down to the oldest of prize fight stories, but is interestingly told to sustain a fairly average level of interest. All departments have functioned in workmanlike style to bring this to the screen with economy but without slighting any of the necessary details.

Kennedy is seen as a young fighter, fistically talented but dropped from the ring for the sake of marriage to Olympe Bradna. His married life gets off to a bad start when his manager, Anthony Quinn, has him fired and black-balled from all work to force the fighter back in the ranks of leather pushers through economic necessity. The young pug's comeback rise is rapid until a femme menace in the person of Virginia Field, wealthy society miss playing sports scribe on her father's newspaper makes a play, breaking up his home and giving him social ideas. When he tries break off with Quinn latter frames him with a drugged mouthpiece and Kennedy is tossed out of organized boxing for apparently throwing a fight. From there on story hits the usual formula down-grade style, with our pug ending up in the hospital a whiskey-soaked wreck with a brain concussion. His wife comes back into his life, he pulls himself together and all ends on a satisfactory note.

In addition to Kennedy, who impresses with his performance, Anthony Quinn stands out, again proving his capacity to do justice to most any type role. Olympe Bradna is pleasing as the meek wife and Miss Field very alluring as the gilded siren. Cliff Edwards shows excellently as the comic second for Kennedy, while Cornel Wilde and William Edmunds, particularly the latter, do justice to their briefer assignments.

William Clemens' direction doesn't waste footage with unnecessary movement, hewing closely to the compact script written by M. Coates Webster from the story by Michael Fessier. Edmund Grainger gives the production full value for the budget allotment and Ted McCord's photography is good.

LA Civic Opera Nets On Four Weeks Nears $200,000

Getting away last week to a corking good start with 'Rio Rita', at the Philharmonic Auditorium here, Los Angeles Civic Opera Association stands to gross in excess of $200,000 on its four weeks' each in Los Angeles and San Francisco. 'Naughty Marietta', current in LA, opened at the Curran in Frisco, and all musicals will play a week in each town. Take from the Frisco run will run around $90,000 it is estimated, with about $120,000 garnered here. Two more operettas remain to be played here, 'The Chocolate Soldier', featuring John Charles Thomas, next week, and then Ethel Waters in 'Cabin in the Sky', imported direct from the east.

In previous seasons Civic Opera has dipped considerably in the 'red' despite better than average grosses, but this year, according to Edwin Lester, general manager, season will likely show a profit.

Homer Curran and Louis Lurie of San Francisco are each said to have guaranteed $5,000 to insure the attraction against loss, but from present indications neither will be called upon to put up any coin.

Marcia Ralston, Condos Set for Rep 'Rose'

Frisco IBEW Strike At Station KYA Settled

San Francisco, May 28.—The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers strike at KYA has been settled. The station resumed broadcasting at 4 p.m. today, after being silent since 10:30 a.m. Tuesday. I. B. Kornblum, who negotiated the settlement despite an illness which bedded him under a doctors care at the Hotel St. Francis, insisted on the announcer-producers resuming work before signing a contract, contending it was not an American Federation of Radio Artists strike.

The station was on the air before Kornblum permitted signing of the pact, giving the boys $42.50 per week the first year, $45 the second year.

The IBEW called the strike after taking the KYA announcers into a special unit assertedly because AFRA got no action and partly because AFRA blanket contracts at KSAN and KJBS took in IBEW combo men. The IBEW made no attempt to hold the jurisdiction over KYA announcers after Kornblum stepped in, both unions cooperating to sign. As a result of this dispute, however, combo men may have to belong to both unions.

Col Management Takeover By Music Corp. Seen Shortly

Takeover of Columbia Management of California, subsidiary of Columbia Artists, by Music Corp. will probably be completed next week, it was said yesterday by principals in the deal. Consummation awaits action in New York by CBS board of directors on sale of Columbia Artists Bureau to MCA.

Attorneys for both outfits are studying the legal technicalities involved in the transfer of client contracts. Understood that in broad interpretation of the contractual commitments the sale can be made without consulting each individual client now being handled by Columbia Management. Provisions of Artists Managers Guild contract, which would be applicable in the CBS-MCA deal, is said to allow for the transfer of talent without individual consent by giving said talent the right to sever the new alliance after six months trial period if the arrangement proves unsatisfactory.

Affected by the abandonment of its artists bureau by CBS will be 85 clients, working in pictures and radio, and the bureau personnel of 10 persons headed by Manager William Forbes.

DISNEY STRIKE HITS THEATRES; SQUADS OUT

stitutes for the Disney pictures. The union agreed.

Both the company and the Screen Cartoonists Guild expressed satisfaction with the first days developments. Disney spokesman claimed that only 309 out of 1,214 employed had failed to report for work, and insisted that production was proceeding as usual. The Screen Cartoonists Guild said that 450 out of a possible 600 workers in the unit claimed by the Guild were on strike, and said that many others would join the picket lines today. Yesterday was payday at Disney, and the union claimed many workers went in to get their checks. Strikers later were paid off at the gate.

Carpenters, machinists, teamsters and culinary workers refused to cross the picket lines yesterday. Some cameramen, soundmen, and film editors also were out. It was announced last night that all cameramen, soundmen, electricians and other crafts would not cross the picket lines today. A move also was being made to keep the film editors out. The latter have called a meeting for June 3 to take a strike vote themselves. A telephone company truck turned back at the gate when advised a strike was in progress.

A meeting of Disney employes who crossed the picket lines was held last night at the Abraham Lincoln School near the plant. It was reported that each worker present was given the names of three strikers and were told to contact them last night and try to persuade them to return to work. It was reported they were told to make specific inducements to each individual worker, offering to reinstate bonuses, etc.

'LAST DITCH' MOVE

Union officials insisted that this 'last ditch' move indicated that the strike was effective and that production was being seriously hampered by the walkout.

A 24-hour picket line is being maintained at all entrances to the Disney Studio. The picket line is enlarged to several hundred each time a new shift reports or one is dismissed. Femme pickets marched with the men.

The company filed a petition with the NLRB requesting an immediate election of employes to designate a collective bargaining representative.

The Screen Cartoonists Guild also filed a new unfair labor practice complaint against the company, claiming that the American Society of Screen Cartoonists is a successor to the Federation of Screen Cartoonists, which was ordered disbanded as the result of a consent decree. The union insists that formation of the Society was announced at the same meeting when employes were told the Federation was being abolished. They also stated that officers of the new organization were also officers in the Federation.

Replying to charges of the company that the union was trying to coerce workers into striking, Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644, and one of the strike leaders, said:

'The only interference and coercion has been practiced by the company in the discharge of six Guild leaders and the setting up of two company unions. But they are going to find out that this has only cemented the determination of the workers to form a union of their own choosing and one that can not be dominated by the company. The Guild offered to accept a cross check of its membership with the Disney payroll to designate a bargaining agent, but the company turned this down, so why should the union now agree to an election. The workers tried in every way to reach an amicable agreement, but Gunther Lessing blocked their every move to make a satisfactory deal with the company.'

DISNEY STATEMENT

Roy Disney returned from New York yesterday, and quickly went into conference with Walt Disney and other company executives on the strike situation. The company, in urging an election of employes, issued the following statement:

'Rumors circulated that the Disney company is seeking to include in the proposed studio election by secret ballot to determine the official studio bargaining agent, workers beyond the jurisdiction of the Screen Cartoonists Guild's claims, were denied today by company spokesmen. The company expressed itself as willing and insistent that an election by secret ballot be held by workers falling directly within the classifications now claimed by the Guild. Although the Guild originally designated that no supervisory or miscellaneous studio classifications were to come under membership jurisdiction, it is now claiming seven supervisory classifications, as well as departments, including comic strip, the messenger department and training school employes. This was borne out yesterday by the presence of members of these groups in the SCG picket line. Even though the Guild's demands are in excess of those originally outlined by the Labor Board's decision in the Disney matter, in July 1939, the Disney company expressed itself late yesterday as still willing to call an election among the crafts and classifications of employes claimed by the Guild.'

MEMORIAL DAY

Disney executives announced that the studio will be closed at 5:30 p.m. today until Monday morning in observance of Memorial Day.

Union representatives said that Disney executives had refused to even talk with the Guild, much less agree to an election, until it was disclosed that the workers were preparing to strike. They said the members had been tricked so often, with formation of company union, etc., that a majority of them did not care to risk taking any more chances on promises. They said that the strike would be carried to a successful conclusion, and that when it was over there would be a 100% AFofL union closed shop.

The pickets cheered yesterday when a sound truck of Machinists Local No. 311 announced that Mr. Schlesinger is here. Leon Schlesinger, who recently signed a three-year contract with the Screen Cartoonists Guild, drove by the picket line and stopped to chat with Herbert Sorrell and Lyle Shrader, who was instrumental in negotiating the Schlesinger deal.

Murray Silverstone Cancels UA Pact

large chunk of his own coin, besides that of Miss Pickford and additional monies needed to finance two or three pictures a year will be provided by New York and Los Angeles banking interests. Silverstone heads for New York tomorrow, as does Miss Pickford, and following their arrival the corporate setup of the new enterprise will be established.

Silverstone for some time has been figuring on going into production and recently requested his release from the member owners of the company, Miss Pickford, Charles Chaplin, Alexander Korda, and Bank of America representing the Douglas Fairbanks estate. Final accord was reached at meeting held in Loyd Wright's office Tuesday night, with Silverstone agreeing to remain in his current position until a successor is named. Also agreement was made that certain monies which accrue to him under terms of his contract be paid Silverstone, with the amount to be determined through calculations.

Silverstone plans on having working capital of around $2,000,000 for the production of his pictures, all to be made here with possibility that besides the initial producer two others will align themselves with the company shortly. Miss Pickford will not be active on the production end. Silverstone will maintain his quarters in New York but spend about half of his time here.

UA SESSION TODAY

The member owners of UA will hold a meeting today and discuss possibility of a successor to Silverstone or the naming of a temporary head in New York until one is chosen. Not known whether the company will go outside of its ranks or possibly give the post to Arthur Kelly, general sales head, now here and who took over his post newly created for him four months ago.

Silverstone spent 19 of his 22 years with the company in the foreign field, being in charge of the European continent for 15 years. He was brought to America almost three years ago to head the organization, succeeding Dr. A. H. Giannini, who was president.

The Critics Speak

Lively screwball fun served in a manner that catches audience attention immediately. You'll want to see "She Knew All The Answers" again as it's that funny.

HARRY MINES, Daily News

"She Knew All The Answers" is gay film. . . . An amusing picture that gave many laughs.

DOROTHY MANNERS, L. A. Examiner

A comedy of extraordinary brightness and high entertainment value, "She Knew All The Answers" should find wide welcome where sheer amusement is wanted. It is the best potential box office entry Charles R. Rogers has turned out in years. . . . A fine piece of screen craftsmanship.

DAILY VARIETY

Charles R. Rogers has given Columbia a picture that is definitely an audience natural.

BOX OFFICE DIGEST

Rogers' first for Columbia good fun. A neat business comedy. The show chalked up enough laughs to assure profitable business in its playdates.

HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

Producer Chas. R. Rogers proves herewith that a comedy about a chorus girl and Wall Street can be smart, sophisticated, funny and clean at one and the same time. It's quite a feat and quite a picture, a substantial money's worth for any theatre's customers.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Not the least of the many accolades which are the just due of this unusually bright and thoroughly enjoyable comedy is awardable for its cleanliness. The film does a sharp about-face from the trend toward suggestiveness which has asserted itself in many recent high-cost and so-called sophisticated offerings. Picture is Producer Charles R. Rogers' first for Columbia and probably the best he has ever made.

BOX OFFICE

Charles R. Rogers rates raves for an entertaining piece of screen fare, one that should garner its share of healthy box-office receipts.

Committee of Unions, Guilds Formulated

general labor relations with the Producers joint action by the committee of unions and guilds for effective culmination of negotiations was agreed upon last night.

'With representatives of additional unions and guilds in attendance, 10 points of common contract interests were drawn up for each craft to discuss with its own membership. A motion was made and passed that the experiences and negotiations of each union and guild would be made available to all.

'A main point of discussion was the report of the radio committee on the coast-to-coast broadcast for the airing of common union and guild problems, which included the amount of money to be expended and the type of program to be presented in order to express the point of view of the union and guilds of Hollywood.

'The committee found that bargaining negotiations with the Producers have become steadily more difficult and unsatisfactory during the past year. It was decided that this situation will grow worse unless effective joint action can be devised by the guilds and unions interested as various contracts come up for renegotiation.

'It was unanimously agreed that the successful planning of such joint action for the improvement of bargaining activity was the most important task confronting the crafts of the motion picture industry at this time.'

who surrendered in Chicago on an extortion charge and was released in $2,000 bail. The general manager of one major studio is reported to have contacted Willie Bioff, personal representative of Browne, and now at liberty under $30,000 bond on charges of extortion and income tax evasion, to ask his opinion on the advisability of talking wages and conditions with the local unions.

It is understood that the Producers finally started paging Pat Casey, who has been in New York several weeks awaiting a decision by the Wage-Hour Division on disputed classifications in the film industry. It was reported that request had been made that Casey leave for the Coast at once to handle the situation, but from New York it was said that Casey, a recent witness before the U. S. Grand Jury, would not be able to leave before the first of next week.

The executives were reported to be considerably perturbed by the letter from the Studio Locals stating they intended to handle their negotiations without any aid from the International. They asked for an early meeting with the Producer labor relations committee headed by Y. Frank Freeman, prexy of the Producers Association. It is understood that Freeman in replying to the request will ask that the initial meeting be deferred until Casey reaches the Coast.

While the Producers were trying to decide what policy to adopt, a committee of four members from each studio local, including the business representatives, were in session to map out a program. It is said they plan to cement the groups together with adoption of a Constitution By-Laws, and that a committee to draft them as well as a ways and means committee have already been appointed.

The International Photographers cians 683, which were not repre- Local 659, and Laboratory Technisented at the last meeting had committees present yesterday. Certain representatives voiced opposition to any affiliation with outside crafts but this was passed over as it was agreed that all the locals would stand pat as a unit and make their deals here, rather than have the International set them in the east.

Another meeting of the committees from the various locals has been called for June 2 at which time the group organization will be completed.

REPORT BEING SENT HERE; FEW CHANGES

The Wage-Hour decision on disputed film classifications has been approved, Washington reports stated last night, and is being sent here for release this week, probably today or tomorrow. It is understood that only a few technical changes are being made in the original recommendations of Eldred M. Cocking, Wage-Hour analyst who made the film industry survey.

UNIVERSAL has completed and shipped 210 complete naval band orchestrations on 'We're in the Navy', Gene DePaul-Don Raye tune, to the naval band headquarters in Washington. Orchestrations will be distributed to every ship and base having their own bands by naval headquarters which has approved number as one of the U. S. Navy's official songs. Official stamp of approval was given martial air by Lieut.-Comm. Charles Benter in charge of all naval bands, and the San Diego Naval Base, where background footage for 'Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, Dick Powell in the Navy' was filmed, has made tune the Base's official song. Universal saved considerable in making up the orchestrations, covering around 36 band instruments, by photographically printing the special arrangement instead of making engraving plates for the various instrument parts. One of the cleffers of the song, Don Raye, is the son of Lieut-Comm. Donald McRae Wilhoit, formerly retired but now in active service.

Film Review

Singapore Woman

(Drama)

Warner Bros. release of Harlan Thompson production. Features Brenda Marshall, David Bruce, Virginia Field, Jerome Cowan, Rose Hobart. Supporting cast: Connie Leon, Abner Biberman, Richard Ainley, Gilbert Emory, Stanley Logan, Heather Angel, Dorothy Tree, Bruce Lester, Douglas Walton, Bruce Lester, Eva Puig, Charles Irwin. Directed by Jean Negulesco. Screenplay, M. Coates Webster and Allen Rivkin, from a story by Laird Doyle. Dialogue director, Hugh MacMullin. Photography, Ted McCord. Editor, Everett Dodd. Reviewed at Warners Hollywood, May 29. Running time: 65 mins.

Harlan Thompson has turned out a better than the run-of-the-mill B pictures in 'Singapore Woman', and at the same time affords Brenda Marshall and David Bruce, comparative newcomers to the screen, full opportunity to demonstrate what they can do in the way of acting. And both come through with flying colors. Had the Warners so willed, 'Woman' might easily have been made into an A rating film, and in many spots it probably will be given top position.

Aside from a few lapses, the Thompson production emerges most satisfactorily, and these lapses are not enough to in any way deprecate the picture's value. Of the featured players Jerome Cowan probably has the fattest role next to Miss Marshall and Bruce.

Locale is laid in China, with rubber plantations, Singapore dives and tin mines as the principal backgrounds. Bruce, the owner of a plantation, starts out to rehabilitate Miss Marshall, whose father has made it possible for his (Bruce's) success. The Marshall girl, through a series of circumstances, has become an underworld sot, presumably possessed with a jinx which entangles all who come in contact with her. Bruce, who is betrothed to Virginia Field, falls desperately in love with Miss Marshall, who reciprocates his feelings only to be confronted on the eve of their marriage by a former husband who has been presumed lost at sea. The death of the husband in a motor car accident removes the final difficulties and paves the way for happiness.

Bruce is reminiscent of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in his early days of the screen, even to the hairline mustache, but he can troupe, and Warners likely will find plenty of stellar parts for him. Miss Marshall fills her role capably, with her transition from the depths to perfect contentment ably worked out by Director Negulesco, who has done a most expert job of directing. Cowan handles his part of the equipment man and friend of Bruce excellently and fine performances are turned in by Miss Field and Miss Hobart. Richard Ainley has a small part of the long-lost husband and Charles Irwin does a bit as a newspaper reporter, handled with his usual finesse.

The screenplay, concocted by M. Coates Webster and Allen Rivkin from the Laird Doyle story, is virtually flawless, and camera work of Ted McCord is an eyefull.

BRAZILIAN LAUDS U. S. FILMS AT RKO BANQUET

RKO studio officials Friday hosted Dr. Pedro Calmon, director of the national faculty of law of the University of Brazil and a member of that country's committee (similar to the Whitney group here) to build better relations between the Americas.

J. R. McDonough presided at the luncheon in the RKO commissary due to the absence of George Schaefer. Joseph and Mrs. Breen also were in attendance. Speakers included Most Rev. John J. Cantwell, Dr. Calmon and Rene G. La Vaux, Belgian motion picture producer. La Vaux translated Dr. Calmon's remarks, which were in Spanish.

Dr. Calmon praised the fine artistry of American pictures, describing them as the best the world has ever offered, and emphasized the responsibility thus incumbent upon Hollywood. He said that responsibility was to the fact that America 'holds a monopoly' on films of high quality and should use pictures as an educational medium to create better understanding between the United States and his country.

Archbishop Cantwell, who also spoke briefly, said that 'the motion picture industry is the greatest source of education today'. He praised the Good Neighbor policy and the efforts of the industry to help further good relations between Latin America and the United States.

Esther Fernandez, Mexican star under contract to Paramount; Carmen Miranda, Lupe Velez, Gloria Lynch, Chilean actress; Michele Morgan, Signe Hasso, Alberta Vila, Argentine star; Anne Shirley, Gloria Swanson, Adolphe Menjou, Ben Piazza, Perry Lieber and Kenneth Thomson, representing the Whitney committee, also were present. Other guests included a score of civic officials.

Toasts were drunk in coffee, the Brazilian national beverage.

dered them as a gratuity to enter the ranks of the company with the other producer owners, Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Alexander Korda and the Douglas Fairbanks estate. Selznick, although having two pictures to deliver under his current contract with the company, has had a number of conferences with Mary Pickford on continuing as a partner in its ranks, and Capra is said to be leaning toward the setup into which he nearly entered prior to the time Sam Goldwyn left the company. It is understood that the UA outfit, in addition to giving stock to the two producers, would also participate in the financing and underwriting of production costs of their pictures. Mary Pickford left for New York last night and it was understood that before her departure she had hopes of the two deals going through immediately.

Purpose of her trip is said to be to confer with James Mulvey, Sam Goldwyn New York representative, to join the UA outfit, replacing permanently Murray Silverstone, worldwide head. Arthur Kelly, vice-president in charge of sales, is temporarily taking over the Silverstone chores in addition to his own. Kelly, it is said, wants to keep in the sales post; that he wants to perform the job thoroughly without having to confer with producers and doing administrative work.

Mulvey was tendered the Silverstone post about a month ago, and is said to have turned it down at that time, but it is figured Miss Pickford may be able to influence him to change his mind. Sam Goldwyn was in New York last week, and it is said that one of the reasons for his trip might have been to dissuade Mulvey from leaving him.

Kelly, who has been with the company for 24 years, starting in as treasurer succeeding Maurice Cleary, is remaining here for another 10 days to get production lineup to present to his regional sales convention first starting in New York middle of this month.

Silverstone, who was relieved of his duty with appointment of Kelly at stockholders' meeting on Thursday, left for New York Friday to arrange for corporate setup of his proposed production unit that will release through UA.

In addition to time sales, the broadcasting industry realized $13,181,948 from talent sale and other services during 1940, an increase of $1,871,696 over 1939.

John Nathan Urges S.A. Mart Buildup

New York, June 1.—Revelation by John Nathan, Paramount's manager in Argentina, here for home confabs, and other company's foreign reps, that every Latin-American country has some restrictions against film imports and removal of rental money, together with an exaggerated sensitiveness of the people in that market territory, posed the problem of promoting good will at the regular semi-monthly meeting at the Hays office, with Jock Whitney's committee representative in attendance. Just plain, good American pictures, with no reference to pan-Americanism in story or locale, was suggested as an answer.

Brower Quits Soundies

N. H. (Jack) Brower has resigned as general manager of Soundies, Inc. Decision of the Roosevelt-Mills firm to move its headquarters from here to Chicago prompted the Bower action. Long identified with coast distribution he could not see the proposed transfer to the middle west.

Whitney Asks DeMille To Hurry Pic On Mexican Police

'Rurales', story of the Mexican police organization, is being pushed on the Cecil B. De Mille schedule at Paramount following a communication from John Hay Whitney, co-ordinator of commercial and cultural relations in the motion picture section of the Council of National Defense. Whitney's letter, sent to Y. Frank Freeman, in charge of operations at Paramount, stressed the fact that Hollywood needed to show its friendship for Mexico by actual evidence.

His letter, in part, stated: 'We have concluded that the truest and most obvious way in which we can demonstrate our good faith would be by the production in Hollywood of an important feature picture laid in whole or in part in Mexico.' Whitney further stated that 'if there is a possibility that Cecil B. De Mille could produce this subject (Rurales), your studio would be making an important contribution to the cause of good will in the Americas.'

Production push on 'Rurales' means that Paramount will turn the production of 'For Whom the Bell Tolls' over to another producer and director. Although studio had never officially announced De Mille to handle the Ernest Hemingway novel, it was generally anticipated he would have the assignment, even though 'Rurales' has been on his schedule to follow 'Reap the Wild Wind' for some time. Latter picture, in Technicolor, goes before the cameras today with Paulette Goddard, Ray Milland, John Wayne, Raymond Massey, Robert Preston, Lynne Overman, Susan Hayward, Martha O'Driscoll, Walter Hampden, Spring Byington, Louise Beavers, Elisabeth Risdon, Janet Beecher and Victor Kilian heading the cast.

Theodore St. John and Jeanie Macpherson have been set by De Mille to start a screen treatment on 'Rurales'.

Studio Unions Demand RKO Withhold Disney Pictures

heads, and added that the Brotherhood of Painters has already launched a nationwide campaign to 'drive "Fantasia" from the screen'.

In the meantime, a 24-hour picket line is being maintained at the Disney plant. Officials of the Screen Cartoonists Guild stated that production was at a standstill, while the company insisted there had been an increase in production film footage during the first week of the walkout. An offer by the National Labor Relations Board to dissolve the recently formed American Society of Screen Cartoonists Guild and to call an election of Disney employes within 30 days to designate a bargaining representative was rejected by the SCG. Union leaders said company executives had made no effort to talk an agreement until the strike was ordered and it became apparent that production would be tied up.

AFofL leaders said the Disney strike situation has now become general, since the company is the only one in Hollywood that is not employing union labor. They said this would be pointed out to RKO executives, who would be told that with all the companies releasing union-made products there was no necessity for RKO handling non-union Disney films.

Strike leaders reported last night that all studio unions have issued instructions for their men not to cross the picket lines today. They said these included soundmen, cameramen, teamsters, carpenters, electricians and film editors. The Society of Motion Picture Film Editors meets tomorrow night to take a strike vote at Disney, but in the meantime have been asked to keep their members on the outside. It was intimated that if the editors crossed the picket lines, the AFofL would claim jurisdiction over the cutters in the Disney plant. Many of them, however, have not reported for work since the strike was called, and a majority stated they would not cross the picket lines today.

Plans for Local 683 to lock the processing of Disney film were laid at a conference between Herbert Sorrell, business representative of the Motion Picture Painters, 644; Joseph Touhy, head of the Teamsters; Dave G. Lory, business representative of the Laboratory Technicians Local 683, and Norville Crutcher, member of the Local 683 executive board.

LORY MAKES STATEMENT

Lory's letter to laboratories follows:

'Pursuant to our conversation this date, I am advised that the Screen Cartoonists Union, local 852, will picket Technicolor Motion Picture Laboratory if film belonging to Walt Disney Productions is allowed to be processed. In view of this circumstance and the fact that this local presently has members on strike at Walt Disney Studio, I must advise you that our members will be forbidden to handle any film belonging to Walt Disney Productions.

'Your plea that the film currently in process will be lost is well taken, and I am agreeable to give Technicolor until 6 p.m., Tuesday, June 3, for film now being processed, with the understanding that no new film will be started in process. Mature consideration has been given to your plea that orders contracted for prior to this date be fulfilled, and that the union's action be directed against only such film as is received subsequent to this date. I must advise you that this request must be rejected as incompatible with the best interests of our membership.

'In event any attempt is made by Technicolor to force our members to perform work on film belonging to Disney Studios, I will have no alternative but to invoke strike action against Technicolor. In view of the importance of the action herein involved I urgently request an immediate reply.'

COMPANY ANNOUNCEMENT

Company officials, in announcing there had been no interruption of production, issued a statement which said in part:

'A substantial increase in production film footage was announced today by the Walt Disney Studios when they released the following figures in answer to claims by the Screen Cartoonists Guild that last Wednesday's walkout of Disney Guild members and sympathizers is seriously crippling production.' Figures were then cited to show that production on 'Dumbo of the Circus' averaged more feet frames than during Oct., 1940, to May, 1941. The statement then continued:

'Studio personnel inside the gates attribute the jump in efficiency to the present lack of agitation prevalent during the past few months, and to the absence of studio "deadwood", doubtful talent, and "green" hands.

'In addition, a surprise move within the studio has taken the form of a general reaction on the part of the key creative personnel, who have presented a statement to Disney insisting that the studio head take advantage of the current situation to approve their earlier suggestions for a complete personnel reorganization, in line with the exigencies presented by the diminished world market. A majority of those carrying the creative burden of the studio have long felt that the organization is bogged down with "deadwood" which Disney, for reasons that the industry could not absorb them, has been reluctant to weed out for several years.

'Members of the group, which includes directors, story men, animators, layout and background artists, point out that a reorganization setup would effect not only a more stable organization but greater economies, rather than a loss of money, as has been predicted by Herb Sorrell, business manager of the Motion Picture Painters, with which the Screen Cartoonists Guild is affiliated.'

AWAIT NLRB WORD

The company said it was awaiting word from the NLRB on its petition for an election. The Guild, however, rejected this move, although the NLRB offered to order the reinstatement of all strikers and workers discharged by the company. Guild officials said they had once even offered to accept a cross-check of their membership with the Disney payroll, but that the company refused. They said no offer was acceptable to Disney executives until Gunther Lessing had 'maneuvered the company behind the eight ball' and a general strike had been ordered. Prior to that they said company officials had even refused to talk with the union.

Notice to laboratories to stop processing Disney films was served by Local 683 after Herbert Sorrell, Aubrey Blair, AFofL organizer; Attorney George E. Bodle and Joseph Touhy, head of the Teamsters, had visited the laboratories and Sorrell had advised officials that a picket line was planned in front of their plants.

Certain Disney employes who refused to strike called the Labor Department in Washington and requested the services of a labor conciliator. It is understood, however, the Department took the position there was nothing to conciliate since Disney refused to recognize the union.

The Screen Writers Guild has pledged its support to the Screen Cartoonists Guild in its fight for recognition at the Walt Disney studio. The following wire was sent to the SCG last night by the SWG executive board:

'The Screen Writers extend fullest sympathy and moral support in the Cartoonists' courageous fight for better working conditions.'

reported that no material changes will be made in the classification of cameramen, sound technicians, cartoon animators, etc.

The decision, as was stated in Daily Variety several weeks ago, will not make any provisions for an immediate inspection of the industry with reference to past violations. This means that the question of back pay will not be touched on, and that any individuals or unions seeking to tap the so-called $3,000,000 retroactive pay jackpot will have to file suit in United States court.

Routine inspections will be made within the next four to six months, however, to determine whether all companies are complying with the Wage-Hour Law. If at that time any of them are found to be chiseling retroactive pay awards will be made.

Disputed classifications included set designer, assistant set designer, second cameraman, still cameraman, assistant cameraman, script clerk, company grip, standby painter, gaffer, assistant gaffer, nurse, first-aid man, process projectionists, sound man, costumer, makeup artist, publicist, title writer.

Universal, F-WC In 1941-42 Product Sesh This Week

Deal with Universal Pictures for the 1941-42 product will be started this week by Fox-West Coast, which has already completed its California buy of 20th-Fox, with details of the Pacific Northwest still to be worked out. Negotiations with United Artists for company's entire season's output will also be launched by F-WC in the immediate future.

With overlapping deals insuring the circuit a continuance of Metro and Columbia product for another season, F-WC has already strongly fortified itself for pictures for next year. Entire output of 20th was lined up by virtue of financial interest held by 20th in National Theatres, parent company for F-WC, and the Universal and UA deals can be worked out on same basis because neither of these companies are signators to the government consent decree which limits the signing companies to sales of packages not exceeding five pictures.

Deal for 20th output for the Southern California area was worked out early last week, with the Northern California buy consummated at San Francisco late in the week. Proposed signing up of the Evergreen Theatres, northwest subsidiary of National Theatres, has been temporarily set back due to signing of Eddie Alperson as general booking manager for RKO theatres. Alperson was to have headed for Seattle to head film buying staff for National Theatres in that section. A successor will likely be named within the next few days.

Spyros Skouras, prexy of NT, is expected here some time this week to sit in on the Universal confabs and may remain over for the UA parleys.

Only 'package deals' which F-WC will have to work out for next season will be in acquiring Warners, Paramount and RKO product. These deals are expected to be held up for some weeks as none of these companies have as yet officially designated their 'packages' under which rule they will be obligated to sell under the consent decree.

THEATRE BIZ SHOT OVER HOLIDAY

$8,000 at Loew's State Friday through Sunday, and hit better than $7,000 at the Chinese where it is day-dating.

Downtown streets yesterday were virtually deserted and only theatre patronage was that of people who already had their minds made up. Paramount, with 'Reaching for the Sun' (Par) managed to eke a disappointing $7,000 over the three days, while the RKO and Pantages with Columbia's 'She Knew All the Answers' topping, after a good start on Friday, petered out Saturday and yesterday.

The same applied to Warners Downtown and Hollywood, where 'Million Dollar Baby' is the main screen feature. Holdovers and moveovers proved dismal, only exception being 'Fantasia' at the Carthay Circle where final days have been announced.

Hundreds of thousands of Los Angeleans thronged the nearby beaches, many of them remaining from Friday to Sunday, and others who took advantage of the three-day suspension of business generally to go out of town, returned here too late on Sunday to be in a theatregoing mood. Generally it was the poorest three-day holiday weekend experienced in Los Angeles in years.

The Producers are scheduled to meet again today, but it is understood that Y. Frank Freeman, prexy of the Producers Association, is asking the unions to await the arrival of Casey. The Producers were upset by the letter from the locals demanding contract revisions, and stating that the locals would handle the negotiations without any aid from the IA International.

Each local is represented by its business representative and three from the rank and file membership. The alliance of all crafts was recommended by Harold V. Smith, who has been acting as chairman of the IA business representatives committee.

Cal. Assembly Refuses To Override Veto on Hot Cargo Measure

Sacramento, June 2.—The Assembly today refused to override the veto of Governor Culbert Olson on legislation to outlaw the hot cargo and secondary boycott, which studio unions actively opposed. The defeat is not final, as notice of reconsideration was given. The vote on a motion to override requiring 54 votes was 50 to 24. The Senate labor committee reported favorably for passage on a bill by Assemblyman Jack B. Tenney to give the courts jurisdiction over disciplinary actions by labor unions against members.

Hollywood Inside

CONSIDERABLE apprehension is felt in network and agency circles over the future of commercial radio, come fall, what with the country on an emergency footing. Air-advertised commodities, dependent on material placed under priority by the Government for defense orders, are expected to feel the brunt of the crackdown and many sponsors are holding off time commitments for the fall until they are assured of sufficient output to warrant the radio expenditure. American Can Co. (Keglined) has already put in a cancellation of its time for 'The Amazing Mr. Smith' due to an inability to obtain sufficient quantities of tin. Oil companies are particularly jittery on the assumption that petrol purchases may be limited with the appointment of Secretary Ickes as czar of the industry. Understood that Screen Guild Theatre's renewal is being held up pending some assuring word from the Government. International Silver may forego its Silver Theatre series unless the Government grip on all available metal is relaxed. Soap companies are said to feel none too secure due to the consuming need of glycerine for defense material.

FILM reviewers are in for a heavy schedule this month according to previews already set and others that will be given dates during June. Columbia leads the list with seven, including 'Hands Across the Rockies' shown yesterday afternoon. Paramount and Metro have three each and Universal and 20th-Fox one each. With few exceptions previews will be held at the studios, in most cases with an afternoon and evening screening for the critics. Lineup and dates are: Columbia, 'The Richest Man in Town', (4); Paramount, 'West Point Widow', (5); Universal, 'Tight Shoes', (6); 20th-Fox, 'Manhunt', (9), with morning, afternoon and evening studio showings; Metro, 'The Getaway', (10); Columbia, 'Sweetheart of the Campus', (11); Metro, 'The Big Store', (12); Paramount, 'Shepherd of the Hills', (14); Paramount, 'Parson of Panamint', (16); Metro, 'Blossoms in the Dust', (17); Columbia, 'Medico of Painted Springs', (18); 'I Was a Prisoner on Devil's Island', (19); 'Two in a Taxi', (23), and 'Blondie in Society', (25).

TWENTIETH-FOX is considerably ahead this season on number of Technicolor features it turns out annually. Against the six it has consistently produced during the past few years, three have been completed this year and one other is nearly finished. Trio of tinters completed are 'That Night in Rio', 'Blood and Sand' and 'Moon Over Miami.' 'Belle Starr' is in final stage of production, and a fifth Technicolor, 'Week-End in Havana', starts (16). Tentative schedule calls for three more to be made during last half of year, two of them being 'My Gal Sal' and 'Sioux City.' 20th and Paramount tied last year in number of prismatics, putting out six each.

JOAN BLONDELL has given Columbia an extension on her contract to permit studio to do further story work on 'Three Girls About Town.' Under actress' pact she was supposed to start work May 29 but production has had several postponements and is now scheduled to roll June 15. Producer Sam Bischoff and Leigh Jason, who will direct, figure writers Richard Carroll and P. J. Wolfson will have completed script revisions so that picture will be able to get away on that date without further delay. Feature is the last for Miss Blondell on a three-picture contract with Columbia.

JOHN SARGENT, business representative of the Culinary Workers Union, has started a drive against non-union studio eateries. At a recent meeting of representatives from practically all studio unions and guilds, Sargent asked that all union members be requested not to patronize non-union restaurants on the film lots. All of the crafts promised to cooperate, several leaders pointing out that the situation was absurd where all employes on a lot were union and yet ate in a restaurant that employed non-union help.

PRODUCTION of 20th-Fox scenes for 'A Yank In the R.A.F.' at Lockheed airplane factory yesterday under direction of Henry King was subjected to the most rigid protective routine, with 60 police officers from six different enforcement agencies hovering near every moment. Tyrone Power, Betty Grable and other players were stopped three times on way to set, and Power, challenged by sentry, had to go home and get his special pass before he was admitted, although sentry and others at gate knew his identity.

Catch is that prospective clients must send $5, ostensibly a registration fee, to insure press association of applicant's responsibility and serious intentions. Any news matter or photographs sent to the Canadian office will be distributed to different newspapers, magazines and reviews 'in all parts of the world.'

FOLLOWING washup of her contract at 20th-Fox with completion of 'Sun Valley Serenade', Sonja Henie may decide to take no more screen contracts in the immediate future, it is understood, but may confine her professional activities to skating tours. Most recent tour, completed just before she went into 'Sun Valley', grossed considerably over $1,000,000, with skating star netting around 25%. Several tentative proffers have been made by studios but nothing approaching concrete stage.

Hands Across the Rockies

(Western)

Columbia production and release. Stars Bill Elliott. Supporting cast: Mary Daily, Dub Taylor, Kenneth MacDonald, Frank LaRue, Donald Curtis, Tom Moray, Stanley Brown, Slim Whitaker, Harrison Greene, Art Mix, Eddy Waller, Hugh Prosser. Director, Lambert Hillyer. Producer, Leon Barsha. Screenplay, Paul Franklin. Story by Norbert Davis. Film editor, Mel Thorsen. Photography, Benjamin Kline. Assistant director, Milton Carter. Previewed June 2. Running time: 57 mins.

First rate western, even though it carries less riding and shooting footage than the average cowboy opera. There's a corking comedy courtroom scene which is carried off with topflight honors by Eddy Waller, Bill Elliott, Dub Taylor and a miscellaneous aggregation of primitive-looking jurors. Eddy Waller's impersonation of the rough-and-ready circuit judge who holds court with a double-barreled musket on the bench is a hilarious burlesque from beginning to end. It lifts a yarn that for a time threatens to trail off conventionally, into high gear.

Starting off at a slow pace this Wild Bill Hickok adventure develops into a galloping meller revolving about a murder intrigue. Bill Elliott briefly but ably essays a new characterization as a lawyer for the defense, freeing a young man held on an obviously trumped-up kidnaping charge.

Story is about a tyrannical uncle, with a Simon Legree mustache and whip, who tries to sell his niece into matrimony so that she will not be able to testify against her future husband in a killing. Bill Elliott comes to the rescue, weaving a tight noose of incontrovertible evidence around the evildoers and thereby leaving the girl free to marry the man of her choice.

Production carries a few well-staged gunfight sequences and should prove a winner in the western market. The deftly handled comedy interludes further distinguish this episode from the run-of-the-mill sagebrush thrillers. Bill Elliott turns in a satisfactory performance, maintaining prestige with his established following. Stanley Brown, juve romantic lead, is photogenically acceptable.

Rowland Brown Buys Yarn to Produce

PCC ARRANGES PROGRAM DEVOTED TO EXHIBITORS

Second annual convention of the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners, to be held here simultaneously with the annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, has mapped out a four-day program that will be devoted almost entirely to exhibitor problems. No speakers have been assigned places on the program, and the only outsider participating will be Mary Pickford, who has agreed to open the convention, and also will serve as host at various social gatherings during the theatre meet.

Sunday will be devoted entirely to registering the various theatre owners and operators, with the first PCC business session starting at 10 o'clock on Monday. Similar sessions will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings, with the afternoons devoted to the MPTOA sessions.

Monday's PCC meetings will be given over to reports, with an exhibitor open forum scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday mornings and the Thursday morning session given over to the introduction of resolutions.

Social events call for trips to various studios on Monday. Tuesday night there will be a studio party with dinner-dance labeled 'A Night In Hollywood'. On Wednesday Miss Pickford and stars from the various lots will stage a personality parade and fashion show, affair being limited to ladies of the convention only.

Final social event will be a joint banquet at the Earl Carroll Hollywood restaurant.

Ed Kuykendall, prexy of MPTOA, is due here Friday to arrange last minute details of the national exhibitor convention, the first business session of which convenes Tuesday afternoon. Among speakers already lined up by Kuykendall are Will Hays, J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI; John H. Harris, chief barker of the Variety Clubs; U. S. District Court Judge J. F. T. O'Connor of Los Angeles; J. Nobel Braden, executive secretary of the American Arbitration Association; Walter Wanger, Y. Frank Freeman, Edward Arnold and Nathan Golden, head of the motion picture division of the Department of Commerce.

Play Review

THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER

'The Chocolate Soldier', which opened at the Philharmonic Auditorium last night, was somewhat better than a first class second rate production of the Straus operetta, and a good deal better than the past two offerings of the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Association have been.

John Charles Thomas, in the dashing uniform of a Swiss soldier, looked a little like Jack Oakie in 'The Great Dictator', but he sang well and acted with easy grace. Billy Gilbert, as Colonel Popoff, and Irra Petina, as the flirtatious Mascha, brightened the show considerably with their acting. Miss Petina also sang well. Gilbert, as a vocalist, was completely lost.

Hope Manning was little more than an adequate Nadina, and Mary Hopple was about the same calibre, as Aurelia. Eric Mattson, as Alexius, and Douglas Beattie, as Massakroff, had scant contributions to make in their respective roles. Ladies and gentlemen of the choral ensemble were uniformly bad, as they have been in the two preceding productions. Aida Broadbent's ballet girls were okay.

Oscar Straus, the venerable composer of the piece, was on hand to conduct some of the numbers. He received a good hand from the first-night audience. Addition of a few new songs by Straus and Ann Ronell only served to lengthen the production, already longer than a double feature.

Kenneth Howard, former business representative of the Los Angeles Local of the American Guild of Variety Artists, is now an American Federation of Labor organizer with the Downtown Retail Clerks.

TAKEN so completely by surprise that she was stunned into silence, Hedda Hopper yesterday was greeted en masse by more than a hundred well wishers from pictures and radio who observed her 51st birthday by barging into her studio at CBS and topping off her Sunkist broadcast with a roaring sendoff. It marked the first time that a columnist was so thunderously acclaimed on the air. Cued just one minute off her signoff, the crowd surged into the studio and let go with 'happy birthdays' that echoed the length of Columbia Square for a full five minutes. . . . John Barrymore proved the first surprise when he sneaked up to her microphone and intoned 'happy birthday, Hedda; hope you live to be a million so you can co-star with me some time.' Among those who 'raised the roof' for Hedda were Kay Kyser, Ginny Simms, Gene Tierney (and her new hubby), Cobina Wright, Jr. and Sr., Nan Gray, Lum and Abner, Ann Rutherford, Jean Parker, Jane Russell, Robert Stack, Ida Koverman, Charlotte Greenwood, Martin Broones, Michael Whalen, Anita Louise, Martha O'Driscoll, Freddie Bartholomew, Nancy Marlowe, John Beal, Donald Wood, Jerry Colonna, Arthur Lake, Penny Singleton, Bill Goodwin and Dema Harshbarger . . . Congratulatory wires and gifts filled one corner of the studio and spilled over on the piano. Hedda showed, too, that she can take a rib gracefully when she laughed off several gag presents and messages. After greetings were exchanged, the gang moved over to Brittingham's for refreshments. Charlotte Greenwood served Sunkist orange juice from a huge bowl.

Couple of projection machines were installed yesterday noon in Biltmore Bowl for the Hearst Round Table Luncheon with pic players as chief guests. A wag inquired whether they were going to show 'Citizen Kane'. 'Gad No', a Hearstling said, 'they're going to show some Harriet Parsons shorts.'

TITLE of 'Outstanding Father of 1941' will be conferred today on Jim Jordan ('Fibber McGee') on his program today at NBC. Plaque will be presented by a rep of National Father's Day Committee. . . . Trial of Louis Ullman 'Smith,' Col Suit Opening Today

Long-pending plagiarism suit of Louis Ullman against Columbia Pictures Corp., growing out of the film production, 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington', will be started before U. S. District Court Judge Ralph E. Jenney this morning. The plaintiff charges that his copyrighted story, 'Angel of Hell Hollow', was infringed upon by Columbia in its film, produced and directed by Frank Capra. Latter, however, has not been made a party to the suit.

Ullman will be the first witness called today by Attorney Herbert A. Huebner, who is handling the action for the plaintiff, and several other witnesses likely will be called at the morning session. In the afternoon Hedda Hopper is slated to take the stand.

Another witness subpoenaed by the plaintiff is Joe Breen. Trial of case will likely consume most of this week. Plaintiff asks an injunction, accounting of profits and damages. No fixed sum has been set.

Par 'Goodbye' Tunes Airing on Mutual

Musical score of Paramount's 'Kiss the Boys Goodbye', all Ascap tunes, will be presented tonight over the Mutual network, emanating at radio station WOR in New York with Morton Gould and his orchestra playing and Jimmy Shields singing the five numbers: 'Kiss the Boys Goodbye', 'Sand In My Shoes', 'I'll Never Let a Day Pass By', 'Find Yourself a Melody' and 'That's How I Got My Start', written by Victor Schertzinger and Frank Loesser.

Bette Davis Reports For 'Little Foxes'

Personal differences, which, in addition to ill health, were understood to have been keeping Bette Davis from the cast of 'The Little Foxes', were cleared up over the weekend and she'll probably return to the cameras later this week.

Joan Crawford Returns

Joan Crawford returns to Metro tomorrow. She has been on vacation for several weeks.

Frisco Chatter

Gypsy Rose Lee opens June 11 at Stairway To the Stars nitery, where Nick Lucas is current.

Francis Lederer in 'No Time For Comedy' expected to follow Billie Burke's 'Vinegar Tree' into Henry Duffy's Alcazar.

'Citizen Kane' will wind up its first roadshow week at the Geary with around $9,000. Opening night gross was $1,060.

With departure of Terry Turner and Charles Huy of RKO exploitation staff, Fred Kisslingberry will handle 'Kane' publicity.

Lincoln Dellar, KSFO manager, has named Austin Fenger to handle trade press publicity. Marie Houlahan continues handling all other publicity.

Hal Neides has been named division manager in charge of 16 Golden State circuit theatres in this area. Roy Cooper is now chief film buyer for the Bob McNeil houses.

U. S. CONCILIATOR MEETS DISNEY STRIKE LEADERS

Washington. The situation was called to the attention of the Department when a Disney employe telephoned Washington and requested that a labor conciliator be sent here.

Sisely is said to feel from his preliminary investigation of the situation that it is a National Labor Relations Board case since Disney refuses to recognize the union, rather than one for the conciliation department. Washington officials had expressed that view, but requested that Sisely check the situation and advise the Department.

In the meantime, Motion Picture Studio Projectionists Local 165 issued instructions to 12 projectionists employed at Technicolor not to screen any Disney products after 6 p.m. today. It is understood that Local 165 was anxious to cooperate with the Screen Cartoonists Guild, since the union also has been trying for months to negotiate with the Disney company. It also was intimated that Projectionists District Council No. 2, with which Local 165 is affiliated, might be asked to cooperate by instructing its members not to screen Disney pictures in the theatres where they are employed. Council No. 2 embraces all projectionists from Los Angeles to San Diego with the exception of Local 150. John Swartz is business representative of Local 165, and Jack Payne is secretary.

Strike leaders stated their conference with RKO officials scheduled for yesterday was deferred until today because of the failure of George Schaefer to arrive on the Coast. They said J. R. McDonough would be paged this morning for an appointment. RKO will be asked to cease distributing Disney pictures for the duration of the strike.

Union tops conferred yesterday with Charles P. Skouras, head of Fox West Coast theatres, on showing of Disney pictures. Skouras is said to have taken the position that he had a contract for certain Disney products and would have to live up to it.

PREVIEW DELAYED

RKO, however, has dropped plans to preview Disney's 'The Reluctant Dragon' at the Four Star theatre Wednesday (4). After clearing the preview through the Hays office when Disney called off his studio preview, RKO decided not to screen the picture. It will be available for bookings Friday (6).

The Society of Motion Picture Film Editors meets tonight at the Woman's Club of Hollywood to take a strike vote at Disney. Most of the editors, however, are reported to be already refusing to cross the SCG picket lines. The SCG also claimed that most of the Disney cameramen, carpenters, sound technicians and other workers are refusing to cross the picket line.

A group of extras affiliated with the Extras Advisory Council marched in the Disney picket line yesterday, including the Council chairman, Harry Mayo. The SCG continued to picket the Disney plant yesterday, and group picket lines also were thrown around theatres showing Disney films, including El Capitan and Pantages. Leaders expressed satisfaction with the progress of the strike, insisting that production inside the plant is at a standstill. The company, however, claims that production has increased since the walkout was ordered.

SWG HEARS REPORT ON DISNEY STRIKE

A report on working conditions leading up to the Screen Cartoonists Guild strike at the Walt Disney studio was made to the Screen Writers Guild board last night by a SCG representative, who asked for moral and financial support of the scriveners. The board adopted the following resolution, and referred to the next general Guild meeting the question of a possible boycott in support of the Cartoonists:

'Resolved, that the executive board of the Screen Writers Guild, reaffirming its deep sympathy with the Screen Cartoonists Guild, will at its next membership meeting present to the SWG membership the true conditions existing at the Disney plant and will recommend for decision by the membership a policy of moral and financial support for the Screen Cartoonists Guild strike.'

Shop committees also will be instructed to advise writers of the situation, so that any who desire can make individual contributions to the strike fund.

Kent Held in NY

Sidney R. Kent again has been detained in New York, and for third time has deferred trip to Coast which was to have landed him at 20th-Fox studio yesterday.

Story Buys

Paramount has purchased 'Of Fire By Night', unpublished magazine serial by Thelma Strubel, and will combine it with material from 'Forest Service', story which studio has owned for some time, under the title of 'The Forest Rangers'. IA REPS CALL TWO HURRIED MEETINGS IN PROD. FIGHT yesterday of the letter from Y. Frank Freeman, prexy of the Producers Association, stating that the negotiations were being turned over to Pat Casey and Fred Pelton, Producer labor contacts. Several of the business representatives and committee members took the position that the Producers would have to designate somebody with authority to set a deal, as the unions did not intend to be stalled around until September when a lull in production could be expected.

The consensus of opinion among the local representatives was that the unions should press for immediate action on their demands for contract revisions covering wages and conditions. The negotiating committees at their meeting tomorrow night will map out a plan of procedure and will draft a schedule of conditions that apply to all the unions. These include a minimum six-hour call, etc.

Casey is now en route to the Coast from New York, being scheduled to arrive Thursday (5). It was reported that he would stop off in Chicago for a brief huddle with union heads there before continuing to Hollywood.

Aubrey Blair, international representative of the American Federation of Labor, addressed the IATSE representatives yesterday, urging that they all stick together and arrange contacts with other AFofL unions in order to have the undivided support of all studio crafts. The representation of each local has been expanded to include three rank and file members in addition to the business representative of each group. Harold V. Smith is chairman of the business representatives committee, and suggested the alliance of all locals to handle their own negotiations.

FREEMAN'S LETTER

The following letter was sent by Y. Frank Freeman to the business representatives of IATSE locals which demanded immediate opening of negotiations:

'This will acknowledge receipt of the letter of May 26, 1941, to which you are a signatory.

'I have no knowledge of the conspiracy referred to in your letter. I have, of course, seen references in the daily press to charges involving certain IATSE international officers. Other than the newspaper statements I have no knowledge of the facts involved.

'Under date of Nov. 20, 1940, the Producers designated Messrs. Casey and Pelton to negotiate with your local in response to your letter of Nov. 15, 1940. They have informed us that various negotiating meetings have been held with your local for modifications in your wage agreement. From these proposals studies and surveys have been made with the idea of making as many working conditions as possible standard for all crafts.

'The question of exemption or non-exemption for certain members of your local under the "Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938" has been an important issue in these negotiations. The fact that determinations had not yet been made by the Wage and Hour Division was a source of delay. A hearing was held on this subject on March 25, 1941, but to date no final determinations have been received from Washington. However, I understand that these decisions will be forthcoming during the first week in June.

"PRACTICAL MATTER"

'As a practical matter we have designated Mr. Casey and Mr. Pelton to negotiate on behalf of the studios. They keep us informed of the progress of all negotiations. The only reason that I and my fellow executives cannot sit with you during negotiations is not due to any lack of inclination on our part or failure to recognize the importance of these negotiations, but is due to the fact that we have our studios to operate and cannot give the time that is necessary to attend personally to all of the many negotiating meetings that must be held with the various unions, societies and guilds in the motion picture industry. We feel certain that you must appreciate our position and realize that we should be unable to conduct our businesses unless certain of these negotiations were delegated to responsible representatives.

'Mr. Casey, who has been east, expects to return to Los Angeles during the first week of June. Immediately upon his return from New York city, he and Mr. Pelton will arrange meetings with you and continue negotiations with your local.

'We trust this arrangement is satisfactory to you and that the negotiations may be carried on and concluded to our mutual satisfaction.'

The locals in their demand for a meeting to talk contract revisions had made it plain that the negotiations would be handled by the locals themselves without any aid or interference from the IATSE international.

AN IDEA THAT CHANGED THE WHOLE ART OF MAKE-UP!

- In February, 1938, MAX FACTOR HOLLYWOOD introduced a revolutionary new make-up called PAN-CAKE. Created originally for use in Technicolor pictures, it was soon adapted for black-and-white films, and since then its sensational success has made it the most popular make-up in screen history.
- Quick and easy to use, PAN-CAKE for black-and-white and Technicolor, in tested colors for men and women, is an unprecedented "find" as a time-saver. It insures uniformly lifelike complexion tones on the screen, conceals skin blemishes, stays on for hours without re-touching, is impervious to perspiration.
- Recommended and endorsed by the industry's leading A.S.C. Directors of Photography, you'll find it the perfect make-up for you. Insist upon PAN-CAKE for your next screen make-up.

an advisory and financial interest in the Silverstone setup, but hopes to produce 'Coquette' herself first, providing she can find a star for it. It was her first all-talking picture made in 1929.

She said appointment of Arthur Kelly as company topper is only intended until a choice of a permanent chief is made, with no one in mind currently. However, it is likely she will confer with James Mulvey, Sam Goldwyn eastern representative and corporation vice-prexy, who refused the post recently, to reconsider.

Miss Pickford stated that the stock of the Douglas Fairbanks estate is to be bought by United Artists around middle of this month at around $400,000, and with the stock taken over from Sam Goldwyn when he withdrew from UA will be available to men who can show production as well as financial ability. It will be sold on the same basis as was that to Alexander Korda, with the producer paying for it out of his dividend earnings and not getting it until it has been earned.

Understood that is proposition which was made recently both to David O. Selznick and Frank Capra to join the member owners of United Artists. Report is that deals are on with both these producers and announcement of their conclusion may be made at the United Artists sales conventions that will be held this month.

New York, June 3.—With a $100,000 loan virtually set, Monogram Pictures is expected to pick up more than 66,000 shares of stock formerly held by Pathe Film Corp., according to reports. The new money is understood coming from another laboratory, reputedly Consolidated Films. SKOURAS URGES INDUSTRY FITE FOR MORE BUSINESS

NY LEGIT OPENING

SNOOKIE

New York, June 3.—'Snookie', a comedy by Thomas Johnstone, which opened tonight at the John Golden theatre as the first production of the 1941-42 season, is one of the feeblest laugh efforts of any season. Ole Olsen and Chick Johnson, who coined a fortune with 'Hellzapoppin', are the presenters, but this is so bad that neither they nor anyone else takes producer billing.

The piece, about a comic strip, is localed in a newspaper office and holds several song and dance numbers by William B. Friedlander and author Johnstone. It's a clumsy directorial effort by Friedlander, with the cast trying hard but getting nowhere. The only notable feature of the show is that J. C. Nugent was somehow persuaded to play a part in it.

Hollywood Inside

LAST WEEK, one of the bright and promising young actresses of a major studio appeared in court to have her contract ratified. Trouble developed when the actress walked into the courtroom and found no photographers present to shoot her picture. She had seen other youngsters getting good publicity breaks when they went to court and she squawked, as actresses will, when her big day went unheralded. One of the studio's flacks, a former newspaper man who knew his way around downtown, immediately called the clerk of the court involved and had the whole business repeated the next day. Flackery hadn't been notified by the studio's lawyers that the young actress was to go to court. But, on the second try, in which the judge gave the best of cooperation, the girl knocked over plenty of newspaper space.

QUESTION of whether a studio has the right to release a producer or director under contract if he is thought to be too ill to continue with his work will probably be decided in the courts in connection with the present difficulties between RKO and Erich Pommer. Pommer's contract will not expire until the beginning of 1942. However, for the past several months he has been unable to come to the studio as a result of a heart attack. Tay Garnett has assumed his producer assignments. It is understood that RKO, while not making any announcement, is dickering with Pommer to end their pact. Pommer, on the other hand, is reported unwilling to settle and the matter may have to go to court before it is determined what rights each may have.

COST of 'mugging' in the Daily News has been upped for radio stars sponsoring entrants in the sheet's sponsored Soap Box Derby. Heretofore air names have been solicited by the sheet to donate $7.50 to pay for wheels for the kid racers. Price has been tilted to $25 for the runners, the News promotion department figuring it should be worth that to the donors to have their names on the side of the boxes and their phizzes in the sheet's art layouts. Most of the players who have sponsored chariots are passing up this year's event due to the unwarranted hike in wheel fees. Chevrolet sponsors the event nationally, with local sheets pitching in to help their auto advertiser.

PAUL JARRICO will go down in the saga of Hollywood scribes as the man who fired himself. He was working on 'Tom, Dick and Harry' at RKO and was on the set during the entire shooting schedule. In the meantime, Robert Sisk, producer of 'Tom, Dick and Harry', had checked off the lot to go to Paramount. After picture was completed, Joe Nolan sent a message to Garson Kanin asking about Jarrico's status. Kanin turned the note over to the writer and forgot about it. After a few days' deliberation, Jarrico telephoned in to RKO front office and fired himself.

PROTESTS are being framed by talent and technical groups in radio against Federal Communications commission's anti-monopoly ruling, which, if enforced against the networks, would seriously impair their earning capacity. Musicians union, American Federation of Radio Artists and studio craftsmen claim the new regulations would force advertisers to forego live broadcasts for spot transcriptions. Strongly-worded representations will be made to the FCC by the affected groups unless the rulings are tempered so as not to interfere with network operations.

Wrigley executives figure the stunt will needle interest in their 'Scattergood' air programs and, finally, in their products.

Paper Bullets

(Drama)

Producers Releasing Corporation release of a K-B production. Cast: Joan Woodbury, Jack LaRue, Linda Ware, John Archer, Vince Barnett, Allan Ladd, Gavin Gordon, Philip Trent, William Halligan, George Pembroke, Selmer Jackson, Kenneth Harlan, Bryant Washburn, Alden Chase, Robert Strange, Alex Callam, Harry Depp. Producer, Maurice Kozinsky. Associate producer, Franklin Kozinsky. Director, Phil Rosen. Original story and screenplay, Martin Mooney. Music direction, Johnny Lange and Lew Porter. Photography, Arthur Martinelli. Art director, Frank Dexter, Sr. Film editor, Martin G. Cole. Production manager, Mack V. Wright. Songs by Vic Knight, Johnny Lange and Lew Porter; Maurice Kozinsky, Johnny Lange and Lew Porter. Previewed June 3. Running time: 69 mins.

This is in many respects a remarkable picture. Remarkable in that it presents a maximum of audience entertainment on a minimum of shrewd expenditure. As a showcasing of quality economically achieved, it should provide an interesting hour for many producers who have no limit upon their budgets. For general audiences it would seem to lack nothing that a story of this nature should have to create intense interest and to give satisfaction in its narration and its outcome. 'Paper Bullets', from every angle as a program offering, does credit to its producers, Maurice and Franklin Kozinsky.

Given superior direction by Phil Rosen, credible performances by a troupe which shows unusual interest in its chores, a sound and honestly told tale of political chicanery and underworld drama, and technical contributions of merit, the picture needs no handicap.

Three kids are conditioned for a various destiny in an orphanage in the Martin Mooney screenplay. They grow up as Joan Woodbury, daughter of a convict, and herself imprisoned for a time; Jack LaRue, who boasts even as a boy that he will know all the answers and who becomes an underworld graft collector, and John Archer who turns out to be an engineer. Linda Ware, a young singer, is Joan's friend, and sweetheart of Allan Ladd, working with the police. Philip Trent is the son of a politically ambitious man and a thorough heel who lets the convict's daughter take a rap for him in a drunken driving accident. William Halligan is police chief; George Pembroke, the politician; Selmer Jackson, the district attorney; Gavin Gordon, the attorney for the conspiring crooks; Alden Chase, the attorney for the conspirators when they face trial; Vince Barnett, a stoolie. Each of these characters is skillfully portrayed by a trouping cast and kept persuasive and thoroughly human and legitimate by the intelligent direction of Phil Rosen. Kenneth Harlan, Bryant Washburn, Robert Strange, Alex Callam and Harry Depp ably round out the company.

Story is told swiftly and consistently. The consequences of crime and mistakes, the reward of such meagre virtue as the drama assays, fall where they should. Much genuine excitement is created.

Linda Ware sings her two songs effectively. Johnny Lange and Lew Porter attend ably to the music direction. The camera work of Arthur Martinelli is commendable.

Altogether, this important little picture comes to market with every prospect of accounting very profitably for itself and of encouraging the producers to further efforts of the same calibre.

HEDDA HOPPER WISECRAX HI-LITE COURT HEARING

Hedda Hopper provoked plenty of hilarity in U. S. District Court Judge Ralph E. Jenny's tribunal yesterday afternoon, when summoned to the witness chair by Attorney Herbert A. Huebner, representing Louis Ullman in his plagiarism suit against Columbia Pictures. Columnist was subpoenaed by the plaintiff in an attempt to show that Lew Golder, agent, had spoken to her to consider the Ullman story, 'Angel of Hell Hollow', and first question put to her was:

'Are you an actress?'

'Well, if I'm not,' Miss Hopper replied, 'I've been fooling the public for a long time.'

This type of banter continued throughout Miss Hopper's entire interrogation, in which she denied having read the Ullman story or of remembering anything about it.

'It was my first experience in a court room', Miss Hopper said later, 'and the judge was perfectly charming. He greeted me with the announcement that Hedda Hopper needs no introduction, whereupon I bowed gracefully to him and he returned the compliment. At the close of my sojourn on the stand I thanked the judge, telling him it was my first court experience and that if ever I came up again I hoped it would be before him.'

Dema Harshbarger, business manager for Miss Hopper, was also called to the witness stand by Huebner, but she, too, told the court she could not remember any of the instances sought by the plaintiff's attorney to bring out.

Trial of the Ullman suit was started yesterday and Ullman was still on the witness stand when adjournment was taken until this morning. Various witnesses summoned yesterday included Katherine Simpson, a teacher of short story writing at the Los Angeles high school, to whom Ullman submitted his original story; Harry Sauber, former assistant to Irving Briskin at the Columbia studios at the time of the filming of 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington', which Ullman alleges infringed upon his yarn; and several others.

Sitting in on the proceedings was Attorney Morton Garbus, counsel for Norman Houston, who also has a $1,000,000 suit pending against Columbia, alleging a similarity between his story, 'Clowning In Congress', and 'Mr. Smith'. Decision was previously reached to try the two cases simultaneously, but at the last minute it was decided to hold up the Houston case until such time as any evidence introduced in the Ullman action related to the Houston claim.

Ullman's testimony was temporarily halted near the close of yesterday afternoon's session when a controversy arose over whether or not he should be allowed to testify on similarity between his yarn and the film version of 'Mr. Smith'.

Ascap Leaders See Florida Step As Favorable Move

New York, June 3.—Last week's action by Florida authorities in persuading American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers to continue operating there under present conditions until the law can be amended to allow music users to make blanket contracts is regarded by Ascap leaders as likely to stem any epidemic of anti-Ascap legislation. Florida attorney general invited the Society to send representatives to discuss the question just as Society was preparing to notify Florida licensees that all contracts were canceled and that music users would have to do business direct with copyright owners.

With constitutionality of the Florida law finally established by the Supreme court, number of users there suddenly decided that withdrawal of Ascap service would create a state of chaos for them.

ting off the list once his products have been declared unfair.

At the same time the Society of Motion Picture Film Editors announced that its members would not cross the Disney picket lines, and Aubrey Blair, American Federation of Labor organizer, said that El Capitan theatre had agreed to cancel showing of Disney shorts and requested that pickets be withdrawn. He stated that picketing of other theatres would continue until they agreed to cooperate with the union by not showing Disney pictures during duration of Cartoonists strike.

William Littlejohn, prexy of the Screen Cartoonists Guild, is directing his Disney picket lines from the air. Littlejohn, a licensed pilot, makes daily flights over the studio to check the number of employes’ parked cars. He has been accompanied on several flights by Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644 and generalissimo of the Disney strike.

Pressure also is being brought to bear on RKO officials to stop the company from distributing Disney products. The situation has already been discussed with company executives and is being checked up to George Schaefer.

The Film Editors, meeting last night at the Woman’s Club of Hollywood, took the position that since their Disney members are already out there was no need to take a strike vote. The membership, however, adopted the following resolutions:

‘Resolved, that the Society of Motion Picture Film Editors recognizes the sanctity of the American Federation of Labor picket line as it exists during the present emergency at the Disney studio.

‘Resolved, that the Society render to its members unemployed as the result of the present emergency at the Disney studio financial aid.’

Society leaders said that no members were going through the picket line and that they had been advised the Disney cutting room now is closed.

A 24-hour picket line is still being maintained at the Disney plant. Union officials claim that additional workers are joining the strike daily, but company executives contend that production is proceeding as usual.

FCC REPRIEVE GIVEN NETS; FLY LETS A BLAST GO monopoly and the comish reforms were:

(1). The radio industry is like the railroads—although Congress specifically said stations and webs are not common carriers—and must be run to benefit all the people. Advertisers and listeners are entitled to free choice of outlets and programs.

(2). Six webs would be ideal under present conditions. Although restrictive contracts rule out any newcomers, there should be in addition several regionals. But as long as the existing chains have a death-grip, no more than four skeins can operate.

(3). If the industry thinks the reform rules are inhumane or illegal it should go into court. The Commission will join readily in any litigation that is honest, not obstructionist.

Though he showed up with volumes of data and several assistants, Fly got only an occasional opportunity to read his script. Whenever there was an opening, however, he lectured the solons and endeavored to outtalk committee members, which didn’t succeed entirely.

Whole implication of Fly’s testimony today was that the industry, instead of asking Congress to send out a rescue crew, ought to go to court. Head reformer seemed entirely confident that the judiciary will uphold the rules. He cited a 1911 Supreme court decision in a railroad terminal case to back up his contention that ‘public interest, convenience and necessity’ really required outlawing of option time, exclusivity and dual networks. In his ‘let ‘em sue’ attitude, chief crackdowner said Congress had mandated such rules in both the Sherman and the 1934 Communications Acts.

Anti-Roosevelt senators yowled they cannot get enough radio time but acknowledged they have been fairly treated by the networks. Senators Tobey of New Hampshire, Wheeler of Montana (committee chairman), and Bone of Washington pitched in with questions about an opportunity to put over their views. Fly smartly retorted the comish is gravely concerned about free speech, claiming the webs will provide more means of earaching the listeners.

Put on the spot by Senator Tobey, a violent anti-convoy solon, Fly agreed to ask every chain and station for a full report on the amount of time given critics of the Roosevelt policy. Tobey demanded statistics about the number of speakers, names, dates, etc., as well as copies of the text. Chairman Wheeler observed there is no question that the chains have been fair but that many locals carried only one side of the argument.

Senator Bone slyly inquired if Fly thinks four webs would assure a complete airing for all arguments. The chief crackdowner agreed 90 days is too short a time to expect NBC to unload its Blue web. If the rule was enforced the company might take a bad licking, he acknowledged. But Senator Tobey observed that apparently there are many people wanting it. ‘They are waiting with their mouths watering,’ Tobey remarked.

Hearing goes on tomorrow and may continue for several days, with the industry people due to get in their licks and mirror the split which occurred at the St. Louis broadcasters’ convention. Dozens of lobbyists and mouthpieces were on hand to tell newspapermen and senators what’s what.

NELSON BLOCKS CENSOR MOVE

A move by the City Police Commission to get censorship control over legitimate theatres and motion picture houses was blocked yesterday when Councilman Norris J. Nelson, chairman of the police and fire committee, stated he would never introduce such an ordinance. He stated that power to revoke show permits should be lodged in the courts and not in the Police Commission.

The Commission is seeking passage of an ordinance giving it authority to revoke permits of any theatre, if in its judgment, the performance is lewd, indecent, or contrary to public welfare. Henry Bodkin, Commission president, insisted that the board needed broader powers to insure clean shows.

The stand of Councilman Nelson was supported at the conference by I. B. Kornblum, attorney for Actors Equity Association and executive secretary of American Federation of Radio Artists; Fred W. Beetson, of the Producers Association; Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, and Homer I. Mitchell and Alfred Wright, attorneys for the major companies. Archbishop John J. Cantwell supported Bodkin, contending the Commission was competent to judge all forms of entertainment.

Pratt Full Time Biz Rep of Collarites

Members of the Screen Office Employes Guild, meeting at the Roosevelt hotel last night, voted unanimously to employ Glenn Pratt as full time business representative of the Guild. Pratt is currently president of the SOEG and is employed as assistant cashier at Columbia.

Chuck Jones, member of the Schlesinger unit of the Screen Cartoonists Guild, and Art Babbitt, member of the SCG Disney unit, were guest speakers at the SOEG session. After listening to their talks the SOEG voted $100 from the treasury to aid the Walt Disney strikers and announced that voluntary contributions totaling $116 had been handed in by members. Pledge cards also will be circulated among the 2,500 Studio White Collarites to aid the strikers.

Lester Cole, of the Screen Writers Guild, explained the formation of a committee of representatives from studio guilds and unions to act as a clearance house for negotiations and other mutual problems. The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for tonight at SWG headquarters.

AAA Arbiter Takes San Gabriel Case Under Advisement

After denying motions to dismiss on jurisdictional grounds, the action brought against various distributors by O. W. Lewis of the Mission Playhouse, San Gabriel, Herbert Cameron, arbitrator of the American Arbitration Association, before whom the issue is pending, reversed himself yesterday afternoon and took under advisement the contention of defense attorneys that the AAA lacked jurisdiction.

Arbitrator Cameron will decide by next Wednesday whether the consent decree set up by the Government gives the AAA jurisdiction, and if sustaining the dismissal motions of the defendant attorneys, he will so notify the clerk of the tribunal, which will put an end to Lewis' demands that his theatre be zoned 28 days after Pasadena first run closing instead of 21 days after Alhambra which now books seven days behind the former city.

In the event that Cameron should rule that he has jurisdiction, the defendants will return to the tribunal next Wednesday and enter evidence by which they hope to refute testimony introduced on behalf of Lewis.

Separate dismissal motions were entered yesterday by Attorney Herbert T. Silverberg, representing Loew's, Inc.; Bernard Luker, for Paramount; Herbert Freston (Freston & Files), on behalf of Vitagraph, and two interveners, V. A. Morgan, appearing for the Edwards Theatre circuit, and John Bertero, representing United Fox West Coast Theatres and the Alhambra Amusement Co.

Bitter legal battle, in which all of the attorneys participated, marked yesterday morning's hearing, when case was resumed after several days' recess. Gist of these arguments was that Lewis had failed to show any unreasonable clearance on the part of the defendant distributors. On the contrary, defense attorneys argued, Lewis was making an attempt to have a new clearance set up, and also to secure clearance of seven days over the Edwards Rosemead theatre, whereas he is now forced to play day and date with that house.

Willie Bioff Waives Removal Trial

Willie Bioff, convicted pander and former labor hoodlum, has waived a removal hearing and posted $50,000 bond to guarantee his appearance in New York Thursday (12) to face Federal charges of extortion. George E. Browne, jointly indicted with Willie, is at liberty in $20,000 bail. The two are accused of extorting $550,000 from four major film companies.

Although the removal hearing was not scheduled until Thursday (5), Willie appeared before U. S. Commissioner David B. Head yesterday and stated he would not oppose his removal to New York. Bioff was quoted as stating he is innocent, but that he would rather go back to fight the charges than have the matter drag out.

Members of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes are now demanding the resignation of Prexy George E. Browne, his personal representative, Willie Bioff, and all appointed officers of the organization. The men claim they have been 'sold down the river' by their national leaders and are insisting on handling their own negotiations, without aid or interference from the International. Negotiations committees representing the 10 IATSE studio locals meet at 8 o'clock tonight to discuss their proposals and to map out a plan of procedure in their dealings with company executives. The first meeting between the two groups will be held shortly after the arrival tomorrow of Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, who has been in the east for several weeks.

EXTRA EARNINGS DIVE IN MAY

as compared to 33,438 in April and 21,523 in May of last year.

Based on an average daily wage of $11, the total earnings will be approximately $175,000, as compared to $384,785 in May, and $236,084 in May of last year. The percentage of request calls by studios continued above 50%.

The Screen Actors Guild is now pushing the Producers for an answer on its proposal to reclassify extra brackets so as to provide a 10% increase for the regulars. It is understood that final approval by the companies has now been deferred until tomorrow. One of the hitches is reported to have been whether to make the new bracket $10 or $10.50. This would replace the current $8.25 and $11 calls.

There also has been some objection by the Producers to limiting the employment of $5.50 extras to calls for 50 or more players. The original proposal would fix the stipend for dancers at $13.75, instead of the current $11, and singers would be paid $15 daily and $20 for recordings.

It is understood the Producers have already agreed to substantial tilts for small freelance players, and that improved conditions also have been secured for day players. The proposal to eliminate 2,000 casual extras from the industry is being held up pending final approval of the deal to reclassify extra brackets.

drop in attendance, the exhibiting branch determined to take a strong stand against public apathy. In the discussion following the Skouras proposal, a general acquiescence was registered, although no attempt was made to crystallize definite plans at this time.

The crying need, as expressed by some of the exhibs who attended the meeting, is for the public to become acquainted intimately with a large number of young players who, largely through force of casting circumstances, have been pushed into lead roles, in some cases before the period of promotional probation has been finished.

Majors Face Problem Of Clearing Decks To Move Decree

New York, June 3.—Necessity of clearing the release decks of all features promised under blanket contracts for the 1940-41 season, is the requirement facing the five majors who are party to the consent decree, before new product to be released after Sept. 1 can be shown publicly. Exception is the film that is presented nationally under a roadshow policy.

Such is the consensus of sales managers and attorneys struggling with distribution difficulties as time of transition from the old to the new methods approaches.

Produced by James Roosevelt-United Artists. Running time, 86 minutes.

I'M afraid Captain Jimmy Roosevelt of the marines has a film hit as well as a near war on his hands. The first Roosevelt production effort (he purchased Pastor Hall ready made) grew out of a national radio hour, Horace Heidt's Pot o' Gold broadcast. It's a hokum story built around one of those comedy feuds: Charles Haskell, industrial king and boss of Haskell's Health Foods, vs. the McCorkles, who live across the alley from the Haskell health foundry. The McCorkles have refused to sell their boardinghouse to Haskell, who wants to expand; worse yet, they have taken in the members of a jazz band whose practicing drives Haskell mad. The war is on—when Haskell's nephew comes to town to work for his Uncle Charlie. Somehow he lands in the McCorkle boardinghouse, falls in love with Mom McCorkle's pretty daughter, decides to help the jobless band. And he puts it on the air by way of the Haskell Happiness Hour while Uncle Charlie is away.

Hollywood Inside

PUBLICATION of novels and serials from which films are to be made, and simultaneous preparations on both, has practically reached the fixed policy stage at RKO. Max Brand has been set on latest of three such deals, whereby he is to write a novel to be called 'Powder Town', from a synopsis by Vicki Baum which RKO recently bought. Studio plans to have the film, also in preparation, ready to release soon after the novel appears. Other current deals involving such co-lateral writing are the bargain made by studio with I. A. R. Wylie in which author sent RKO the manuscript on her half completed, untitled novel as a basis on which to start the picture script, and the arrangement with Bud Schulberg on writer's film treatment, 'Passage to Bordeaux', which he is developing into novel, following serial mag publication.

A NEW attempt to put over a censorship ordinance giving the Police Commission authority to revoke permits of legitimate theatres and picture houses, when in its opinion, shows are lewd, indecent or contrary to public welfare will be made after July 1. At that time Councilman Norris J. Nelson will retire as chairman of the fire and police committee, and is scheduled to be succeeded by J. Winn Austin, current member of the Police Commission who has been elected to the Council. Nelson has refused to introduce an ordinance giving the broad powers to the Commission. He contends that authority to revoke permits should be lodged in the courts and not with the Police Commission. Certain Commission members, however, have indicated the fight will be renewed when Austin moves up to the Council.

REPUBLIC, with six pictures scheduled to start this month, so far has been unable to give definite starting dates to the productions because of casting difficulties. Male leads in three of the films are set but no femme leads or top supporting players are available at the present time. Those in need of complete casting are 'From Rags to Riches', 'Doctors Don't Tell', and 'Ten Nights in a Bar Room.' Needing the femme contingent are 'King of the Texas Rangers', serial in which Slinging Sammy Baugh makes his picture bow, 'Bad Man of Deadwood', Roy Rogers western, and 'Down Mexico Way', Gene Autry special.

Exiting skater claimed she has never had any but star billing since she began her skating career and that she had understood that she will head the cast of skaters in the picture. Miss Lewis is the only outside skated added by Republic to the 'Ice-Capades' troupe after buying the show.

EDDIE CLINE puts 'Cracked Nuts' back into work today at Universal for added scenes to build up the laughs around portions of the mechanical man's footage in the comedy. A number of the sequences using the mechanical man, operated from inside by Ernie Stanton, were found to lean towards the heavy side, killing several laughs. In the new scenes are Mischa Auer, doing the inventer, Hattie Noel, and Mantan Moreland, all in the original cast, and Shemp Howard, who has been added for further comedy.

THE press preview situation was discussed again yesterday at the meeting of the Studio Publicity Directors Committee. It was agreed that pictures will be screened for writers whenever possible six to eight weeks before their release. It was pointed out that this would give the magazine correspondents sufficient time to clear their copy before the pictures go into general release. This system also will do away with the old practice of showing pictures to certain magazine writers ahead of the regular trade previews.

The Richest Man in Town

(Drama)

Columbia production and release. Features Frank Craven, Edgar Buchanan, Eileen O'Hearn, Roger Pryor. Supporting cast: Tom Dugan, George McKay, Jimmy Dodd, Jan Duggan, John Tyrrell, Harry Tyler, Will Wright, Joel Friedkin. Producer, Jack Fier. Director, Charles Barton. Assistant director, Thomas Flood. Screenplay, Fanya Foss and Jerry Sackheim. Story, Jerry Sackheim. Photography, Philip Tannura. Film editor, Al Clark. Musical director, M. W. Stoloff. Previewed June 4. Running time: 69 mins.

Lightweight story structure prevents this handily staged, well acted small town saga from ringing the bell as a first line attraction. It should serve well in support in the dualers, however, largely owing to pleasantly etched characterizations by Frank Craven and Edgar Buchanan.

Despite lapses in continuity and motivation which hinder efforts of director and cast in establishing a grip on audience sympathies, the production manages to come through with a few absorbing sequences where director Charles Barton's deft piloting becomes most noticeable.

Edgar Buchanan, as the country editor, makes his impersonation both convincing and likeable. The other party to the small town feud is Frank Craven as Crothers, the richest man in the community. Craven responds ably to the role of the village kingpin who succeeds in conveying the impression that he's a rich guy at heart even when he appears at his worst.

The rivalry between editor and country banker ostensibly dates back to boyhood days when both courted the same girl and the impecunious, sentimental publisher won. The feud never became bitter, as evidenced by the banker's interest in the daughter who survived her mother's demise. Craven is called upon to portray a Puckish individual with a deeply-rooted, sincere friendship for the editor even when he pretends to be his most determined opponent in community affairs. This friendship is demonstrated when he saves the editor's paper by advancing badly-needed loans through another banker, this concealing his benevolence.

Romantic interludes in which Roger Pryor and Eileen O'Hearn figure are light, possibly in order to avoid drawing too much attention from the dominant theme. Pryor plays a renegade showman touring small towns where he takes the natives by exacting fees for producing stage attractions and training the local talent. He makes the most of an indifferently written role. The climax revolves about the editor's sponsorship of the undertaking despite the banker's warnings, Pryor's regeneration at a moment when the

FILM STARS IN FIRST AMG CAMP SHOW AT FORT ORD (15)

Entertainment for soldiers in camps by film stars and featured players has been undertaken by Artists Managers Guild, with talent being lined up for the first seven shows of the initial series. At the AMG meeting Tuesday night the wheels were set in motion for a speedy development of plans under consideration for some time. Named to the committee to administer the duties of the organization were Charles Feldman, chairman of the talent division; Abe Lastfogel and Bert Allenberg. William Dover of the Feldman-Blum agency will devote his full time to the details of organization and setting up units, the while retaining his berth with the agency.

First show will be staged at Fort Ord, near Monterey, Calif., June 15. Comprising the stellar cast of film names to initiate the project will be Jack Benny, Claudette Colbert, Ritz Brothers, Andrews Sisters, Tony Martin, Ray Bolger, Martha Raye, Burns and Allen, Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Nicholas Bros., Jane Withers, Franklyn D'Amour and eight girls from the studios. Mark Sandrich directs. Enough top names will be assembled for the opening performance to make up a two-hour show. Players between pictures or otherwise available are being contacted to make the first junket to the northern cantonment.

Fund of $5,000 has been subscribed by AMG members, and studios will be asked to make a like contribution to meet the costs of transportation, musicians' salaries and other incidentals. Enterprise will function as an independent adjunct of United Service Organizations, of which Y. Frank Freeman is Hollywood chairman, and Edward Arnold head of talent division.

RADIO POINTS WAY

For the past month or more radio has pointed the way to morale-building entertainment for the selectees and other khaki-clad minions of national defense. Standard Brands, in association with its radio agency, J. Walter Thomson, has been spotting its air talent in the various near-by camps. Additional to the regular broadcasts, such ether stars as Edgar Bergen, Abbott and Costello have given regular shows for the trainees, dusting off some of their old vaude routines. Cost of each out-of-town hegira, around $1,000, has been footed by the agency and its client. Bob Hope and others have made camp calls with their regular airings and an 'afterpiece' running for more than an hour. Understood that most camp-minded radio star is Jack Benny, who is planning to make as many calls on the soldiery as time will allow from his picture work, and foregoing his customary summer vacation.

Directors and writers also will be asked to volunteer their services, to whip up scripts and give the shows a professional polish. As soon as talent is lined up it will be organized into units and put through rehearsals. All agents are getting behind the project to make the shows outstanding among those to play the camps. First seven will be given in camps in the west, with subsequent units to be booked into the east.

Daily huddles center around the share participation Selznick and Capra will have in the company and the possibility of their producing, individually, a number of pictures to cover UA product needs within the next few months while details of the stock ownership can be worked out with other owners.

Mary Pickford is expected back from New York where she is understood to have conferred with James Mulvey on the possibility of his taking over as head of the organization, post from which Murray Silverstone withdrew to enter production on his own. Mulvey, New York representative for Samuel Goldwyn, had previously been offered the job about a month ago but turned it down, although Miss Pickford's eastern trip may influence him to change his mind.

NY Distrib Employes Ask Labor Execs For New Deal

New York, June 4.—Employes of all American distribution companies and one Mexican picture distributor appealed to labor authorities here today seeking an adjustment of contracts which have been in effect for the past two years. Workers term their demands as a peaceful request and they have no intention to strike or take other drastic action unless an extreme emergency develops.

Workers are asking for more coin and other economic concessions, and further request that two months be allowed for parleys to discuss the issue. Despite the peaceful gestures of the employes, their moves are frankly worrying the eight major U. S. distribs and the lone Mexican, Felipe Mier.

FLARE UP AT RADIO HEARING; FLY BLASTS

mission nobody will be penalized for honestly challenging the new regulations, but persisted under strong quizzing that the shall-nots are thoroughly justified by law and designed to protect everybody.

The hearing, which was suspended from today until Monday, was pretty much of a scuffle between Senator Wallace White of Maine (author of resolutions pigeon-holing the reforms) and Fly, with Chairman Wheeler frequently tongue-lashing both the industry and the regulators. Tempers flared quite often, such as when Fly implied that White is carrying the flag for monopolistic interests and when he said the regulators will not be trifled with by licensees.

Chairman Wheeler had to intervene several times while Fly and various solons exchanged frequent apologies. The trend of the hearing was not especially heartening to the industry people. Wheeler judiciously reprimanded both the broadcasters and the regulators. Less 'heat' on both sides would be advisable, Wheeler declaimed, after verbal war-tugging became embarrassing. The industry has entirely misrepresented the rules, and the 'industry press' has been carrying the ball, in responding to the Commission report, Fly charged.

HOT DEBATE

Citing statements by both NBC and Columbia, Fly wailed about 'exaggeration' and threw mean knives. Just what powers the Communications Act conferred on the regulators was hotly debated. Senator White, noting he wrote a good bit of the statute, maintained the regulatory body has gone much farther than Congress ever anticipated. Fly shot back quotations from court opinions, cited sections of the Act and read from transcripts of congressional debates and legislative documents. In response to White's yowls that the courts ought to decide what restrains competition, Fly repeated prior invitations to have it out before the judges. The Supreme court 'ultimately' will uphold the regulations, he predicted.

Tensest moment came when Fly said again the Commission will join any 'good faith' test of strength. The head regulator sarcastically implied the industry is seducing legislators into introducing bills and regulations and predicted they will use obstructionist tactics in court. Senator White hurled back a resentful statement that Fly had cast 'wholly gratuitous and unnecessary' reflection on his character. After Wheeler intervened, they kissed and made up.

Most of the hearing was devoted to lectures and counter lectures. Fly told Congress what it failed to do and should have done; White and other committeemen harangued Fly about abuses of authority. White acknowledged the possibility that Congress ought to rewrite the law, but table-pounded that the comish does not have sweeping authority to promulgate its own interpretations of anti-trust statutes. Restrictive contracts weren't written by the FCC, Fly noted, but Senator Johnson of Colorado made the point that a good many stations don't seem to appreciate the 'liberties' which Fly says will result from the regulations. Fly retorted that there has been little 'independent expression of opinion' about the reforms. Wheeler opined that both sides are subject to rebuke for misrepresentation and, deploring the hot tempers, indicated he doesn't blame the industry people for getting greatly excited.

EARMARKING TIME

Provision against an affiliation contract exceeding one year won't upset the industry, Fly maintained. Advertisers can earmark time for as long as they want. Stations can be 'sure of service' though they can't block neighbors from carrying programs which they reject or cannot air. Networks also can 'assure' themselves of outlets though not able to handcuff affiliates, he contended.

Prospect that the hearings may boomerang was seen as the committee suspended. Senator Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, who last summer gave both RCA and Columbia some unpleasant moments while fighting the renomination of the late commissioner, Thad Brown, said he wants about 'two hours', which probably will lead to several days of oral sparring to examine Fly about some very important matters. There was no hint as to their nature. Fly said he'll need another two hours to finish his justification of the rules.

guileless Buchanan almost loses his faith in humanity, and the presentation of the burlesque on a play of the '90's with the out-of-town critics in attendance due to the banker's acumen in changing road signs. The film has a poignant fadeout, properly enough handled with restraint, where the editor succumbs to a cardiac condition just as he receives word that the play is going over and the villagers who invested coin on the strength of his endorsement will be reimbursed. There's an excellent touch about an obituary, written for the banker when he seemed to be on his deathbed, printed for the editor simply by changing the names.

held simultaneously at the Ambassador hotel starting next Monday.

Due in today are Rotus Harvey, PCC trustee from San Francisco, and Bob White of Portland, representing the Oregon ITO in the Coast conference. Kuykendall is expected to arrive here from New York tomorrow, and Hugh Bruen, one of the two Los Angeles trustees, who has been in Seattle on business, also is expected then. W. G. Ripley is due in from Seattle Saturday or Sunday.

A special meeting of the PCC trustees has been called for 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the Ambassador, at which time the wives of the various members will be present. Dinner will be followed by a business session, laying final plans for the convention proper which opens the following morning.

Four different trustees will preside as chairman at the PCC meetings Monday through Thursday. Monday's chairman will be Bob White. On Tuesday, when the open forums of the convention start, Rotus Harvey of San Francisco will preside. L. O. Lukan will be chairman on Wednesday, speaking on 'Why I Am Opposed to Dual Bills', and Jack Y. Berman of Los Angeles will preside at the final business session Thursday morning. All business sessions of both the PCC and the MPTOA will be held in the Ambassador hotel theatre, the Pacific Coast group utilizing mornings for their business and the MPTOA holding its gatherings in the afternoons.

GO SOCIAL MONDAY

First social activity will be staged on Monday afternoon, when there are no sessions scheduled, and will consist of trips to all of the major studios. For these trips exhibitors and their wives will be divided into three parties, of approximately 350 each. First tour will cover three lots, second two studios and third another three of the production centers. Visiting exhibs will visit the various sets and meet the players.

Another feature of entertainment will be a barbecue tossed by the producers Tuesday night at the Columbia ranch, at which the various companies will provide the entertainment. Studios also will buy 100 table seats for the windup banquet at Earl Carroll's on Thursday, final night of the convention.

Kuykendall and Poole will open headquarters for their respective associations at the hotel on Saturday, with bulk of out-of-town exhibs due to arrive during Sunday or early on Monday. John Rugar, president of the Intermountain Theatre Association of Salt Lake, will head a large delegation of theatre men and their wives from the Utah territory, Rugar's wire advising that all exhibs who could get away from their business would attend.

Myers Says Minn. Anti-Consent Measure Is Unconstitutional

tion to a head. In consequence, some Northwest Allied leaders fear they'll not have sufficient satisfactory product next fall and winter to operate their theatres and they're beginning to wonder if a mistake wasn't made in pushing through the law which requires distributors to sell the entire season's product instead of in groups of five under the decree.

Addressing the Twin City Northwest Allied group, Myers said he expects distributors to attack the law's constitutionality and to continue the ban on selling if they're unable to obtain a temporary injunction to restrain its enforcement. While many exhibitor grievances have been adjusted through negotiation as a result of arbitration, numerous theatre owners have been discouraged from seeking relief because distributors utilize high-priced legal talent to represent them in proceedings, Myers said.

He declared the industry's biggest current problem is dwindling theatre attendance. Reason for it is a mystery, but the fact remains that a large section of the public now is seeking new and different thrills and spending money for entertainment other than films, he pointed out.

A. J. Cohen Testifies In Ullman Trial Over Col 'Smith'

Alfred J. Cohen of Republic was one of the important witnesses taking the stand yesterday at the second day of the plagiarism trial of Louis Ullman against Columbia Pictures, growing out of the filming of 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington'. Cohen said that in 1938 his story department made a synopsis of the Ullman yarn, 'Angel of Hell Hollow'.

Louis Foster, author of 'The Gentleman From Montana', was called, and then Lew Golder, agent, took the stand. Golder testified that he submitted a copy of the Ullman story to Hedda Hopper in 1938, and also talked with her about the yarn over the phone. In February of 1939, he said, he sent out approximately 100 copies of the Ullman story in published form to various motion picture producers and executives. This testimony was confirmed by Dorothy Austin, his secretary.

Michel Kraiki, a producer at Paramount, but acting story editor at Columbia at the time of the alleged story submission, testified that the yarn was read by one of the Columbia readers and a summary of it put on file with the studio. Edwin Schallert, drama editor of The Times, was the final witness of the day, and testified to being present at a meeting between Frank Capra and Miss Hopper in 1938.

Harry Cohn, Columbia prexy, and Capra have been subpoenaed by Attorney Herbert A. Huebner for the plaintiff, but likely will go on as defense witnesses and then be cross-examined by Huebner.

Service will be rented to theatres with regular weekly (or oftener) giveaways of the government savings issues.

Nazi Countries Tear H'd To Bits—But From Usage

New York, June 4. — American films are so favored over those of the Axis powers that even in Nazi-dominated countries old Hollywood prints are played until they are in tatters, according to Lacy Kastner, United Artists European sales manager, just arrived from Lisbon. Even in Spain, he said, German and Italian films are played only when no American product is available. He added that some of his company's prints there now are reduced to only about one-half their original screening length, as the worn parts have been clipped out.

Spectators, he explains, don't even seem to mind if vital parts of pictures are thus lost. Kastner will remain in America for several weeks.

Unions To Sue for Back Pay; Fleming OK's Exemptions

cals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, meeting last night to discuss negotiations, all agreed to institute suit in Federal court in an effort to recover retroactive pay for members who are affected. The locals also agreed that if a stoppage of work becomes necessary in order to enforce their demands on the Producers, members will be instructed to continue work on any Defense Program training pictures being produced on a non-profit basis for the War Department.

Vincent, as was stated exclusively in Daily Variety last month, disclosed that no inspection for retroactive pay will be made, and that only minor modifications are being made in the original recommendations of Eldred M. Cocking on 31 disputed classifications. The modifications provided that non-working best boys and gaffers are exempt, but that working gaffers and best boys are entitled to the benefits of the Act. He also held that a registered nurse was entitled to exemption as a professional employe, but that practical nurses and first aid men were not entitled to exemption.

In discussing his recommendations made to the Division after a hearing here and which have been approved by General Philip B. Fleming, Vincent said:

'I recommend that no formal inspections be made for the purpose of ascertaining whether restitution of wages may or may not be due prior to June 16, 1941, subject, of course, to the rights of individual employes under section 16(b) of the Act.

'This recommendation is made for the following reasons: Many of the job classifications involved in the survey are peculiar to the motion picture industry. Some of them are not basically different from craftsmen to be found in other industries, but, nevertheless, have aspects and functions which distinguish the duties involved from the work performed by such craftsmen in other industries. Others are peculiar to the moving picture industry alone. The rates of pay and hours of work which are typical in the foregoing job classifications and in the motion picture industry have long been established by collective union agreements and do not in many respects correspond to standard rates found elsewhere.

'MUCH UNCERTAINTY'

'Previous to establishing the classifications recommended herein, there was much uncertainty in the minds of the Producers and the unions respecting the exempt or non-exempt status of the work performed. This uncertainty extended to a considerable number of classifications. The fact that many of these classifications of positions were distinguished in their nature or functions from jobs found in other industries made it necessary to make a scientific survey and analysis of all jobs and positions in the industry, as a basis for determining their exemption status. The survey and analysis made by the Division for this purpose required the better part of a year's time. Then followed a hearing to afford both the Producers and the unions an opportunity to file objections to the classifications recommended by the Special Survey Analyst (Mr. Eldred M. Cocking). Following such hearing, additional time was required by me for the preparation of these recommendations.

'In view of the collective union contracts, wage rates and working hours prevailing in the industry, the uncertain status of some of the positions, and the length of time necessary to complete the survey and final recommendations, it appears but fair to recommend that no formal inspections be made for the purpose of determining possible liabilities arising from failure to observe the requirements of the Act and the regulations, subject, of course, to the rights of individual employes under section 16(b) of the Act.'

The original recommendations of Eldred M. Cocking, survey analyst of the Division, was that gaffers and best boys be exempted. Vincent modified these to provide they be exempted when they did not perform manual work, and that they be classified as non-exempt when they did perform manual work. Cocking also recommended that nurses be classified as non-exempt, and Vincent merely modified this to provide for the exemption of registered nurses. Practical nurses and first aid men remain non-exempt, as recommended by Cocking.

Classifications recommended as non-exempt by Cocking and so approved by Vincent and General Fleming follow: Set designer, assistant set designer, assistant cameraman, first company grip, second company grip, standby grip, standby painter, standby prop maker and special effectsman, standby plumber, second assistant director, script clerk, standby electrician, detective, process projectionist, first and second company propman, Class 2 and Class 3 soundman, extras $8.25 and under, wardrobe fitter, Class 1 and Class 2 costumer.

EXEMPT CLASSES

The following classifications are exempt, as recommended by Cocking:

Second cameraman, still cameraman, Class 1 soundman, actors, Class 1A and Class 1B makeup artists, body makeup artist, hair stylist, music department copyist, animal trainer, senior and junior publicists, scenario department title writer and title spotter.

Failure of the Department to order an inspection for back pay was discussed last night at the meeting of business representatives and committees from the studio locals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes. Herbert Aller, business head of International Photographers Local 659, said he would recommend that his union file suit for back pay on behalf of the approximately 216 assistant cameramen classified as non-exempt. Harold V. Smith, business representative of Sound Technicians Local 695 and chairman of the IATSE business representatives committee, is known to have already consulted an attorney with the idea of bringing suit for the soundmen. It is probable that Dave Sokol, former attorney for the National Labor Relations Board, will be retained to file the action. Other unions affected by the ruling are expected to join in the suits.

Willis Decision

Superior Court Judge Hugh M. Willis ruled yesterday that an employer has a legal right to discharge employes who are members of one union when the employer signs a closed shop contract with a rival union. Leo Stockwell and Earl W. Keeler, theatre projectionists and members of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers Union, were denied an injunction to restrain the Vinstrand Theatres, Inc., from discharging them following the signing of a closed shop deal with the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. The UERMWU is affiliated with the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Hansard Appeal Denied

Ted Hansard has received notice that his appeal for reinstatement as business representative of Affiliated Property Crafts Men Local 44 has been denied by George E. Browne, prexy of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes. The notice was forwarded by Louis Krouse, IATSE national secretary. Hansard was ousted after a fist fight with certain officers of the local, but a majority of the membership is said to have felt the action was too drastic.

Zanuck Doing Special For 20th Sales Sesh In New York July 9

Darryl F. Zanuck is supervising production of a special picture for the 20th-Fox sales convention opening July 9 in New York. It is planned for the film to be shown only to those attending the confab, although it later may be shown at consent decree trade screenings in July.

Zanuck also will turn actor for the picture, appearing in it with new 20th-Fox producers, William Le Baron, Ernst Lubitsch and Mark Hellinger. Sol Wurtzel, William Perlberg, Lou Edelman, Robert T. Kane, Harry Joe Brown, Nunnally Johnson, Milton Sperling, Lou Ostrow, Ralph Dietrich and Walter Morosco also will be shown.

Producers will speak from the screen, telling their production plans for the coming season. There also will be scenes from pictures that will still be in production at the time of the convention, screen tests and other material dealing with acting personnel.

20th-Fox will not have any special features completed in time to be screened at the convention, but the studio expects to have at least two packages of five each ready for exhibitors by August 1.

'Dressed to Kill', 'Charlie Chan In Rio', 'Last of the Duanes' and 'Private Nurse' already have been finished for next season. Before the cameras are 'Belle Starr', 'A Yank In the R.A.F.', 'Charley's Aunt' and 'Wild Geese Calling'.

Rushes from pictures not completed also will be shown along with Zanuck's special convention film. Studio figures to have 'How Green Was My Valley' and 'Remember the Day' ready for trade showings by the first of September. On that date there will be at least 20 completed films for 1941-42 release.

Casey at Desk Today

Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, returns to his desk here today, after spending several weeks in New York, during which time he appeared before the Federal Grand Jury investigating the extortion charges against George E. CENTRAL LABOR COUNCIL ENTERS STRIKE will order Disney products placed on the AFofL unfair list and that a national labor boycott of Disney products will be launched. The proposed deal would call for reinstatement of all strikers and discharged employes and would give all AFofL crafts closed shop contracts. The company would be given 30 days to adjust wages with the Screen Cartoonists Guild.

While the Council committee was contacting company officials, J. W. Buzzell, executive secretary-treasurer of the Central Labor Council, was addressing 600 members of the SCG meeting at headquarters of Moving Picture Painters Local 644. Joseph Clarke, international vice-president of the Brotherhood of Painters, also spoke.

Buzzell told the Cartoonists that the Central Labor Council and the AFofL is solidly behind them. He said that if the company does not agree to sign with the unions the AFofL will use all of its tools to enforce recognition of the unions and bring the company to terms.

A request for RKO to cease distributing Disney cartoons for duration of the strike was made yesterday by Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644, at a conference with Sid Rogell, RKO studio manager. Later Sorrell sent a letter to Rogell stating that if the company continued to handle Disney films a national labor boycott and other actions would have to be started against RKO products in order to protect the interests of members of the Screen Cartoonists Guild.

Earlier in the day William Littlejohn, SCG prexy, issued a statement outlining the reasons why the Guild now refuses to agree to a National Labor Relations Board election to designate a bargaining representative for Disney employes. The statement follows:

'The request of the company for an election is made only for the purpose of beclouding the issues involved in our strike. The union offered on numerous occasions prior to the strike to enter into an election or a cross-check of its membership against the company payroll. Each time the company refused our offer. This strike was forced on the union by the unlawful tactics of the company.

'On May 22, after a hearing at the NLRB on charges of company unionism, the company signed a stipulation by which it agreed to cease and desist from interference with the organizational activities of its employes, to dis-establish its company union, the Federation of Screen Cartoonists, or any successor thereof.

'Immediately thereafter, the company dis-established the old company union, the Federation, and organized a new union, the American Society of Screen Cartoonists, six of the seven incorporators of which were officers of the old Federation. Determined then to terrorize its employes into submission, it fired 18 Guild leaders, including the treasurer of the Guild and four stewards. The day before the strike was called, it discharged Arthur Babbitt, chairman of the Disney unit of the Guild, an animator of 10 years' service, and one of the outstanding artists in the industry. In the letter of discharge, Gunther Lessing, vice-president of the company, stated that Babbitt was being discharged solely for his union activities.

'The Guild is striking against company unionism, intimidation, discrimination and persecution. The only guarantee of the good faith of the company and of its intention to comply with the law is in the recognition of our union and the reinstatement of the leaders fired for union activity. The company cannot on the one hand violate every provision of the Wagner Act and on the other hand try to hide behind it. The company has known for three months that the union represented the overwhelming majority of its artists. If it wants further proof it need only count the 450 artists on the picket line against the 130 in the studio.'

A 24-hour picket is being maintained at the Disney studio, and flying squadrons also are picketing theatres exhibiting Disney products.

Grand Jury Probe of IA Officers Offed Till July 9

The Los Angeles County Grand Jury investigation into activities of national officers of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes has gone over until July 9. In the meantime it is understood that efforts are being made to serve a subpoena on Floyd Billingsley, IATSE vice-prexy at San Francisco, who is desired as a witness. Harold V. Smith, business representative of Sound Technicians Local 695, who also is under subpoena as a witness, yesterday was instructed to return.

Hollywood Inside

PRODUCERS ASSOCIATION, at the instance of Jock Lawrence, recently issued engraved, framed 'distinguished service' scrolls to all those who made the trip from Hollywood to the Mexican Motion Picture Festival in Mexico City in April. These were followed up later by resolutions of appreciation. Scrolls and written resolutions were sent first to those who actually made the trip, later to publicity directors and executives at studios who were adjudged to have been cooperative. The trip to Mexico originally was devised as a promotion stunt for Globe Productions' 'Pot o' Gold' by Johnny Miles, then publicity director for James Roosevelt. Miles sent men to Mexico City to line up details and Roosevelt's political connections were vitally important in laying the groundwork for the junket. At the last minute Lawrence took over the job of promoting the junket when it became an industry affair. When his distinguished service awards were dispatched, Lawrence failed to send any to the two individuals responsible for the trip, Roosevelt and Miles.

FURTHER cast shuffling on 'Weekend For Three' took place at RKO yesterday with Jane Wyatt drawing the femme lead opposite Dennis O'Keefe in the former film, originally intended as a Ginger Rogers starrer. Irving Reis will direct the picture under the production guidance of Tay Garnett, studio executives figuring latter's experience in both production and direction will help Reis move up into larger budgeted features. Same plan is being tried out on 'Unexpected Uncle', on which Peter Godfrey will make his director bow with Garnett in the producer seat. 'Weekend' will have Edward Everett Horton, Philip Reed, Franklin Pangborn and Marion Martin in the cast and was scripted by Alan Campbell and Dorothy Parker from the Budd Schulberg original. Charles Coburn, Anne Shirley and James Craig have the leads in 'Uncle'.

AFTER hatching up the notion to put out a picture built around the world of radio and cast with radio personalities, Universal has now decided to forget the air show angles in exploiting 'Radio Revels of 1942'. Sales executives figure that radio personalities might be popular at home, for free, but that they won't pack people into theatres via the box office, for cash. Ken Murray, Frances Langford, Don Wilson, Skinnay Ennis and band, Senor Lee, Elvia Allman and Hanley Stafford are among the air performers in the picture. Under the plan of selling the picture, those in top roles, like Ken Murray and Frances Langford, will be billed as 'stage and screen stars' with no mention of their radio work.

THERE will probably be a mighty squawk today at 20th-Fox among some of the 500 extras who have been called for the retreat from Dunkirk sequences for 'Yank in the R.A.F.' Central Casting heard mutters of discontent when a number of extras refused the call yesterday because it paid only $11. Those who turned the job down complained that the pay figure should be either $35, for stunt work, or, at a minimum, $16.50, for especially stiff chores. Job calls for the extras to fall into the water with a heavy pack, to work in blowups and around explosions, to dash through clouds of smoke, to fall into the mud and to carry heavy rifles.

GRADUATING classes from 25 high schools in this region will be guests of Warners Sunday at the Forum theatre for a screening of new films produced by the U. S. Ronald Reagan, Jane Wyman, William Lundigan, Alexis Smith and several naval officers will be on a broadcast from the stage of the theatre during the day. Program, to be presided over by Vierling Kersey, Los Angeles school superintendent, is the first of a series of such affairs Warners, with the cooperation of the Navy, will present throughout the country.

DURING the past year Warners has wasted no time in bringing along at least three directors. With the start of 'The Maltese Falcon' today the studio is trying the experiment with a fourth, John Huston. Irving Rapper, whose first was 'Shining Victory', will direct 'One Foot in Heaven'. He was previously a dialog director at the studio. Curtis Bernhardt's initial one was 'My Love Came Back', followed by 'Million Dollar Baby'. Vincent Sherman's first was 'The Return of Dr. X', his latest is 'Underground'.

Film Previews

Out of the Fog

(Comedy Drama)

Warners release of a First National production. Cast: Ida Lupino, John Garfield, Thomas Mitchell, Eddie Albert, George Tobias, John Qualen, Aline MacMahon, Jerome Cowan, Odette Myrtil, Leo Gorcey, Robert Homans, Bernard Gorcey, Paul Harvey. Directed by Anatole Litvak. Executive producer, Hal B. Wallis. Associate producer, Henry Blanke. Screenplay, Robert Rossen, Jerry Wald and Richard Macaulay. From Irwin Shaw's play, 'The Gentle People'. Photography, James Wong Howe. Art director, Carl Jules Weyl. Film editor, Warren Low. Special effects, Rex Wimpy. Music director, Leo F. Forbstein. Previewed June 5. Running time: 85 mins.

In careful and skillful production, with top-notch playing and direction, Irwin Shaw's play, 'The Gentle People', works out as moving and thought-provoking drama under the less specific screen title, 'Out of the Fog'. Never veering very far from the original, and retaining the major comedy situations and laugh lines, the film version, scripted by Robert Rossen, Jerry Wald and Richard Macaulay, nevertheless leans somehow more toward the ironic than the comic, largely perhaps, because of the savagery with which John Garfield plays the grafting hoodlum. Limited audiences will relish it thoroughly, because of its theatrical, productional and creative merits. To win wider patronage will require every selling device. The nature of the piece—two middle aged, gentle men pitting a defensive philosophy of peace and good will against the torturing brutality of a powerful young grafter—presents the marketing problem, in view of the current taste.

Thomas Mitchell and John Qualen, a tailor and a waterfront cook, find supreme delight and surcease from their monotonous labors in going fishing so many nights a week in their little boat. John Garfield, a guy who has rocks where his heart should be, moves in to collect five dollars per week to 'protect' the skiff. He also turns the head of the tailor's daughter, a frantic sort of telephone operator, who wants to find the 'unusual' in life. Eddie Albert, her quiet, steady beau, is pushed out of the way. The hoodlum makes life hell for the three men and for everyone else he encounters. On a heedless tip from the daughter, Garfield demands a lifetime savings from Mitchell. The two elderly men had planned to buy with that money a bigger boat and to go to the Gulf Stream for mighty swordfish—a top adventure of a colorless life. Cunning at last, with a deadly rebellion against the grafter, symbol of all violent people preying on the meek and the gentle everywhere, the two victims plot to pitch Garfield overboard from their little craft. An act of God saves them the crime. They even recover some of the crook's pelf, beside their own money, and pledge it to charity.

Thus the fable of Brooklyn, as Irwin Shaw designated his play.

It is beautifully played, and tellingly directed by Anatole Litvak. Ida Lupino creates another outstanding character in her growing repertoire of tragic and oblique women, etched unforgettably. John Garfield makes his satanic portrayal the very essence of symbolical villainy—so much so that audiences will resent his easy death in the drowning accident. Thomas Mitchell upholds his standard of excellence. John Qualen maneuvers skillfully between whimsical comedy and tragic foreboding in his highly individual manner for an outstanding result. Albert has a short role but a good one. George Tobias'

West Point Widow

(Drama)

Paramount production. Stars Anne Shirley. Features Richard Carlson, Richard Denning, Frances Gifford, Maude Eburne, Janet Beecher, Cecil Kellaway. Supporting players: Archie Twitchell, Lillian Randolph, Patricia Farr, Sharon Lynne, Deanna Jean Hall, Eddie Conrad. Director, Robert Siodmak. Producer, Sol C. Siegel. Associate producer, Colbert Clark. Screenplay, F. Hugh Herbert and Hans Kraly. Based on a story by Anne Wormser. Photography, Theodor Sparkuhl. Art direction, Hans Dreier and Haldane Douglas. Film editor, Archie Marshek. Costumes, Edith Head. Sound recording, Phil Wisdom and Don Johnson. Dialog direction, F. Hugh Herbert. Assistant director, C. C. Coleman, Jr. Previewed June 5. Running time: 63 mins.

'West Point Widow' measures up as a good entry in the program field. There are a number of topnotch performances, notably those of Anne Shirley and Richard Carlson; some chuckles, and a general high production tone to help carry the story. Picture is the first from the new Sol C. Siegel unit at Paramount, and augurs well for future budget entries from that division, reflecting as it does careful judgment of values and the best obtainable results from the material.

Script by F. Hugh Herbert and Hans Kraly is based on a story by Anne Wormser. The plot tells of a girl who has her marriage to a West Pointer annulled so his army career can go on, and how she attempts to raise their baby by nursing until the time he graduates and can again claim her. Her attempts to conceal knowledge of the baby from her coworkers and the attentions of an interne allow for a number of amusing sequences and the finale carries a twist that delights.

Miss Shirley as the nurse and Richard Carlson as the interne have most of the footage and turn in talented performances that add to their film stature. Miss Shirley is most advantageously photographed by Theodor Spakuhl and becomingly gowned by Edith Head. Among the supporting players Maude Eburne, with a very funny blowsy landlady character, and Archie Twitchell, as another interne, show best. A most charming young baby, played at various ages by Sharon Lynne and Deanna Jean Hall, is a surefire interest catcher. Richard Denning shows the results of Paramount's grooming with a brief, but excellent, West Pointer spot. Frances Gifford, Janet Beecher, Cecil Kellaway, Lillian Randolph, Patricia Farr and Eddie Conrad do well with their short footage.

Robert Siodmak makes his American debut as a director with this, and generally gives a good impression. There are several scenes, particularly the football sequence, that are held too long for interest, but his handling of the balance of the picture is first rate. Colbert Clark as associate producer under Siegel did well by his assignment, and the other contributions are equally as capable.

Artists Managers Rush Show for Sunday At Camp Roberts

Following receipt of a plea from officers at Camp Roberts, San Miguel, California, that the camp was sorely in need of entertainment, Artists Managers Guild yesterday hurriedly assembled a show and were working into the late hours last night to ready a unit for Sunday.

William Dover, assigned to organization work and rounding up of talent by AMG, declared last night that some difficulty was being encountered on account of the short notice but that a show would be given at Camp Roberts Sunday regardless.

Among the early volunteers for the first camp show by AMG, which will keep talent pouring into the cantonments to keep the soldiers happy, were Laurel and Hardy, Borrah Minnevich and his Harmonica Rascals, Jane Withers and Buddy Pepper, Red Skelton, Ella Logan, Marta Farrell, Virginia O'Brien and Jimmy Durante unless he is tied up by a commitment in Frisco. Troupe leaves by bus Sunday morning, returning at midnight. An orchestra also will be taken along.

First call on Hollywood to supply a headliner for an eastern unit came yesterday from William Morris and Robert Sherwood, committee heads. Allan Jones was contacted and immediately consented to join the eastern unit, which will be out two weeks. He flies out Monday for the east and joins the troupe at Fort Bragg. Other cantonments to be visited are Camps Davis, Croft, Stuart, Blanding and Wheeler, and Forts Bragg, Jackson and Benning. Unit winds up the tour at Atlanta.

Frank Capra Testifies In Ullman, Col Suit Over 'Smith'

Frank Capra took the stand yesterday as a defense witness in the Louis Ullman plagiarism action against Columbia, arising from the filming of 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington'. Capra was cross-examined as to the nature of the material which it is alleged is an infringement on the Ullman story, 'Angel of Hell Hollow'.

Herbert A. Huebner, attorney for the plaintiff, contended that although 'Mr. Smith' reportedly was based on a story entitled 'The Gentleman From Montana', by Louis Foster, the material in the film which it is charged is an infringement was not present in the Foster yarn but was written into the screenplay.

William Hinkel, attorney for Columbia, questioned Capra during the morning court session, with Huebner conducting the cross-examination in the afternoon. Capra is to continue on the stand this morning for further questioning.

Morris yesterday was notified to report today to the Naval Reserve at Long Beach. He was informed that he will have an ensign's rating. Actor originally was given a 90-day deferment by the Army because he had applied for a non-commissioned officer's status in the Naval Reserve.

Producers Mull Back Pay; Biz Reps Study Reports for legal opinions and recommendations. While Vincent recommended that no formal inspections be made for the purpose of ascertaining whether restitution of wages may or may not be due prior to June 16, the question was raised as to whether the companies had committed themselves by notifying employes wage adjustments would be made if they were affected by the decision.

Representatives of the 10 studio locals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes have already agreed to make formal demand upon the Producers for back pay. It was stated that if this was refused, suits would be filed in Federal Court for double the amount of wages that might be due, court costs and attorneys fees. The request for back pay, however, will be incorporated in the demands to be submitted by the unions.

A meeting of company attorneys is expected to be held today, with the probability that certain producer representatives will be called in. Y. Frank Freeman, prexy of the Producers Association, discussed the situation with officials of the Wage-Hour Division at a luncheon the first of this week.

The Producers at their session yesterday are reported to have tentatively agreed to requests of the Screen Actors Guild for reclassification of extra brackets. These call for elimination of the $8.25 and $11 calls, establishment of a $10 or $10.50 ticket and placing of a limitation on the use of $5.50 players.

Counter proposals will be made to the demands of the Screen Directors Guild for minimum wages and to the contract proposals of the Screen Writers Guild. Meetings with these three groups will be arranged this week. Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, has been recalled from the east to direct negotiations with the 10 IATSE studio locals, but their demands have not yet been submitted.

Fred Pelton read the Wage-Hour decision to the executives yesterday, and presented the proposals of the various guilds and unions that have submitted demands.

The Producer session was held in the offices of Y. Frank Freeman at Paramount. In addition to the attorneys, the following executives were present: Louis B. Mayer, E. J. Mannix, Joseph M. Schenck, William Goetz, Harry Cohn, B. B. Kahane, Sol Siegel, E. H. Goldstein, H. M. Warner, J. L. Warner, Samuel Goldwyn, Cliff Work, Hal Roach, J. R. McDonough and Fred.W. Beetson.

SCG TIGHTENS LINES ON DISNEY

parked their cars across the opening and blocked anybody entering or leaving the plant. Several were towed away, but others were quickly thrown across the opening.

A mass demonstration was staged at 5:30 p.m., at which time Gunther Lessing, Disney vice-president, was hanged in effigy. Approximately 1,200 pickets, led by the fife and drum corps of the Schlesinger Guild unit, marched back and forth in front of the main gate. Cowboy pickets rode along the wire fence and William Littlejohn, SCG prexy, flew back and forth over the studio, dipping the wings of his plane to the pickets. Later the strikers assembled in a vacant lot across the street where they were addressed by Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644 and one of the strike leaders.

The Central Labor Council had agreed to call off the strike and request all workers to return to their jobs if the company signs a blanket agreement to recognize all the crafts. The company would agree to reinstate all strikers and discharged employes, and would be given 30 days to make wage adjustments with the Cartoonists. The committee is headed by Harry Sherman, prexy, and J. W. Buzzell, executive secretary-treasurer of the Central Labor Council.

Negotiations have been slowed some by the necessity of Buzzell appearing at the North American aviation strike, but it was indicated that there were strong probabilities that an agreement might be reached to end the walkout. None of the AFofL workers are crossing the Guild picket lines and full support of the American Federation of Labor has been promised the strikers. The Central Labor Council has announced that if Disney does not agree to recognize the crafts, a national labor boycott will be started against his products. The Brotherhood of Painters also is threatening to picket RKO if that company continues to distribute Disney shorts. It is understood that officials of RKO are anxious to see a settlement reached before they become involved.

Academy Recommends Less Silk in Dresses For Film Work

A suggestion that all dancers be required to wear over shoe socks when appearing on studio sets is contained in a report of the Research Council of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences carrying recommendations for reducing acoustic difficulties in picture production. Other recommendations call for substitution of chipped cork for gravel on walks and driveways, substitution of celanese taffeta for silk in women's dresses, overlayer of soft building board on cement, stone and flagstone walks.

Double windows are recommended to reduce noise when it is necessary to have a production shot show rain striking against a window. It also was stated the noise could be further reduced by the use of a receptacle, filled with rubberized hair, to catch the water as it falls from the window. An experiment showed rubberized hair to be more effective as a noise reducer than sawdust, excelsior or other materials.

The Council recommendations, prepared by a sub-committee under the chairmanship of William A. Mueller, are being distributed today to all studio art directors, set construction departments, set dressers, etc. Other members of the committee are C. W. Faulkner, Gordon Sawyer, William Thayer and Gordon S. Mitchell, manager of the Research Council. Loren Ryder is chairman of the basic sound committee.

Petrillo Explains AFM Victory Over AGMA In Long Fight

Seattle, June 5.—The American Federation of Musicians has won a complete victory over the American Guild of Musical Artists, with 98% of the virtuosos now signed up with the AFM, according to Prexy James C. Petrillo, here to attend the annual AFM convention.

The most serious problem confronting the convention is the canned music situation, and something must and will be done even though it takes a long campaign, Petrillo stated.

The executive board of the AFM met all day today considering the report of Ben Selvin, who has made a survey of the use of recorded music in juke boxes and on radio stations. The board will be in session Friday and Saturday and possibly Sunday, reporting its findings to the convention on Monday.

Olsen, Johnson Arrive To Prepare Universal 'Hellzapoppin'' Pic

Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson arrived here yesterday from New York to begin preparations on 'Hellzapoppin', Jules Levey's next production for Universal. Picture will roll June 23, with Henry C. Potter directing.

Nat Perrin is writing the story. Eight new songs have been written for the film by Don Raye and Gene de Paul. Chief difficulty in transferring the musical from the stage to pictures has been in devising sequences to take the place of those scenes requiring audience participation (of which the show largely consisted) in the stage version.

RKO SUES POMMER ON HIS CONTRACT

RKO has filed suit for declaratory relief in Superior court against Erich Pommer, asking that its right to discharge the producer, under terms of his contract, be upheld. Illness of Pommer with a heart attack, lasting from April 17 to May 20, resulted in studio exercising contract clause assertedly giving it the right to terminate pact in case of any illness lasting longer than three weeks.

Pommer, who was given a new 52-week contract last March 31 after a year on the lot, has refused to accept the discharge and contends the pact is still in force. Two production assignments, 'Weekend For Three' and 'Unexpected Uncle', which Pommer was to have done before his illness and subsequent dismissal, have been reassigned to Tay Garnett.

Pasternak leaves Universal in about five weeks on completion of his current Deanna Durbin picture, 'Almost An Angel'. He has been with Universal since 1936 when he started his chores at $300 a week and is understood to have hiked the weekly take to around $3,500 currently.

Hollywood Inside

BEEFS of extras over being paid only $11 for their work Friday in the retreat from Dunkirk sequence in 20th-Fox's 'Yank in the R.A.F.' were cooled somewhat when the studio tossed them a quarter-check extra, although many of them were dismissed an hour before overtime would have started. The extras claimed they were required to work on the beach, in water, around guns, trucks, boats, smoke and explosions, and many of them insisted the call should have been paid stunt wages. To add to the confusion, the wardrobe ran out of dry uniforms, and more than 100 of the players were wearing their own civilian clothes when dismissed around 4 p.m. The names of some 124 extras who ran out of dry clothes were taken down by studio officials, but representatives of the Screen Actors Guild present said they did not know why the names were taken. Howard R. Philbrick, Central Casting general manager, his assistant Antrim Short, and Charles Drubin and other SAG representatives were on the set during shooting of the evacuation scene.

TEN thousand Texas kids and Walter Wanger are in a tug-of-war as to who shall enjoy the company of 'Penny', the only baby African elephant in this country, for the next three weeks. Wanger wants the big-eared baby pachyderm for his picture, 'Sundown', and had made a deal with the Fort Worth zoo to borrow him, at a handsome rental, for the period the film company is on location at Acoma, New Mexico. But the youngsters really own the elephant through popular subscription, and no sooner did they hear of the proposal to send the animal away during their school vacation period than they set up an awful squawk. The board of park commissioners in Fort Worth rescinded the deal, temporarily, to get their breath, and now Wanger is doing his utmost to have it go through without arousing the further furies of the Texas tykes who had figured on feeding their communal pet a lot of peanuts during the next few months. The elephant is mighty important to the script, also.

Invite is signed by Mayor P. J. Benbough, Walter W. Cooper, city manager; Walter Bellon, chairman of the San Diego county board of supervisors, and Joseph C. Dyer, president of the San Diego City and County Convention Bureau. Seal of each of the four officials has been affixed and invitation has been prominently displayed at the exhibitor registration booth. San Francisco, as well as the Pacific Northwest cities, Seattle and Portland, are also angling for the 1942 coast exhibitor meet, with the odds slightly favoring San Francisco.

PROTESTS by members of Affiliated Property Craftsmen Local 44 over double-shifting without overtime was ruled out by officers of the organization at a meeting Friday night. The workers were told there is no provision in the Local 44 Constitution or in the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes contract negotiated by Willie Bioff that would permit the union demanding overtime for members who work double shifts. Those protesting claim men who work the morning shift at one studio are called in by another studio for an afternoon shift and that the company in that way avoids the payment of overtime. Hundreds of the workers are peeved over the deal set by Bioff, and are certain to demand a new provision ending double-shifting unless overtime is paid.

SHEILAH GRAHAM, North American Newspaper Alliance correspondent in Hollywood, will fly to Lisbon and then to England, for a six-week stay, in mid-July. Miss Graham will write feature stories about the war from England for the NANA. After a month and a half she'll return to this country for a lecture tour and to resume her duties in Hollywood. Newspaperwoman is using her regular vacation period to take on the assignment as a war correspondent. She recently returned from New York, where her syndicate managers arranged all details of her trip with British and American State departments. During her absence her duties will be assumed by Harold Heffernan, who also covers here for NANA.

SO THAT there may be no lost illusions by radio audiences when they see Fibber McGee and Molly (Jim and Marion Jordan) on the screen, in their film, 'Look Who's Laughing', RKO has deliberately avoided writing anything into their roles above the 'corn' the ether patrons widely have relished and approved. Studio figures for its keynote the Crossley rating which gives the radio program top current rating. Temptation, RKO believed, was to make Fibber and Molly smart and sophisticated above their regular level of air entertainment, reaching some 25,000,000, and that was very carefully sidestepped.

SHOOTING on 'The Yearling' will be resumed at Metro in about 10 days under direction of King Vidor, who took over the assignment from Victor Fleming. Cast and crew that had been working in Florida for the past few weeks, plus the animals, are now back at the studio awaiting new go signal. Delay is occasioned by production huddles that will likely result in several cast changes being made and studio is still undecided about the selection of a young player to portray the title role.

Film Preview and Reviews

Tight Shoes

(Comedy)

Universal release of a Mayfair production. Features John Howard, Binnie Barnes, Brod Crawford, Anne Gwynne, Leo Carrillo, Samuel S. Hinds. Supporting cast: Shemp Howard, Richard Lane, Sarah Padden, Ed Gargan, Selmer Jackson, Robert Emmett O'Connor, Tom Dugan. Director, Albert S. Rogell. Original story, Damon Runyon. Screenplay, Leonard Spigelgass and Art Arthur. Photography, Elwood Bredell. Art director, Jack Otterson; associate, Ralph M. DeLacy. Film editor, Otto Ludwig. Musical director, H. J. Salter. Sound supervisor, Bernard B. Brown; technician, Robert Pritchard. Gowns, Vera West. Set decorations, R. A. Gausman. Previewed at the Alexander, Glendale, June 6. Running time: 67 mins.

'This is a very funny picture.' And probably the closest interpretation of the Damon Runyon humor that has yet been brought to the screen. It doesn't have assured marquee names to rate first billing in the de luxe houses, but will provide the strongest of support, and looks headed for a laugh success in the other situations.

Runyon's tale of how a big city's political setup is turned topsy-turvy when a gangster buys a pair of 'Tight Shoes' is ably adapted to the screen by Scripters Leonard Spigelgass and Art Arthur, and the players, from top to bottom of the list, romp home with a slam-bang 67 minutes of fun and action under the slick direction of Albert S. Rogell. There is a John Doe-ish touch when Mr. Average Man, in the person of Shoe Clerk John Howard, runs amuck against political corruption. The fun starts when Brod Crawford forces Howard to sell him shoes that are too small, on the assumption that his feet couldn't be larger.

Taking it from there everyone plays it broadly and to the hilt. Crawford makes a hunch bet because of the shoes and loses his boss's money and his girl friend, Binnie Barnes. Howard is forced into public office on the crest of a newspaper campaign. Is tricked into deserting his long-time sweetie, Anne Gwynne, for Miss Barnes. Life finally catches up with the principals in a honey of a church wedding sequence where brides and grooms are exchanged merrily in scene after scene of sustained hilarity and slapdown, drag-out slugging between the four leaders.

Howard, Miss Barnes, Crawford and Miss Gwynne are solid successes, each sharing equal honors and each giving much to their individual Runyon characters to assure happy playing time for exhibitors who book the feature. Leo Carrillo, Samuel S. Hinds, Shemp Howard and Richard Lane, who are respectively a bewildered shoe store owner, the brains behind the political corruption, the very funny stooge and the newspaper man who tells the story in retrospect, sock over their chores. Sarah Padden, Ed Gargan, Selmer Jackson, Robert Emmett O'Connor and Tom Dugan, the latter with a swell bookie bit, complete the first rate cast who help generously with the fun.

Albert S. Rogell's direction of this production by the Jules Levey Mayfair unit at Universal is a smart comedy interpretation. Each laugh and every scene is given wisest presentation. The camera work by Elwood Bredell, the film editing by Otto Ludwig, the art direction and every other contribution are important factors.

Two-Fisted Rangers

(Western With Music)

Columbia production and release. Stars Charles Starrett. Features Iris Meredith, Sons of the Pioneers. Supporting cast: Bob Nolan, Kenneth MacDonald, Dick Curtis, Hal Taliaferro, Bill Cody, Jr., Pat Brady. Director, Joseph Lewis. Screenplay, Fred Myton. Film editor, Charles Nelson. Photography, George Meehan. Music and lyrics, Bob Nolan and Tim Spencer. Reviewed at the Hitching Post, June 6. Running time: 60 mins.

This is a western distinguished by a surefire instrumental and singing sextette billed as Sons of the Pioneers. Coupled with the conventional quota of brawn and pistol duels, horsemanship, and a stalwart, handsome cowboy Robin Hood in Charles starrett, western fans won't complain of being short-changed by this one.

Starrett is an unusually lithe and active principal and impressive both on and off a horse. In this innocuous narrative he comes to seek revenge for the killing of his brother, sheriff of a lawless community which has fallen into the grip of an unscrupulous gang leader who employs trigger men to carry out holdups and keeps a figurehead sheriff to help him evade the law.

Also involved in this yarn is Iris Meredith, the girl who determines to carry on the fearless editorial policy of her father who was rubbed out for daring to call on the decent citizens of the community to elect a new sheriff and put an end to the reign of terror. Starrett arrives just in time to beat up a couple of villainous characters who have upset the typecases, overtured the forms and the flatbed press, and terrorized the girl and a youngster who has been helping her.

In order to get a line on his brother's murderers Starrett first poses as a crooked gambler horning in on the town's rackets. As such he is accepted by the small town Napoleonic mastermind who directs all criminal activities in the territory.

Kenneth MacDonald, the heavy, keeps his trigger men pretty busy in this sagebrush meller. His head man has a pretty full day holding up a payroll stage, busting up a meeting of townspeople, hunting down the guy on the white horse who has been stirring up all the opposition. Action and suspense are maintained at a pretty swift pace throughout.

Boss of Bullion City

(Western)

Universal production and release. Cast: Johnny Mack Brown, Fuzzy Knight, Nell O'Day, Maria Montez, The Guadalajara Trio, Harry Woods, Melvin Lang, Dick Alexander, Earle Hodgins, Karl Hackett, George Humbert. Director, Ray Taylor. Assistant director, Howard Christie. Associate producer, Joseph G. Sanford. Screenplay, Arthur St. Claire and Victor McLeod. Story, Arthur St. Claire. Photography, William Sickner. Reviewed at the Hitching Post, June 6. Running time: 63 mins.

Johnny Mack Brown turns out to be one of the mighty tough western heroes in this one, a fighting man who keeps things moving pretty fast. Not only that, but he also makes eyes at two dames at the same time, which should be okay with the Hays office since it doesn't go any further than a mild flirtation.

Nell O'Day, the split-skirted gal who rides a horse and handles a gun with the best of them, registers as an excellent bet not only for westerns. Under a less prosaic monicker she indicates possibilities in more pretentious assignments.

The yarn, by Arthur St. Claire, deals with the current vogue for crusading frontier town editors who come strolling into western outposts with printing presses strapped on their backs, figuratively speaking, and start panning the crooked politicians, sheriffs, or what have you.

Johnny Mack Brown is the publisher in this instance, backing up his editorial opinions with a powerful wallop. Calling attention to the flock of killings and stage holdups which go unpunished, Brown incurs the enmity of the crooked sheriff who pretends to be the law in Bullion City. Brown also is obliged to turn safecracker for once, looting the Wells Fargo safe in order to prevent the sheriff's men from getting the gold first—a rather dangerous trick that could lead to embarrassing explanations.

Fuzzy Knight comes in for a couple of comedy sequences as Brown's Man Friday. Two out of three times Nell O'Day comes to his rescue. Though the newspaper publishing theme at a time and place where seven-eighths of the natives can't read is rather thin and unconvincing, the implausibility of the story most likely will be overlooked in the continual round of chasing and scrapping melees.

The Guadalajara Trio, Latin guitarists, are a strong musical addition to the production.

Sam Wood Will Direct Par 'Bell Tolls'

Sam Wood has signed with Paramount to direct the Ernest Hemingway novel, 'For Whom the Bell Tolls'. He will check in at Paramount to make preparations as soon as he completes 'Kings Row', not yet in work at Warners.

tors and Producers for working under the governmental consent decree which becomes effective shortly.

It is to be hoped that the consent decree will be properly interpreted in the relationship between the producers, distributors and exhibitors.

The decree was asked for by the industry and the Government wants it carried out properly.

It will need patience and tolerance until it may be working smoothly.

Then it is hoped the benefits that were not previously derived from company selling plans will come to the exhibitors.

BESIDES this, you will no doubt discuss the business conditions which for a long time have been bad in theatres but are improving now. You will take up the matter of Government interest in production and distribution.

Of course, the matter of dual bills may come up for discussion. Probably there will be no remedy for this co-called evil outside of the attitude of the public who support or do not support, what they like or do not like.

YOU will no doubt discuss the Ascap seat tax. Road showing of pictures will be taken up too. You probably will find this process of selling has value, and also handicaps, especially when release dates of important and entertaining pictures are set back for long periods.

Quality of pictures will be another vital topic with you. That is something which is the life of the box office. Undoubtedly what pictures cost to make is of no concern to you, providing they are successful for you. You are not interested in studio overhead, talent costs, etc. So far as you are concerned, if pictures merit the expenditure, no doubt you will want to encourage.

You, as we, have no fault to find with what the producers make as long as it is profitable to you and them and gets the approbation of the picture theatre goers.

THE industry has had its costly productions that have meant dollars at the box office. Outstanding example is 'Gone With the Wind,' the biggest grosser in the history of films. It is hoped for the sake and future success of the industry that more pictures of this meritorious calibre will be made.

Producers should get closer to you than they have been. There's nothing against either of you giving the other a 50-50 shake. If the producers turn out excellent pictures they should be liberally reimbursed for their exhibition. Should they be bad, that's their fault, not yours. Under the consent decree you have the right to exercise your own judgment. The duds you will not want. The good ones you will.

IT'S our hope that tolerance will prevail between all factors in the industry during the first season of the consent decree, and if the decree has merits and value to the industry it may be a means of reviving and stimulating interest in theatre going and all concerned should have a healthy and prosperous business year.

And if it proves so the industry will realize that Exhibitor conventions are not held for the purpose of elements tearing others down but to cooperate and build a bigger and better industry.

DOC BAKER, TWO OTHERS TIED IN HANDICAPPING

Doc Baker, the equine sage of Daily Variety, is tied out front with two other handicappers in the dailies' pickin' bee at Inglewood. On same footing with the Doctor are Hernandez of the Examiner and Hebert of the News. The old Doctor is carrying a briefcase with him this year, and it is believed by many of his admirers that he has the data right at hand for looking up the family tree of all the hosses as far back as the days of the racing mongoose before he makes his selection official. This the equine savant refused to confirm or deny, merely stating from the right side of his kisser he was pickin' em with both hands this year. Acknowledging fecilitations before a small coterie of Vine Streeters last night in the Eagle Buffet, Flash Baker, as he is sometimes called, holding a mug of brew and a ham-on-rye, paused with half-raised arms to point out how he never set an early pace alone at a meet, but assured he'd have all the boys settling up with Uncle Joe before he reached the turn for home.

With exception of Otis of The Times, and Collyer, whose wares are printed in the Examiner, the balance of the pack is stationed more or less in line just back of the spread-eagling three. Martha arched a few brows when she speared Agnes S. one day, it paying off better than 25 to 1. Doc Baker had it, too; however, it was tabbed as a flyer.

Breen flew to Chicago on Saturday to confer with Will Hays, who is ill there in a hospital, in an endeavor to get his release.

Though efforts were made by producers to get him to continue in his current job, Breen, it is said, told Hays that he wants to get out as expediently as possible, but, however, would aid in breaking in his successor were he chosen quickly. The financial reimbursement and scope of his job at RKO, Breen feels, should not be overlooked, and therefore the sooner he can get his release the happier he would feel.

Costello, it is said, has the backing of the Legion of Decency and the Catholic church and is well thought of by the film contingent here. Though he would be new to the type of work in films it is figured that with the aid of Geoffrey Shurlock, current aid to Breen, he would get into the swing of the office procedure in quick time.

Two Gosch, Harris Shows Up For Sponsorship

Two radio shows from the portfolio of Martin Gosch and Howard Harris are up for fall sponsorship. Both Chrysler and Palmolive have shown interest following the audition of 'Mr. and Mrs. North', and Raleigh cigarets may underwrite 'The Amazing Mr. Smith'. Latter is now under sponsorship of American Can Co., but will be dropped due to inability of outfit to acquire enough metal on account of priority defense orders.

Chrysler is understood to be replacing Major Bowes, also a war move. Impresario of the amateurs is costing the automaker around $38,000 a week in salary and network time and reduced output of chariots is said to have prompted a less expensive radio layout.

Gosch would produce either or both shows if their originations do not conflict. Plan is to use film names in 'North', which would pitch the program here. Gosch and Harris are at Paramount screenplaying 'Hula Honeymoon', which they sold to the studio.

Paramount Reaches Story Reserve Of 53 Properties

Paramount has reached a story reserve of 53 properties, including stage plays, novels, published short stories and original screen plays, from which to pick its 1941-42 product. In addition studio has 14 new season pictures ready for release now, plus 12 scripts completed and ready for the cameras and another 26 from the total of 53 well underway in the writing division. Every writer office on the lot is occupied, what with 45 scripters busy on yarns and new story purchases being added to the list every week. So far studio has made definite star, producer and director assignments on about two-thirds of its 1941-42 group of stories.

Several of the more important vehicles are still awaiting writer assignments, but these are expected to be completed this week. Awaiting writers are 'For Whom the Bell Tolls', 'Tex Guinan', and 'The Forest Rangers.'

Joel Bezahler Reports Population Shifts

Joel Bezahler, assistant to the Metro western division sales manager, E. M. Saunders, who planed in from Salt Lake City to attend the convention, reports that population shifts through the middle and far west territories due to the drift to metropolitan areas for war industry employment, has reached astonishing proportions. In some sections of the country as much as 12% of the population has moved from rural to city districts. While this sudden shift in population has affected picture exhibition and distribution locally it has not made any appreciable dent in the potential picture house draw generally excepting for the comparatively short adjustment period while families are getting settled in new surroundings.

Zorina Will Do Stage Role In 'Purchase'

Zorina will play in Paramount's screen version of 'Louisiana Purchase' the same role she had in the B. G. DeSylva stage musical. She planed here over the weekend to make color tests for the part, and will report next month to prepare for the picture. Dona Drake is said by DeSylva to be the most favored candidate for the part played on the stage by Carol Bruce. She is the former band leader whom Paramount signed for role in 'Aloma of the South Seas.' Her professional name originally was Rita Rio.

Castings For 'Sage'

WARNERS NEARS ALL-TIME PROD. PEAK WITH 13 PIX

Warners expects to hit an all-time production peak for the summer months, according to announcement by Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of production, of plans for the company's schedule during the next few months. As now set up, studio contemplates having 13 pictures before the cameras simultaneously by the end of June, which will push total of employes above the 6,000 mark, highest figure ever reached by the company.

Helping to swell record on the lot is the number of national defense pictures to be filmed, included in the preparedness short subjects covering the various branches of the service. Heavy summer program is a continuation of the production pace which has been going on at the valley lot for several months, during which employment figures passed the 5,000 mark, largest in Warners history.

Lot now has 19 stars, 64 featured players, 54 contract writers, 14 contract directors and 15 associate producers, and expects production spurt will require the working of three-shift days for the various crafts and technical employes.

With five pictures, 'Navy Blues', 'Nine Lives Are Not Enough', 'Law of the Tropics', 'The Smiling Ghost' and 'The Maltese Falcon', now shooting, an additional eight pictures will be put into work during the next three weeks, including 'They Died With Their Boots On', 'Kings Row', 'One Foot In Heaven', 'Hot Nocturne', 'Shadows of Their Wings', 'Background to Danger', 'The Man Who Came to Dinner' and 'All Through the Night'.

Shorts to start are 'Battle Wagons of the Sea', 'Parachute Shock Troops', 'Coast Guard Patrol' and 'In the Army Now'.

Kuykendall First

Ed Kuykendall, prexy of the MPTOA, was the first exhibitor to register at convention headquarters yesterday. Kuykendall, who is accompanied on the trip by his wife and son, arrived in town late last weekend. His theatres are at Columbus, Miss., but he spends much of his time at MPTOA headquarters in New York and traveling around the country.

'DINNER' INVOLVED IN NY SUIT

New York, June 8.—'The Man Who Came to Dinner' was involved here Friday in a Federal court suit by Vincent McConnor, writer, against George S. Kaufman, Moss Hart, Sam H. Harris, James Monks, Random House, Inc., and Warner Bros., Inc. Action asks an injunction, accounting of profits and damages against all defendants but the film company for alleged plagiarism of McConnor's play, 'The Murder Man.'

Warner Bros. are named as defendants because they purchased screen rights to the play and the legal action taken here asks an accounting against them if the picture is made and released.

McConnor claims he and Monks wrote the play in 1935 and submitted it to Kaufman in 1936. Kaufman and Hart are accused of plagiarism, Harris of having produced the play, and Random House of publishing a book based on the play.

Studio Tour Begins At 1:30 p.m. For Exhib-seers

Exhibitors, their wives, and others here attending the joint PCCITO and MPTOA convention will be guests of a studio tour beginning at 1:30 p.m. this afternoon to get a new, first-hand view of production and players. Studios will be divided into three groups for the tour so that all conventioneers can be accommodated. Further entertainment programs for the week have been set up by the studios arrangements committee chairmaned by Fred Meyer, to give the visitors a generous view of Hollywood and its activities.

In Hollywood itself, visitors will tour Columbia, RKO, Samuel Goldwyn and Paramount studios. In the San Fernando Valley, conventioneers will be shown Republic, Universal and Warners, while the Culver City and Westwood visits will be covered at 20th-Fox, Hal Roach and Metro.

Later activities lined up by Meyer and his committee will include the special general film industry party tomorrow night to the convening exhibitors, their wives and guests. Labeled 'An Old California Barbecue', event will be hosted by Harry Cohn, acting for the picture business, at the Columbia studio ranch in the valley, beginning at 7 p.m. The top production executives and film personalities will be on hand to entertain the visitors, with studios furnishing a special show.

Wives of the exhibitors will have their special party Wednesday afternoon in the Cocoanut Grove with studio entertainment.

Thursday night will be the 'Aloha Banquet', the Exhibitors having taken over the Earl Carroll theatre-restaurant for the affair. The Carroll floor show, plus studio names, will entertain the visitors.

Arbiter Cameron Decish Expected Today

Herbert Cameron, arbitrator for tha American Arbitration Association, adjudicating the complaint brought by O. W. COL SKEDS 48 FEATURES, 16 WESTERNS FOR 1941-42

Chicago, June 8.—Chicago wound up its national sales convention here today with the announcement that the company would produce 48 features, 16 westerns, four serials and 140 short subjects on its 1941-42 program. Convention, held at the Drake hotel yesterday and today, also was featured by the screening of approximately 40,000 feet of rough-cut film from six of the top budget pictures now in work at the Hollywood studio, 'Our Wife', 'Mr. Jordan Comes to Town', 'You'll Never Get Rich', 'Woman of Desire', 'Texas' and 'Ladies In Retirement'.

For its new season program Columbia will continue to stress features on the lighter side and will give a play to music in many of them. Features will lean to the sophisticated and romantic rather than straight screwball farces, plus a large number of big-budgeted dramas. Lineup of stars and featured players who will appear in 1941-42 product shows the results of company's recent concentration on building a list of contract names and those set on straight picture deals. Further augmented is the lineup of producer-directors and directors to handle the making of the pictures, and story and play properties.

THEATRE OPERATORS SEEK TO RETRIEVE BOXOFFICE

grosses dropping daily to almost unparalleled depths, and with the government consent decree found to be working new burdens, exhibitors from all parts, most of them independents, have converged on Los Angeles in a desperate attempt to work out some solution. Exhibs are here to attend the annual conventions of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America and the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners, meeting in simultaneous session for the first time at the Ambassador hotel.

Theatre heads are thoroughly awakened to the necessity for drastic action on their part in an effort to retrieve some of the box office business which over a period of months has more and more been weaned away. In consequence they are prepared to go before their respective association conventions and demand that ways and means be worked out that will restore, at least in part, the grosses they are now being denied.

Never in their experience as motion picture theatre operators have so many difficult problems confronted the average exhibitor as is apparent to even the most optimistic at this time. The exhibs have surged on Los Angeles with one objective uppermost in their minds, the working out of ways and means by which they hope to gain some relief. Whether or not this year's conventions will accomplish any concrete results is a matter of conjecture. However, most exhibs are satisfied that the way at least will be paved for them to better enjoy the fruits of their labors.

Considered the most grievous of the problems confronting the exhibitor today is the rapidly declining grosses at the nation's box offices, a low point in intakes over all time having been reached in many cases. Steps to bring an end to this condition will undoubtedly be taken. Exhibs are expected to advance many proposals that they hope will be a solution, but what concrete details will be worked out no one professes to be in a position to say.

Another problem that has independent exhibitors frankly worried is the recent consent decree set up up by the government with a majority of the major distributors whereby the entire system of film selling is to be radically changed at the start of the new 1941-42 season.

Interference of the government was brought about mainly because of indie exhibitor wails that distribution, and circuit exhibition as carried out over a period of years was rapidly forcing many of them to the wall. Criminal proceedings brought against the majors were dropped after long negotiations and a new consent decree set up under the terms of which it was hoped the unaffiliated theatre would reap an immeasurable benefit. But things did not turn out as most indies had figured. The setting up by the government of the five-in-a-package selling policy is now regarded by most theatre operators as a hardship instead of the promised relief and other features of the decree, now that it has been promulgated, fail to meet with the general approval of exhibs.

> F. W. Graham, who operates at Shelton, Wash., couldn't be bothered traveling by train to the exhibitor convention so flew his own plane here from Tacoma. He made the trip in seven hours and 20 minutes, something of a record for non-professional flying, and arrived here in plenty of time for the registration yesterday.

These are but a handful of the vital problems affecting the present day exhibitor and relief from which is hoped for at the hands of the two exhibitor associations that convene today. It is the second consecutive year that the PCCITO has met here, and the first time that the MPTOA has converged in Hollywood since the trying days of 1934.

This year a radical departure is being followed for the joint or simultaneous exhibitor conventions. PCCITO, embracing the far-western states, is acting as host and confining its business sessions to morning meetings, the first of which is scheduled for today at 10 o'clock. Similar meetings will be held each subsequent morning through Thursday. MPTOA, on the other hand, will hold its business sessions Tuesday through Thursday in the afternoons, with the evenings given over to various social activities in which the members of each association will participate.

This morning's PCC meeting, which formally opens the joint exhibitor convention, will feature an industry greeting delivered by Mary Pickford, who will repeat her welcome for the MPTOA group when the national body meets for its initial business session tomorrow afternoon.

Following this morning's meeting, at which the various PCC trustees and standing committees will make reports of the past year's activities, bulk of the conventioneers will make a tour of the various studios, the first of a series of social events that have been set up. A barbecue will be staged at the Columbia ranch tomorrow night, there will be a personality parade and fashion show, conducted by Miss Pickford and other cinema names on Wednesday, and the final banquet and dinner dance, bringing the convention to a close, will be staged Thursday night at the Earl Carroll restaurant in Hollywood.

First House To Plan Program With Defense Pix

New York, June 8. — The first picture house in the country to make up its program largely of national defense films is the World, here, which begins this policy June 23. Theatre, formerly devoted to French language pix, will use approximately half its show for defense subjects, with an hour to Sino-Japanese documentary war films. Only other subject will be a short, the initial picture featuring Carmen Amaya.

'Army in Overalls', which runs nine minutes; 'Men and Ships', a 21-minute picture, and 'Bits and Pieces', 12 minutes in length, are all-defense pix on the program. 'Kukan', 16mm. feature in Kodachrome (first ever made) shows scenes from the war in China. Defense films are being supplied by government or military service cameramen.

Obituary

MARY KELLY

Mary 'Bubbles' Kelly, 46, vaudeville and radio comedienne, whom Gracie Allen credited with starting her on her professional career, died in her sleep here Saturday. Miss Kelly started in show business 30 years ago with a Chicago stock company and later appeared in vaudeville with Tom Swift, who also was from the stock troupe. She toured vaudeville houses for 15 years with the song and comedy routine. In recent years deceased turned to radio, appearing on programs with Jack Benny, Burns and Allen and Al Pearce. She was billed with Blanche Stewart as 'The Chicken Sisters' when appearing on many recent benefits with Jack Benny. Miss Kelly is survived by her husband, Ray Myers, onetime Orpheum booker in New York. Latter left via Challenger last night accompanying body to Chicago, where burial service has been tentatively set for Thursday.

GEORGE L. BICKELL

Remains of George L. Bickell, 78, vaudeville, musical comedy and motion picture player, are on the way to his birthplace, Saginaw, Mich., for interment. Bickell died here Thursday. Funeral services were held for him Saturday by the Elks. He is survived by his widow. He began his career at the age of 10 and, at 20, had formed the comedy team of Bickell and Watson. This later became Bickell, Watson and Roth. Bickell and Watson also appeared with the Ziegfeld Follies and the George White Scandals. In 1915 he entered films, to make comedies for Edison Feature Film Co. He was at one time under contract to Fox Studios. He retired in 1930.

CHAS. E. COOK

Charles Emerson Cook, playwright, died westerday in New York at the age of 71 years. Cook, once associated with David Belasco, wrote 'Rose of the Alhambra', 'Blind Youth', 'Remnant', 'The Walking Delegate' and collaborated on 'Red Feather', which Florenz Ziegfeld produced. He had been ill for several months.

CARTOONISTS IN NATIONWIDE DRIVE AGAINST DISNEY

With the Central Labor Council scheduled to place Walt Disney Studio on the American Federation of Labor unfair list today, the Screen Cartoonists Guild has launched a nationwide drive against Disney products. The SCG campaign has already resulted in driving Disney cartoons from several daily newspapers, and 800 District Councils of the Brotherhood of Painters throughout the country are being asked to boycott 'Fantasia' and 'Citizen Kane' when the latter is shown with a Disney short.

Guild leaders stated last night that picketing of the Disney plant may be extended to RKO, if the latter company persists in distributing Disney products. Sid Rogell, RKO studio manager in reply to a request from Herbert Sorrell that the company stop distributing Disney pictures, stated:

'RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. hav a distribution contract with Walt Disney Productions. Further we have contracts with exhibitors for these pictures. Despite our long and friendly contact with your organizations and our desire to continue on this basis with you, it must be obvious to you that we cannot accede to your request.' Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644 and leader of the Disney strike, will confer with officials of the Central Labor Council today to determine what action is to be taken with reference to distribution of Disney films by RKO.

Practically all crafts in the film industry, in addition to many downtown unions, are voting financial and moral support to the striking cartoonists. The list was headed by Laboratory Technicians Local 683, which sent in a check for $500.

Charles Shaw, assistant animator at Disney, and Mary Ann De Pew, airbrush artist, were married Saturday and plan to spend their honeymoon on the picket line. Two other couples who are celebrating their marriage on the Disney picket line are Joe Rinaldi, story sketch artist, and Alice Orcutt, shadow painter, and John Hubley, sketch artist, and Claudia Sewell, color model supervisor.

Walt Disney issued the following statement over the weekend:

'We will never permit the dictates of a minority of our employes to control the majority. We are ready to, and will accept the verdict of a secret ballot fairly supervised and voted by all of our employes falling within the classifications embraced by the Screen Cartoonists Guild's claims. We believe that all those employes who have made possible the development of animation as a new art and entertainment form have the democratic right to vote fairly on their choice of a bargaining agent.'

Art Babbitt, chairman of the Disney unit of the Guild, made the following reply to Disney's statement:

'It is gratifying that Mr. Disney has come to the recognition of the principle that a minority of his artists should not control the interests and well-being of the majority. The Guild has had 65% of Disney artists in its membership for more than five months. Twice the Guild prepared for an election; five times it proposed a cross-check of guild rolls and studio payroll. Each time such an impartial procedure was refused. Today the majority of the Disney employes who made possible the development of the screen animation art are picketing outside the studio in a stand for the recognition that Disney now suggests but has never agreed to. Today the Screen Cartoonists Guild represents 82% of the Disney artists. Democracy is knocking at the Disney gates.'

Disney's offer to recognize all AFofL crafts except the SCG was turned down by Central Labor Council leaders, since the unions have an agreement that one will not sign until all of them have reached an agreement. The SCG in the meantime is maintaining a 24-hour picket line in front of the studio.

NATIONAL CAPITAL BOOM CITED

Without a dual bill first or second run house in the Washington, D. C. territory, a couple of independent small-seat, subsequent run theatres excepted, A. E. Lichtman, operating approximately 25 houses in the national capital district, reports a box office boom which has brought a theatre building trend in its wake.

Within the Washington area, with a population which has been swelled from 450,000 to approximately 1,000,000 due to national defense activity, approximately 15 new houses have gone up within the past two years, or are currently under construction without any of the important operators resorting to double billing. Warners are now building a few theatres, while Lichtman has added four and has one under construction currently.

The single picture policy has been amply vindicated in the Washington district, showing that showmen can maintain certain price standards within the industry if determined to do so. Theatres in that territory are also free from giveaways and banknites. Admission prices for downtown Washington theatres have been kept at from 55 to 75 cents top, with neighborhood prices in proportion.

Stress on Selling Industry Selling Point To Exhibitors

Less stress on selling pictures and more stress on selling the motion picture industry will be the watchword of the studios in their participation in the joint MPTOA and PCCITO convention this week. Committees have been appointed to give visiting exhibitors the facts on Hollywood so that they, in turn, will be able to present a different picture of the film capital when they return to their respective towns and cities.

Heretofore, theatre owners and operators convening in Hollywood have had little opportunity to find out what is 'right with Hollywood', and this time the studios are extending every effort to assure no one leaving town without having had the chance ot learn facts and figures on how and why the film capital operates, the people employed in the various phases of production work, payrolls and other pertinent data.

The largest single family group exhibitors the Nassers of San Francisco arrived late last night to attend the convention. Brothers were Bill, Al, Dick, Henry, George, Teddy and Warren Nasser, each of them an active exhibitor for the Nasser circuit. Also in the San Francisco delegation which arrived last night was George Mann, A. Blumenfeld, Max Morris, and Tom Gilboy.

Move is considered of utmost importance to film executives now that the time for operation under the consent decree is drawing near, which means there will no longer be a 'seller's market' but instead all selling will have to take place in a 'buyer's market' with the individual merchandising of small groups of pictures. By selling the industry as a whole with a 'what is right with Hollywood' campaign, instead of the side usually presented by gossip and other channels, studios figure merchandising will be easier and pictures bring better returns both to theatres and producing companies.

Complete statistical data on the picture business has been compiled and never less than two men will be stationed at the Ambassador hotel to answer questions on every phase of the industry that the conventioneers may ask. By this service studios hope to offset much of the former lack of interest in what makes the wheels go 'round and supply exhibitors with the correct answers to queries from hometown theatre patrons.

Morgan Gets 'Island'

William Morgan gets the director assignment on 'Mercy Island', Armand Schaefer production at Republic, and latter has delayed his plane trip to Key West, Fla., until tomorrow when Morgan completes direction on 'Sunset in Wyoming' and can accompany him on the location scouting jaunt.

Baugh In For Pic

Slinging Sammy Baugh arrives today from Texas to prepare for his role in 'King of the Texas Rangers', Republic serial which is scheduled to start shooting (16).

THREE INDIES SET ON EQUITY COUNCIL

Hewitt and Myron McCormick were among 11 councilors elected. In addition, E. J. Kennedy, regarded as having independent leanings, was elected as replacement to serve until 1944. Margaret Webster, who, although on the regular slate, was supporting the independent ticket, also won.

The result is regarded as a clear cut victory for the independent group, first such in the organization's history. Those elected and the number of votes each received were:

Cornelia Otis Skinner, 561; Margaret Webster, 530; John Alexander, 502; Lewis Calhern, 443; Ethel Waters, 440; Richard Tabor, 407; Mady Christians, 398; Lillian Gish, 392; Alan Hewitt, 391; Myron McCormick, 385, and, as replacement, E. J. Kennedy, 549.

Defeated candidates included Robert T. Haines, Arthur Pierson, Maida Reade, James Siegle, Beverly Bayne, William Post, Jr., E. J. Blumkall, Philip Bourneuf, Joanna Ruths, Aline MacMahon, Theodore Newton, Reynolds Denniston and Jack Tyler.

Ethel Waters is the first Negro ever named to the Council. The tabulation of results shows that a total of 915 votes were cast, of which 434 were for the straight regular ticket; 249 for the straight independent slate; 232 split; 79 voided, and 15 individual write-ins. That the independents profited by having only eight candidates for 11 places open as against 15 nominees on the regular slate is shown by the fact that Miss Christians, topping the independent candidates with 398, received less than the number who voted the straight regular ticket. The 434 votes for the straight regular slate were split among 15 candidates, whereas nearly all the independent votes and split tickets were bunched for the eight independent nominees. The principal issue of the fight was the action of the regular nominating committee in refusing to renominate Hewitt to serve another term.

He was among those who had been accused by Congressman Lambertson of being communist, and although the committee admitted that the charge was unfounded it felt his presence on the Council would hurt the chances of Congress re-establishing the Federal Theatre.

Notified of his election last night, Hewitt expressed gratification and reiterated his desire to obtain a hearing on the Lamberston accusation.

Miss Christians had accused the nominating committee of refusing to name her on the regular ticket because she is not a native born American.

Others in the independent faction resented the nominating committee's action regarding Hewitt and Miss Christians and opposed what they regarded as the reactionary character of the regular ticket. Byron McGrath, member of the nominating committee, resigned in protest against the body's action regarding Hewitt and Miss Christians.

Friday's annual meeting, at which the balloting took place, was unusually tense, but the most orderly one in recent years.

Principal speeches were made by Hewitt and Florence Reed, the latter being chairman of the nominating committee.

Femme Owner Sees Good in Confabs

Mrs. Sue Perunko, Tacoma, Wash., one of the few women exhibs attending the MPTOA-PCCITO convention, finds that airing of industry problems in open meetings and thorough discussion with other operators has given her a better understanding of picture house operation. As femme operator of the Sunset and Kay St. theatres in Tacoma, Mrs. Perunko has eliminated the giveaway and pass evils without suffering any loss of business.

With a neighborhood and juvenile trade to cater to, Mrs. Perunko has switched her serial bookings to Saturday afternoons, leaving every evening in the week to adult attendance free from kid disturbances and aisle-walking. She has found that innovations, when sensible, are usually accepted by patrons after one or two beefs at the outset. A regulation whereby youngsters are now obliged to buy their refreshments before going into the theatres and the discontinuation of re-admission checks is one which has also worked out satisfactorily.

Mrs. Perunko, while assisting her husband for many years, assumed full operation of the two theatres following Louis Perunko's death several months ago.

Bogart, Astor Toppers For 'Falcon'

Humphrey Bogart will have the co-starring spot with Mary Astor in 'The Maltese Falcon' and Gladys George gets a featured assignment. John Huston puts the picture before the cameras today at Warners, directing from his own script. Others in the cast include Peter Lorre, Lee Patrick, Barton MacLane and Jerome Cowan.

Griffith Ties Yarn

Edward H. Griffith, currently producing and directing 'Bahama Passage' in Nassau, has taken personal option on 'There Is No Tomorrow', forthcoming novel by Mrs. Mary King. Story deals with life of an American girl who married a British aviator.

20th Keeps McDowall

20th-Fox has hoisted the option on its contract with Roddy McDowall, 12-year-old English actor, who is currently assigned to appear in 'How Green Was My Valley.'

Priscilla Lane to Par

Under deal just completed with Warners, Priscilla Lane comes to Paramount some time during next few months to star in one picture, probably a musical.

Convention Notes

Paramount Pictures is utilizing a 48-sheet painted board, just west of the automobile entrance to the hotel on Wilshire blvd., to convey its greetings both to the MPTOA and the PCCITO, and at the same time using its slogan, 'If It's a Paramount Picture It's the Best Show In Town'. Par got the location from a whisky concern.

Registration booth, being used jointly by both associations, is the largest of its kind ever erected in the Ambassador lobby. If any exhibitor fails to register it will be his own fault, because the booth overshadows anything in that immediate vicinity of the lobby.

J. R. Denniston, of the Butterfield circuit of Michigan, pulled in early Sunday from his home in Monroe. Denniston has been a constant attendant at all of the MPTOA conventions and was here last in 1934.

Alexander Film Co. and the Alexander Preview Co., with Don Alexander at the head, is looking after exhibitor interests in Suite 468.

Jim Schiller, Metro's Coast exploitation chief, brought a bevy of femmes to the convention headquarters early yesterday, and the word quickly spread that they were members of the Ziegfeld chorus.

Ed Kukyendall, Jr., better known as Sonny, is making his first trip to the Coast in seven years. He was five when last here, and now is 12, at the age where he is beginning to take a greater interest in life, particularly in living conditions here.

Helen O'Toole, for many years private sec to Ed Kuykendall, again is on the job, this time as Mrs. Dick Daley. She was married about a year ago to a barrister practicing on Staten Island.

Oscar Lam, Rome, Ga., is one of the veterans at the exhib gathering. He is accompanied by Mrs. Lam and four youngsters, this being the first Coast trip for the kids.

Quite a few of the early arrivals Sunday took advantage of the hotel golf grounds and were out bright and early trying their mashie and driver shots. The hotel course will be well worked over between now and the Thursday close of the conventions.

Arthur de Stefano came on from Dallas, where he is now located as manager for National Theatre Supply Co. He formerly was in charge of the Los Angeles offices of the company.

Leo, Metro's 'friendly lion' will move into the company's booth in the Fiesta room bright and early today, where he will be used to greet theatre operators during their sojourn.

Glenn Harper, veteran exhibitor from Corona, Calif., and former chief of the Southern California independents, renewed acquaintances in the lobby yesterday and made a lot of new friends.

Fred S. Meyer, for many years secretary of the MPTOA, who was stricken with illness during the 1934 convention here, and has since taken up his home in the cinema colony, arrived soon after noon yesterday to chew the fat with Association execs.

Benny Rubin will guide the speeches and entertainment as master of ceremonies at the joint exhibitors luncheon tomorrow in the Cocoanut Grove.

Morris Loewenstein, MPTOA secretary, insisted on decorating everybody yesterday with red, white and blue lapel buttons. He also dished out some anti-Nazi literature.

Ed Roy, executive secretary of the ITO of Northern California and Nevada, came down from Frisco to look after Association affairs and make himself generally useful.

Throughout the conventions each of the major studios will have representatives on hand to furnish the visiting firemen with statistical data, product lineups and otherwise help the exhibs who have gathered here.

Oscar Neu, head of Neumade booth equipment, having tie trouble through inability to find haberdashery to match his suits. Boys got him all dressed up in one of the shops and now he's one of the best dressed guys at the convention.

H. M. Richey, former independent exhib leader, now exhibitor relations head for Loew's, is allegric to trains. Some of his best friends, allergic to planes, can't travel with him.

Bill Kunzeman, National Carbon Co., and Arthur Meyer, sales manager for International Projector Corp., interested convention visitors.

Not generally known is the fact that William Koenig, presently general production manager at 20th-Fox, was for many years secretary of the Exhibitors Association of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota. Bill is renewing old friendships at the exhibitor powwow.

Cliff Lewis is in charge of publicity for both the MPTOA and PCC at the convention.

Sam Denbow hasn't forgotten 'The General Died at Dawn'.

Rotus Harvey has done a swell job so far as general convention chairman for the MPTOA. Located in Frisco, 500 miles from the convention grounds and some 3,000 miles from the association's New York offices, Harvey spent most of his time the past few months in long distance phone conversations.

M. A. Lightman's gin rummy playing is nothing to his incomparable bridge game and he's beefin' someone is jinxing him.

Bill Rodgers, with a tightened larynx, celebrated his 53rd birthday Saturday and was recipient of a birthday cake with one candle at an impromptu cocktail party tossed by George Dembow early yesterday morning.

REPS OF 10 LOCALS MEET TODAY ON IA PROCEDURE

Negotiating committees representing the 10 locals in the newly formed Federation of Studio Unions affiliated with the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes meet today to decide on a joint policy for handling their negotiations with the Producers. It is understood a majority favor making the question of retroactive pay under the Wage-Hour Law a part of the negotiations, but deferring action on it until demands on wages and working conditions have been settled.

Representatives of the unions have already contacted Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, and asked that arrangements be made to start negotiations at the earliest possible date. Studio business representatives in the meantime have been preparing estimates on the cost of handling retroactive pay since the Wage-Hour became effective in 1938. Preliminary estimates were discussed Saturday at a meeting of studio business managers.

The back pay question also was mulled over by the Producers' labor relations committee at a meeting Friday. The committee also discussed the demands of the Actors, Writers, Directors and other film crafts. Meetings with representatives of the Screen Actors Guild and Screen Writers Guild will be arranged today. A deal has been tentatively set with the SAG, but the company executives and the SWG are still far apart on a new contract.

A LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Daily Variety,
Hollywood, California.

Referring to an article appearing in Variety on Thursday, June 5, under the heading, 'Film Stars In First AMG Camp Show at Ford Ord', I would greatly appreciate your publishing this letter in order to correct any erroneous impressions which might have been created by the article.

The project of providing entertainment in the training camps of the western area is in the hands of the Industry Defense Committee, headed by Frank Freeman, and the Entertainment Committee, headed by Edward Arnold. Certain agents have been requested to serve on the Entertainment Committee because their experience in booking shows would be invaluable in the organization of this entertainment. The agents who are serving on this committee are working as individuals and as part of this committee. They are serving the committee and acting on behalf of the actors who are providing the entertainment.

The actors are unselfishly giving an unlimited amount of time and effort in doing their duty to national defense, and are naturally looking to the agent for the work in which the agent is best qualified, namely, the organization of these shows.

The enterprise is in no way one undertaken by the Artists' Managers Guild. At the meeting of the Artists' Managers Guild which you mentioned in your article, the entertainment program was outlined to all agents; likewise the duties which would be required of them. They enthusiastically pledged their complete support and cooperation.

All factors have been pulling together for one common purpose, and no one group should be singled out for particular praise or commendation. It is the work of all, under the direction of the Defense and Entertainment Committees.

Thanking you for all the help you have given us and for your many offers of aid and cooperation, I remain, with kindest personal regards,

Sincerely,
BERT ALLENBERG,

Golden Sees Harvest In Defense Spending

Picture houses will be the first to reap the harvest of increased spending from the heavy defense industries programs, according to Nathan D. Golden, industrial consultant of the Federal Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, who will address the MPTOA-PCCITO convention tomorrow afternoon. Golden, who has several subjects of vital interest to both exhibitors and producers to discuss, believes that heavier payrolls must inevitably hypo box office receipts throughout the country before long as rearmament working and spending gathers momentum. The low unit price of motion picture entertainment recommends it as one of the first industries to benefit as new coin gets into circulation.

While the b.o. has not as yet been favorably affected in many territories this is largely attributed to the fact that many who have been out of work are now paying off debts incurred during periods of idleness. New earning power will likely be reflected at box offices throughout the country according to statistical indications.

RKO, Bergen, Fibber In Three-Year Deal

RKO has closed a deal with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Fibber McGee and Molly, to make one picture annually for three years. Combination is currently in 'Look Who's Laughing', and is figured by George Schaefer to be good for at least one repeat per year.

WB 'Blues' Southward

Warners starts six days of location shooting on 'Navy Blues' today at the Naval Training Station in San Diego under direction of Lloyd Bacon. In addition to principals Ann Sheridan, Jack Oakie, Martha Raye and Jack Haley and others, company includes 75 bit and extra players.

Hawks at Goldwyn

Director Howard Hawks has checked in with Samuel Goldwyn to begin preparations for the Gary Cooper starrer, 'The Professor and the Burlesque Queen.' Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder are writing the screen play.

Wayne Morris Deferm't

Wayne Morris has been given deferment from service as an ensign in the Naval Reserve until June 26. Delay was granted at the request of Warners, to allow the actor to finish his current role in 'The Smiling Ghost.'

Holden Tops 'Admirals'

William Holden will star in Paramount's 'Tomorrow's Admirals', teaming with Stirling Hayden, co-star, and Ellen Drew and Brian Donlevy. Holden will appear first in 'The Remarkable Andrew.'

Pair Join 'Blind'

Gayle Mellott and Mildred Shay have been added to the cast of 'Flying Blind', which Bill Pine and Bill Thomas are producing for Paramount.

Kyser's 'Playmates'

'Playmates' has been chosen as the title for the Kay Kyser starrer which David Butler will produce and direct at RKO.

F-WC Refuses To Bicycle Films in Any Situations

Charging that the shortage of prints in the Los Angeles district has become progressively worse in the last few years, Fox West Coast Theatres will not 'tag' or bicycle films in any situations beginning this month. All exchanges have been advised that they must in future have sufficient prints clear for all bookings.

Circuit and independent operators alike have been affected by the limited print distribution in this district, with instances reported where as many as three theatres, chain or independent, have had only one print to cover a single day and date booking. It is claimed by exhibitors that exchanges have in recent years cut down on the number of prints because it has become a matter of accepted practice for exchanges and bookers to set up 'tags' automatically. With a considerable number of new houses opened in this territory during the last few years the shortage of prints to take care of requirements has become sufficiently serious for Fox West Coast to hand exchanges an ultimatum last week.

During the past year in particular there has been a constant flow of complaints from exhibitors regarding the situation, but despite all pressure no action has apparently been taken to increase the quota of prints to exchanges here.

Congestion in print distribution has resulted in theatres having screens dark in some instances for periods varying from five to 45 minutes due to traffic delays, accidents, or breakdown of cars and bicycles used in tagging prints from one theatre to another. Such delays have thrown theatre schedules out of balance, forcing houses to operate as late as 1:30 to 2 a.m.

Aside from the considerable expense to exhibitors involved in transporting prints back and forth, chain operators contend that grosses have suffered because patrons don't know at what time the film they want to see is going on.

Print shortages are considered primarily due to New York home office method of operation since exchange men here are governed by eastern decisions in this respect.

Despite strong protests from chain and independent operators, climaxed with the F-WC edict banning tagging, there is no indication among exchanges here that extra prints will be available. Cost of a print runs approximately 1.75 cents per foot, plus transportation and handling charges, or from $150 to $180 per film depending on footage. Exchanges generally point out that it wouldn't pay to run off say six or seven prints costing $1,000 to $1,200 when the additional dates involved might not yield that sum in revenue. F-WC officials are standing pat on the decree against tagging, saying that they would prefer to switch playdates on pictures rather than continue the troublesome practice now in vogue. For the time being exchanges in most cases believe that the regular number of prints on hand, approximately 10, will be sufficient to cover current requirements while average type of product is under distribution. A test of the new anti-tag order likely will come up with the first box office winner to be distributed when bookings run 40 to 50 cent higher than the number of prints available.

Major film exchanges here hold an average of 10 to 14 prints of each picture, the larger number usually reserved for top attractions only. Exchange men, in response to exhibitor complaints, claim that tagging is in many instances due to theatre booking methods which are determined by the relative drawing power of films. A film originally penciled in for a week may be pulled after three days, or vice versa, if doing business, with result that schedules are thrown out of gear and tagging has to be resorted to. In instances where the New York, Chicago or San Francisco offices have prints to spare the situation can sometimes be relieved here, but extra prints are unavailable when eastern and midwest key cities are being covered simultaneously.

Film Names Gun Anni Tennis Tournament

Backman stayed in the championship running by downing Michael Hogan, 6-2, 6-1; Uhl lost the first set but rallied to defeat James Dodd, 3-6, 6-2, 6-0 and Hansen, defending tournament champion, eliminated Alex Darsie, 6-4, 6-3.

First AGM Soldier Show Rates Tops At Camp Roberts

Camp Roberts, San Miguel, Cal., June 8.—Two bus loads of Hollywood lookers, singers, comics and assorted entertainers headed south late today, leaving in their wake the happiest lot of soldiers to be found anywhere in khaki. Such a show as the cinema town's pepper-uppers put on in the amphitheatre for this camp's 20,000 selectees won't be topped soon in any camp. The sprocket gang went all-out for cheering up the soldiery and never stinted one whit of the way. The show, it seemed, ran for hours and every act a headliner.

It was the first of the units framed by Hollywood's Artists Managers Guild to play the camps. Next week another aggregation pitches at Fort Ord, near Monterey. Other units also are being readied for camp calls to spread a little cheer among the soldiers - in - the - making. William Dover was in charge of today's troupe and the lads gave him and his troupe he brought along a reception that they won't soon forget.

Among the comics who really let go from way-down-there were 'Red' Skelton, as emcee of the show, Laurel and Hardy and Chico Marx. In the lineup of singers were Jane Withers, with Buddy Pepper at the piano, Ella Logan, Virginia O'Brien and Marita Farrell. On the instrumental side were Borrah Minnevich and his Harmonica Rascals, and Matt Young's orchestra of 14 men. The lookers, stock players from the picture studios, comprised Helen Parrish, Peggy Moran, Elaine Moray, Esther Fernandez, Frances Gifford and Donna Reed.

Every one of the performers made 20,000 new friends. As the busses pulled out of camp a rousing cheer went up for the Hollywood morale builder-uppers. Officers were assured that other performers would be routed to the camp at a later date. Private Paul Renay, former bit player in pictures, handled the local arrangements.

Play Reviews

WIZARD OF ORD

Highlighted by a music score that should develop several hit numbers, Seventh Division's 'Wizard of Ord' was back in camp today, hard by Monterey, Calif., after two performances in Hollywood Bowl. Opening Friday night was only sparsely attended despite one of the heaviest campaigns ever given a show via radio and the press. Turnout on the following night picked up appreciably, but the total attendance was disappointing to the camp impresarios. It rated capacity at both shows, for patriotic reasons and the high calibre of the production, considering the limitations of budget and professional attributes.

Score of 17 numbers, mostly penned by Private Colin MacDonald and 2nd Lieut. Carl Arnold, is lilting and was nicely executed by Paul Roberts and an A Cappella chorus of 50. MacDonald has been little known in civilian life other than for his original music for the Sonja Henie ice show. Arnold was a music instructor in high school here. Most likely of the ditties to land in the Broadcast Music or Ascap catalog are 'Twilight Melody', 'Life Is What You Make It' and 'Everybody Rates a Rainbow'. And most likely to succeed in show biz after his hitch is up is Roberts, a clean-cut juvenile with acting ability and a nice set of pipes for tenoring. Most of the action and singing revolves around his role.

Two-hour show is a take-off on 'Wizard of Oz', the old Montgomery and Stone musical fantasy. Short on story and plot, it overcomes these deficiencies with a robust production and a warm blending of voices in the singing group of 50. Yarn has to do with a trio of hoboes pitched on the camp's edge and taken in for rehabilitation by the Army. Gradually through the three acts they make the grade after much clowning.

Highly effective were two production touches, the sounding of taps from a spotlighted mountainside overlooking the Bowl, and the charge of mechanized units down the upper aisles of the ampitheatre with their guns popping. It was a stirring finale that brought the crowd to its feet cheering. Show was given over largely to military hijinks, with only one interlude of stiff camp routine, a precision drill number.

The men from Ord can well be proud of their first effort. There will be others to come and comparisons inevitably will be made with 'Wizard'. The lads from up Monterey way set a high standard for camp shows and the home guard will be looking forward to their next visit here.

Jessel in Town

George Jessel got to town Friday for ten day stay. Will work on his new musical which goes into rehearsal in New York around Aug. 1. Sophie Tucker goes into cast as featured lead.

Hearn In 'Hats'

Sam Hearn has been set to do the Bert Gordon role in the Al Jolson show, 'Hold On To Your Hats' when it reopens next month. Deal was agented by Leo Morrison.

NEW ORLEANS

St. Louis, June 8.—World premiere of the Sigmund Romberg-Oscar Hammerstein II musical concoction, 'New Orleans', drew a mob of more than 10,000, nearly SRO, at the Municipal Theatre Association's al fresco playhouse in Forest Park. Enthusiastic audience departed after having placed the OK stamp on the piece. Max Gordon, Laurence Schwab, John Shubert, Otto Harback and Howard Reinheimer, New York theatrical counsel; their collaborators and their wives all gave the piece the o.o.

Production is filled with lilting tunes and is destined for a Broadway appearance next fall. The piece is in three acts and eight scenes, and gave the natives a surprise when the first scene was presented in pantomime, something new in these parts.

Plot deals with a young lawyer, played by James Newill, who visits New Orleans in 1852. He falls in love with a cafe singer (Muriel Angeles) but is tricked out of marriage to her by Helen Claire, niece of his benefactor. Eight years later Newill discovers the trickery and the women, thrown together by a coincidence, once more are battling for his love. In a stirring epilog in which Newill's death is unfolded and the women bury their hatred for one another, an unusual finale is provided.

Tunes that should become hits are 'This Night Will Seem Long Ago', 'Observe the Bee', 'My Girl and I' and 'Let Me Live Today'.

Miss Angeles won the mob over right off the bat and did not let them down. Newill, a six foot, 3 inch stalwart, clicked in his role and exhibited a swell set of pipes. Ethel Levy was another click. Standouts among the support were Dorothy Lee, of the stage and films; Tom Ewell, a new comedian here; William O'Neal, tenor; Howard Freeman and Joseph Macaulay.

Romberg and Hammerstein appeared on the stage at the conclusion of the play, and after a five-minute ovation, bowed, but did not talk. Piece is in for a total of 11 consecutive nights.

Wayne Wins WB Golf

Bill Wayne, of the sound department outplayed 270 golfers to capture the Warners tournament yesterday at Altadena. Wayne and Bob McGoveney were tied with 73 each at the end of 18 holes. They were still even steven at the end of nine hole playoff, and a second nine was necessary to decide the winner. Wayne won out on the 18th hole of the playoff, finishing the final round with a 77 while McGoveney took a 78.

Mono Rolls 'Valley'

Robert Cline will photograph.

Hollywood Inside

ALARMED over dwindling grosses on high budget musicals, major studios are striking out for a remedy in radio exploitation of studio-written music, denied an airing since the break between Ascap and the broadcasters. Studio heads are hopeful of some arrangement whereby the outstanding tunes of pictures will be ethered along the networks and set the millions of dialers to humming the ditties. Lack of such exploitation is said to be the real reason behind the drop-off in theatre attendance. With the government consent decree permitting Ascap writers to publish their tunes through Broadcast Music but assigning performance rights direct to the radio stations, there is some talk that this opens a wedge to a hitherto airtight situation. Understood that one of the majors will attempt to effect an arrangement whereby the music will be made available for network airing, regardless of writer affiliation. This would be in the nature of a test, both for the necessary implementing of the exploitation campaign and the crossing of composer party lines. It is held significant that all big musicals have failed to show a profit since first of the year, when all Ascap music was ruled off the major webs.

DECISION has been handed down in Mexico City by government officials that any imported picture especially edited for Mexican distribution won't be licensed for distribution in that country. Ruling makes it mandatory that all pictures brought into Mexico for exhibition be exactly the same as shown elsewhere in the world. The order will have far-reaching effect because doubtlessly it will be copied by other Latin-American countries so that they get American films exactly as they are shown in the United States without any white-washing or sugar-coating for the Latin Americas. 20th-Fox's 'Blood and Sand' will undoubtedly be adversely hit by the ruling. RKO's 'They Met in Argentina', which is being altered to suit the tastes of South American audiences, will also be affected. To 'Blood and Sand' 20th-Fox is adding a great deal more footage on bull-fight scenes, making the picture different from the version readied for the United States. RKO, after the criticism that came to that studio for making a film offensive to Latin Americans, is doing a special Spanish version of the picture, with many changes.

OUTFIT named Famous Stars Publicity Staff, under management of C. H. Carter, has set up business on Hollywood boulevard. Carter offers to sell copies of original photographs to stars in lots of 500 'at a price less than they can get it now.' All he needs to survive is a lot of customers, permission to reproduce and make copies of any photograph from the owner of the negative. Few customers are anticipated, in view of the fact that studio still departments handle all picture orders at present and because studios will be reluctant to give permission to outsiders to make and sell copies from their negatives. Famous Stars Publicity Staff office is on the boulevard between two nickel and dime stores. Walls are papered with picture pages clipped from fan magazines.

NEW process of clarified focus for much extended area and referred to as 'revolutionary' at 20th-Fox will make its first demonstration in 'How Green Was My Valley.' Arthur Miller is the cameraman who is handling the new lenses and appurtenances in their initial use. Details of the invention are being closely guarded until all patents have been confirmed, but Dan Clark, head of 20th-Fox camera department, says a secondary element is employed in coordination with coated lenses and a 200-degree shutter, making possible a 100% universal focus.

ALTHOUGH the show they put on in Hollywood Bowl last Friday and Saturday showed a deficit, the lads from Fort Ord will have the crimson erased by the time the last vestige of the troupe returns to the Monterey base. Upon learning of the loss to the camp's recreation fund, a local picture group set about to absorb the loss by 'buying' several blocks of tickets. Fort's 'Wizard of Ord' showed an $800 profit on its Frisco engagement but fell short of the $6,000 nut for the Bowl pitch.

MORE than 100 stations off the main radio line will air the transcribed programs of Lum and Abner, now being broadcast over coast NBC network. Plattered series starts (30) and within a few weeks will spin four times a week on the turntables of 120 stations.

GOOD odds are being offered on the Universal lot that Bruce Manning will succeed Joe Pasternak as the producer of the Deanna Durbin pictures. Until he was promoted to a producer's berth Manning wrote most of the Durbin stories. Manning's first producing assignment was 'Back Street' and his second, now in preparation for the same two stars, Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullavan, will be 'Appointment for Love.'

Man Hunt

20th-Fox production. Cast: Walter Pidgeon, Joan Bennett, George Sanders, John Carradine, Roddy McDowall, Ludwig Stossel, Heather Thatcher, Frederick Worlock, Roger Imhof, Egon Brecher, Lester Matthews, Holmes Herbert, Eily Malyon, Arno Frey, Fredrik Vogeding, Lucien Prival, Herbert Evans, Keith Hitchcock. Directed by Fritz Lang. Associate producer, Kenneth Macgowan. Screenplay by Dudley Nichols. Based on novel by Geoffrey Household. Music, Alfred Newman. Photography, Arthur Miller. Art direction, Richard Day and Wiard B. Ihnen. Film editor, Allen McNeil. Previewed June 9. Running time: 95 mins.

Sheer melodrama, from title to tag, 'Man Hunt' makes its bid primarily for male audiences with a grim narrative competing with gun-stressing world news. It establishes instant suspense and a intense pitch when a big-game-shooting Briton becomes the object of a deadly hunt by the German military secret service after an aborted attempt to potshot Hitler in a forest retreat shortly before the present war started. For the generality of first runs the picture can fare profitably as good support. In the secondaries it will probably hold its own through its exciting timeliness and succession of thrills involved in the game of stealth and wits between the Gestapo and a lone and desperate Englishman.

The film has a strong sense of actuality throughout its greater part, due to the convincing performances by Walter Pidgeon and George Sanders in the opposing roles, and the assured and soundly skillful direction of Fritz Lang. There are a number of exceptionally well cast and well played supporting roles. Joan Bennett has been more aptly placed than she is here in the character of a Cockney girl who becomes instantly infatuated with the escaping Pidgeon when he takes refuge in her little London apartment, but she gives the role effort and sincerity. Interesting in his screen bow is the talented English lad, Roddy McDowall, intelligent, intense in manner, lively in understanding the requirements of his part as a ship's cabin boy who helps the refugee escape. John Carradine, stalker for the Gestapo; Roger Imhof, Egon Brecher, Ludwig Stossel, Fredrik Vogeding, Heather Thatcher and Frederick Worlock ably handle important support.

The story itself is of transcendant interest and has been given an exciting transcription most of the way by Dudley Nichols from the original novel, 'Rogue Male', by Geoffrey Household, although there is a noticeable letdown in quality and credibility. First scene gets the narrative off to swift running by Director Lang when the English dead-shot trains his telescope-sighted rifle to bear on the figure of Adolf Hitler in a remote forest resort patrolled by

EXHIBITORS, WIVES GIVEN GLAD HAND AT STUDIOS

Convening exhibitors, their wives and guests were given the glad hand yesterday afternoon by the various studios. Exhibs, split into three parties, toured the major lots, saw how pictures were made, met the stars and were cocktailed, dined and entertained. Difficulty in each studio staging a reception larger than just a tour was solved by having only a few of the film plants put on extra shindigs in honor of the theatre men.

Special programs were set up at 20th-Fox, Metro, RKO, Paramount and Warners while the other lots gave the visitors a first hand glimpse of pictures in the making by a tour of sets. Every contractee, producer, director and executive who could break away from their duties, extended the welcoming hand at the receptions. Studio affairs were arranged under the guidance of Fred Meyer, who acted as chairman of the arrangements committee for the industry, and nothing was left undone to present an educational as well as entertaining tour.

One group of around 250 was taken in busses to 20th-Fox, Hal Roach and Metro in that order. At the first stop Darryl F. Zanuck, William Goetz, William Koenig, Fred Metzler and every player of the 20th-Fox list with the exception of Alice Faye and Don Ameche, both out of town, were on hand to extend greetings and show visitors the Jack Benny 'Charley's Aunt' set. Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA prexy, paid a personal visit to Joseph M. Schenck while on the lot. Group then moved over to the Roach studio, where that producer made them welcome. Metro gave the visitors night club entertainment on Stage 18 after a tour of the lot and a looksee at 'Honky-Tonk' and 'Smilin' Through.' Louis B. Mayer introduced the talent for the brief entertainment — Kathryn Grayson, Connie Russell, Ray McDonald, Virginia Weidler, Jack Horner, Bobby Kelly and Richard Haydel. Delegates were introduced around on the sets by Sales Manager William F. Rodgers.

Group doing the Hollywood studios saw the Samuel Goldwyn lot and 'The Little Foxes' in action, with the producer doing the receiving. They then went to Paramount to watch Cecil B. DeMille direct a scene for 'Reap the Wild Wind' and then moved over to RKO for a reception and looksee at 'Mexican Spitfire's Baby' and 'Look Who's Laughing.' Later they gathered on Stage 5 to watch a special show given by Kay Kyser and RKO players. At 4:30 p.m. delegates moved back to Paramount for a buffet supper served in the studio commissary with Y. Frank Freeman hosting. Freeman introduced executives, producers, directors and the talent list for impromptu welcoming bits.

In the valley the third group were welcomed by Mischa Auer in his official capacity as mayor of Universal City and were taken on the Universal back lot to see how 'Raiders of the Desert' is being put together. Cliff Work, Nate Blumberg, W. A. Scully, W. J. Heinemann and other executives, plus producers, directors and players saw to it that the visitors were properly received. Group then moved over to Warners to be greeted by H. M. and J. L. Warner, Hal Wallis, Charles Einfeld, Bob Schless, European representative, and others. Warners gave the group a chance to rest the feet on Stage 2 where two big cocktail bars had been set up on the 'Navy Blues' set. Entertainment was furnished by Sol Hoppe's Hawaiian orchestra and two hula dancers, while the studio's players circulated around with greetings.

Only social activity planned for the conventioneers tonight is the barbecue and party to be tossed by Columbia at its ranch in North Hollywood. Red Skelton will function as emcee and Olsen and Johnson are definitely set to entertain. Other talent will be provided by Columbia today.

Edw. Robinson Lent Metro for Top Spot In 'N. Y. Story'

Edward G. Robinson goes to Metro on loan from Warners for top role in 'The New York Story', a tale relating the adventures of newspaper men who publish a tabloid. Edward Arnold also will have a prominent part.

Mervyn LeRoy will direct and Sam Marx produce from the screen play by Bartlett Cormack and Earl Baldwin. Feminine lead is still to be cast. Production is aimed to start in two weeks.

USO To Get Huge Sendoff In San Francisco

San Francisco, June 9. — United Service Organization work will get a dazzling send-off here if a plan proposed by Charles Schlaifer of the publicity committee is put into effect, and indications are that it will be.

Schlaifer has mapped a 'Lights On' stunt, which is to be Frisco's answer to blackouts throughout the world. For a period of 15 minutes or half hour, every single light in every home, office, building and factory in the city will be turned on, idea being to get the USO effort under way in a 'blaze of light'. Tentative date set for the 'Lights On' is June 18. USO drive here starts June 17, at which time merchants will be asked to include a USO slug, designed by Schlaifer, in their advertising.

Schlaifer, who is exploiteer for Herman Cohen's United Artists here, also has taken the 'home guard' under his wing, voluntarily organizing a publicity committee for the entire state which will serve without pay. Those induced by Schlaifer to cooperate include Phil Phillips, Fox West Coast advertising manager; William Pabst, manager of KFRC; Ted Huggins, Standard Oil ad manager; Gene Block, executive secretary of Jewish Survey Council and formerly with the Call-Bulletin, and Winthrop Martin, public relations counsel, plus an Oakland section headed by Phil Lasky of KROW and Clarence Laws, partner of Joe Blumenfeld in the Esquire theatre.

Schlaifer's volunteer efforts have already won praise of the State Guard and he is working in cooperation with Col. Alland A. Calkins of the First Regiment, who in civilian life is first v.p. of the Anglo-California bank.

MARY PICKFORD PLEADS FOR INDUSTRY UNITY

in the auditorium the Liberty Loan drives of more than 20 years ago when she was one of the World War leaders in this country.

'We as partners—you as exhibitors, and we as the motion picture industry', Miss Pickford said, 'must not be a house divided, but a house built on a firm foundation of onemindedness and of unity of purpose. And thus we shall be prepared when the call comes.

'We do not yet know specifically what parts we must play in the current world crisis, what we must do to preserve our liberty, and, if possible, our peace. But this we know is the time to be thinking of the things we can do and should do. No convention could be dedicated to any greater cause.

'When our country was at war 20 years ago, the entire motion picture industry—producers, exhibitors and distributors—performed an unselfish and far-flung service. We proved then, as we are prepared to prove again, that next to a free and honest press the motion picture is the most effective medium of unifying a nation.

'As for the prosperity of motion pictures, we need have no fear. You gentlemen, together with Hollywood, have developed the greatest form of mass entertainment ever created. The film standards of the public which rise even higher are the result of continued improvement in our product.

'There is no problem which cannot be defeated by our united efforts. There is no box office recession which will not yield to improved pictures, intelligently exhibited. In working for our country and in laboring for our industry we may apply the same good rule—let's pull together.'

UA DROPS ITS BLURB MEN

tributed to shortage of UA product and further fact that distribution company has few pictures lined up for early season release.

Order dismissing the field men two weeks hence came direct from David E. Weshner, head of the company's exploitation. Weshner has advised the men that due to the few releases UA will have between now and August it has become necessary to disband the permanent field force.

He states in his letters to the men that the force is supported both by producers and UA, and the producers 'naturally cannot support a field force when they are not releasing pictures. Therefore, this burden makes it necessary for us to return to our former policy of hiring exploitation men as dates spring up in the various fields.'

Weshner praised the men in his letters of dismissal, telling them of the great job they have done for UA, but expressing regret at the situation.

Prod. Meetings Set

The Producers announced yesterday that meetings with the Actors, Writers and Directors to talk contract revisions will be held this week. In the meantime, company executives were planning to meet daily, starting today, to consider the Wage-Hour question and other industry labor problems.

Story Buys

'Twilight On the Trail', by Ellen Corby, Cecile Kramer and J. Benton Cheney, has been purchased by Harry Sherman as the sixth and last of the Hopalong Cassidy series of westerns on Paramount's 1941-42 program. Sherman already has completed two of the six and now is filming 'Timber Wolves' as the third. Fourth and fifth are 'Stick To Your Guns' and 'Hoppy's Holiday'.

Lee Marcus, who recently produced 'Father Takes a Wife', the Gloria Swanson production for RKO, yesterday acquired the rights to Herbert Moffitt's magazine story, 'The Corporal's Girl Friend.' Marcus will shortly announce his new affiliation.

MPTOA 1941 CONVENTION PARALLELS 1934 MEETING

Showmen attending the MPTOA convention at the Ambassador see little difference in conditions to what they were when the national exhibitor group last met here, back in 1934.

An emergency existed at that time, President Roosevelt having only recently assumed office; dual bills were a thorn in the side of many of the independents, and the NRA code took up about as much time as does the new government consent decree, now peeving the theatre operators.

True, the eastern, midwestern, southern and Pacific Coast exhibs who attended traveled mostly to Los Angeles via special train at the last conclave. But in the main the present bunch of exhibs is just as enthusiastic a bunch as whooped it up at the Ambassador seven years ago last April.

Quite a few exhibitor leaders who came west at that time are missing from today's lineup, particularly among the association execs. Ed Kuykendall is still president of the organization, but Morris Loewenstein has succeeded Fred Meyer as secretary, the latter being stricken with illness during the closing days of the convention and forced to remain here many weeks before he fully recovered. Shortly thereafter, Meyer migrated from Milwaukee to Hollywood, and he is now ensconsed at 20th-Fox studio.

Mike Comerford, since deceased, and Ed G. Levy were among the veterans who trekked to the Coast for the 14th annual powwow, but are missing from the ranks today, as are also Ben N. Berinstein, Los Angeles indie leader who functioned as general chairman of the convention, and Charlie Williams, Omaha veteran, both of whom have since died.

Jenne Dodge of Ventura is the only member of the original 'reception' committee who is functioning at the present convention, but Fred Wehrenberg of St. Louis has continued to hold down the office of chairman of the MPTOA board through all these years.

Femme exhibs in 1934, just as today, objected strenuously to block-booking, which has since been outlawed by the government consent decree, and the Texas Rangers, Harold Robb and Ed Rowley, were very much in evidence.

Variety, ever alert to serve the best interests of the exhibitors, occupied the same suite at the Ambassador that houses it for the current convention, and M. A. Lightman, from Memphis, continued to be one of the official cutups of the meet.

Prexy Kuykendall, in his opening address to the convention in 1934 drew from the exhibitor body a pledge to support the President in his move for national recovery, just as he will exact a pledge from the theatre operators at this afternoon's initial session of the 1941 convention to lend every aid to national defense.

All-in-all there was very little difference between the two exhibitor conventions. Theatre operators came here seven years ago with one object uppermost in their minds, the remedying of many situations which they considered detrimental to the exhibition end of the industry, and today they are here for a similar purpose. They hope to accomplish many things as a result of their current trek westward and if they fail they will at least have had the satisfaction of going on record for these improvements and will return to their respective homes, satisfied they have done the best they could under the circumstances.

Anderson's Duet

James Anderson will be assistant to Tay Garnett on the production of 'Weekend For Three' and 'Unexpected Uncle' at RKO.

SWG, Prod. Session Scheduled Latter Part of Week

The executive board of the Screen Writers Guild at its meeting last night announced that the SWG negotiating committee will meet with Producers the last of this week. It also was stated that a bulletin is being sent to the SWG members notifying them to be in readiness for a general membership meeting to be called on 48 hours notice to consider counter proposals of the companies.

A report on the Guild war chest will be made at the membership meeting.

Will Hays May Leave Hospital Today

Word was received here that Will Hays, president of Motion Picture and Distributors of America, may leave St. Luke's hospital in Chicago today. He has been there receiving treatments for several weeks. It is understood that he would visit his home town, Sullivan, Ind., thence to New York before returning to Hollywood.

Bob Murphy
Suggests to the PCCITO and MPTOA the following theme song for the Convention.
(Sung to the tune of 'Tammany')

Double bills, double bills,
Lasts three hours that we know,
Lots of film but no show.

Double bills, treble bills,
Good for dead heads,
Likewise lead heads—
Double bills.

Universal Earnings Near $1,759,334

the take during the 26 weeks ended May 3, 1941.

Net income for the second quarter, according to J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board, who made the announcement, was $1,056,000. This is the first time in the history of the company that quarterly earnings reached the million dollar mark, according to Cowdin's announcement.

Profits for the first half of the year compare with a profit, computed similarly (but after provision of $208,000 as a special amortization reserve), of $1,173,002 in the 26 weeks ended April 27, 1940. Cowdin said that no reserve for amortization was deemed necessary this year.

Earnings for the 26 weeks ended May 3, 1941, after providing a reserve of $390,000 to cover current normal federal income taxes for the period, amounted to $1,369,334. It was impossible, Cowdin said, to estimate size of the excess profits tax until the year's profits are known, and for that reason this tax was not provided for.

Universal also has revenue amounting to $188,250 held up in Great Britain, which is included in the profit for the first half of the year. Figure of $188,250 is based on the official rate of exchange. Cowdin said that revenues accruing to Universal in Great Britain for the balance of the year will be blocked in accordance with currency restrictions obtaining in that country because the company has already received the entire cash allocation from England for the year.

NORTHWEST EXHIBITOR DENOUNCES DUAL BILLS

exhibitor in his territory with the exception of the F-WC affiliates, and he called upon these circuit heads to help banish the widespread evils that double billing is claimed by many to produce.

The speaker strongly advocated that Hamrick-Evergreen and F-WC should become a definite, active party to the widespread movement to eliminate duals, and stated that since he had first spoken on the subject at last year's PCC convention, a new and vitally important factor had developed in the increased cost of operation which, he said, further added to the double feature burden.

Present decline of the picture box office, in many instances, was attributed by Lukan directly to duals, he openly charging that double bills continue to drive patrons away from the theatre. He further charged that reluctance on the part of the National Theatre Corp. subsidiaries was the strongest deterrent to the single bill policy so far encountered.

Lukan followed Albert J. Law, general counsel of the PCC, who in turn followed Mary Pickford to the rostrum. Bob White, Portland, Ore., trustee, presided.

A resume of PCCITO activities and its trustees during the past year was given by Poole, who asked for the continued support of all members of the organization in order that unity could be achieved in correcting problems facing theatre owners individually and collectively.

POOLE RECOMMENDATIONS

Poole recalled that a 15-point plan which the PCCITO adopted at its convention last year had been stymied by the government's consent decree, and announced that a committee had been named to receive resolutions from exhibitors throughout today for presentation before the convention at the Thursday closing session.

This committee, Poole stated, is made up of Bob White, L. O. Lukan, Ben Levin of San Francisco and Law. The PCC executive secretary said that other subjects to be discussed during the remainder of the convention included the somewhat recent introduction of student admission prices, an analysis of the slump in b.o. receipts, the dearth of good films, prevalence of moveovers, wrong allocation of pictures due to false grosses quoted by distributors, and army camp clearance.

Hugh Bruen of Whittier, one of the two Los Angeles trustees to the conference, and the last speaker of the session, forecast a trying period ahead for small theatre owners particularly. He declared himself profoundly concerned for independent exhibs everywhere, due to increased costs, hardships under the consent decree, and quality of the product soon to be released.

PCC conventioneers today start a two-morning program of open forum meetings, at which time exhibitors will be permitted to let their hair down and discuss any and all subjects against which they hold grievances. This morning's meeting will be opened by Poole introducing Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA prexy, and will conclude at noon with the reading of various announcements.

LEGIT OPENING

Coen and Robert Churchill, the latter an ex-scripter and cameraman on documentaries. Churchill also scored personal smash with an army sex lecture monolog and chemical warfare lecture in which he donned a gas mask and dived into footlights, coming up with short and long ciggies, a la Pall Mall ads.

Best of the laugh-grabbing skits was takeoff on pigeon training center, labeled 'Squabs Right', scripted by Edmund North, who served a year as Samuel Goldwyn's assistant and is the son of Robert North, producer at Republic studios on Coast. He wrote a number of sketches and lyrics and directed the entire show at speedy Broadway pace, despite technical difficulties. He was assisted by William Bloom and Sol Shore.

Douglas Kennedy, Hollywood's 'Keith Douglas', handled the romantic and singing roles solidly. Opposite was Nan Iverson, a Powers model who lives in Redbank and was one of half a dozen local gals in the lineup, giving the show plenty S.A.

Lighting was by Harry Redmond, former Warners special effects man, and Robert Koskoff, also from the Coast; scenery by Robert Majors and Victor Mishonsky, formerly Disney animators, Paul Fanning, ex-Harmon-Ising, and John Vita from the Leon Schlesinger — professional jobs in both departments.

In its present form it is no entry for Broadway but is easily the top camp production of the present era. Loaded with funny skits which appealed to non-audience, good tunes, good lyrics, and having the benefit of several talented performers, it scores easily with some 600 townsfolk and soldiers packed into Elks Hall, done in 'Hellzapoppin' roughhouse style.

Doubt Ben Cohen Safety

New York, June 9.—Anxiety is felt here for the safety of Ben Cohen, Metro's South African manager, and his wife, on reports that the S.S. Cohen sailed May 6 after being reassigned from the post of India manager.

Demands of 10,000 Workers Go To Producers Today

Demands for contract revisions covering wages, hours and conditions for 10,000 film technicians will be presented to Producers today when committees representing the 10 studio locals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes huddle with Pat Casey, Producer labor contact. Demands of the unions for immediate opening of negotiations, as well as the question of retroactive pay under the Wage-Hour Law, were mulled last night at a conference between Casey and the Producers Labor Relations Committee headed by Y. Frank Freeman.

While the Freeman committee was meeting, the IATSE locals' negotiating committees also were in session, mapping final plans for approaching their negotiations with the major companies. It is understood that a majority of the union representatives are anxious to get their negotiations on wages and conditions out of the way before taking up the question of back pay.

Several of the business representatives stated that the question of back pay affected only a small percentage of the membership, while the question of wages, hours and conditions would affect them all. They said they did not anticipate any trouble on getting together with the Producers on the back pay matter, and for that reason planned to push the other negotiations first.

The Producers, in the meantime, were reported planning to demand an eight-hour day, instead of the current six-hour shifts. They contend the short day was adopted to spread work, but that with hundreds of workers leaving the industry for military service and to work on Defense Program projects, there is no longer any necessity for spreading the work via a short day.

The first meeting between Casey and the IATSE groups probably will be devoted to a preliminary discussion of how to proceed with the negotiations. It is understood that the individual demands of each union will be presented separately, but that no deals will be signed until an agreement has been reached with all the locals now united in a Federation.

Casey was recalled from the east to handle the negotiations after the locals had notified the Producers that they would handle their own deals, without any aid or interference from the IA International.

AFM PETRILLO LAMBASTS ASST. U.S. ATTY. ARNOLD

American Guild of Musical Artists, Petrillo stated that Arnold had used unethical methods in his campaign against the AFofM.

Petrillo declared that Arnold had said that jurisdictional disputes have nothing to do with the hours, wages or working conditions of union members, but are merely contests as to which union leader will own the members. 'When I am what Arnold calls me', said Petrillo, 'throw me out in the alley, because that's where I'll belong.'

In a review of the calling out of AForM members from feeding remote broadcasts to stations where the AFofM in on strike, Petrillo declared that no AFofM members would play for any remote control broadcasts that would be fed to struck stations.

The first session was given over mostly to routine business with welcoming addresses from Lieutenant-Governor Victor Meyers, President James A. Taylor, of the Washington State Federation of Labor, and others leading off. The reading of the roll call and the appointment of committees preceded talks by AFofM leaders, including honorary President Joseph N. Weber, who said that in these momentous times individual interests must take second place to the general welfare and that the AFofM was ready to make any sacrifices to guard democracy and freedom. A hint of future action may have prompted his remark that 'we have subversive elements in the AForM, also, and I can prove it when necessary.'

A motion allowing the president of the AFofM to hold office in a local was passed after Petrillo explained the situation at present and asked the convention to act. He is currently head of the Chicago AFofM local in addition to being national prexy.

The convention will reconvene tomorrow for a morning session, with the afternoon given over to a cruise.

CONVENTION NOTES

Nobel Braden, executive secretary of the American Arbitration Association, New York, is an interested spectator at the convention sessions and is expected to address the MPTOA delegates between now and Thursday.

Charlie Holtz, who operates the Colonial theatre at Sacramento, and his associate, Noble Barton, are here for the convention, accompanied by their wives. They plan to remain over until sometime Friday.

A signal honor was accorded Fred S. Meyer, 20th-Fox exec, when Ed Kuykendall invited the former national secretary to sit in (and he did) throughout the annual meeting of the MPTOA board of directors last night. The boys just feel that Fred is still one of them.

George Hickey, Metro's sheriff, has been in almost constant attendance at the Ambassador, meeting his loads of exhibitor friends.

Fred Wehrenberg arrived Sunday but did not register his appearance until early yesterday.

Sidney Lust, Washington, D. C. director of MPTOA, with his wife tried to crash the registration desk before it opened yesterday, but finally compromised and had breakfast first.

John Rugar, prexy of the Intermountain Theatre Owners, with headquarters in Salt Lake City, headed a delegation of exhibs from that area to the convention.

'Red' Jacobs came down from Frisco, where he now is located as branch manager for RKO.

Mike Naify of San Francisco is accompanied by his son, Marshall. And as usual Mike is eagerly sought after by every one at the convention.

'Peaceful picketing' broke out yesterday in front of the National Theatre Supply booth. Placard carried by the picket read on one side that National Theatre Supply background was unfavorable to Wagner, and the reverse side read that Wagner's background was likewise unfair to NTS.

Ben Levin of Frisco was photographed with Metro's lion yesterday and immediately became filled with so much courage he started ordering his wife around.

Neil Agnew was again delayed and now is due to arrive here some time this morning.

Fox West Coast Theatres has an attractive cutout bedecked with flowers extending a welcome to the exhibs in the hotel lobby, and also is giving courtesy passes to all local theatres to each of the registrants.

United Artists cashed in on a lot of publicity yesterday when it distributed bottles of sherry wine as an advance bally for 'New Wine', which it will shortly distribute. Lew Marin of the UA exploitation staff, and Guy Gunderson, of the local exchange, have headquarters in Room 460 at the Ambassador and from here the libation, in unopened bottles, was dished out. A card, which accompanied each gift, bore a greeting to the showmen from Ilona Massey, who is featured in the picture.

Although Max Sinker registered for his partner, Irving Carlin, latter was too busy at the Hollywood bowling alleys to visit convention headquarters until just in time to horn in on the studio trip.

Mrs. Jenne Dodge of Ventura is doing a swell job as official hostess for the ITO of Southern California.

The National Theatre Supply exhibit features a new type of Hy-Candescent lamp. Projector, equipped with F-2 condensers and F-2 lenses, furnishes double the light formerly achieved by the same amperage. Henry G. Schick, in charge of the National Theatre Supply display booth, also is demonstrating effectiveness of fluorescent carpets, under black lights, which are most useful along aisles and dimly lighted parts of the theatre.

National Screen Service has an attractive exhibit plugging the value of advertising to show business. Likeness of a circus strong man is pictured as the God of Advertising.

one exception, was re-elected with him.

Frank C. Walker was again named as a vice-president, but has retired as general counsel, his duties as postmaster general making it imperative that he relinquish his exhibitor duties as far as the legal end is concerned.

Other officers include M. A. Lightman of Memphis, Mitchell Wolfson, Miami, Fla., E. C. Beatty, Detroit, Mich., and A. Julian Brylawski, Washington, D. C., as vice-presidents; Morris Loewenstein, Oklahoma City, secretary; Walter Vincent, New York, treasurer; Fred Wehrenberg, St. Louis, chairman of the board, and Aarons, associate general counsel.

'Singapore' Rolling

Florence Rice and Leif Erikson will head the cast in 'The Blonde From Singapore', which starts shooting tomorrow at Columbia under the direction of Edward Dmytryk. Gordon Jones and Don Beddoe have feature parts. Seymour Friedman will be assistant director.

Connolly Direction

Bobby Connolly has drawn the directing assignment on Warners 'West of the Rockies', short subject to feature William Justice. Studio yesterday wound up shooting on 'Minstrel Days', short which Connolly directed.

Ansen on Smither

Joseph Ansen has been assigned to write script for the fifth Quiz short to be made by Pete Smith at Metro. Smith is starting 'How to Hold Your Husband — Back' this week. John Hines will direct.

Chas. Quigley Set

Charles Quigley has been signed by Larry Darmour to play the lead in 'The Iron Claw', serial latter will produce for Columbia. Chapter play goes into work Monday with James Horne directing.

Totman Ends 'Game'

Wellyn Totman has turned in his script on 'The Deadly Game' to Dixon Harwin and Barney Sarecky, who will produce at Monogram. Picture is tentatively scheduled to start Friday if casting is completed.

Added to 'Heaven'

Leah Baird and Vera Lewis yesterday were added to the cast of Warners 'One Foot in Heaven.' Jesse Hibbs has been made assistant to Irving Rapper, who directs.

Williams in 'Rich'

Guinn Williams joins the supporting players in 'You'll Never Get Rich' at Columbia.

Mediator Calls Disney Strike Conference

mediator in the strike at the Disney Studio. Smith called a meeting last night of business representatives of IATSE studio locals to discuss the situation, and is to confer today with Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644 and leader of the Screen Cartoonists Guild walkout.

In the meantime, the Central Labor Council appointed a committee with power to act to consider the request that Disney products be placed on the American Federation of Labor unfair list. It was understood the Committee planned to defer action until today because of the meeting of the board of directors of the Disney company scheduled for last night, and with the idea of continuing negotiations before banning Disney products.

The Screen Actors Guild board of directors at its meeting last night pledged moral and financial support to the Disney strikers. The following wire, signed by prexy Edward Arnold for the executive board, was sent to Art Babbitt, chairman of the Disney unit of the Screen Cartoonists Guild:

'The SAG pledges its moral and financial support to the Screen Cartoonists Guild in the present strike action forced by the anti-labor tactics of the Walt Disney studio. The Disney company's activities in disregard of National Labor Relations Board decisions, together with the other facts make it clear that you had no other recourse than to strike and preserve your rights to bargain collectively. To the loyal members of the SCG we extend our sympathy because of the personal sacrifices which are necessary and our congratulations that your members have demonstrated the courage necessary to make such sacrifices.'

The following letter asking Smith to act as a mediator was received yesterday from Walt Disney:

'Pursuant to the discussion you had with our Mr. Garity on June 2 and June 7 wherein you stated you would not permit soundmen to cross an AFofL picket line at our studio and make recordings, you evidenced interest in using your good offices to the end of attempting an amicable settlement of the present strike at our studio to the mutual satisfaction of all concerned.

'As a result of that interest expressed we now ask you to enter this situation and attempt to bring about an early agreement mutually satisfactory to the company, the IATSE unions and other AFofL unions and guilds involved.

'It is not to our best interests or that of your members and the other allied crafts and organizations that this become a long drawn out controversy. Therefore, your intercession and cooperation as a mediator will be appreciated.

'It is understood that this letter represents our desire to settle our dispute, but will not be interpreted that the company has weakened or will change the position originally taken for fair play relative to all of its employes involved.'

The National Labor Relations Board has not yet taken any action on the Disney position for an election of employes, or on the Screen Cartoonists Guild complaint charging the company with unfair labor practices. The difficulty of securing witnesses at this time is understood to have delayed the matters.

A meeting of the strategy board of the strikers is scheduled for tonight. The board includes representatives from all crafts cooperating with the cartoonists, including the sound technicians, laboratory technicians, teamsters, laborers, cutters, etc.

LAW COUNSELS OBSERVANCE OF U. S. CONSENT DECREE

Albert J. Law, general counsel for the PCCITO, at the opening session of the association's convention yesterday morning urged exhibitors to report every infringement or violation of the consent decree to their local association in order that questionable practices might be taken up by him directly with Thurman Arnold, Department of Justice trustbuster in Washington.

In his report on efforts to have the consent decree modified and other action on problems confronting exhibitors, Law said that Arnold had agreed to consider exhibitor complaints forwarded to him in Washington and that he would take up serious questions with any distributors involved by direct contact with their New York headquarters.

Law stated that in his talks with Arnold in Washington recently he had broached the subject of modifying the decree so as to permit exhibitors to buy as in the past, with enforcement of the 20% cancellation clause. Arnold admitted that the decree is regarded as an experiment which will probably be in effect only for a year in its present form. But he declared himself unalterably opposed to any modification of the decree at this time and stated that the provisions of the law must be rigidly adhered to until such time as practical experience with the workings of the legislation indicates what, if any, changes should be made.

During his conversations with Arnold, Law pointed out that there were many situations which are not covered by the decree. Arnold replied that the Sherman anti-trust laws were still in force to cover any loophole.

POLICE REGULATIONS

Proceeding on the assumption that the consent decree is on trial for a period of approximately one year, Law advised exhibitors to make sure that the regulations are meanwhile enforced and policed. He suggested that if pressure methods are adopted by any distributor, this should be referred to the local exhibitor association which would then send the complaints along to him and in turn be forwarded to Arnold in Washington.

In order to establish a record upon which any re-examination of the decree can take place at the end of the year, Law warned exhibitors that they must call attention to all cases of decree violation. Law referred specifically to any attempted forcing of short subjects and newsreels upon exhibitors and suggested that such practices be called to his attention for submission to the Department of Justice. In this way a record will be created so that when exhibitors go into court they will be able to show where the decree has helped or hindered them and ask for modifications based on facts.

Turning next to the proposed tax on motion picture film and the reduction of exemption on admission taxes, Law said that from his talks with various members of the Ways and Means Committee in Washington he had gathered the impression that a tax on film would not be levied by Congress, but that the admission tax exemption would likely be reduced to nine cents so that there would be a one cent tax on every 10c admission ticket. The legislators had originally planned to place a tax on film because they had been under the impression that this tax would be absorbed by the distributors. Since they learned that the tax would be passed on to exhibitors sentiment has veered away from a tax of this nature.

ASCAP PROPOSAL

With regard to the proposed action against Ascap, Law stated that he was ready to go into court, but asked all exhibitors who haven't already sent in letters giving all necessary information to do so by June 20, as suit is to be filed shortly thereafter. Law revealed that while in Washington he had gone over the Florida and Nebraska cases against Ascap with the attorney-general of each of those two states. He stated that the objective on the west coast is to sell the courts the idea that Ascap is an illegal combination fixing prices and operating in restraint of trade. He contended that the Supreme court ruling in the Florida and Nebraska cases so defines the association.

Referring briefly to the small number of arbitration cases filed so far, Law condemned hesitation on the part of exhibitors to take action where it was warranted and said that fear of reprisals from distributors should not deter theatre operators from making themselves heard. He reiterated his warning that exhibitors must submit cases of attempted intimidation and all other pertinent data in order to establish a record before alleviation can be applied for. He cautioned that it would be illogical to say that the consent decree was no good before it was given a fair trial.

Law concluded his address with a report that PCCITO has been incorporated, proper documents having been filed with the Secretary of State of California.

Set Llewellyn Miller Play for Strawhat Opening in East

'Final Answer', play by Llewellyn Miller, former LA newspaper reporter and now editor of Fawcett's Screen Life in New York, will be the third summer presentation at Robert Elwyn's Woodstock, N. Y. playhouse. Opening the season there is 'The Shining Hour' with Elissa Landi. Second will be 'Concert Tour', by Frank Thomas, Sr., and Henry Moritz, with Thomas, Sr. and Jr., in the cast. Dickers are now on for a film name to do the lead in Miss Miller's play.

vigilant guards, and pulls the trigger. The hammer snaps down on an empty chamber. The hunter, captured as he is about to repeat with a charged rifle, explains to the Gestapo that he had no intention of assassinating the German fuehrer, much less of doing so at the behest of high British officials; that he had merely made a 'sporting stalk' of the big 'human game' for the sheer pride of being able to get so close to the guarded Nazi head. This takes place before war is joined between the two countries, and the sportsman's act is still a matter to be measured and qualified by international laws. At the last, Pidgeon admits that it was his intention actually, to kill Hitler. In between the melodrama twists and mounts through many close escapades after Pidgeon has evaded the custody of Sanders, Gestapo chief, who seeks to have him blame official England for his act.

Director Lang shows himself a master at maintaining high suspense and holding a tale with possibilities of getting out of hand thoroughly in check to winnow its every passion. Shock and thrill punctuate the running narrative, which is dressed in eloquent photography by Arthur Miller and given the benefit of top notch musical score by Alfred Newman.

Kenneth Macgowan presided as associate producer.

AUGURY HEADS ENTRIES FOR SEQUOIA HANDICAP

By DOC BAKER

Hollywood Park on Saturday ends its third full week of the current meeting with an all-star cast of fillies and mares, three years old and older, vieing for the honor of winning the Sequoia Handicap and a purse of $10,000. The Sequoia, feature race for this Saturday, gives the ladies their first chance of the meeting to have at each other. Fourteen of the best mares and fillies at the track have been named for the seven furlong event, and since nominations, which closed last Saturday, were made so close to the running of the race, it is logical to expect that most, if not all of them, will accept the issue.

Augury, because of her recent debut in defeating Hysterical, appears to be the pre-race favorite at this writing, although Mrs. Vera S. Bragg's Cute Trick, Louis B. Mayer's Appeasement and Painted Veil, R. A. Coward's U-Boat, the Vegas Stock Farm's Omelet, J. D. Weil's Flying Streak and Northway Stud's Sweet Nancy all figure to give Neil S. McCarthy's champ a run for it.

CUTE TRICK TOUGH

Cute Trick probably will offer Augury her principal contention. The latter has been racing here recently in splendid fashion. The Bragg filly, winner of the Santa Susana Stakes at Santa Anita last winter, won the mile Dorimond Handicap here last Friday, and in her previous engagement she accounted for the six furlong Community Chest Handicap. In the latter event she turned back a field of her own sex, including Louis B. Mayer's Torch Betty and R. C. Ellsworth's Heather Time, also named for the Sequoia. In the Dorimond, Cute Trick whipped a field of masculine rivals.

Another lady expected to be heard from is Omelet, who covered herself with some glory last winter at Santa Anita when she ran through slop to win the $10,000 Santa Marguerita Stakes, with Westrope in the irons. Augury took it on the chin in that race.

The unknown quantity and quality in the Sequoia is Maicena, a South American importation, belonging to the Binglin outfit. She has worked excellently for this spot, and she figures, if she runs her best race, to make it hot for the top ones.

The Sequoia is the first of two important stakes for fillies and mares to be run at Hollywood Park this summer. The other is the $10,000 Vanity Handicap, which will be run on June 28 at a mile and a sixteenth. These races have been arranged in response to the plea of the breeders for more added money events for fillies and mares. It is such events that increase the value of feminine thoroughbreds as prospective broodmares.

'Cabin' Opens

Negro spiritual winds up four-week light opera festival season. Show goes to Frisco for two or three-week run following its local stand. CONVENTION COLLAPSE SEEN IN TRAIPSING

Reluctance of a majority of the out-of-town exhibitors gathered here for the annual MPTOA convention to attend the business sessions, and their seeming preference to spend most of their time at the various studios hob-nobbing with the film players, is proving disastrous and may result in the complete collapse of the convention.

At the opening session of the MPTOA yesterday afternoon, only a handful of theatre operators were present to hear the various talks and reports of executive officers. So

Golden Urges Pic Biz Setup on Baseball Lines

Speaking before the MPTOA convention at the Ambassador hotel yesterday, Nathan D. Golden, motion picture consultant with the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington, said that the film industry, in looking to domestic patronage to take up the void caused by the virtual disappearance of the foreign market, should develop a program for the motion picture industry similar to that employed by the major baseball leagues in the United States. He said that just as organized baseball, assisted by amateur leagues and

Cartoonists Vote Today On Disney Representation

Members of the Screen Cartoonists Guild vote this morning on the question of agreeing to an election of Walt Disney employes to determine whether the Guild represents a majority. The decision to submit the proposal to a vote of the workers was reached yesterday at a conference between Walt Disney and a Guild committee headed by Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644. The session was held in the offices of Harold V. Smith, who has been asked by the company to act as mediator in the two-weeks-old studio strike.

It was pretty generally agreed that

Hollywood Inside

DONALD WOODS aired for Denver yesterday leaving the producers of CBS air show, 'Those We Love', in a dilemma as to what to do with the two remaining broadcasts of the season (16-23). Woods, who has been doing the lead on the program, obtained permission to jump the last two airings several weeks ago in order to return for five weeks of summer stock at the Elitch's Garden in Denver. Producers figured on writing Woods out of program for last two broadcasts but story development failed to make a loophole for the removal. It will be impossible to fly Woods back next Monday (16) for that show as he opens the same date in 'Skylark'. The following Monday (23), he begins his role in 'The Male Animal', leaving ether producers with the necessity of finding a substitute. Other Elitch's Gardens plays to be presented are 'Philadelphia Story', 'Golden Boy' and 'The Guardsman.'

M. H. HOFFMAN is expected back from New York shortly to line up studio production space for the 26 features to be turned out by Liberty National Pictures Corp. during 1941-42. Hoffman has been east for some time, completing financial details and setting distribution for the program. Schedule will include action, melodrama, mystery and western pictures, plus a contemplated 12 to 18 additional features to be produced by independent producers under franchises. Coast headquarters, now on the Sunset Strip, will probably be at the RKO-Pathe lot, where Hoffman was previously located. New York offices will be maintained in the RKO building, in charge of Liberty National's sales manager.

WHEN Stirling Hayden got a job in pictures at Paramount he brought to the Coast with him a friend, Jack Dixon, newspaper photographer from Boston. Dixon tried to land a job in the business, first as a still camera man, then as a publicity writer. Both attempts failed. He made some stills of himself in character and got a bit in Cecil B. DeMille's 'Reap the Wild Wind.' Then he played in 'Timber Wolves' and will go into 'American Empire' and 'Sullivan's Travels', all Paramount films. Hayden is away on location for 'Bahama Passage' and when he gets back Dixon will have been in more roles than he has played.

SO FAR, Paramount is the only studio that has established a practical system of cutting out, in advance, those scenes, characters and situations in its pictures that may prove offensive to audiences in Latin America. Luigi Luraschi, of the studio's foreign department, has been installed as the official censor. Luraschi has more than a desk job, for his suggestions go directly to studio heads and are acted upon more quickly than those made by the ordinary technical advisor. His work comprises reading of scripts and dialog and gandering scenes as they go before the cameras.

CECIL B. DeMILLE has blossomed out with a portable dressing-room for himself that, for sheer munificence puts to shame those used by many stars. Director makes use of it to change from his boots and riding pants into mufti when he goes for his Monday afternoon radio broadcasts. It is no bigger than a small trailer, but it has flourescent lighting and a modern white Chinese rug; full-length mirrors; three closets; a couch upholstered in rough white wool trimmed with red; a mahogany desk; hidden ventilation and an electric heater.

PUBLICITY men from all the major studios are working in relays on the reception committee for the PCCITO-MPTOA convention at the Ambassador hotel. The Get-Away

(Melodrama)

Metro production. Features Robert Sterling, Charles Winninger, Donna Reed, Henry O'Neill, Dan Dailey, Jr. Supporting players: Don Douglas, Ernest Whitman, Grant Withers, Chester Gan, Charles Wagenheim, Guy Kingsford, Matty Fain. Director, Edward Buzzell. Producer, J. Walter Ruben. Screenplay, Wells Root and W. R. Burnett. Story by J. Walter Ruben and Wells Root. Photography, Sidney Wagner. Musical score, Daniele Amfitheatrof. Recording director, Douglas Shearer. Art director, Cedric Gibbons; associate, Wade B. Rubottom. Set decorations, Edwin B. Willis. Wardrobe, Kalloch. Film editor, James E. Newcom. Previewed June 10. Running time: 88 mins.

Public hero number one was an exciting tale of gangdom and the FBI when made by Metro in 1935. It is still a good entry in the film crime department in 1941 as 'The Get-Away', and more than serves its purpose as a showcase for some promising talent being developed by the studio. In addition, theatregoers who like fast-action gangster tales will find this a well constructed melodrama that has only one drawback—too much footage to fit comfortably with a long, more pretentious production.

Its rewrite follows closely on the story as first made, needing only national defense work to bring it up-to-date. Robert Sterling plays the FBI operative done by Chester Morris in the original version, and points himself as an up and coming young actor who will develop quite a following. Charles Winninger is the drunken doctor who succors the wounded criminals, the role first played by Lionel Barrymore, and holds his own in any comparison. Donna Reed, in her first role, competes with Jean Arthur as the gangster's sister. Miss Reed shows considerable promise. Dan Dailey, Jr., the gangster formerly played by Joseph Calleia, is a standout, tense and menacing without hokum. Henry O'Neill does the warden formerly played by Lewis Stone, and is wholly satisfactory in the role.

Wells Root scripted solo on the original version, and this time is aided by W. R. Burnett, on the story by J. Walter Ruben and Root. Plot details the adventures of a disguised G-man who is sent to prison to arrange an escape for a gang's leader, falls in love with the mobster's sister, almost queers the law's roundup of the gang, but redeems himself. The story is well told and excellently dialoged.

Supporting performances by Don Douglas, Ernest Whitman, Grant Withers, Chester Gan, Charles Wagenheim, Guy Kingsford and Matty Fain aid generally in lending the proper atmosphere.

Edward Buzzell develops a mounting suspense with his direction and shows the young players to advantage. Ruben, who directed the 1935 version under the production of Lucien Hubbard, assumed the latter's post on the remake most creditably. Sidney Wagner's photography, the art direction and other functions are expertly carried out.

AFM Report Shows Increase In Musicians for Discs

Seattle, June 10.—Report of Ben Selvin, recording manager of Associated Music Publishers, Inc., on the survey of canned music which he conducted for Prexy J. C. Petrillo of American Federation of Musicians, gave the AFM at its convention here the first accurate figures showing the monies spent for recordings and transcriptions and the number of musicians used in making discs. There has been a great increase in the use of musicians for recordings since the war, due to lack of imported master recordings, declared Selvin, who added that records were probably a greater problem to the AFM than electrical transcriptions, because radio stations make unrestricted use of the former, which are not tailored specifically for radio as are electrical transcriptions.

Figures revealed that 53% of all radio programs use electrical transcriptions, with transcription libraries used by more than 700 stations. A chart showing what the average independent radio station uses in its average seven hours daily of music disclosed that records are utilized for two hours, four minutes; transcriptions, three hours, 43 minutes; remotes, 15 minutes, and live music, 58 minutes.

Of the resolutions considered, convention killed a proposal calling for use of musicians in theatres, under control of picture producers, and where no disposition to cooperate is shown, to take the matter up with the U. S. attorney general to 'break the stranglehold they have on exhibitors.'

Development of both television and frequency modulation broadcasting will tend to increase the use of live music, and wired music such as is supplied by Muzak is no problem, but some system should be devised so that AFM can control the making or distributing of records, Selvin stated. In the latter opinion he was backed by J. N. Weber, honorary president.

Juke boxes, such as Soundies, did not rate much attention in the report because it was felt they do not mean much in their present state of development and were felt to be a not unmixed evil.

Discussion of Selvin's report was left open for the rest of the convention, and several resolutions to be given the delegates will suggest ways of licensing recorders or the playing of records so that musicians either will get work or recompense from their commercial use. Opinion seemed to be that now is the time for AFM to do something on the canned music problem.

Attempt to raise minimum initiation fees for locals from $5 to $15 was killed, with Weber stating that the Federation could place a maximum on these fees but that amount of minimum was for locals to decide. Meeting adjourned at noon to reconvene tomorrow morning.

Buell Sigs Langdon

Jed Buell of Producers Corporation has signed Harry Langdon to a top spot for 'The Great Fib', through deal made by Hallam Cooley.

Injunction Granted Festival Films Over Copyright

Judge Jenney has granted an injunction to Festival Films prohibiting Edward Kohn from showing 16mm. films, in the Hollywood Parade theatre, on which the plaintiffs declared they held copyrights. Films in question were 16mm. versions of 'The Adventurer', 'The Fireman', 'The Immigrant' and others. The Court ruled that these pictures could be shown only in private homes or for private gatherings providing there is no admission charge.

When it was declared in court that Kohn intended to get similar films from the Museum of Modern Art in New York an officer of Festival Films, Sam Goldstein, stated that any license to exhibit which the Museum held had been cancelled last month.

Correspondents Meet On Preview Setup

Hollywood correspondents met yesterday at the Brown Derby to discuss the agreement negotiated with the Producers calling for all pictures to be previewed here before being shown elsewhere. The writers expressed satisfaction with the deal, but agreed to hold periodical meetings to check on the preview situation as well as other matters that might arise.

Minneapolis, June 10.—Bennie Berger, owner of one of this territory's largest circuits, announces he will defy the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers and refuse to continue paying license fees for his nine theatres, thus inviting Ascap suits.

In doing so Berger disregards the recent advice of Abram Myers, National Allied States counsel and his close friend, who told exhibitors that despite recent court decisions, the smart thing to do is to continue paying the Ascap fees.

MUTUAL IMPATIENT AT FCC CRACKDOWN ON OTHER NETS

Washington, June 10.—There's no need to change the Communications Act, and the anti-monopoly reforms ordered by Federal Communications Commission are both thoroughly valid and sound, Mutual Broadcasting System spokesmen today told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. While considering the proposed probe unnecessary, Mutual is not fighting the White resolution calling for a study of the effect of the regulations. It simply doesn't like the clause suspending application of the verbotens. Congress can go ahead and inquire to its heart's content without encountering any Mutual objections, providing the 'salutary' reforms are put in force as scheduled in August.

Mutual, chief prospective beneficiary of the controverted commandments, 'had nothing to do with instigating' the long comish study, Louis G. Caldwell, chief counsel, declared. While not entirely pleased with some phases of the regulations, Caldwell said Mutual can 'conform' without any hardship. Others can, too, he added, and 'the rules eventually will be recognized as a boon' to the whole industry.

Maintenance of two webs by NBC was the sorest point with Mutual. Both Caldwell and Fred Weber, general manager, cheered most loudly the provision requiring elimination of one skein. Echoing yesterday's statements by FCC Chairman James L. Fly, Caldwell noted two out of four networks is a 'pretty high percentage', particularly when none of the existing combinations had adequate outlets in all markets.

Considerable questioning on this point was done by Senator Worth Clark of Idaho, who said stations in his state have 'importuned' him to support the White resolution. Weber shot back that only NBC had outlets in Idaho and consequently they get the benefit of the programs from both the red and blue webs. Caldwell said duality serves a useful purpose 'for the owners' but not for the public or the affiliates. While there are a few defects in the statute, none is important enough to warrant rewriting of the present law, Caldwell declared. Acknowledged, he has been one of the most voluminous critics of the regulators in saying he is personally glad to see more policies and regulatory principles embodied in concrete rules that will let every licensee know where he stands even if he doesn't like the particular regulations and end 'the shadow-boxing.' There have been too many skeletons in the comish closet, he opined.

Rocks were thrown at Mutual for sewing up the world series. Chief heavers were Senators Carl McFarland of Arizona, who yipped that his constituents were denied pitch-by-pitch accounts, and Chan Gurney of South Dakota. When Mutual's general manager remarked the exclusivity arrangement 'lessened duplication', Gurney noted sourly 'to such an extent that people of Arizona couldn't get it at all.' Weber maintained it is a customary practice of the industry to bid for sole privilege of airing sports events and other chains had equal opportunity.

KELLY SAYS UA MUST LEARN NEW TRICKS

terday in revealing several changes in the company policy and operations. He arrived over the weekend from huddles with UA owners and producers on the Coast.

Kelly said he seeks no other additional producers besides Frank Capra and David O. Selznick, with whom he now is negotiating. He explained that the company has changed its plans and now has enough producers, but wants more pictures from each. He added that it would be desirable but impractical for each producer to make one picture yearly. He wants the producers to make three pictures annually and says that the company will help finance that number.

Geo. Ward Resigns

Play Review

WHISTLING FOR A WIND

DeWitt Bodeen's 'Whistling For a Wind', which opened last night at the Pasadena Community Playhouse, is a war play that is intensely human, highly dramatic, and with enough well-written lines to make it one of the few good plays yet to have been built around the great conflict in Europe.

Huddled together in the crypt of a great London cathedral during a bombing raid are 25 people, sinners and publicans, Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's lady, a street walker and a church warden, an orphan and an estranged couple, a girl war correspondent from the United States, an American ambulance driver, a munitions maker, a Dutch flyer and a French lieutenant, a British officer with a gallantry derived from liquor. They are trapped when a bomb blast closes all entrances to the church. The character of each is sharply revealed when there seems no chance for escape from the fumes of a broken gas main.

Major credit should go to Norman Wilnor, as the British officer; Maxine Chevalier, as the prostitute; Joan Yendes, as a blind pianist; Ellanora Needles, as the calloused noblewoman, and to Arlene Friedrich, as a daffy widow completely anaesthetized against the horror of war by gripping detective stories. All give a good account of themselves, including Tom Gregory, Lisbeth Menagh, Betsy Jones, Mary Alyce Harnish, Lyle Wasserkrug, Teddi Sherman, Darlene Matthews, Clyde Wilson, William Royal Griffin, Ruth Mallory, Leslie Stuart, Louise Allbritton, Robert G. Rockwell, John Hoffstadt, Jane Cowan, Chandler McClure, Maudie Doyle and Jane Williams.

Maxwell Sholes did an excellent job of direction. The crypt single set by Donald Finlayson had a Gothic beauty.

Bodeen's play, with some rewriting, would have a chance in legit, and it might be okay for pictures because it deals skilfully with the humans involved and contains a minimum of propaganda.

Authors League Okehs SWG Strike If And When on Coast

New York, June 10.—The Authors League of America has officially decided to support the Screen Writers if they strike against the studios. The League Council, including representatives of the Authors, Dramatists and Radio Writers Guilds, met today and, after studying the issues of the scenarists-Producers dispute, voted full endorsement of the scripters' stand.

Some doubt exists, however, as to how much actual help the League can bring. In case of a strike they may refuse jobs as replacement for contract writers who walk out, but there will be difficulty about refusing to sell novels, stories and plays to studios for adaptation because the publishers or play producers nearly always own a share of the rights and they might refuse to cooperate.

Frankel Suit Hits Pathe Films, Etc.

New York, June 10. — Daniel Frankel has filed Supreme court suit against Pathe Film Corporation for $29,400, and against Pathe Laboratories, Inc., for $531,915, charging breach of contract. Plaintiff seeks commissions on contract made July, 1933, giving him salary and commissions for securing film printing for both defendants. Plaintiff claims he secured $2,100,000 in business for Pathe Film, with $29,400 in commissions due, plus another commission of $32,515 due from Pathe Lab for $2,410,000 business secured.

Damages of $46,000 are sought on commissions allegedly due for setting a deal whereby Universal agreed to do all its print work at the Pathe Lab plant. Pathe procrastinated until Frankel's contract expired, he charges. He also asks $10,000 for commissions on work received after termination of his contract.

Bob Livingston Leaves Rep Mesquiteers After Five Years

Bob Livingston, one of the original Three Mesquiteers at Republic, has checked out of the studio upon expiration of his contract at the end of five-year term. Studio is looking for replacement name for the Mesquiteer series, to fill out trio again with Bob Steele and Rufe Davis.

Next Mesquiteer, 'Empty Saddles', is due to ride July 7, with Lou Gray in the associate producer saddle, and Livingston's successor is expected to have been signed up before that time. Livingston, who was replaced by John Wayne in the series when the former withdrew from Mesquiteers to go into features, and who, in turn, replaced Wayne when latter pulled out for features, didn't want to do westerns any longer.

KUYKENDALL IN BITTER ATTACK ON EARLY PREEMS

Hollywood columnists, commentators and critics, who label motion pictures as good, bad or indifferent, long in advance of their exhibition, were blasted yesterday by Ed Kuykendall, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America. Speaking at the opening convention session, Kuykendall launched a bitter attack against the industry practice or so-called previews of pictures by fan mag and newspaper writers stationed here to dig up any missiles they can find to level at the motion picture business.

'We exhibitors have long since been aware of one of the industry's most serious problems', Kuykendall said. 'As long ago as 1933, MPTOA leaders were pointing out the evils and unfairness of this system of arbitrarily pre-judging and classifying picture productions for the general public, based on the personal opinion of the Hollywood reviewer, without the benefit of genuine audience reaction and before we have had a chance to advertise and present the picture in any of our theatres as a new show should be presented.

'I believe out here you call this system "press previews". Why Hollywood continues to screen its productions and encourage such comments on the merits of a motion picture in advance of its exhibition to the public, so that the picture is classified and rated throughout the country before the public has any chance to see it and decide for itself whether it likes it or not, is beyond me', the MPTOA prexy continued.

'This is a serious problem of motion picture merchandising, and it is undoubtedly one of the main reasons our business is not as good as we have a right to expect. There is no other commercial enterprise of comparable size and importance in the world today that would stand for or tolerate such prejudgment and arbitrary, unofficial grading of its product.

'We don't want the producers to thwart or suppress honest criticism. But we don't want our merchandise condemned arbitrarily long before we have any chance to advertise it or present it and put it on sale to the public, just because some correspondent or commentator out here in Hollywood, who may have entirely different tastes and preferences from the people in my section of the country, doesn't care for the picture.

'We know, from our own experiences as exhibitors, that a columnist's or commentator's personal opinion, widely published and circulated, can offset any advertising we can do in the same paper. After a picture has been thus condemned and branded as no good before it is ready to open, there is not much value to any advertising we, or anybody else, can run on it.

'You have killed off its chances of success before we can advertise the picture by enabling the commentators to give it a fixed grading or rating, even though our local newspaper reviewers and the people who do see the picture later on may think it is very good entertainment. It is not fair to the picture, to the exhibitor who has it to show, nor to the newspapers throughout the country who have their own capable photoplay critics and reviewers, who cannot review and appraise a picture until it has its public exhibition.

'The so-called Hollywood press previews have been going on for years, I know, but it seems to get worse and to do more and more damage to our business as the years go by. The legitimate stage never had this to contend with. There is no pre-judgment of stage shows, nor even of radio programs. There is certainly no reason why a motion picture production is not entitled to the same treatment and liberties. Then, and only then, I believe, can our advertising and advance publicity mean something. Then and then only can the showmanship that used to be evident in our business manifest itself again. All we want is for the picture to have a chance to get a real opening.'

Indie Equity Victory Causes Upheaval

New York, June 10.—The most violent upheaval in the history of Actors Equity Association broke today with the resignation of Peggy Wood and Florence Reed, both vice-presidents, and eight Council members, as the result of last Friday's election victory by independents. The others who resigned were Alfred Kappeler, Winifred Lenihan, Muriel Kirkland, Lee Baker, Claudia Morgan, William David, Joseph Vitale and Ben Lackland.

It was explained that with the majority of the membership no longer supporting policies they believe in, there is no place for them on the Council. Bert Lytell, Equity prexy, said the action came as a shock to him.

At today's meeting, the Council tabled action on the resignations, professing the hope that the group could be persuaded to withdraw them. The body issued a statement regretting the resignations in view 'of long and honorable service' the members had given to the organization.

Prexy Lytell revealed at last Friday's annual meeting a plan for a New York State-supported theatre, with Louis Schaffer, of Labor Stage, and Matthew Woll, of the American Federation of Labor, supporting the idea. It is figured there is little prospect of re-establishment of the Federal Theatre.

Developments indicate it is probable that the Dies Committee will make an investigation of red charges against certain members of the Equity Council. Steve Bermingham, chief Dies investigator, is said to have recommended clearing up the charges brought a year ago in the Congressional Record by Representative Lambertson. It is probable that a sub-committee would sit in New York rather than hold hearings in Washington. Those named by Lambertson were Hiram Sherman, Alan Hewitt, Philip Loeb, Sam Jaffe, Edith Van Cleve, Emily Marsh, Leroy Maclean. All of them denied any communist connection or leanings.

Pickford Discusses Reasons for B.O. Slow-down

Discussing the current slump in box office receipts at the opening session of the MPTOA convention yesterday afternoon, Mary Pickford declared that there is too great a difference between the grosses of the big pictures and those next in importance. She contended that lack of public interest in pictures today cannot be attributed to the quality of product. 'The average B picture of today', said Miss Pickford, 'is so vastly superior to the majority of the Class A pictures of 12 or 15 years ago that there is no comparison.'

Miss Pickford believed that dualing was a contributing factor to the decline in grosses, citing three reasons, based on personal reactions, for this contention. She said that the double bill was bad because theatregoers have to sit through the picture they don't want to see in order to see the film they come in for; that moviegoers are too tired to enjoy the second picture; that long bills keep people up too late.

In a challenge to those who say that youngsters want double bills, Miss Pickford stated that exhibitors cannot afford to cater to the juvenile trade alone and that no producer would dare to put important money into a picture destined to appeal exclusively to kids. She called upon all concerned to desist from bank nights, shelling out dishes and vegetables, and declared that it was time to revalue the industry and stop selling it short.

Miss Pickford suggested that, as a step toward helping maintain national morale, a board be created to keep its finger on the public pulse through the medium of the theatre. This board might consist of exhibitors in various sections of the nation who would take it upon themselves to ask questions of their customers and jot down their opinions. In this way the industry would also be doing itself a service by creating a public sounding board that will transmit accurate message to Hollywood swiftly.

Stevenson to Speak

Edward Stevenson, RKO costume designer, will speak on designing and clothes at the MPTOA convention luncheon for ladies today in the Cocoanut Grove. Perc Westmore will also appear to talk on 'Makeup and Glamour.'

Ike Lewin Rites

Mother of Polly Moran died yesterday at her home here of sudden illness, and funeral services will be conducted from White and Callanan mortuary at 664 West Washington boulevard.

Exhibs To Discuss Film Moveovers This Forenoon

Picture moveovers, for continued runs, long a thorn in the side of exhibitors, will be thoroughly threshed out at this morning's session of the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners, after being briefly discussed at yesterday's meeting. Today's powwow will start at 9:30, half an hour earlier than for the past two days, and adjournment will not be taken until 12:30, to enable the theatre men present to fully express themselves on the various problems confronting them. L. O. Lukan, Seattle trustee to the PCC, will be the chairman of the day.

Yesterday's open forum session was convened with Rotus Harvey functioning as chairman. Ed Kuykendall, prexy of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, meeting simultaneously with the PCC, was introduced by Executive Secretary Bob Poole and spoke briefly, thanking Harvey and Poole for their work and cooperation.

Questions pertaining to the consent decree were answered from the rostrum by Albert J. Law, general counsel, with Law advising the exhibitor delegates as to methods of procedure to protect their particular situations.

It was decided that each member of the various units making up the Conference would contact and act through the executive secretary of the four individual units each individual situation they wished brought before the American Arbitration Association for adjustment. It also was decided that each complaint would be referred directly to Law for his recommendations.

Zoning and clearance were freely discussed with the delegates pretty well steamed up for a lot of fireworks at today's final open forum session. Conference exhibs are awakened to the necessity for immediate action if they are to bring about desired reforms and they are straining at the bit for a chance to tell their troubles to their fellow operators.

BENNY RUBIN GAGS TICKLE CUSTOMERS

Benny Rubin topped off the MPTOA luncheon in the Cocoanut Grove, Ambassador hotel, yesterday as guest entertainer with a repertoire of gags that kept the customers in high spirits. Rubin started in with some banter with six-year-old Jerry Salyer, who had preceded him in a routine of cowboy vocals. When youngster pointed at the prop waterfall in the Grove, Rubin cracked, 'Like everything else in Hollywood, it's a fake.'

The Circle C Ranch Hands, vocal and string instrument trio, entertained the mob during mealtime ahead of Rubin.

with the cooperation of the American Legion, encouraged youngsters to play more baseball and learn more about the game, so the motion picture industry could build up a potential audience by bringing pictures to the youth of America.

Turning to the foreign markets still available to American pictures, Golden warned that producers must be careful in making pictures giving a wrong impression of life in the United States, and advocated the setting up of a body similar to the Production Code Authority to eliminate pictures unsuited for foreign distribution, especially those films that give an erroneous impression of Americans. He also cautioned against U. S. films which portray erroneously various incidents in the lives and customs of foreign peoples.

'In the present tremendously grave position of world affairs', said Golden, 'I know how immensely important it is that foreigners should not acquire from our motion pictures the notion that the typical American is either scatterbrained or a trampler of the law, or lives habitually in sordid squalor. Our position in the world today, and our future well-being, may depend on a clear realization throughout Latin America and elsewhere that the real American is a person of intelligence and restraint, courage and sound judgment, integrity and vision. Our pictures should combine vigor with dignity, clean fun with wise discretion. This is one way in which we can be really patriotic.'

Regarding films for students, Golden said he had made a survey showing that there are approximately 13,000 16mm. and 2,000 35mm. motion picture projectors in the colleges and high schools of the nation. Another survey now is being made to ascertain how many projectors are available in the elementary schools in the United States, with the likelihood that this will show an even greater number of projectors than in the high schools. Golden did not suggest that these schools should be serviced with regular product, but that selected entertainment films with an educational value should be made available only during the classroom periods, restricted to students, so that they would not compete with regular theatres in the community. The speaker added that no rentals should be levied for these films with the exception of a nominal service charge of perhaps 75 cents per reel to cover overhead of handling and print costs. Golden recommended that exhibitors should encourage a program of school showings first, from a civic point of view as a good-will builder, and second, to facilitate the development of potential theatre patrons for the future.

Golden claimed that in addition to students as a potential source of theatre patronage the enlisted personnel in army camps also will learn to appreciate films through theatres in army camps, where many will see films regularly for the first time.

In his address Golden pointed out that the American film industry faces the problem of maintaining the traditional quality of its product in face of the tremendous losses in foreign revenue. He declared that American films have been removed from the screens of approximately 20,500 theatres in Europe. If Russia, with its 3,000 theatres, is included, it would bring the total of European screens lost to 23,500, more theatres than now exist in the United States. He added that there are approximately 14,000 screens still open to American films in Europe.

Golden expressed his conviction that the industry can offset foreign losses by attracting a substantial portion of the 30,000,000 prospective customers who, it is estimated, seldom or never attend movies today.

In line with the necessity for getting the largest possible revenue out of the domestic picture market, Golden said that the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington now is undergoing a process of reorganization designed to provide every branch of the industry with a more comprehensive factual service on economic affairs throughout the nation. The Bureau will deal increasingly with domestic conditions and present statistical information indicating how the U. S. market can be most effectively cultivated.

Those up for re-election are Neil Agnew, Barney Balaban, Stephen Callaghan, Y. Frank Freeman, Harvey Gibson, A. Conger Goodyear, Stanton Griffis, Duncan Harris, John Hertz, John W. Hicks, Austin C. Keough, Earl McClintock, Maurice Newton, E. V. Richards, Edwin Weisl and Adolph Zukor.

Convention Notes

Myke Lewis is finding plenty of use for his large supply of limes, grown at Carlsbad, by serving them with libations in his suite at the Ambassador.

Charlie Skouras headed a big dinner group and kept his auditors in constant chuckles with his views of exhibition.

George Burke of Sawtelle has been much in evidence in the lobbies and on the convention floor.

Bob Gillham is getting quite a kick having the various exhibs worked over at the Par convention booth. Kisses are not worth the proverbial 'dime a dozen' there.

Harold Robb and Ed Rowley, the Texas Rangers, have not been as active this year as they have been at former exhib powwows. But the convention is still young.

When Sid Grauman was being photographed with Metro's Leo, some wag shouted out: 'Hey, which one is the lion?'

Studios have combined with a booth in the main lobby of the hotel and are displaying on a large bulletin board pictures taken Monday afternoon on the various lots.

Ralph Ravenscroft, Paramount, threatened to sabotage the Metro exhibit by waving a chunk of raw meat in front of Leo the Lion.

The Paramount exhibit is getting attention from exhibitors under 40. Leo is getting those over 40.

Whitey Henry, of Metro; Tom Young, 20th-Fox, and Blaney Matthews, Warners, had charge of policing the barbecue at the Columbia Ranch last night. With approximately 1,000 guests in attendance it was no cinch.

Marie La Barba, former manicurist on the 20th-Fox lot, and sister of Fidel La Barba, is one of the showgirls with the National Theatre Supply exhibit.

Ida Schreiber, hard-working sec to Bob Poole, sort of eased up yesterday after going through several days of arduous duties.

Eleanor Counts is probably the most publicized gal at the convention. She's dishing out kisses at the Paramount booth and relishes the publicity (and photographs) which the assignment provides her.

STUDIO UNIONS HIT 3 MILLION JACKPOT ranges from $500,000 to $3,000,000. The exact amount cannot be determined until company auditors complete their check of payrolls.

At the same time Casey agreed to open negotiations with the IATSE film locals on Thursday (12). The first sessions will be devoted to consideration of standard demands which apply to all the crafts, such as minimum work days, computation of overtime, cancellation of calls, pay off requirements, meal periods, provisions for nearby and distant locations, provisions for travel time, provisions for employes receiving above scale, etc.

Casey was advised by Harold V. Smith, chairman of the IATSE Business Representatives Committee, that the unions at a meeting Monday had set July 1 as the deadline for consummation of new contract deals with the Producers and for clearing up the payment of retroactive pay under the Wage-Hour Law. The Producer representative is said to have raised no objection to the deadline, stating that as soon as the standard conditions are disposed of, negotiations will be started on the wages, hours and conditions demands of the individual unions. At that time counter proposals also will be submitted by the Producers, including a request for an eight-hour day instead of the current six hours.

Recognition by the Producers of the rights of the local unions to bargain collectively for themselves was accepted by the local leaders as marking the end of domination of the unions by George E. Browne and Willie Bioff, both of whom now are under Federal indictment on charges of extorting $550,000 from four major film companies.

Smith stated that Casey and other executives felt the companies were not legally bound to make retroactive pay adjustments, basing their opinion on court decisions in similar cases, but that their decision to do so anyway was based on memorandums given the workers in which it was agreed to make pay adjustments if the workers were affected by the Wage-Hour Division classifications. These memorandums had been cited to Producers by Smith and other local IATSE leaders when they insisted on retroactive pay.

All key men who have been working on weekly salaries will be placed on a regular six-hour day, starting Monday (16), with time and half after six hours. It has been indicated, however, that many of these key men will ask their union representatives to try and make deals for them that would permit them to continue on their current employment basis. These would have to be taken up when the locals begin negotiating on their demands for contract revisions.

the strikers would turn down the election proposal. They take the position that even company officials admit that the Guild has a majority of the artists, and that the company refused to entertain the idea of an election until after the strike was called. It is probable that a counter proposal will be made for a cross-check of the Guild membership with the company payroll. Such procedure has often been approved by the National Labor Relations Board as a short cut to determine whether a union represents a majority.

The SCG committee meeting yesterday with Smith and Disney, in addition to Herbert Sorrell was composed of Murray McClelland, Ken Peterson, Howard Baldwin and Phyllis Lambertson. Bill Garity accompanied Disney to the meeting. It is understood that Disney has agreed to closed shop deals with all other American Federation of Labor crafts, but stated he was insisting on an election of Artists to guarantee future harmony in the plant.

The committee went to the meeting armed with 10 points which included reinstatement of all employes on the payroll as of May 15, recognition of SCG as bargaining representative, closed shop contract, with workers given 15 days to affiliate; 10% pay tilt, agreement on wages, hours and conditions to be consummated in 30 days, no strikers to be affected by layoffs for a period of 30 days, payment of all earned bonuses within five days, no discrimination for union activities, vacation rights of strikers not to be impaired, payment for time lost during strike.

George E. Bodle, counsel for the SCG, appeared before the NLRB to request immediate action on the unfair labor practice charges filed against Disney. Art Painter, attorney for the American Society of Screen Cartoonists, which the SCG brands as a company union, also conferred with George A. Yager, NLRB field examiner.

Earlier in the day Bodle demanded that the Disney company immediately pay all bonuses earned by employes. He said that if this question was not settled today he would take the case to the state labor commission.

Harold V. Smith said that after the result of the Guild vote becomes known he will call another meeting of the two groups to discuss the situation and see if an amicable agreement cannot be reached. It was reported last night that Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, might be asked to step into the picture and act with Smith in trying to mediate a settlement that would be mutually satisfactory to the company and the union.

Scully Ends Staff Revisions With Gomersall Set

Completion of executive revision of Universal's top sales staff by W. A. Scully, vice-president and general sales manager, puts E. T. (Peck) Gomersall, former Chicago district manager, into post of western sales manager. Gomersall replaces William J. Heineman, who was upped to assistant sales manager last Tuesday in the realignment which brought Fred Meyers into the company as eastern sales manager and made F. J. A. McCarthy Southern and Canadian sales manager.

Succeeding Gomersall in his former post is M. M. Gottlieb, who has been Chicago branch manager, with latter spot not yet filled.

Gomersall has been with Universal since 1930. His new post puts him in charge of the Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle and San Francisco exchanges.

Harry Cohn Duties Up As Host To Visiting Confab Exhibs

Exhibitors convening here for their annual convention were the recepients of some western hospitality, studio style, last night at the Columbia ranch. Theatre men were the guests of all the studios with Harry Cohn, Columbia president, acting as industry host at the 'Old California Barbecue' and talent parade.

Autograph fiends among the exhibitors and their guests had a field day since every name player available was present at the party. Food, plenty of drinks and a swell show were dished out to the visiting exhibs and a flock of femme guests.

Cohn acted as emcee for the introduction of 40 or 50 players present, several of whom made brief talks. Y. Frank Freeman, president of the Producers, spoke in behalf of the studio executives.

Entertainment part of the shindig had wisecracking Red Skelton, Metro funny man, handling the master of ceremonies chore. The show's lineup was featured by Olsen and Johnson and their entire company, who kept the laughs rolling. The Merry Macs sang, the Nicholas Bros. danced, and Leo Carrillo did a number of Mexican tunes to delight the crowds and send them back to their hotel happy.

Testimony Given In Mission Squabble

Following denial by Arbitrator Herbert Cameron of the motion by major distributors to dismiss the O. W. Lewis complaint, on grounds that the American Arbitration Association lacks jurisdiction over the case, defendants in the clearance action brought on behalf of the Mission Playhouse, San Gabriel, yesterday began to offer testimony in rebuttal of the plaintiff's charges. B. V. Sturdivant, Fox-West Coast district manager, took the stand and figures were submitted showing that more than 80% of all pictures booked into Alhambra are played on the first day of availability.

Lewis is asking for 28-day clearance after Pasadena instead of 21 days after Alhambra on the grounds that films booked into Alhambra houses are held up long after availability. Defendants sought to prove that in one of the Alhambra situations 76 out of 99 films were played on the exact day of availability, and 12 within four days of availability. In the other Alhambra theatre 82 out of 97 films were allegedly shown on the first day of availability. The defendants contended, further, that in the period from January 1 to April 20, 1941 the Mission Playhouse had played 63 pictures out of 77 after the day of availability.

Records from the Paramount and Warners exchanges were also submitted in support of the defense claims, with Jimmy Edwards, independent circuit operator, slated to take the stand today. Defendants in the clearance complaint are Warners, Loew's, Paramount and Fox-West Coast. Herb Silverberg is acting as counsel for Loew's at the hearing.

slim was the attendance that W. F. Rodgers, Metro sales chief, refused to address the convention on a contemplated drastic sales policy which Metro is about to put into effect. Rodgers, ostensibly, is slated to address the exhibitors today, but the Metro sales head said last night that unless there is a greater turnout of exhibs than faced him yesterday he will forego his appearance before the convention and divulge the changes in the Metro sales campaign through other sources.

The MPTOA enrollment at this, the 21st annual convention of the association, is approximately 50 or 60% below what was anticipated, there being around 200 exhibitors and guests registered. On the other hand, the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners, which is holding its second annual convention simultaneously with the MPTOA gathering, has an attendance of close to 400.

Late last night exhibitor leaders were vainly endeavoring to consolidate both conventions for the remaining two days of the powwow. An emergency meeting of the trustees of PCC was to have been called last night in an effort to relieve the tense situation, but up to midnight no definite action had been taken. Indications are that some plan will be reached early today by which exhibitors will be wised up to the importance of closer attendance to the business which brought them out here.

Metro's new sales policy is understood to be a radical departure from accepted lines and will consist of the setting up of national formulas, to apply to each individual situation. Company feels that the time has come when the inevitable barter that has long been a part of the selling and buying system must cease. In consequence, exhibitors will be told that the company stands ready to deal with them as each individual situation demands.

The MPTOA convention opened yesterday afternoon with an address of welcome from Mary Pickford, following the invocation by Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Jr. Miss Pickford drew a large attendance from the femme visitors and brought exhibitors to their feet with an outburst of applause following her address.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles, who was next introduced by R. V. Harvey, chairman of the convention, told the gathering that exhibitors were performing a real service at this time in keeping public morale at a high level. Mayor Bowron referred to the national defense effort, the aviation plant strike in Los Angeles which he believed would be ended in a few hours, and stressed the importance of maintaining the mental attitude of the public at a favorable balance.

An unscheduled speaker during the session was the Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Jr., who regaled his audience with one of the breeziest talks of the day. He followed M. A. Lightman, vice-president of MPTOA, from Memphis, Tenn. Lightman, who responded to Mayor Bowron's address of welcome, thanked His Honor for arranging 'the beautiful weather' and described Hollywood as a place where men come to see their dreams come true. Lightman said he thought the industry was doing well and that after one year of buying pictures in blocks of five the theatres would be packed—with exhibitors. He added that exhibitors should take every opportunity to learn more about the product they were using and that Hollywood had been good to theatre men, despite the occasional shots taken at it by exhibs.

KUYKENDALL TALK

Ed Kuykendall, president of the association, then delivered a fiery talk on the evils of daily newspaper press previews and other exhibitor problems, with Morris Loewenstein, Oklahoma City, sec of the organization, afterwards reading correspondence from notables who had been invited but could not attend the convention. Among those sending regrets were Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, Thurman Arnold, Pat Harrison, Max A. Cohen and Walter Vincent. Ed Fay, with whom Postmaster General Walker is still interested in the operation of the M. C. Comerford circuit, delivered a personal tribute to Ed Kuykendall from the floor.

With most of the afternoon consumed by this time the session was about to be closed, cancelling talks by Nathan Golden and Y. Frank Freeman. Golden, industrial consultant with the U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, was, however, given time to deliver his address owing to his scheduled departure for Washington today.

Gasless Sundays

Detroit, June 10.—Although local exhibitors aren't saying much, they hope President Roosevelt proclaims 'gasless Sundays', as has been reported. Figured that in this auto town such a ruling would send huge turnouts to Sunday pictures.

Gene Tierney Given Top Spot In 'Sundown'

Top feminine role in Walter Wanger's 'Sundown' yesterday went to Gene Tierney. Harry Carey, Marc Lawrence and Reginald Gardiner also were new additions to the cast. Company, headed by Director Henry Hathaway, leaves today for location at Acoma Rock, New Mexico.

Troupe leaving today will number 143 people, including Bruce Cabot, George Sanders and Joseph Calleia. There also will be two carloads of animals taken to the location. Barre Lyndon, who wrote the original and who has been working on the screenplay, accompanies the group.

'Sundown' company will remain on location for 21 days. Picture will roll Friday. Technicians already have built a tent city to house those making the trip.

Hollywood Inside

THE threatened influx of young free lance actors and actresses into the parking lot facing Paramount studio as a result of Collin Blair getting a job with the C. B. DeMille company and prospects that Mary Burgess also will get one, has been spiked by the police. Blair had rented space three weeks ago and set up a tent, saying he'd stick there 'picketing' DeMille until he got work in 'Reap the Wild Wind'. He landed yesterday, a second mate's role, when DeMille inquired about the former caddy for Otto Kruger after cops had compelled him to leave the parking lot. Miss Burgess, who arrived about a week ago, setting up a trailer residence alongside Blair's tent, also has been granted an interview with DeMille, and probably a job in the picture, after she also was politely shushed on by the cops. Seems there is an ordinance which Officer E. C. Paglau cited, preventing the establishment of 'living quarters' on parking stations, which will prevent other young, ambitious hopefuls moving in here or in other parkings alongside studios to emulate the 'crashing' technique.

WHILE several companies, hoping to make pictures which would help cement relations with Latin American countries and at the same time swell local box office, have had bitter disappointments, in the former consideration at least, Paramount has signally succeeded in getting the good will of Cubans with its Bob Hope-Paulette Goddard starrer, 'The Ghost Breaker'. Yesterday in a ceremony at the studio here, the Havana Rotarians awarded a cup to Paramount as a special honor for 'promoting Latin American' entente and 'complimenting Cuba and inspiring tourist traffic impetus.' Presentation was made to Y. Frank Freeman, Arthur Hornblow, Jr., the producer, Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard by President H. Haake for the Havana Rotarians. International Rotarians, incidentally, will have their convention next week in Denver, and will see newsreels made of the local cup presentation yesterday.

PARAMOUNT recently loaned Charles Lang to Walter Wanger for the lensing job on 'Sundown.' Deal was made without Lang's knowledge just after he had left on his vacation, accompanied by his wife. Wanger executives tried to contact him, but the cameraman had left for a roving automobile trip. Yesterday, as the 'Sundown' company started for location at Acoma Rock, New Mexico, Wanger was faced with a costly delay unless Lang could be located. John LeRoy Johnson, Wanger flack, asked Knox Manning to broadcast a story of the situation over KNX. Manning complied. Lang, in his automobile on Sentinel Butte, in Yosemite National Park, caught the broadcast and reported to the studio. He motored back last night and will take a special plane out for the location today.

HORSE players at a valley studio found out yesterday just what a mutuel field bet means to their pleasant surprise. Boys had been watching some hot tips that paid off two days in a row so that when another came through Tuesday they decided to plunge the bankrolls across the board. Instead, the bookie had the long face as Lady was a field horse with Hi Beautiful, which came in second, paying $10 and $5.20. The boys still have faith in their tipster.

UNIVERSAL is looking for a dude ranch capable of housing the cast and crew of 'Ride 'Em Cowboy', next Abbott and Costello comedy, somewhere in Arizona. Current hot season on the desert is another factor governing choice, studio figuring that if a proper place was found, but in a particularly hot section, heat would cause the loss of considerable production time. Prescott, Ariz., is being eyed most favorably because of the more temperate clime, but lacks a dude ranch with a large swimming pool and quarters needed for the company.

Hal Roach Requests Exhibitor Help For Streamliners

Drawing a comparison between his forthcoming streamlined short features and the early two-reelers as a potential talent incubator, Hal Roach yesterday asked exhibitors at the MPTOA convention to gamble with him on the 40 to 50-minute features soon to be released.

Introduced rather late in the session, Roach said he felt like a B film going on at midnight and said he had made some of the lousiest pictures ever produced in Hollywood. He added, however, that some of the top men in the industry thought the short features a good idea and advised exhibitors to use them sparingly with top films in an effort to unfreeze audience at peak hours, do away with restricted grosses, and retain or increase normal turnover.

Roach cautioned that the first one or two pictures might not be so good but that it was worth experimenting with on the chance of developing young people at a time when the industry needs more stars.

Hope, Carroll 'Hell' Set By Paramount

'Snowball in Hell' is in the Paramount story kitty as a Bob Hope-Madeleine Carroll starrer, and Paul Jones has been assigned to produce. Tale by radio writers, Norman Panama and Melvin Frank, poses Miss Carroll as a British secret agent, and Hope as an American vaude comic, with most of the action taking place on a transcontinental train. Assigned to script are Don Hartman, who starts tomorrow, and Frank Butler, who comes in on story after he finishes revisions next week on 'Her Jungle Mate'. Picture is slated for October production.

Pete Smith Steaming

Pete Smith is going full steam ahead at Metro with what is probably the busiest production schedule in town. He starts 'How to Hold Your Husband—Back' on Monday, putting him to work on five shorts as well as the scripts of three more.

Casting on the Kay Kyser picture at RKO has added to the principal bracket Dennis O'Keefe, May Robson and Anne Patsy Kelly. John Barrymore and Lupe Velez have already been announced for the Dave Butler production.

JUDGE O'CONNOR SPEECH AROUSES MPTOA LISTENERS

Sounding the keynote of patriotism yesterday at the second session of the MPTOA convention, Hon. J. F. T. O'Connor, judge of the U. S. District court, Los Angeles, unexpectedly stirred a blase exhibitor audience out of its apathy and brought the entire attendance to its feet, stamping and cheering, as he declared that great as the motion picture industry is, 'your theatre isn't worth anything, your dollar isn't worth anything', if ever those foreign crackpot ideologies exemplified by Hitler are permitted to foster on American soil.

It was a smashing climax to an address that began conventionally enough with a recital of statistics pertaining to the motion picture industry and an acknowledgment of the important part the screen had played in moulding the thought of the nation.

That the momentous problems of defense shared equally in importance with exhibitor problems in the minds of many was evident in the fact that two other speakers, C. C. Pettijohn and Francis S. Harmon, touched on the same subject following Judge O'Connor. Pettijohn, Hays office counsel, noting that Judge O'Connor had struck the most dominant psychological factor, early in his address declared that the first duty of the people in the industry and out of it was to be first class Americans. Pettijohn defined a member of the so-called 'intelligentsia' as a guy who had been educated beyond his intelligence. He then discussed exhibitor-distributor squabbles, and cried for the old days of the conciliation boards, contending that arbitration then cost only one-fourth of the present method of arbitration. Pettijohn said the industry had gone through a tough year with 500 more restrictive bills aimed at the screen than ever before. He reported also that results in combatting proposed restrictions had been better than at any time in the past 20 years because legislators throughout the nation have come to realize the necessity of the screen in community life.

Dore Schary, vice-president of the Screen Writers Guild, followed with a talk in which he endeavored to prove that writers are human beings. He referred to the time when writers came to Hollywood on contract, figuring to work just long enough to make enough money to retire to a shack and write a novel, adding that the writing man's attitude had changed considerably in recent years.

Among others addressing the convention were William F. Rodgers, Metro sales chief; Walter Wanger, Y. Frank Freeman and Hal Roach.

Freeman, as president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, urged exhibitors not to take surveys of audience reaction for granted, but to analyze the situation in their respective situations for themselves. Louella Parsons spoke at the opening of the session.

As in the first session Tuesday, members drifted out of the auditorium as the afternoon wore on, with only 50 or 60 exhibs in attendance when the meeting wound up. Among those originally scheduled to talk yesterday, slated to appear this afternoon instead, were Edward Arnold, president of the Screen Actors Guild; George Stevens, president of the Screen Directors Guild, and Col. Nathan Levinson, chairman of the Research Committee of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Capra East; Selznick Working UA Deal

Frank Capra Chiefed for New York yesterday, leaving David O. Selznick to continue negotiations with United Artists on deal calling for them to become member-owners in the corporation. Selznick and Capra are understood to have practically agreed on the offer made by United Artists and former will work out the terms of the proposed pact while Capra is in the east.

Pair, who will produce as individuals but use Selznick's company release through United Artists, had been mulling two other offers, one from RKO, but have concentrated on the UA deal the past week after reportedly deciding it offers the best setup for their type of production.

Capra expects to be in the east two or three weeks at least, part of the time spent fishing in upper New York state before taking care of business matters in New York City.

Radio Charged with Coloring News To Impress Sponsors

W. Tobey of New Hampshire were outspoken in protesting that biased comment has been put forward under the guise of news, while Louis G. Caldwell, Mutual general counsel, warned of censorship dangers.

Senator Clark suggested the comish or some other Federal authority should take steps to prevent mislabeling of editorial news, and Senator Wheeler said he thought the FCC should examine the scripts of all stations whenever their license renewals come up. Transmitters which are one-sided ought to be warned they must give both parties equal treatment in connection with such vital controversies as the war, Wheeler suggested. Tobey drew from Fred Weber, Mutual general manager, the statement that Fulton Lewis, Jr., does not voice the interventionist viewpoint, but Weber failed to respond to Tobey's demand for the name of another impartial commentator. Wheeler applauded Lewis as fair, remarking that he had been 'cussed out' by New Dealers who dislike his occasional criticism of Roosevelt policies.

The solons complained particularly about sponsored commentators, implying these are giving the slant of their sponsors. Weber contended that Mutual, for one, tries to balance its program schedule with sustaining programs. Industry too long has lived in fear of the comish under both Democratic and Republican regimes, Wheeler declared. He said 'there has been too much commission domination', with licensees afraid they will carry programs which offend the regulators. 'I want to see stations free from fear of domination by the commission, and they haven't always been free, but I also want to see them free of fear of domination by private corporations', Wheeler said. The Montanan also rapped newspapers, saying radio has done a pretty good job on most controversial questions. He complained that 'newspapers don't always carry both sides and often color their news to conform with editorial policy. This is true in the present controversy'.

Long legalistic discussion of the commission's power to lay down rules designed to curb monopolistic practices included sharp differences of opinion between Caldwell, one of the earliest general counsels of the old Federal Radio Commission, and Senator Wallace H. White of Maine, co-author of the 1927 Radio Act. The Mutual barrister, after White noted the statute authorizes regulators to limit the power, time and number of clear channels and other phases of the business, insisted Congress rejected the common carrier school of thought in favor of the 'free competition' theory.

Asked what public interest, convenience and necessity means, Caldwell said defining the term is a 'broad order' and it has to be interpreted by the courts through a process of 'inclusion and exclusion'. He acknowledged there is a debate whether the law authorizes regulators to enter the economic field, but pointed out that Congress did not say the comish should not control business practices which may lead to monopoly. The Supreme court has held the agency should undertake such regulation, he insisted.

Senator White maintained Congress 'turned definitely away from the theory of free competition' after breakdown of the 1912 act, but Caldwell retorted the collapse of the first regulatory law proves the impossibility of specifying by statute the detailed practices. Inconsistency of the comish was criticized by White and Wheeler, with Caldwell acknowledging there has been little uniformity in the past. White said the comish never has been entirely consistent from its inception 'up to this good hour'.

PCCITO PLANS TO PROTECT MEMBERS

by the membership at yesterday's open forum session. As a result, it is expected that the organization today will formulate a definite and constructive program to correct problems which the PCC policy of protecting its members has long favored.

Evincing a spirit of democracy, the Coast exhib organization acted at yesterday's meeting to create a vehicle upon which to constructively, yet dynamically, pursue its efforts in securing fair and impartial treatment in all existing relationships between the three branches of the industry.

Matters up for discussion at the open forum meeting included move-overs, allocation of pictures, the current slump in b.o. receipts, student reduced admissions, commercialized previews, the print situation, the new arbitration setup under the consent decree, opposition to dual bills, film rentals, including percentage pictures, and other evils charged against distribution and production.

In an effort to secure an effective method of overcoming different viewpoints on new distribution policies under the consent decree, the association voted unanimously to provide through proper channels a medium of assuring all indie exhibs on the Coast relief from discriminatory practices as well as to fairly and justly police the decree as it might affect any and all parties.

Activities of the four unit organizations comprising the PCC on the trade practice code a year ago were fully discussed, and comparison made with the present consent decree. So important was the discussion that it was decided to again take up the subject at today's closing session. This, it was argued, would give all exhibitor-delegates an opportunity to analyze each phase of the PCCITO's stand since its inception, in order that a proper and effective method would be evolved to correctly find a solution to the problem.

PCC today resumes its 10 o'clock starting time, and effort will be made to conclude the important business on hand in time for final adjournment at noon. Many of the members of the Coast exhib body will again turn out for the MPTOA parley in the afternoon, particularly the San Francisco and Seattle units which are affiliated with the national organization.

DIETZ GETS CO-OP FOR AIR PROGRAM

Program will emanate from New York every Wednesday night at 9 o'clock (5 o'clock PST) for 13 weeks. There also will be a Hollywood cut-in.

Dietz leaves today for New York to consult with Columbia Broadcasting System executives. Douglas Coulter is producing the series. Dietz is general chairman of promotion via entertainment for the Defense Savings Staff of the Treasury Dept.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau will introduce the initial program. 'Information Please' will make a special appearance; Fred Allen will be master of ceremonies from New York; John Charles Thomas will be vocalist; Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland will sing the theme song, 'Any Bonds Today?' written by Irving Berlin, and Charles Laughton will deliver the Gettysburg address.

The second show, July 9, will feature Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour.

'The idea of the program,' Dietz said, 'is to stimulate the spirit behind the Defense Savings plan. The national unity we hear so much about can best be achieved when everyone has a personal, sentimental and material interest in our way of life.

'The Defense Bonds and Stamps are sold without fixed quotas, buttons, or high-pressure salesmanship. Everybody is asked to become a voluntary financial partner of Uncle Sam. The radio program will stress the value as well of spiritual partnership with our desire to defend democracy and civil liberties in a united front against the encroachment of the so-called new order. It will be fundamentally entertaining but will also strive for an ennobling sentiment. Writers are asked to contribute short playlets. Dramatic players as well as comedians and vocalists are asked to appear. This program will represent a cross section of radio, theatre and the screen.'

The Producers Association, the Screen Actors Guild and the Screen Writers Guild have all agreed to lend every effort to make the program a success, Dietz said. His headquarters will be at 1540 Broadway, in New York. Huntly Gordon, at the office of the SAG, will be coordinator for the film actors.

HARMON ACCOLADES REAL HERO OF DEFENSE FILMS

For making the civilian artisan at work in airplane factories, armories and navy yards the No. 1 film hero during the past 10 months, newsreels received a notable tribute in the address given yesterday before the MPTOA convention by Francis S. Harmon, coordinator of the Motion Picture Committee Cooperating for National Defense. After describing the close working relationship between the 10,000 exhibitors who have pledged themselves to play subjects bearing the Committee's seal, the distributors and producers, Harmon pointed to the newsreels as an invaluable factor which had too often been taken for granted.

Harmon pointed out that during the second half of 1940 one-sixth of all newsreel subjects related to national defense, and at the present time more than 25% of current newsreel clips deal with activities bearing importantly upon the defense effort, thus contributing materially to national morale. He said that newsreel editors have continued to dramatize the skilled hands and trained eyes of master craftsmen in key industries, and added that a rare opportunity now confronts the industry to portray through some form of special release the field maneuvers scheduled for the weeks ahead.

The most important work of the Production division, according to Harmon, was in the commercial field. He cited as examples such short subjects as 'Spirit of 1941' (Col), made at the request of the U. S. Civil Service Commission as an aid in placing skilled civilian laborers in arsenals, armories and navy yards, and 'The Battle' (MG), a forthcoming short dramatizing the navy's service of supply which is based on some naval recruiting films.

Going into detail on the industry's defense setup, Harmon mentioned that there were 240,000 separate transactions involved in connection with the exhibition of 12 one-minute army trailers in 10,000 theatres which had signed pledges of cooperation. He also mentioned the fact that 26 trucking associations, forming Film Carriers, Inc., had arranged to transport films bearing the Committee's label free of charge. With the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission these films will be carried to 85% of the nation's theatres serviced by the trucking companies.

Harmon referred also to a 170-foot trailer, 'Where Do We Go', produced by the United Service Organizations for National Defense, featuring Charles P. Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, calling attention to the campaign for funds for improved recreational facilities for soldiers, sailors and defense workers.

Touching briefly on the series of 50 training films being made in Hollywood under the auspices of the Research Council of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in cooperation with the U. S. Army Signal Corps, Harmon said that subjects completed or recently assigned deal with venereal disease, personal hygiene, military courtesy, anti-aircraft, searchlight battery, 37 MM. anti-aircraft gun battery, light machine gun platoon, cavalry rifle troop, technique of operating, firing the 240 MM. howitzer, etc. The production of a non-theatrical film on venereal disease, at the request of the U. S. Public Health Service, has been undertaken by the Research Council of the Motion Picture Academy on a non-profit basis.

As an instance of the tremendous audience reached by defense films, Harmon cited 'Land of Liberty', cavalcade of American history, which had been shown in 2,633 theatres to 3,400,000 patrons. He expressed belief that at least 5,000 additional theatres would run the picture.

them to the Coast, in favor of studio trips and other Hollywood tours. Blast at the exhibs for their failure to show up at the business sessions in anything resembling a satisfactory turnout had some effect on conventioneers yesterday, and when the second session of MPTOA got under way shortly after 2 p.m., the attendance reached around the 450 mark, with, however, at least 50% of the crowd made up of women, and with many members of the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners in the audience.

At yesterday morning's open forum sesh of the PCC strong pressure was brought to bear on the entire membership to turn out en masse at the MPTOA meeting that afternoon, with encouraging results.

Final session of the PCC today will be given over largely to the introduction of resolutions by which the board of trustees will be governed throughout the ensuing year, and MPTOA, at its closing meeting this afternoon, has another long program of speakers scheduled. In addition there will be roundtable discussions, reports of committees and an open forum at which exhibitor members may express themselves freely.

Joint convention winds up tonight with an industry banquet and dinner dance at the Earl Carroll restaurant and theatre in Hollywood. Attendance is expected to exceed 750, with studios promising to turn out many of their name players to provide added entertainment during the evening. Rodgers Explains Details Of New Metro Sales Setup

William F. Rodgers, Metro sales chief, who declined to address the opening session of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America Tuesday afternoon because of the slim attendance, delivered his talk on company's new radical sales policy before a crowd estimated at around 400 yesterday afternoon. While the actual number of exhibitors present at the meeting was below early estimates, the mob was sufficiently large to draw out details of the new selling system that Metro has set up for the 1941-42 season.

New sales policy, Rodgers emphasized, will be predicated only on one premise — that the gross receipts must be the barometer of future film rentals. 'Many times in the past', he stated, 'there has been criticism of national sales plans that attempted to apply the same formula to theatres nationally. I believe the plan that we have worked out, after months of study and survey and conferences with theatre owners, will apply the proper slide rule to each individual situation. One thing will play a very important part in making it successful, and that is, we are confident that under the plan as devised a one-time solicitation will be sufficient.

'Convinced as we are that a new era has dawned in this business, and convinced as we are that we are sincere in our signing a consent decree, we must do our level best to work out formulas that will improve the business. I believe we have worked out a sales plan that will be of benefit to our customers.'

Rodgers took the position that Metro has never advocated, and does not now, that American exhibitors are expected to make up the deficit as a result of the foreign situation. 'We do expect, however,' he continued, 'the American exhibitor to cooperate so that we can seek and find new avenues of revenue. Whether this takes the form of single bills everywhere, or of increased admissions on an individual picture if justified, or whether the conditions merit a general advance in prices, or whether it will take the form of extended runs, is a matter for local decision. Whether the producers are going to be encouraged to expend ever greater sums to make great pictures is a matter for you to determine.

'We will outline at the proper time our plan, which provides an incentive to give deserving pictures extended time—you and your business to be the judge. We plan to commence to trade show our pictures in July, at a time and at places most convenient to our customers.'

At the outset of his talk before the exhibitor gathering, Rodgers emphasized that the picture industry presently is occupying a most uncomfortable position. This took in the entire industry, he said—production, distribution and exhibition. All are alarmed at the facts. 'In my opinion', Rodgers stated, 'the time has not only arrived but has been here for a long time when all interested elements in the business should use the ingenuity we are expected to possess in demonstrating our ability as showmen'.

Good pictures alone will not bring back theatre patrons in sufficient numbers, the Metro sales chief insisted. 'Good pictures', he said, 'will help, but your appeals to the public must be compelling. Presentation is both important and necessary. We are now faced with the bitter truth that other forms of amusement have taken a certain portion of business away from us, and that which we used to choose to consider a foundation or cushion —our regular attendance. This has been weaned away but can be brought back by downright hard work.'

Rodgers predicted there will not be any normal increase in theatre attendance unless the entire industry unites to 'work a little harder, think a little harder, try a little harder, wish a little harder, boost a little more and sob a little less'.

tions applying only to the individual unions.

The Business Representatives Committee headed by Harold V. Smith will ask that the minimum call for all crafts except the photographers be increased to six hours. Herbert Aller, business representative of International Photographers Local 659, will request that the minimum call for lensers be raised from four hours to eight hours. Sixteen points will be included in the standard conditions applying to all crafts, taking in minimum calls, computation of overtime, location provisions, travel time, etc.

While the demands applying to individual unions will be negotiated separately, none of them will sign a contract until a deal has been set with all the unions. The 10 IATSE studio locals have banded together in a Federation and adopted a Constitution and By-Laws covering future policies. A meeting of the business representatives and three members from each local has been called for tomorrow night in the offices of Harold V. Smith, business representative of Sound Technicians Local 695. A joint meeting of the executive boards of all the unions also has been set for Monday night (16) at the headquarters of the Makeup Artists local.

Wanger Suggests Air Production Angles For Pictures

Walter Wanger condemned the practice of looking to the box office as an infallible barometer of picture quality and suggested following radio program production methods, in an address at the MPTOA convention yesterday afternoon. Wanger charged that the box office can be misleading and that the salvation of the motion picture industry lies in experimenting with the type of pictures that might not do well the first time but would eventually bring new patrons to the theatre as well as keep the old ones. He said that radio had shown the way and advocated trying new types of films and waiting for them to jell.

Wanger pointed specifically to 'Information Please' as an instance of a program which attracted a new audience and declared that the film industry should give patient, understanding treatment to experimental ideas in films. He advised exhibitors to stop thinking in terms of one week and remember the other 51 weeks of the year.

The producer warned that the public has changed, and that the industry has not kept pace. He stated that the industry has not been giving the public what it wants. Things have been too easy for people in the film industry, Wanger said. Vaudeville and the legitimate theatre have virtually disappeared as opposition, yet the screen had failed to attract all of the additional patronage affected.

Defending the stars of the motion picture industry as performers who haven't lost their appeal or glamour, as indicated by fan turnouts at innumerable charity drives, Wanger said that movie stars still have tremendous appeal and can still bring in money at the box office, but that the industry has failed to keep up with new psychological conditions and the public has lost the habit of going to motion picture theatres.

Turning to the press preview evil Wanger urged exhibitors bring pressure to bear on publishers in their localities to get rid of unfair gossip columns and unfair advance criticism which is driving people from the theatre.

Two 20th Companies, 'Valley' and 'Aunt' On Locations

Two 20th-Fox companies went on location yesterday. First, the 'How Green Was My Valley' troupe, headed by John Ford, went to Brent's Crags for two weeks' shooting. Ford was accompanied by 12 principals, 75 extras, 32 singers and several technicians.

Archie Mayo took the 'Charley's Aunt' company over the Busch's Gardens for two days of shooting.

Convention Notes

Personality parade of Hollywood femme names and a fashion show, planned for the entertainment of wives and guests of convention delegates, turned out to be nothing more than an ordinary luncheon at the Cocoanut Grove yesterday noon. Mary Pickford, for the third straight day of the exhibitor meet, was on hand to greet the ladies of the convention, and a representative of the Westmore company gave a few practical demonstrations in makeup, but aside from them the industry turnout was a bust. Details were arranged by the Hays office, which, however, failed to look after any of the details.

Hon. John Walker, U. S. Customs judge, and brother of Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, is attending the MPTOA convention. Judge Walker holds an interest in the Comerford circuit with Ed Fay.

Hedda Hopper will address the MPTOA convention, opening the session this afternoon. Also scheduled to appear today is Gene Autry.

Exhibitors were still talking yesterday of the pleasure derived at the Columbia Ranch party the night before when Gracie Fields, a British comedienne, sang 'God Bless America'. The song rendition was one of the hi-lights of the party and will long be remembered.

Sidney Lust yesterday received a letter from one of his Washington, D. C., patrons, a businessman, in which tribute was paid to the recent screening of a short subject dealing with national defense, and of the pleasure derived by the patron from the screen diversion. This, he said, was quite in contrast to the dual feature pictures presented on the same program.

Lew Marin, UA Coast exploiteer, keeping busy at convention headquarters ballying his company's forthcoming release, 'New Wine'.

Abe Karski, veteran Oakland exhib, could not get down for the powwow, but is well represented by his son and latter's wife.

Harry Carey, back at his Saugus ranch after few days at Balboa, is hoeing weeds around his ranch buildings against Saturday's celebration of his 33rd year in pictures and Paramount's preview of 'Shepherd of the Hills', because, he says, it's a cinch some of his old pals will be dropping cigarette butts all over the place.

Disney Mediator Asking Pat Casey To Step Into Squabble

Harold V. Smith, who is acting as a mediator in the Walt Disney strike, announced last night that Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, will be asked to step into the picture today to see if an amicable agreement can be reached by the company and the Screen Cartoonists Guild. Smith said that he would confer with Disney this morning, and that if the results of the conference warranted he would seek another meeting with Herbert Sorrell and other Guild representatives.

A Central Labor Council committee composed of J. W. Buzzell, Harry Sherman and Lew C. G. Blix spent some time yesterday in conference with Disney officials, but were reported to have made little progress toward ending the walkout. Members of the SCG earlier in the day voted unanimously against a Disney proposal to hold a secret election of employes to determine whether they desired the Guild to represent them. Sorrell said the fact that a majority of the workers are on strike clearly indicated their desire for the Guild to bargain for them.

A mass demonstration in front of the Disney plant is planned for 5 p.m. today, with prominent actors, writers and others participating. Guild units from Metro, Leon Schlesinger and George Pal will turn out in a body to aid the strikers.

Art Babbitt, chairman of the Disney Guild unit, disclosed yesterday that the Guild demands call for pay for animation artists to be tilted from 50 cents per hour to 63 cents, that of inkers and painters from 40 cents to 53 cents, and a blanket increase of 10% for all Disney employes affiliated with the SCG. The group also is seeking improved conditions, etc.

Shortly before midnight last night it was stated the Central Labor Council will act today to place all Disney products on the American Federation of Labor unfair list.

Margaret Sullavan In For Boyer's 'Love'

SPOTTING BUREAU ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

and to E. J. Mannix, Metro general manager.

Miss Bower said that when she went to the State Unemployment office at 1015 Orange drive to apply for unemployment insurance, she was advised that a protest had been filed because she refused a $5.50 call and that she was disqualified for the time being. She was advised by Attorney M. E. Lewis that she could appeal the disqualification. Miss Bower stated she was given the impression the protest had been filed by Central Casting Corp., but Attorney Lewis stated later the protest had been made by the legal group set up by the Producers to check on all unemployment claims. It was assumed the record of her having refused $5.50 calls at 20th-Fox and Columbia had been secured by this group from Central in a routine check of such matters.

The Screen Actors Guild was reported to be investigating the action, having previously taken the position that no players could be forced to accept work in the $5.50 classification, especially if they were accustomed to working in higher brackets. Extra leaders were incensed over the action, stating such a move could be used by the Producers to cut wages of extras and force them to work at any figure dictated by the companies.

A Producer spokesman said the legal group, headed by Leon Levy, of the Edwin Loeb office, was merely designated to check all unemployment insurance claims to see they were valid. A representative of the State Unemployment Department, however, said 'the studios believed chiseling was going on, so they got together and hired a group of attorneys to act as a clearing house on all claims. It is understood that a complete record of all claims filed by industry employes are sent to this legal group, and that a protest is filed whenever the group feels that a worker is not entitled to insurance.

Harry Mayo, chairman of the Extras Advisory Council, said he had previously secured a ruling from the State Unemployment Department that extras could not be forced to accept $5.50 calls. He said that many of them, including himself, turned them down. He said many of them did this because if they once accepted a $5.50 call they were typed in that classification and experienced trouble getting calls in high pay brackets.

At the SAG it was stated that John Dales, Jr., attorney and assistant executive secretary, had been asked to investigate the protest. The office of Fred W. Beetson, president of Central Casting Corp., and vice-president of the Producers Association, also was said to be looking into the situation.

Gary, Ind., Theatre Co. Loses U. S. Appeal

Chicago, June 11.—Finding no evidence of anti-trust law violation, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld a decision of the District court in refusing the Gary (Ind.) Theatre Co. an injunction to prohibit certain practices by film distributors alleged to be in breach of the Sherman anti-trust law. It was the second setback for the Gary outfit, which complained of priority given Chicago theatres in film bookings, thereby constituting restraint of trade. Named defendants were Balaban & Katz and the major film distributors.

Ralph Carmichael On Arbitration Stand In Lewis Case

Ralph Carmichael, office manager of the Metro-Goldwyn exchange, who yesterday took the stand in the arbitration proceedings before Arbitrator Herbert Cameron involving clearance claims of O. W. Lewis and major distributors, gave evidence intended to prove that Lewis was asking not for clearance but a run.

Under cross-examination of Herbert Silverberg, Metro attorney, Carmichael stated that if Lewis were granted seven days clearance over the Rosemead and Garvey theatres adjoining San Gabriel he would in effect have a priority of run instead of additional clearance over two theatres which charge the same admission price.

Most of the morning session was devoted to Carmichael's definitions of a run as opposed to clearance. It was suggested that the Mission Playhouse raise its admission price by five cents in order to become eligible for earlier playdates.

Jimmy Edwards, circuit operator, testified during the afternoon, tracing his rise as an independent exhibitor, with Victor Morgan, Edwards' attorney, conducting the testimony.

Arbitrator Cameron took all testimony under advisement and is scheduled to hand down an opinion before the end of the week.

AFM Resolutions Adopted on Various Org Setups

Seattle, June 11.—The American Federation of Musicians in an all day annual convention session included in resolutions passed rulings that orchestras with musical and vaudeville acts will play only 28 shows a week for Class A houses, 30 for Class B, with all extra shows being paid pro rata per show; that the minimum wage for traveling orchestras will be $36 per week per man, exclusive of the 10% surcharge, not including hotel engagements. That traveling orchestras cannot accept engagements requiring jumps of more than 400 miles in 24 hours. The last resolution was presented because of the many accidents suffered by traveling musicians recently in making long jumps by car.

Salaries of the Federation secretary and financial secretary-treasurer were raised $5,000 per year each after much discussion, and matters that were referred to the executive board included the subject of changes in the Social Security laws so that musicians who work only a few days or weeks in one place will be covered, and the important question of whether the leader or employer of an orchestra is responsible for the payment of members employment and Social Security tax. The last is, according to Advisor J. N. Weber, one of the most important problems facing the musicians.

The report of the WPA committee revealed that WPA musical projects have enjoyed comparative exemption from the reductions in personnel, with approximately $10,500,000 paid musicians in these projects during 1940. However, the coming year will probably bring more cuts which will be felt by the musical projects. However, Prexy James C. Petrillo said that a nationwide broadcast from New York City is being planned for the near future, with WPA Federal Director Hunter to appear on the broadcast with Petrillo. The program, by WPA musicians, will acquaint the country with the work done by the musical projects.

The executive board and various committees are meeting tonight, and the next two days are expected to see action on canned music, which is considered to be the Federation's greatest problem. So far no resolutions affecting the movies have been introduced, with most of the canned music resolutions to come dealing only with records and transcriptions.

Wayne Ball Back

Wayne C. Ball, Columbia branch manager here, returned yesterday from Chicago where he attended a two-day sales powwow at the Drake hotel. Jerry Safron, Col's western district manager, went on to New York for additional conferences and is not expected back until sometime next week.

"PAPER BULLETS"

PRODUCERS RELEASING CORPORATION

"For general audiences it would seem to lack nothing that a story of this nature should have to create intense interest and to give satisfaction in its narration and its outcome. 'Paper Bullets', from every angle as a program offering, does credit to its producers, Maurice and Franklin Kozinsky."

Daily Variety

" 'Paper Bullets'—A 'quickie', made for $20,000, which proves a buck's worth of entertainment can be made for a dime—by a guy who knows."

Jimmie Fidler

"In every production detail, as well as in entertainment value, this is probably the best picture to date for release by the new Producers Releasing Corporation and it represents a promising start for newcomers Franklin and Maurice Kozinsky as producers."

Box Office

"Regardless of budget, 'Paper Bullets' will hit the bull's-eye in any situation."

The Independent

" 'Paper Bullets', first of the new producing team, the Kozinsky Brothers, lacks nothing for general audience appeal and shapes up as stellar entertainment for any situation."

Showmen's Trade Review

" 'Paper Bullets' is the first picture to carry the K-B silks. It is a fast moving melodrama that plunges along at a consistent pace to maintain general audience interest."

Variety

"Something of a revelation in budget-picture making, 'Paper Bullets' is a show that puts to shame many of its more costly brothers in the action market. In this first production by Maurice and Franklin Kozinsky is demonstrated a keen knowledge of how to make every dollar count in entertainment values."

Hollywood Reporter

"Aside from its startling local interest, the Kozinsky Brothers have a good, sound melodramatic thriller in 'Paper Bullets'."

Jimmy Starr

"K-B Productions makes a welcome bow into the business with a direct melodramatic hit in 'Paper Bullets'."

J. Emanuel Publications

"There are six full reels of good production, acted by a strong cast expertly directed, and chock full of drama, action, plot and counter-plot, and suspense."

Film Daily

"Squeezing seventy fast-moving minutes of entertainment from every atom that could be extracted from its story of politics and protected gambling, 'Paper Bullets' can take its place on the basis of quality among the better types of crime melodrama. 'Paper Bullets' makes an auspicious debut in film production of the Brothers Kozinsky."

Motion Picture Herald

"When you see 'Paper Bullets' you will be amazed as I was . . it emerges as first class entertainment . . . The first K-B production gives promise of much to come from this company."

George Fisher, Mutual Network

We are grateful for your welcome of "Paper Bullets."

Hollywood Inside

BELITA, who walked out of Republic's 'Ice-Capades' last week, will be back again, voluntarily, on Monday, to do a two-minute specialty. Skater left in a huff when she claimed she had been given runaround on billing and that Dorothy Lewis, skater from the St. Regis roof, was being billed above her. Beef actually grew out of the fact that Republic tested Belita for the romantic lead and decided she wouldn't do, but that she could skate in the picture. After cooling off she decided to come back to the lot. If she hadn't, the studio, which had bought the 'Ice-Capades' show, could have clamped down on her. Her absence costs her extra footage she might have had, which will now go to Megan Taylor and Vera Hruba.

HAVING signed Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe for the leads in 'The Marines Are Ready', RKO is now mulling the possibilities of contracting the players for two or three more comedies to be based on various branches of the service. Negotiations are on to obtain the right to use the character names of Sergeant Quirk and Captain Flagg, titles fastened on McLaglen and Lowe from their work in 'What Price Glory', made by Fox in 1926. If unable to clear handles, RKO will establish two characters names in 'Marines' to carry through the group of service yarns.

WARNERS 'Kings Row', which was to have started shooting next Monday, now will be delayed indefinitely. Studio had made a deal to borrow Robert Cummings from Universal for the picture which Sam Wood will direct, but the actor is now tied up in 'Almost an Angel' and will not be free until about the first of August. There is not enough shooting around Cummings to allow the Warners picture to get under way next week. This is the second time 'Kings Row' has been delayed.

WALTER WANGER catches the 13th inst. as a favorable auspice in starting his 'Sundown' at Acoma Rock location in New Mexico, on date scheduled when Charles Lang, cameraman on loan from Paramount, was finally located and planed to the waiting company in time yesterday. With 10 weeks schedule and a company of 250 working on the first of three locations, the picture is the most pretentious Wanger has ever made. Henry Hathaway is directing.

SPECIAL trailer prepared by 20th-Fox, featuring introductions by Darryl F. Conferees now will meet the producers in person, so original purpose of trailer no longer holds.

Film Preview and Reviews

The Big Store

(Comedy)

Metro production. Stars the Marx Brothers and Tony Martin. Features Virginia Grey, Margaret Dumont and Douglass Dumbrille. Balance of cast: William Tannen, Marion Martin, Virginia O'Brien, Henry Armetta, Anna Demetrio, Paul Stanton, Russell Hicks, Bradley Page, Six Hits and a Miss. Produced by Louis K. Sidney. Directed by Charles Riesner. Screenplay by Sid Kuller, Hal Fimberg, Ray Golden. Original story, Nat Perrin. Songs: Hal Borne, Sid Kuller, Ray Golden; Ben Oakland, Artie Shaw and Milton Drake. Music direction, Georgie Stoll. Music adaptation, Earl Brent. Vocal and orchestrations, Leo Arnaud, George Bassman, Herb Taylor, Robert Van Eps. Photography, Charles Lawton. Film editor, Conrad A. Nervig. Previewed June 12, at the Academy, Inglewood. Running time: 80 mins.

If your clientele likes the Marxes this is sure b.o. bait. It is larded with plenty of laughs. It is distinctive Marxian comedy. Plots, situations, backgrounds — these have come and gone in variety through the screen career of the brothers. But the comics themselves are changeless, fixed in character, no matter what new labels the scenarists may hang upon them. And here they are again, Groucho, Chico and Harpo—for the last time together in pictures, they have announced. A farewell to films. And a very funny swan song, if it is their last.

The scene of their cavortings this time is a vast department store. It gives them wide latitude, plenty of natural props, to play with. Groucho is a wily and resourceful private sleuth who becomes the store dick. Harpo is his assistant. Chico is the bodyguard of Tony Martin, part owner of the store, against whom the store manager and a couple of conspirators plot to gain full control. That set-up starts things rolling. Other principals are Virginia Grey, a nice young clerk in the music department; Margaret Dumont, femme standby with the Marxes, who also owns part of the store and falls hard for the seductive Groucho; Douglass Dumbrille, the villainous store manager.

The plot is made deliberately as corny for farce treatment as could be devised by the scripters, Sid Kuller, Hal Fimberg and Ray Golden, from Nat Perrin's original. It serves its purpose very well, and is tossed around for resounding laughs and chinked with well-told gags in the broad and humorously skillful direction of Charles Riesner, who learned his craftsmanship in the early school of film comedy.

One of the most hilarious and thoroughly drained episodes is the impact of Henry Armetta, with his brood of 12 children, against the Marxes in the bed department of the store. Beds, kids, comedians get mixed up in a series of side-splitters. Preluding this is an elaborate song and dance number, 'Sing While You Sell', which has a big ensemble meandering about the store under a swinging camera and ends up on a perambulating stage.

Harpo does a fantastic number on his harp, with mirrors in which each reflection of himself, presumably, plays a different instrument—a neat novelty with chuckles. Harpo and Chico together do a nifty piano number, plenty forte.

Groucho indulges his usual amount of ecstatic and leerical love making with the fetching Miss Dumont in the guise of Aunt Martha.

Tony Martin climaxes his splendidly delivered singing assignment with the grandiose 'Tenement Symphony', chanting many pictured aspects of the East Side, and accompanied by full symphony orchestra. Martin reaches his romantic peak in the nice ballad, 'If It's You'. Music is neatly interpolated throughout the action. 'Symphony' is by Hal Borne for the music, with lyrics by Sid Kuller and Ray Golden. Same combination cleffed 'Sing While You Sell.' 'If It's You' has music and lyric shared by Ben Oakland, Artie Shaw and Milton Drake. Georgie Stoll directed the music; Earl Brent adapted, and vocal and orchestrations are credited to Leo Arnaud, George Bassman, Herb Taylor and Robert Van Eps. Arthur Appell clicks with dance direction.

The chase with which a Marx comedy invariably ends is a pippin this trip, speeding and sprawling through the store building, using elevators, bicycles, roller skates, floor slides, chutes, balconies and swinging fixtures in a riotous gyration which is comparable to the previous high in 'One Night at the Opera.'

Players who ably and colorfully follow the pace of the principals are Marion Martin in a seductive bit; Virginia O'Brien, William Tannen, Anna Demetrio, Paul Stanton, Russell Hicks, Bradley Page and the featured Six Hits and a Miss.

Louis K. Sidney handled the production with success.

Desert Bandit

Republic production. Stars Don 'Red' Barry. Features William Haade, Lynn Merrick. Supporting players: James Gillette, Dick Wessel, Robert Strange, Jim Corey, Merrill McCormick, Tom Chatterton, Tom Ewell, Ernie Stanton, Charles R. Moore. Producer-director, George Sherman. Screenplay, Bennett Cohen and Eliot Gibbons. Original, Bennett Cohen. Photography, William Nobles. Film editor, Ray Snyder. Music, Cy Feuer. Reviewed at the Hitching Post, June 12. Running time: 56 mins.

An excellent package of western fare is presented in Republic's 'Desert Bandit', a Don 'Red' Barry oater that puts the film cowpoke into the role of Texas Ranger. Action, a villain with a sense of humor, a lovely heroine, and all of the other western trappings are mixed up into a standard, but exciting, prairie yarn. Barry is steadily building a following with a different western hero personality under the producer-director guidance of George Sherman, all of which makes this expert fodder for the outdoor fans.

Plot concerns itself with the Rangers' attempt to stop smuggling across the Mexican border. Behind the band of gun-runners is the respected village banker, while William Haade is presumably the real king-pin of crime. Barry apparently gets himself thrown out of the Ranger service, joins Haade's band, foils the crooks' plans and wins the girl. In between there are plenty of gun and fist fights, chases and general excitement in the script by Bennett Cohen and Eliot Gibbons from Cohen's original.

Haade, in spite of his villainy, gets a pleasing sense of humor into his performance and generally makes himself a major asset to the picture. Lynn Merrick lends looks to the femme spot and James Gillette has a brief, but interestingly interpreted role as her brother. Robert Strange, Dick Wessell, Ernie Stanton are others who supply full measure of dirty work.

Nevada City

(Western with Songs)

Republic production. Stars Roy Rogers, George 'Gabby' Hayes. Features Sally Payne, Billy Lee. Supporting players: George Cleveland, Joseph Crehan, Fred Kohler, Jr., Pierre Watkin, Jack Ingram, Rex Lease. Producer-director, Joseph Kane. Original screenplay, James Webb. Photographer, William Nobles. Reviewed at the Hitching Post, June 12. Running time: 59 mins.

'Nevada City' is a shoot-'em-up story of railroads versus stage coaches, and both against outlaws, in Republic's Roy Rogers-George 'Gabby' Hayes series of oaters. Western-minded fans will find plenty of excitement in the neat little yarn.

Rogers and Hayes make a good pair of heroes who pull themselves and others out of all manner of jams as they try to smooth out a feud between rival owners of a stage coach line and a railroad, plus bringing to bay the outlaw band that was the real cause of the trouble.

Sally Payne, the femme interest, has a chance to be the heroine instead of a comedy cowgirl, and delivers pleasingly to justify further opportunities in that position. Billy Lee makes a swell young hero-worshipper and juvenile sidekick to Rogers and Hayes. George Cleveland satisfies as the stage coach man, as does Joseph Crehan as his rival. The dirty work is in the capable hands of Fred Kohler, Jr., Pierre Watkin, Jack Ingram and Rex Lease.

Joseph Kane produced and directed from James Webb's original screenplay, and keeps the action alive and the guns smoking. William Nobles took care of the camera assignment.

Hearing on Fairbanks, UA Buy Delayed

Hearing on United Artists' offer to purchase the corporation stock owned by the estate of the late Douglas Fairbanks for $400,000 was continued yesterday until Wednesday at 11 a.m., after attorneys acting for the widow, Sylvia Fairbanks, asked for an adjournment to allow time for possible higher bids.

If no further offers are made for the 4,000 shares of UA stock, corporation's bid of $100 a share will be approved by Superior Judge Jess E. Stephens, hearing the probate matter, at next Wednesday's session. Ed Raftery, Loyd Wright, Sydney Wetzler of Freston & Files, O'Melveny & Myers, were attorneys acting for United Artists, the Guaranty Trust and the Bank of America, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Robert Fairbanks. Mrs. Fairbanks' motion to delay the sale to UA was presented by Judge Isaac Pacht.

They Met in Argentina

(Romance with Music)

RKO production and release. Stars Maureen O'Hara, James Ellison, Alberto Vila, Buddy Ebsen, Diosa Costello. Cast: Robert Barrat, Joseph Buloff, Victoria Cordova, Luis Alberni, Paul Ellis, Fortunio Bonanova, Carlos Barbe, Francisco Maran, Antonio Moreno. Directed by Leslie Goodwins, Jack Hively. Produced by Lou Brock. Screenplay, Jerry Cady. Story, Lou Brock, Harold Daniels. Photography, J. Roy Hunt. Film editor, Desmond Marquette. Dances, Frank Veloz. Musical director, Lud Gluskin. Songs, Richard Rodgers, Lorenz Hart. Reviewed at Warners Hollywood, June 12. Running time: 76 mins.

RKO's 'They Met in Argentina', lacking names, a story, or much of anything except some pretty good music and touches of excellent photography, will take some heavy plugging to achieve any more than small attention as the second half of a double bill. If it is released in Argentina the resultant riot will make the recent squawk in Buenos Aires over Universal's 'Argentine Nights' look like a tea party.

Without a doubt, Lou Brock, who produced and helped Harold Daniels write the original story; Jerry Cady, who wrote the dismal screenplay, and Leslie Goodwins and Jack Hively, the two directors, are entitled to the prize for creating a picture that will be the most offensive to Latin American audiences.

James Ellison, who has graduated from his cowboy roles (although he walks around in American cowboy garb in the film), is adequate until he sings. Maureen O'Hara, daughter of the rich Argentine rancher, is pretty enough, but she gets a forwardness into the role that is utterly preposterous in a Latin American heiress. Buddy Ebsen does an excellent job when he is given a chance to dance (which is rarely) and Diosa Costello brings a vital charm to her role as a laundress gone on Ebsen. Alberto Vila, the South American star, is standout; but the story gives him no opportunity. He has a freshness and a suave appeal that should, in a romantic role, soon make him a boxoffice favorite in this country.

Robert Barrat, as the Argentine ranch owner, is best among the supporting players. Others are Joseph Buloff, Victoria Cordova, Carlos Barbe, Luis Alberni, Francisco Moran, Fortunio Bonanova and Antonio Moreno. Alberni and Buloff, who talks with a Jewish accent, are placed in the unfortunate position of caricaturing South Americans. Casting is poorly-handled, as evidenced by the treatment of Vila.

Screenplay is the chief weakness. It is loosely constructed, at best, and betrays an ignorance of Argentina and Argentine customs and people that is appalling. There is some superior photography by J. Roy Hunt. Songs, by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart, are all good.

Story deals with Ellison, agent for a Texas millionaire, trying to buy Barrat's great race horse. He ends up by winning the girl and getting the nag. Action all takes place in Argentina.

Actors Guild To Exam Unemployment Insurance Raps

The Screen Actors Guild announced last night that it intends to examine all cases where actors or extras are denied unemployment insurance. It was stated that John Dales, Jr., attorney and assistant executive secretary of the SAG, is making a special investigation of the Muriel Bower case, and that an appeal will be taken if the facts justify such action.

Leaders of other film unions also indicated they intended to make an inquiry into the establishment by the Producers of a legal group to check all unemployment insurance claims by industry workers. One union spokesman said if the Producers protested, unemployment insurance claims might be held up because a director refused to take an assignment as a second assistant, in the case of an actor who refused a $1,000 call, or because a director of photography refused to work as a second assistant cameraman.

There was considerable criticism by the unions and American Federation of Labor leaders over the drive by the major companies to get a favorable merit rating that would materially reduce their unemployment payments. They said protests could be used to beat down salaries, and expressed satisfaction that no such action was contemplated when the law was drafted. If the protests become widespread, certain leaders indicated that protests would be lodged with both the State and Federal governments.

Miss Bower was denied unemployment insurance when the Producers, through their legal representatives, protested that she had refused to accept a $5.50 extra call. Miss Bower said she was not accustomed to working for $5.50, and accepted such calls only from studios where she was on the preferred list and where a majority of her calls were at a much higher figure.

$60,000 BAND, TALENT BUDGET FOR STATE FAIR

Outlay of $60,000 for bands and talent was approved yesterday by board of directors of California Agricultural Society for the 87th annual Ctate Fair at Sacramento, Aug. 29 to Sept. 7. Complete slate of entertainment submitted by Fox Case, chairman of the attractions committee, was okayed at a luncheon here. Bands set, all under banner of Music Corp., are Kay Kyser, Charles Barnet, Freddy Martin, Ozzie Nelson, Horace Heidt and Bob Crosby. Afternoon music for the horse races and horse show will be provided by Felix Mills and his Southern California band.

In the lineup of talent will be Texas Rangers, Gene Autry and the Ada Broadbent dancers. Latter will appear in a spectacle to be produced by Adrian Awan. Theme of this year's fair will be dedicated to United Service Organizations. Special days will be devoted to radio and pictures, with stars of both mediums making personal appearances.

Outlay of coin for entertainment, matching last year's amount, will have $40,000 earmarked for night shows and $10,000 for daytime performances. Despite the heavy amusement expense, the fair in 1940 showed a profit, and Case's proposals were again approved without dissent. Autry's appearance is scheduled for Governor's Day. Succession of bands will be determined by available time between pictures or ballroom bookings. Sacramento symphony orchestra also participates in the musical setup.

Bill Lawrence On Hope Replacement

Bill Lawrence, producer of Bob Hope's Pepsodent show, continues at the controls through the summer on the replacement program, 'A Date With Joanie'. Half hour airpiece is along the lines of family serials and will originate at NBC here. Lawrence is auditioning Ann Gillis and Paul McGrath, NY stage player, for featured roles. Program initials (24).

Demands of 10,000 Workers Presented To Pat Casey

by permitting process projectionists to be placed on an hourly rate of $1.66 per hour when the Wage-Hour decisions become effective on Monday (16). John Swartz, business representative of Local 165, however, stated the union was not accepting this as a permanent rate, and that any scale negotiated for the process projectionists during the current negotiations would be retroactive to Monday (16). Casey was notified to that effect, and similar notification was sent to all studio heads.

All of the crafts except the photographers are asking that the current three-hour minimum call be increased to six hours. The lensers who have a minimum four-hour call, are asking that this be tilted to eight hours. The other demands, some of which call for the employment of additional men, have already been published by Daily Variety.

The initial negotiations will be confined to 16 conditions that are applicable to all the crafts. When these have been disposed of, each of the 10 unions will present their individual proposals.

Laboratory Technicians Local 683 representatives spent some time yesterday in conference with Fred Pelton, Producer representative. A recent offer of wage increases ranging from three cents to 11 cents per hour was turned down by the local, which is now seeking better conditions.

Lester Guest Shots

Jerry Lester has been set for three more guest shots on Kraft Music Hall (26), July 10 and 24. He then goes east for five weeks of stage appearances returning in September for additional radio work.

Cash Giveaways OK In Orange County, Court Rules

Cash giveaways in Orange county theatres have been upheld in a decision handed down in county court in the case of five Fox-West Coast-Arthur houses haled up on lottery charges. Defendant theatres were the Broadway and West Coast in Santa Ana, the Fox and Anaheim at Anaheim, and the Fox, Fullerton.

Judge Cameron decided, after government had introduced dozens of witnesses, that the giveaway as applied to these theatres did not constitute a lottery because the general public is not barred from registering nor prevented from participating in the weekly cash drawings.

Trial of the case consumed two days, and establishes a precedent for Orange county in the matter of theatre cash giveaways.

New York, June 12.—Willie Bioff pleaded not guilty in Federal court today to charges of violation of the anti-racketeering act in that he used force, violence, and threats to extort $550,000 from four major film companies. Senior Judge John Knox set his trial date for Aug. 18, after Mathias Correa, U. S. prosecutor, had asked for July 7 trial, and Henry Uterhart, for Bioff had asked a postponement to September. August was a compromise.

Bail of $50,000 was continued, and Bioff was released in custody of his attorney after Correa declared the reason for asking an early trial was the government fear of threats to its witnesses. Judge Knox declared that if any government witnesses received any phone calls or anonymous letters, bail would be revoked and Bioff would be ordered to jail. The defense immediately asked protection of its own witnesses from harassing by the government.

Correa stated the trial should last a week, but Michael Luddy, California counsel for Bioff, stated he planned to call more than 40 witnesses, so a month seems more likely. It was revealed that many film executives will be called as witnesses by the defense.

The government again repeated ominous statement that it is continuing its investigation for others not yet known.

Bioff, speaking before entering the courtroom, declared unions in Hollywood, especially the air industry, are overrun with Communism. He said the film unions are gradually eradicating the red influence.

Bioff was granted until June 23 to make any motions regarding the complaint that he sees fit. Willie's attorneys declared the government is welcome to any union records it desires, but they object to government agents disrupting union business to secure records.

PCCITO 11-Point Program

Here is the 11-point Code of Ethics as endorsed by the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners, and under which the exhibition organization proposes to function during the coming year. Program was set up by the PCC prior to the entering of the consent decree. At no time has the PCC ever subscribed to the 5-picture clause in the decree.

POINT NO. 1—IDENTIFICATION OF PICTURES

All contracts for feature pictures shall clearly identify the pictures leased and the exhibitor shall not be required to accept any pictures other than those contracted for; the burden of proof as to whether a given picture was included in the contract shall be upon the distributor.

The distributor shall be required to deliver any and all pictures contracted for if completed within two seasons subsequent to the season covered by the contract.

There shall be no shifting or interchanging of price allocations or pictures in contracts.

If the distributor fails to deliver any pictures covered by the contract, the exhibitor shall be entitled to a readjustment of the price of the pictures delivered so that the average price of the pictures delivered shall not be greater than the average provided under the contract.

The exhibitor shall have the right to cancel 20% of the number of pictures under the contract, such eliminated pictures to be credited on the basis of the average price on the contract.

POINT NO. 2—PERCENTAGE RENTALS

Distributors shall not have the right to designate preferred playing time.

All checking of percentage engagements shall be done by a regular employee of the distributor and such employe shall be bonded against divulging information obtained in the course of his employment and the distributor shall be responsible for any violation of confidence by such employe.

POINT NO. 3—FORCING

The distributor shall not force the exhibitor to buy Westerns as a condition for entering into a contract with exhibitors for feature pictures.

The distributor shall not force the exhibitor to buy reissues as a condition for entering into a contract with exhibitors for feature pictures.

The distributors shall not force the exhibitor to buy serials as a condition for entering into a contract with exhibitors for feature pictures.

The distributors shall not force the exhibitor to buy foreign pictures as a condition for entering into a contract with exhibitors for feature pictures. (Even though such pictures are produced outside the United States in the English language by the distributor or an affiliate or subsidiary thereof).

The distributor shall not force the exhibitor to buy short subjects as a condition for entering into a contract with exhibitor for feature pictures.

The distributor shall not force the exhibitor to buy newsreels as a condition for entering into a contract with exhibitors for feature pictures.

The distributor shall not force the exhibitor to buy trailers as a condition for entering into a contract with exhibitors for feature pictures.

POINT NO. 4—CLEARANCE

The practice of extended runs results in delay and uncertainty as to the availability of a given picture. In order to enable the subsequent run exhibitor to determine the availability of pictures, all clearance shall be computed from the opening date of the first run in exchange territory.

The availability of contracted pictures to a subsequent run exhibitor shall not be delayed by reason of the failure of the distributor to conclude a sale to the prior run.

Unfair clearance shall be eliminated.

POINT NO. 5—SELECTIVE CONTRACTS

Where an exhibitor buys a selective contract, he shall be required to announce acceptance or rejection of any picture in such contract within one week of receipt of notice of availability, in order to establish a definite availability for such pictures to subsequent run exhibitors.

POINT NO. 6—NEW STANDARD CONTRACT

A new brief standard exhibition contract shall be prepared, this contract to be approved by the Dept. of Justice.

POINT NO. 7—PREVIEWS

Previews of feature pictures shall be considered a first run if such 'commercialized' preview is presented to a paying audience or announced to the public by any medium whatsoever.

POINT NO. 8—CANCELLATION

Any picture, exclusive of Westerns and Re-issues, that does not have a first run in a recognized first run theatre in an exchange center, the exhibitor has the privilege of cancelling in addition to his 20% cancellation.

POINT NO. 9—RIGHT TO EXCLUDE

An exhibitor shall have the right, in addition to the exclusion privilege provided for, to exclude from any license agreement any feature which may be locally offensive on moral, religious or racial grounds, provided he shall give the distributor written notice, no later than fourteen days after the conclusion of its first exhibition in the exchange territory in which the exhibitor is served, of his desire to exclude such feature, specifying the reasons therefor. Upon the exclusion of any feature under this provision, the license therefore shall terminate and all rights thereto shall revert to the distributor.

POINT NO. 10—SOME RUN

Distributors shall not refuse to lease their pictures on some run to be designated by the distributors for exhibition in any situation provided that the exhibitor can satisfy reasonable minimum standards of theatre operation and the exhibitor is reputable and responsible, unless the granting of a run on any terms to the complaining exhibitor will prejudice the distributor's business interest in the area where the complainant's theatre is located.

POINT NO. 11—NO DISCRIMINATION

There shall be no discrimination by distributors as to the right to buy,

Referendum Resolution Finally Defeated At AFM Confab

Seattle, June 12.—The convention of the American Federation of Musicians here today was featured by a debate of several hours on a resolution calling for the election of Federation officers and the approving of Constitution and By-Law changes by referendum votes of the entire membership. A vote taken after the debate defeated the resolution by a large margin.

The debate was suspended for a time at 11 a.m. for nomination of officers, the result of which was the renomination of all present Federation incumbents, thereby continuing in office President James C. Petrillo, Secretary Fred Birnbach, Treasurer Harry Brenton and Vice President Charles Bagley. Four of the nine men nominated for the four positions on the executive board are now members of the board. The election will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Among the resolutions approved was one directing the donation of $5,000 by the Federation to the American Labor Committee to Aid British Labor.

Officials expressed the belief that the convention may finish its business tomorrow, but backers of several resolutions on canned music say that there will be an exhaustive discussion on this important problem.

Film Stars Ready For Two Army Shows

An aggregation of film stars will journey to two Army camps this weekend for the second and third of the 'test shows' now being staged by the Motion Picture Production Defense Committee, as a preparation for the problem of entertainment in Army and Navy posts during the emergency. The group will appear Saturday at Camp Hunter Liggett, near San Luis Obispo, and on Sunday at Fort Ord, near Del Monte, leaving here by Southern Pacific tomorrow at 8:30 a.m.

Included on the program are Jack Benny, m.c.; Claudette Colbert, Marlene Dietrich, Burns and Allen, the Ritz Brothers, Ray Bolger, Mary Livingstone, Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Carole Landis, the Nicholas Brothers, Virginia O'Brien, Franklyn D'Amour, and Nat Young's Universal Studio orchestra.

Equity Quitters Refuse To Reconsider

New York, June 12.—Following the denial of Paul Dullzell that communists are in the driver's seat in Actors Equity Association, 10 councillors and officers of the organization declined to reconsider their resignations today. They insist that unless 'the members accused by Congressman William P. Lambertson of being red resign from the Council pending an investigation', they will stand pat.

O'Shea Named

Daniel P. O'Shea was named executive vice president of David O. Selznick Productions, Inc. last night at a meeting of the officers of the organization. He formerly held the position of vice-prexy. John Houseman was given the position of vice president, but remains as production assistant to David O. Selznick.

AAA Denies Specific Run To Theatre In Chicago

New York, June 12.—In the first case of its kind under the consent decree, also the initial one brought before appeals board of American Arbitration Assn., specific run was denied to Ken theatre in Chicago. Unanimous seven-page decision by the three appeals members in dismissing the case held that the three distributors involved, Paramount, RKO and 20th-Fox, were willing to give Ken some run but that a specific run through granting of a change in clearance could not be awarded because of other theatres that would be affected.

When the Chicago case was first heard the arbitrator ruled he had no power since interpretation of the decree granted that some run may be granted it could not be specific until after Sept. 1 when decree becomes operative. Chicago house, getting films 12 weeks after release, filed for change in clearance but in arguing the case, in effect, sought a specific run.

Disney Defers Divvy

Directors of Walt Disney Productions, Inc. have ordered deferment of the quarterly dividend due July 1 on preferred stock. The company stated the deferment was made necessary by reduced income caused by spread of the European war and the working capital required for the production and carrying of feature pictures for release in the most advantageous markets.

tre operators' committee to discuss the projected restoration of single feature bills.

Skouras' wire, received too late for presentation at yesterday's closing exhibitor session, said that while he could not take credit for sponsoring the elimination of double bills, he stood ready to meet with the Independent exhibitor committee at any time to discuss any problems affecting the industry.

F-WC chief said in his wire that he was 'delighted to be able to say that the independent theatre owners in this territory have consistently evidenced their desire to cooperate in all matters' and that the same spirit permeates 'our organization'.

'With such a background it has always been a pleasure to meet with any committee of the Pacific Coast Conference', Skouras said, 'and I am looking forward to meeting with its representatives.'

Concrete action which independent exhibitor leaders hope will sound the death knell of double feature programs, developed rapidly at yesterday's closing convention sessions of MPTOA and PCC at the Ambassador hotel.

A strong resolution condemning the dual feature policy, and calling upon all exhibitors, both circuit and independent, to help eradicate the evil, was adopted in the closing minutes of the MPTOA session. Earlier, following unanimous approval, L. O. Lukan, PCC trustee from Seattle, a rabid proponent of single bills, and Bob Poole, executive secretary of the Conference, were instructed to wire all important producers, including the heads of the Skouras theatre operations, to obtain an expression of their attitude against double features.

Late in the afternoon two of the producers contacted, David O. Selznick and Walter Wanger, had already replied. Both pledged their full cooperation. Their wires were read before the MPTOA delegates by Poole, who also spoke briefly on double bills, characterizing them as a racket which must be eliminated from the industry.

Poole, previously, pointed out a few striking observations, commenting on the present b.o. slump, and said he felt that duals were a contributing factor to this condition. 'We must do something', Poole stressed, 'to eliminate that which is an untrue presentation of pictures. We of the PCCITO have adopted a definite policy against duals and we urge the support of every exhibitor in this fight.'

New York, June 12.—NBC's suit against 20th Century Sporting Club, Mutual Broadcasting System and Gillette Razor, over rights to broadcast the fights from Madison Square Garden was dismissed today in Supreme court by Judge Lloyd Church. Keough Demands New Approach To Pic Relationship

Austin C. Keough, vice president and general counsel for Paramount, speaking at the MPTOA session yesterday afternoon, claimed that distributors don't like the five-picture block selling idea any more than the exhibitors. Keough delivered an exhaustive report on conditions preceding and leading to the consent decree and called for a new approach to exhibitor-distributor relations. He denied that the consent decree was to be regarded as an instrument of oppression in the hands of distributors to club exhibs into submission. He contended, however, that pictures will cost more money because labor and materials cost more and cited one instance where the cost of a production was recently boosted $300,000 above normal.

Keough said that film salesmen and branch managers must never be encouraged to think of the consent decree as a means of taking advantage of theatre operators but suggested that exhibitors seek arbitration of any complaints instead of sending squawks directing to Washington.

Following the introduction of Gene Autry and John H. Harris, chief barker of the Variety Clubs of America, at the opening of the session, Congressman John M. Costello of Los Angeles also advised exhibitors to try to solve their own problems instead of turning to the government for legislation. Costello said that in going to the government the industry was inviting government control until its operations would be circumscribed by legislative enactments.

HOPPER HELPS PRESS

Hedda Hopper next came to the platform in defense of the Hollywood press fraternity. She said she could not understand why everybody at the convention, including her good friend Walter Wanger, had been trying to bury the correspondents and declared that honest criticism never hurt anybody. Not every picture could be described as colossal or stupendous or audiences would become skeptical of all films. Miss Hopper also announced that she had made a short with William S. Hart which would soon be offered.

Arthur H. Lockwood, president, MPTOA of Connecticut, late in the afternoon presented a complete and comprehensive summary of the various problems besetting the industry, indicating that operation under the consent decree had many advantages. He thought that in buying blocks of five certain theatres would now be able to present a variety of stars from various producers at their theatres instead of being limited to any one product.

Lockwood referred to the serious shortage of prints and reported that in many territories exhibitors lose availability playdates because of the shortage. The speaker blasted Walter Wanger's suggestion of mollycoddling experimental films and cautioned exhibitors against letting distributors overcome their sales resistance.

Sidney Lust, Washington, D. C., in a brief address, charged that at least one major company had withdrawn pictures which had been sold in the lower brackets and is holding them to resell later at higher prices.

operators who could not afford the cost of two Grade A films on a single bill. The exhibitor gathering also adopted a program comprising 11 points in which adherence to the Trade Practice Code is favored as against the present consent decree.

Rotus Harvey, trustee from San Francisco, called on leading distributors who are affiliated with chain theatres to halt dual bills, and said that if Paramount, Metro and Fox couldn't control their circuits they should get rid of them, instead of trying to run the independent theatres. Harvey declared that distributors should not expect to make up loss of revenue due to their own incompetence or misunderstanding of industry problems by exacting higher prices from the independent operators.

So-called discriminatory practices of producers and distributors by which circuit and affiliated theatres are given arbitrary preference over independents could be quickly stopped, it was said, if producers and distributors exacted the same selling terms from their own circuits as from independents.

A strongly-worded wire was sent to producers and distributors who have gone on record favoring single bills, commending them for their action and urging that strong and vigorous steps be taken to bring about an early resumption of single feature programs.

With regard to bringing pressure to bear on the chains to stop dualing the question was raised on the floor of the convention as to whether the low-priced independent houses would follow the single bill policy. L. O. Lukan, ardent proponent of the single bill policy, declared that no serious harm could come from duals in low-priced houses and other exhibitors supported the contention that if first runs set the example the majority of other theatres would follow suit.

WIRE INDUSTRY HEADS

Jack Berman, Los Angeles trustee, chairman for the day, expressed the opinion that the transition from dual to single bill policy was not expected to take place overnight due to the preponderance of lower quality pictures which would be eliminated only over a period of time as the single bill policy becomes firmly established.

One of the most important motions adopted at the session was a plan whereby the PCCITO will pay the costs involved in test cases affecting exhibitors which are brought to arbitration. The PCCITO was thereby authorized to fight through any test cases affecting theatre owners if of general interest. Exhibitors requiring financial backing of the PCC will appeal to their local association, which will in turn forward it to the PCC for consideration by Attorney Albert J. Law, who will act on any complaint which is ruled a test case. Another resolution was adopted to the effect that all exhibitors consult with their local association before taking any action under the consent decree.

A close check on any further attempted expansion of chains, either by purchase or building of new theatres, was advocated in the adoption of a resolution calling on exhibitors to report all cases where such expansion could be construed as a move to force independents out of business. Attorney Law said that the portion of the consent decree referring to theatre expansion was ambiguous, but that any move threatening the existence of an independent theatre could become subject to investigation by the Department of Justice, and he advised exhibitors to report all such cases. Expansion of theatre chains not signatory parties to the consent decree could be investigated by the Department of Justice under the Sherman anti-trust laws.

SHORTS COMPLAINTS

A resolution in regard to attempted forcing of shorts, trailers and newsreels on exhibitors was adopted whereby it was agreed that complaints are to be filed with local associations and eventually forwarded to the Department of Justice in Washington.

Among other measures proposed at the meeting was a plan whereby the PCCITO would compile film classification charts, based on the opinions of unbiased reviewers, as a service to exhibitors. Along with the review charts classing films according to merit, it was proposed to appoint an official, with the same duties as Joe Breen had in the Hays office, who would stamp pictures with a seal of merit where warranted.

Steps to curb the junior admission evil which is now spreading rapidly were forecast in a measure authorizing the appointment of a committee to correct abuses. It was stated on the floor that lower admission prices were now being granted not only to elementary and high school students but to university students as well, with the result that theatre grosses in competitive situations in college towns were being seriously dented. The convention was adjourned following the appointment of four standing committees to deal with the various resolutions presented. Bob Poole stated that more committees may be added if necessary.

Sprinkling of Stars At Exhib Fadeout

The four day MPTOA-PCCITO convention wound up last night with a dinner at the Earl Carroll nitery which drew a sprinkling of movie stars, a few of the industry's top execs and a total attendance of 1,200, house capacity. Elaborate representation from the studio star rosters as originally planned failed to appear. Among those reported on the floor, however, were Ginger Rogers, Rita Hayworth, Regis Toomey, Mary Martin, Edith Fellowes, Y. Frank Freeman, Harry Cohn and Sol Siegel. It was a strong exhibitor turnout with a few industry publicists, exchange managers, and others also in evidence. Borah Minevitch's Harmonica Gang, one of the sock floor show turns, wowed the mob.

CLC ORDERS DISNEY PRODUCTS ON UNFAIR LIST

United States were being asked to request their members not to attend theatres showing Disney pictures.

At the same time, it was learned that Harold V. Smith, who is acting as a mediator in the strike, was asking Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, to meet with Walt Disney today in an effort to negotiate an agreement that would end the walkout. It was believed the first two points Casey would insist upon before agreeing to act would be recognition of the Screen Cartoonists Guild as collective bargaining representative and agreement for all strikers to return to their jobs.

The Central Labor Council issued the following statement, after a Council committee composed of Prexy Harry Sherman, Secretary J. W. Buzzell and Lew C. G. Blix had spent several days in conference with Disney executives:

'Two weeks ago the unions in Hollywood which are involved in the Disney studio controversy requested the Central Labor Council to place the Disney Studio and its products upon the official unfair list of the labor movement. In accordance with the rules, this matter was referred to the executive board of the Council with power to act, and the board appointed a committee which has been in almost constant negotiation with Mr. Disney since that time.

'Mr. Disney attempted to create a false issue, mainly that no election had been held in the plant, in spite of the fact that there is a strike in the plant and that more than a majority of the men and women employed in the departments where the controversy is, are out. The real issues involved are the question of wages, conditions and recognition of the union, which involved a return to work of all of the striking employes, which Mr. Disney does not want to agree to.

'Thursday morning the committee reported to the executive board of the Central Labor Council that it felt it had exhausted every possible effort to bring about an amicable settlement of the strike. And the executive board, acting with the authority given it by the Council, has declared the studio and its products unfair. The Council will call upon the American Federation of Labor unions throughout the United States to refuse to attend theatres showing Disney pictures and to continue to do so until such time as the controversy is ended.'

More than 1,000 members of the Screen Cartoonists Guild and strike supporters and sympathizers participated in a mass demonstration in front of the plant yesterday. The marchers included actors, writers, publicists and other representatives from film unions and guilds. Anticipating the mass demonstration, Disney officials dismissed the workers inside the plant yesterday at 4:30 p.m. instead of 5:30 p.m., so they would not have to go through the mass picket lines.

The employes who have refused to join the strikers adjourned to a nearby school house to hold a meeting, but fled when pickets approached the school. They had been waiting until 5:30 p.m. to hold their meeting so they could not be accused of meeting on company time, which resulted in one of their former organizations being branded as a company union, with the result that the National Labor Relations Board ordered Disney to disestablish relations with it.

LEVY RAPS DISTRUST IN EXHIB-DISTRIB RANKS

Advancing the viewpoint that exhibitors, themselves, are much to blame for existing conditions in the exhibition field, Herman M. Levy, executive secretary of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Connecticut, at yesterday's closing MPTOA convention session, addressed the meeting with an exhibitor attorney's impression of the government consent decree. Levy, a veteran in exhibition legal affairs, said that he felt strongly that this decree or any other decree or regulatory process would accomplish small good, if any, unless the bitterness, strife and distrust that permeates exhibitor-distributor relationships are eliminated.

'In general', Levy said, 'distributors look upon exhibitors as disgruntled, ungraceful, chronic complainants who go to Florida each year on their losses from B pictures. In no industry are customers of a producer or manufacturer treated with less respect. Once a year, for a few days, just before the contract is signed, they may receive fine treatment, but after the signing and for the rest of the year, the tongue of the distributor is mute, his ear is deaf and his attitude patronizing and disrespectful. That attitude forms the basis of the distributor's philosophy. From it springs many evils—unreasonable clearance and runs, withholding prints, ''playing favorites'' with the big fellow to the injury of the small one. The distributors refused to clean house and eliminate those evils, so the government attempted to do it for them.

'The exhibitor, too, has been somewhat at fault. He has built up a specious philosophy based on the following elements:

'(1) Whatever is good for distributors cannot be good for me;

'(2) Distributors are ogres of Jack-and-the-Beanstalk type;

'(3) A refusal to recognize that a picture is the distributor's property and, unless he contravenes the law, he may do with it what he wishes;

'(4) A firm conviction that the distributor releases two or three good pictures a year and spends the rest of his time lying awake nights figuring out how to make the rest bad.

'And it is with these thoughts firmly implanted in his mind that the exhibitor carries on his negotiations with distributors.

'WHO IS TO BLAME?'

'Who is to blame for all of this? Is it what Ed Kuykendall has called ''. . . a stubborn shortsighted refusal (by distributors) to cooperate in working out a fair, practical trade practice program''? Is it refusal of distributors to compromise until their backs are to the wall, as illustrated by the consent decree? Or is it some other cause, or group of causes? Whatever the reason, distributor-exhibitor relationships were bitter and unhealthy prior to the decree. Then came the decree, but it did not accomplish the government's avowed purposes at the time of the bringing of the suit, it was accepted as the lesser of two evils by the distributors and it was wholeheartedly and unequivocally objected to by exhibitors for whose benefit the suit was brought and the decree entered into.

'The decree is here to stay for a while anyway, whatever its merits and demerits. It is, therefore, an utter waste of time to do anything but determine in what ways it has benefits for the exhibitor and how they may be taken advantage of.

'Those abuses that distributors are responsible for, to-wit, playing favorites, permitting overbuying, setting up unfair standards of clearance and runs, and others, they must eliminate, decree or no decree.

'In fairness to distributors, it must be stated that many of the complaints of arbitration filed have been adjusted either before or during the trial. (Parenthetically I want to state at this point that the trade press has been of tremendous help in carrying complete stories on arbitration cases so that exhibitors have been able, if they wished, to take advantage of the progress and results of cases instituted.) The process of arbitration is long, tedious and expensive for exhibitors; so distributors should grant the concessions they do after arbitration is begun, before. The American Arbitration Association points with pride, as well it might, to the results of an arbitration complaint in Boston where in two days a case for ''some run'' by an exhibitor against distributors was adjusted amicably, thereby accomplishing what two years of litigation prior thereto had been unable to accomplish. Quite paradoxically, that quick and satisfactory result is a condemnation of distributors who would allow two years of litigation to go on concerning something which they later voluntarily granted!

'Exhibitors, on the other hand, must be reasonable in what they ask for. They must not seek what they would not themselves give or consider fair.

supervisors to enforce anti-trust and unfair trade laws, he declared, while making plain he thinks there are abuses in the broadcasting business and more strict controls are necessary.

Interrupted near the outset of his testimony, Craven suggested the danger the anti-monopoly rules will in the end foster another type of monopoly—meaning that the big stations will get more of the business at the expense of little outlets— and rules will have more devastating effect than present trade practices. He acknowledged exclusive contracts in some instances may violate public interest and 'one chain company' (NBC) has too many outlets.

Braden Urges MPTOA To Arbitrate Differences

Arbitration of motion picture differences was strongly advocated before the MPTOA convention session yesterday by J. Noble Braden, executive secretary of the American Arbitration Association, here from New York for the exhibitor powwow. 'To arbitrate is the American way', was the slogan advanced by the AAA chief, who stated that by this method the spread of ill-will is limited and the infection of others prevented. Good will is thus engendered and unity promoted. An arbitration clause in all contracts, Braden said, is an evidence of good will.

Braden outlined the workings of the AAA at some length and told the exhibitors just what steps are necessary for them to bring proceedings before it. He also dwelt briefly on some of the accomplishments of the AAA with references to motion picture arbitration and said the first award, in Boston, was handed down just 27 days after proceedings had started. In contrast, he pointed out that the previous owner of the house had for two years been endeavoring to get relief through the courts and was finally forced out of business.

'In following the keynote of your leaders', Braden said, 'you are faced with two responsibilities. First, you have a most important share in the responsibility for the success of the consent decree. For the first time in anti-trust litigation an industry has been given a judicial system of its own—an opportunity for self-regulation.

'Your second responsibility is in National Defense. Unsettled disputes are a menace to unity and American defense. An unsettled dispute creates ill will, clogs the industrial channel, slows up production, upsets business confidence, delays payments, impairs credits and in a thousand ways hampers not only the business of those directly involved, but all branches in which they have any connection. It promotes discord and makes easy prey for the enemy within.'

Robt. H. McNeil Attends Closing Sessions

McNeil, operating head of Golden State Theatres circuit arrived here yesterday from San Francisco to attend the closing sessions of the Exhibitor conventions at the Ambassador hotel, and to confer with local associates on product and operation. Mike Naify, who operates the T&D Jr. circuit, affiliated with Golden State as a Fox-West Coast subsidiary, has been here for several days.

Hollywood Inside

CLAUDE LEE, public relations head of Paramount, has completed a comprehensive study envisaging a coordinated industry effort to offset malicious and misleading conceptions of the picture business wherever they may be found. Lee, who was taken into New York from Gainesville, Fla., by Barney Balaban about two years ago, plans to present his plans to various regional exhibitor conventions as they materialize. Under the proposal to improve the industry's standing with the public every Paramount theatre manager, salesman, branch manager and others representative of the company, will be drafted in the move to establish closer and better contacts between theatres and the communities which they serve. Lee's plan would embrace every major company, independent theatre owners, producers and the trade press, with the object of impressing the theatregoers in every situation with the valuable contribution which films are making towards advancing and improving conditions within the nation. It is Lee's contention that some of the most important contributions to national well-being being made by various branches of the industry have failed of sufficient recognition outside the trade. As an instance he cites that while visiting studio lots in Hollywood he found one top star after another away on special calls to army camps, and noted that little of any mention of this had been made anywhere. Lee believes that his public relations ideas will perhaps have a better chance of being absorbed and put to the test when presented to regional rather than national exhibitor conventions since there are fewer distractions from the business sessions during regional confabs.

SCRIPT readjustment to meet the requirements of studio formula at the expense of studied mood and temper of the South American people is couched in the complaint of Harold Daniels, who authored the story from which RKO scenarized and produced 'They Met in Argentina'. Knowing of the difficulties encountered by film producers in picturing with fidelity the custom and mannerisms of the Latin people, Daniels pitched in the midst of them before writing his story, living with the Argentines and absorbing every detail of their national characteristics. He sold the yarn to Lou Brock, who, according to Daniels, revamped enough of the story to share story credit. 'I attended the preview', said Daniels, 'and all that I recognized of my brainchild was the game of El Pato. My story was sadly mutilated and all those little touches that the Argentines would have enjoyed were tossed out. My brother wrote me that he saw "They Met in Argentina" in the east and now he disclaims being my brother. I guess Hollywood doesn't want stories of the Latin countries written by those who know the country and its people so that our pictures will engender a friendlier relation with South American republics.' Brock is remaking 'Argentina' in Spanish for the Latin-American market but Daniels hasn't been asked to give the studio the benefits of his slant on the type of films those nationals would patronize and enjoy.

Fred Rachmann, a native Austrian, is expected to come here shortly to join his mother who obtained her American citizenship two months ago. Paramount officials are getting him a quota number. Message to Mrs. Rachmann, a former star of the New York German theatre, was first word she had since the French capitulated to Germany.

THE disclosure that Muriel Bower had been denied an unemployment insurance claim because legal representatives of Producers had protested her refusal to accept a $5.50 call, has resulted in a deluge of work offers for the player. She was even called yesterday on an $11 ticket, which being Sunday called for time and a half in addition. The Screen Actors Guild has announced it is making an investigation of the unemployment insurance protest, and other unions also are making an inquiry into the new Producer setup to check all unemployment claims by industry workers.

BECAUSE he believes he has worked out, with Olsen and Johnson, a technique for getting audience participation in the film version of 'Hellzapoppin'' comparable to this feature on the stage, Jules Levey, producer of the Universal release, is keeping the script strictly under cover until film shall have been completed. Only six copies of the screen play have been handed out, and these go under lock and key when not actually in use. Members of cast will get only abridged editions of the script during filming.

TO ACCOMMODATE those who were promised tickets to the Chase & Sanborn broadcast but had to be disappointed because of the java show being routed to nearby army camps, Edgar Bergen has decided on a pitch in Biltmore Bowl for Sunday's airing. Figured that with Bowl's capacity of 1,200, against NBC's 400, the disappointees of the past few weeks will be amply accommodated. Bergen's final broadcast of the season will probably originate at Camp Roberts (29).

FIRST instance of a studio being erected for a single radio show is that of the double decker stage built around a four-manual organ for KHJ's 'Haven of Rest.' Technical facilities are being installed to allow for frequency modulation broadcasts. Paul Myers, one of the characters on the airshow, is erecting the studio near the old Walt Disney plant.

The Shepherd of the Hills

(Drama in Technicolor)

Paramount production and release. Starring John Wayne, Betty Field, Harry Carey. Featuring Beulah Bondi, James Barton, Samuel S. Hinds, Marjorie Main, Marc Lawrence. Cast: Ward Bond, John Qualen, Fuzzy Knight, Tom Fadden, Olin Howland, Dorothy Adams, Virita Campbell, Fern Emmett. Producer, Jack Moss. Director, Henry Hathaway. Photography, Charles Lang, Jr., W. Howard Greene, Color art director, Natalie Kalmus. Associate color art director, Henri Jaffa. Musical score, Gerard Carbonara. Art direction, Hans Dreier, Roland Anderson. Film editor, Ellsworth Hoagland. Previewed June 14. Running time: 98 mins.

'The Shepherd of the Hills' should be a heavy grosser, for it has beauty, simplicity, dramatic intensity, carefully calculated tear-jerking, acting that few of the performers in it have ever bettered, superlative direction and production. Moreover, it comes at a time when many fans are fed up with war pictures, and has about it the quality of charm and escape that ought to make it more than welcome in a war-weary world. The picture could, if it is exploited properly, do the business that was done by Paramount's earlier Harold Bell Wright story, 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine'.

Even the most sophisticated picture-goer, if he is honest with himself, will be moved by the story. Harry Carey comes to the Ozarks to buy some land, arriving just as Tom Fadden has been shot by revenue agents and is being tended by his daughter, Betty Field. He binds the wound, saving Fadden's life. John Wayne, one of the bitter Matthews tribe which controls moonshining in the mountains, tries to prevent Carey from buying Moanin' Meadow, which the mountaineers think is haunted. Wayne wants the land to stay desolate and untouched, for his mother is buried there. He has sworn to kill his father, who deserted the family before he was born. Throughout his childhood and into his young manhood his cruel aunt, Beaulah Bondi, has poured the poison of her bitterness against life into him. She has a deaf mute, half-idiot son, Marc Lawrence, whom Wayne protects. Her husband, James Barton, knows that tragedy has twisted all kindness from her, but he and all others in the settlement are under the witch woman's spell. Carey's kindliness counteracts the poison of her hatred. Through his influence the mountain people grow friendly and industrious again. When he sends Marjorie Main to the city to have her old, blinded eyes operated upon, the whole community, save Beaulah Bondi, loves him. Then, as the bandages are removed from Miss Main's eyes and she sees, for the first time in her life, the people and the mountains about her, she recog-

Moon Over Miami

(Romantic Musical)

20th-Fox release of a Harry Joe Brown production. Cast: Don Ameche, Betty Grable, Robert Cummings, Charlotte Greenwood, Jack Haley, Carole Landis, Cobina Wright, Jr., Lynne Roberts, Robert Conway, George Lessey, Condos Brothers, Jack Cole and Company, Robert Greig, Minor Watson, Fortunio Bonanova, George Humbert, Spencer Charters, Mel Ruick. Directed by Walter Lang. Screen play, Vincent Lawrence and Brown Holmes. Adaptation, George Seaton and Lynn Starling. From play by Stephen Powys. Songs by Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger. Dances staged by Hermes Pan. Photographed in Technicolor, by Peverell Marley, Leon Shamroy, Allen M. Davey. Musical direction, Alfred Newman. Art director, Richard Day and Wiard B. Ihnen. Sets, Thomas Little. Film editor, Walter Thompson. Costumes, Travis Banton. Previewed at Alexander, Glendale, June 13. Running time: 92 mins.

For the average picture patron this piece of elegant filmusica will hit close to 100% entertainment satisfaction and will prosper accordingly. The array of names stack up invitingly. It displays its feminine allurements in the timeless traditions of the musical, keeps the triple-edged romantic equation well warmed, provides entrancing melody, is lush in the Technicolor graces of the gowns, the trappings, the beautiful backgrounds of the Florida spas and shore, and has a story sufficiently coherent to hold the amusement values in pattern and dialog which neatly punctuates the comedy.

This is Harry Joe Brown's first at 20th-Fox under his new producer arrangement, and it gets him a solid and precedental credit for a piece of sparkling diversion geared precisely to the popular favor.

The veteran players extend themselves in roles to their manifest liking — Don Ameche, Charlotte Greenwood, Jack Haley, Robert Cummings—and the newer ones do themselves proud in parts which boost them decisively. Betty Grable, Carole Landis, Cobina Wright, Jr., Ameche and Cummings are playboy buddies and rivals who become the targets for the more or less romantic and also mercenary assault by two girls from a Texas hamburger spot who are trying to kite a small inheritance into fortunate marriage, Betty Grable and Carole Landis. Their aunt, Miss Greenwood, poses as a maid. They take up elaborate quarters in Miami and start working on the rich husband prospects. The schemes backfire, but everything turns out filmusically dandy under the Miami moon when the right partners are finally oriented.

Walter Lang does a distinguished job of direction to assay all the values in the romantic, the musical and the spectacular phases of Vincent Lawrence's and Brown Holmes' sparkling screen play and George Seaton's and Lynn Starling's adaptation of a play by Stephen Powys.

Picture has an unusually fresh quality and a pictorial vividness

The Reluctant Dragon

RKO release of a Walt Disney production. This is another extension of Walt Disney's picture making media and methods, an interesting venture into the possibilities of combining cartoon animation with the live action of real personalities. In it Disney demonstrates the screen still has vast unexplored or barely touched territory of visual and oral entertainment. And it is not only appropriate but also a fascinating subject that the producer takes his own plant in Burbank as the background and structure for his adventure of 'The Reluctant Dragon'.

Disney's previous cartoon features, 'Snow White and the Seven Wwarfs' and 'Fantasia', have given exhibitors a gauge on the potential audiences for these venturesome film novelties. Every person who was entertained by these Technicolored animations can be counted on as definitely interested in the tricks of the cartoon craft. So it seems a smart stroke of showmanship and legitimate self-exploitation for Disney to have used his own shop, the haunt and cradle of Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck and all the other name animations, for his third cartoon-feature box office bid. And, incidentally, as against the more than a million which 'Snow White' and 'Fantasia' each cost, 'The Reluctant Dragon' was brought in for less than $500,000.

Robert Benchley tours the Disney studio. One phase of the entertainment is in what he sees and hears and learns, and his reactions to these studio phenomena. His wife, Nana Bryant, has sent him to sell Disney a story idea, a fable of a dragon. Benchley undertakes this distasteful job very reluctantly. Guided through the studio toward the producer's sanctum, Benchley makes detours into various departments to escape his preemptory young guide, Buddy Pepper. He blunders into the animation department, the sound studios, the camera rooms, the paint and chemical laboratory, the story creation sessions, picking up a very pretty employe en route, Frances Gifford. Technical miracles are unfolded for the audience's eyes

Conference Today On UA 400G Bid For Fairbanks Stock

Conference on probate law governing sale of property owned by an estate will take place this afternoon at 4 p.m. in Superior Judge Jess E. Stephens chambers, as the latest move around United Artists bid of $400,000 for the 4,000 shares of UA stock owned by the late Douglas Fairbanks. Sylvia Fairbanks and her attorney, Sol A. Rosenblatt, have planed in from New York to protest the sale of the Fairbanks stock, claiming UA's offer is too low.

Attorneys for the interested parties, United Artists, the Guaranty Trust, the Bank of America, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Robert Fairbanks, and the widow, Mrs. Fairbanks, will participate in today's confabs on points of law. United Artists bid came up for hearing last Monday before Judge Stephens, but Judge Isaac Pacht, representing Mrs. Fairbanks, obtained a postponement of sale until Wednesday at 11 a.m. to allow time for possible higher offers for the stock.

Harry Carey Accoladed On 33rd Film Biz Anni

Admitting that he did 'a little eyebrow acting now and then' and that the encomiums heaped upon him by other speakers were not true but that he's 'never going to tip them off, because that's part of the racket, too', Harry Carey proved himself a warm and generous host to some 300 friends at a celebration of his 33rd anniversary in motion pictures, staged Saturday afternoon at his Saugus ranch.

The actor was presented with a scroll signed by 500 top film people. Ralph Morgan made the presentation speech, followed by Betty Field, who gave Carey a watch from Paramount. Then his wife, Olive Carey (once his leading lady in films) and his son, Steven, and daughter, Ellen, gave him a beautiful painting of two of his favorite horses. Edwin Schallert, Los Angeles Times drama critic, was master of ceremonies.

'The best part of this business', Carey said in his brief response to the speeches, 'is the friends you make. Of course, when the paycheck is coming in regularly, you get a kind of dollar dignity. The weeks you don't get it, you've got your friends.

'I've had my share of success. It got this place for me. We had to homestead it and raise kids and calves and some other things. We've had fire, flood and short grass years, which came pretty close to having famine, too. I had a lot of great things to say,' he concluded, 'but I'm damned if I can remember them.'

On the thousand-acre ranch the guests danced, drank cocktails, ate enormous grilled steaks and watched reels from old pictures in which Carey, Charlie Chaplin, Clara Kimball Young, Richard Barthelmess, Edna Purviance, George Stewart, Harold Lloyd, Lillian Gish, William S. Hart, Gladys Hulette, Rudolf Valentino, Maurice Costello, Buster Keaton, Bebe Daniels, Victor McLaglen, Mary Pickford, Dolores Costello, Dolores Del Rio, Norma Shearer and other old-timers appeared. Some of the pioneer actors who came to the party included William Farnum, William Desmond, James Kirkwood, Jane and Eva Novak and Claire Windsor.

Preceding the ranch celebration there was a press preview of Paramount's 'The Shepherd of the Hills', in which Carey has a top role.

Among those who turned out also were Harry Sherman, Eddie Bracken, Esther Fernandez, Preston Foster, Margaret Hayes, Martha O'Driscoll, Dona Drake, Samuel S. Hinds, John Qualen, Duncan Renaldo, Frances Farmer, William Nigh, Monte Blue, Marjorie Main, Ella Neal, Frances Gifford, Virginia Dale and several score others.

Stauffer Leaving Y&R To Direct Radio For New York Agency

His successor here has not yet been appointed, but understood that Tom Lewis, now a Y & R radio exec in New York, may take over the local office so as to be with his wife, Loretta Young.

A graduate of West Point, Stauffer passed a year with the U. S. cavalry before going into the agency business. He joined Y & R in 1934 as producer of programs sponsored by General Foods, Bordens, Colgate, Packard and other accounts. D. O. Selznick Takes S. Barbara House For Summer Stock

David O. Selznick has taken over the Lobero theatre in Santa Barbara as a house of summer stock and intends to operate it in the tradition of eastern summer theatres. Under Selznick's supervision, John Houseman, his production associate in Selznick Productions, will be managing director.

Intention is that Hollywood talent, of both stage and screen, which has had to go east to refresh itself or get a change of pace during the summer months, calling for much loss of traveling time, will have ample opportunity to get local audience reaction. Selznick plans not only to give players adequate stage facilities, but to groom new young talent, to encourage screen writers who want to take a crack at writing plays, and established stage dramatists who seek tryouts.

Basic stock company will include Selznick's contract film players, but guest stars not under his contract also will be invited to work with Houseman. A leading New York stage director is to be assigned to work under Houseman. The Hollywood Summer Theatre, as it is to be called, will be available to entire film industry.

Present schedule calls for production of a play each, running a week, for Ingrid Bergman, Joan Fontaine, Vivien Leigh, if she returns from England in time, and Alan Marshall.

Part of the theatre plan is to uncover new plays for film material, but all plays must be submitted through regular agents to Val Lawton at the Selznick studio. But such plays, if by non-professional writers will not be considered for the first season of the project.

An eastern division of the Hollywood Summer Theatre will be in charge of Katharine Brown in the New York office of David O. Selznick Productions.

MAJORS FRAME PROTEST ON NEW INDIA IMPORT QUOTA

New York, June 15.—Major film companies in New York are framing a protest against the new import quota adopted by India which will restrict film product to 50% of the total shipped into that country during the previous year. New quota goes into effect Sept. 1 and the majors here will make their protest through the U. S. State Department.

Many of the foreign sales managers for the majors have no objection to the 75% restriction which India placed on American films over a year ago but protest that the new 50% measure is too severe. They say that a distributor who might have sent in 40 films during the 12-month period ending Oct. 30, would now be able to ship only 20.

Against those protesting are other foreign sales managers who favor the new quota in preference to the freezing of 50% of the money. They point out that the import law has the redeeming feature of permitting full withdrawal of money, while other nations are freezing most of the U. S. picture coin. New quota naturally means that distributors would import only the most important pictures and managers are inclined to believe features will return almost as much profit as under current regulations permitting a larger number of films.

India's 75% restriction will have been in effect 14 months by (30) and made the percentage operative on the number of pictures imported in the previous year.

Foreign sales chiefs reveal that U. S. distributors are getting only about 30% of their total revenue from the British Isles at present, the remainder staying in Great Britain under the prevailing frozen coin pact.

NBC'S BLUE SPARED AXE

Washington, June 15.—Constant harpooning of Federal Communications Commission has resulted in a postponement of the rules wiping out NBC's blue network. Hard-boiled regulators backed down to the extent that the chain's affiliate can keep going, as is, beyond the August deadline.

Under a barrage from the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, the reformers decided by a 4-0 vote, with one member not participating, that the present commandments would work a serious hardship on the industry. Solicitous regulators, accordingly, voted to make it clear to NBC that affiliates can renew their contracts, subject to the one-year limitation. New order stipulates that effective date of the rule forbidding any transmitter to affiliate with a chain company with more than one web can be postponed from time to time to make readjustments, under the second-thought action.

Revision of the Federal Communications Act but not postponement of the anti-monopoly regulations looked probable at the end of the second week's Commerce Commission's hearing to provide freer competition in broadcasting. Though few members have attended since the first couple of days, solons most interested in the question of radio regulations seem disposed toward clarification of the statute to remove doubts about the amount of authority given FCC. As far as the reform commandments are concerned, it looks as though the industry will have to go to the courts for help. Plea for more specific declaration of congressional policy was made by Commissioner T. A. M. Craven, leader of the two-man minority which yowled the regulations will lead to chaos and anarchy. Idea of overhauling the statute was applauded by Senator Wallace H. White of Maine, co-author of the original radio law and sponsor of a regulation requesting the comish to suspend the anti-monopoly rules.

While Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, the committee chairman, agreed the law isn't as clear as it ought to be, Craven warned that instead of curbing monopoly and helping the little stations, the regulations under fire are almost certain to make the rich richer and the poor poorer. Making it plain he thinks there are abuses and conditions needing correction, he insisted the majority has usurped power and gone a long way toward virtual government control over every phase of broadcasting. If the rules are upheld, there's almost nothing the regulators can't do, and Congress had better think twice before conferring such sweeping authority, the chief dissenter warned.

Regulations are tantamount to 'new legislation changing the pattern' of American radio, Craven declaimed. Majority group which imposed the rules has no idea what their effect will be, he charged, adding there was no full discussion and even one of the majority has serious doubts if it is in the public interest to forbid time optioning entirely. Congress ought to extend the provisions of the law requiring equal treatment for political candidates in order to meet complaints about unfairness in scheduling talks on controversial public questions, Craven told isolationist senators who have been complaining that radio is one-sided on the war issue. The comish cannot punish licensees without undertaking to censor broadcasts, he insisted, though Senator Wheeler argued every operator ought to be told by the regulators he must be impartial. Wheeler suggested stations which play favorites violate their promise to serve public interest.

Remarking the rules are 'the economic sword of 'Damoceles', Craven predicted the effect will be an emphasis on commercial programs to the point where incentive for developing sustainers will be eradicated. Mutual's support of the regulations, he opined, is due to the fact that the junior web is 'just a little hungrier because it is a late arrival at the feast.'

Political influence charges were bandied again when Mark Ethridge, operator of WHAS, Louisville, took the stand to explain the industry wants to be investigated now. Senator Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire earlier had quizzed Craven about wire-pulling, with the regulator saying he personally knew of no improprieties or favoritism. Ethridge repeated his St. Louis remarks about three cases where people friendly to the administration got special consideration, adding he does not allege corruption. One case involved a station owned by Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, he elaborated, but declined to go into detail because he lacked complete proof.

before the Interstate Commerce Commission, with a delegated spokesman from the Society charging NBC and CBS with acting as chief conspirators in a move to destroy not only Ascap but that section of the music industry affiliated with the Society. Board of directors will decide at a special meeting Monday whether to put this proposal into effect and who is to do the speaking before the Senate committee.

Ascap directors declared over the weekend that once the society files its intended suit, the action will stand and its calling off will not be made a condition of any contract that later may be entered into with the networks.

Writer-members of the board have named a nominating committee to present candidates for writer-member vacancies to the board. Nominating committee for the writers comprises Leo Robin, Howard Dietz, George Whiting, Jacques Wolfe, Jerry Livingston and John Redmond.

Odd-Reel Experimental Film About Ready For Selznick Start

David O. Selznick is about ready to produce the first of his odd-reel package entertainment experimental films as one attack upon the double feature situation. Under this project, a number of stories, each running anywhere from 500 to 5,000 feet in length, will be made as a group entity, with intention of selling them together in a total length of some 13,000 feet, or 3,000 feet shorter than the standard double feature. They are designed to constitute a complete balanced show, when supplemented by a newsreel.

First of the group production, Selznick states will be titled 'Tales of Mystery and Imagination', the second series 'Tales of Passion and Romance'. They will have all-star casts. The first are from the Edgar Allen Poe collection of tales, the rest have been selected from various sources. Each picture will be made for what it is actually worth, dramatically, Selznick says, without regard for previous standards of film footage.

New York, June 15.—Henry M. Propper, under a $1,000 bond, has been appointed receiver for the property of the Staatlich Genehmigte Gesellschaft Der Autoren, Komponisten Und Musikverleger, Austrian subsidiary of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, by Justice Samuel I. More than $100,000 in claims are on file with Ascap against its Austrian subsid, plaintiff asserts.

to turn thumbs down on the proposal because it provides for an 80 or 90% Guild shop instead of a closed shop, and does not include Art Babbitt in the agreement to reinstate all employes as of March 15. Disney, however, has agreed to appointment of a board of review to pass on the release of all workers necessary under a retrenchment policy. He also agreed to a secret ballot election by any unbiased party.

The SCG will not approve any settlement that does not call for a closed shop and reinstatement of all employes. It was pointed out that even under a closed shop union contract, the employer has the right to hire outside men necessary, with the understanding that they join the union within a specified time.

The stage for a compromise settlement was set at a conference Friday between Walt Disney, Bill Garrity, Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, and Harold V. Smith, business representative of Sound Technicians Local 695. Smith, who has been acting as a mediator in the strike, asked Casey to step into the picture as a representative of RKO to use his influence in trying to arrange an amicable settlement.

A meeting of all studio unions has been called for today to discuss the question of providing financial support for the strikers. The Screen Actors Guild has contributed $1,000, and indicated that further support will be given if necessary. Laboratory Technicians Local 683 voted $500. The Teamsters and other unions also have voted financial support.

If the deal is turned down today, a further mediation meeting is expected to be arranged by Smith, with Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644, representing the Screen Cartoonists Guild.

Exec Boards of 10 IA Locals Sesh On Federation

The joint executive boards of the 10 studio locals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes meet tonight at headquarters of the Makeup Artists to approve the Constitution and By-Laws of the new Federation of IATSE Locals. It was reported that a motion also might be offered requesting the resignation of Prexy George E. Browne, Willie Bioff and all appointed officers of the IATSE. One local has already made this request.

Negotiating committees representing the 10 locals meet with Pat Casey tomorrow to resume negotiations on standard conditions applying to all crafts. Casey is to discuss the demands with studio executives today to get their views before resuming his parley with the unionists.

The wages and conditions demands of the individual unions will not be taken up with the Producers until the standard conditions have been disposed of, at least as many as can be disposed of without going into the question of wages. These standard demands include minimum calls, computation of overtime, provisions for nearby and distant location, ratio of apprentices and helpers, cancellation of calls, etc. As soon as the individual demands are taken up, the Producers will submit counter proposals, which are certain to include an eigh-hour day instead of the current six hours.

Six Special Trains To 20th Confabs Here; Program Readied

Six special trains have been chartered to bring the 500 delegates and officials from all over the country for 20th-Fox's national sales convention here July 16, 17 and 18.

Company heads say this will be the most important business gathering in the history of 20th-Fox because complete plans for production and distribution under the government's consent decree will be set. Switch in convention plans, which previously had the meeting slated for Chicago, was to enable sales force to meet studio's new players, directors and producers and to go over properties recently purchased or in preparation.

Nine pictures are scheduled to be in production at the time of the convention, 'How Green Was My Valley', 'A Yank In the R.A.F.', 'Charley's Aunt', 'Wild Geese Calling', 'Belle Starr', 'Marry the Boss's Daughter', 'Riders of the Purple Sage', 'Men At Large', 'Weekend In Havana'.

William Scully, James Dewey Starkey and Frank Shaw will represent the assistant directors on the Screen Directors Guild board of directors. The members paid tribute to J. P. McGowan, SDG secretary, for his 'untiring work in arranging a book of credits for assistant directors which is indispensable to the membership and which now is being generally used by the Producers.'

AFM ADOPTS CAN MUSIC WRIT AT SEATTLE WINDUP

Seattle, June 15.—Resolution for immediate and aggressive steps toward a control of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. canned music situation was passed at the 46th annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians yesterday as business sessions wound up the conclave. Of the seven resolutions bearing on canned music, convention adopted one and referred the other six to the executive board.

Resolution okayed calls for the executive board to intercede with the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. to reduce the amount of records and transcriptions used on its networks, and to take whatever steps were necessary to increase the hiring of live musicians by the corporation.

Other six, in being referred to the board for action, however, came in for plenty of talk and all discussion of the canned music situation was greeted with the declaration that the AFM will take immediate steps toward some type of limited control so that the musicians of the nation will receive some recompense for the widespread and increasing use of records and electrical transcriptions for commercial purposes.

Outside of the passing of the resolution concerning the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., the AFM 46th annual convention failed to develop much of the expected fireworks. Among the chief actions was the reelection of all present international officers and members of the executive board, which, with a resolution approving all actions for the past year by President Petrillo, put a definite stamp of approval on present policies.

A small but vociferous minority fought for the passage of a resolution calling for the election of officers and approving of important matters by a referendum vote of the entire membership, but after several hours of debate the resolution was decisively defeated. A resolution calling for the itemized publication of all Federation salaries was passed overwhelmingly after much debate.

Other actions of the convention included the limiting of 'personal appearances' of traveling members until okayed by the local in whose jurisdiction the appearance occurs; and ruled that traveling bands or orchestras playing state and second class district fairs be restricted to their show engagements only, this to prevent multiple appearances which work against local musicians. Further regulation of traveling bands, termed the 'backbone of the Federation' by Advisor J. N. Weber, was defeated.

Two resolutions urging the retention by the Federal government of the WPA musical projects were passed, and the report of the WPA committee revealed that so far the musical projects have not suffered as great a reduction as other projects. The executive board was directed to continue the fight to include traveling musicians in old age pensions and social security laws. Present defense emergency was recognized by the passage of a resolution calling on all patriotic Americans to avoid industrial difficulty.

Delegates at the convention raised the salaries of the secretary and treasurer, and, not forgetting themselves, raised the per diem from $15 to $22.50, and gave themselves seven days for the convention.

Dallas, Texas, was chosen as the 1942 convention city.

SWG, Producers In Agreement; Guild Will Vote Tonight

dations would be practically certain to result in a favorable vote, since the membership has already expressed full confidence in its negotiating committee, and as a general rule follows the recommendations of the board. The proposals were discussed at a meeting of the negotiations committee and executive board Saturday, at which time a call for the general meeting was broadcast.

It is understood that the proposal provides for a minimum wage of $125 per week instead of the original $50 offered by the Producers. The proposed deal also would prohibit all flat deals for less than $1,500. The deal would be a long term contract, probably seven or eight years, but with a proviso for reopening on certain points yearly, as in the case of contracts between the Producers and the Screen Actors Guild and Screen Directors Guild.

It is understood that both sides have agreed it would be next to impossible to set a definite line of demarcation as to material written by a writer during his layoff period. The writers have been insisting on sole ownership of all such material, but it was pointed out it would be difficult to determine just when the story idea was conceived, although it might be actually written during a layoff period.

It was said the Guild is to be given control of screen credits, full protection of story ideas offered by scriveners, notification of all writers assigned to story, virtual Guild shop, etc. The deal was negotiated by a committee headed by Prexy Sheridan Gibney. Other members of the committee include Sidney Buchman, Mary C. McCall, J., Dwight Taylor, Ralph Block, John Howard Lawson and Dore Schary.

2 H'D ARMY SHOWS TERMED GREATEST GOODWILL TREK

for show business yet to be presented.

Major-General Charles P. Thompson, at Camp Hunter Liggett, one of the U. S. Army's ablest public relations officers, said it constituted the highest type of public service the motion picture industry could contribute to national defense.

On Saturday the doughboys at Camp Hunter Liggett started tramping into the Amphitheatre, dusty and tired from field maneuvers, at around 1 p.m. and waited patiently until 4 p.m. for the show to start.

Approximately 22,000 of the 35,000 boys at Liggett Saturday and 15,000 of the 22,000 at Fort Ord today, shouted, whistled and cheered themselves hoarse during the two hours and 10 minutes of the costliest star lineup yet presented in an army camp. When the show was over, thousands of soldiers stood silently on the dust-covered hillsides to give the show people the right-of-way to Del Monte. It was a slick, showmanly, evenly balanced big time production with Jack Benny, George Jessel, Burns and Allen, Claudette Colbert, Marlene Dietrich, the Ritz Brothers, Ray Bolger, Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Carole Landis, Virginia O'Brien, Franklin D'Armour, the Navy Blues Sextette, Nat Young's orchestra. Packed with glamour femmes, swell music, ace comics, the show ran off like clockwork.

In terms of coin the talent could scarcely be assembled on any single bill, Uncle Sam excepted.

Jack Benny, suffering a slight flu attack and running a temperature Saturday morning, would likely have cancelled a commercial engagement under the circumstances.

It cost about $5,000 to finance the trek, with the Hollywood agents and producers putting up the coin to pay for transportation and accommodations at the swank Del Monte hostelry, pending establishment of a fund to reimburse or take care of such expenditures in the future.

Jack Benny, accompanied by Mary Livingstone, headed the star-studded cast presented by the Motion Picture Committee for Talent and Camp Recreation. With Benny indisposed, George Jessel was drafted at the last minute to pinch-hit as master of ceremonies and divided the assignment as Benny recovered sufficiently to go on later. Both Jessel and Benny were in top form. For the men in uniform it was a most memorable day of an army career.

Symbolic of camp reaction was a buck private, admittedly A.W.O.L., who preferred to take a chance of getting 60 days in the guard house rather than miss the show.

Mark Sandrich directed the production and was aided by Bill Morrow on the script.

'Manila' For Powell

'I'll Take Manila' will be Eleanor Powell's dancing starrer at Metro, to be directed by Eddie Buzzell as a Jack Cummings production. Miss Powell is in rehearsal for a bull-fight dance under guidance of Dr. Alfonso Gaona, matador from Mexico City.

The Shepherd of the Hills

nizes the resemblance between Wayne and Carey. Wayne tries to get his rifle to kill Carey and end the curse he believes is on his family. Lawrence grabs it and runs to throw it over a cliff. In front of the horrified villagers, Miss Bondi wrestles with the mute for the gun and, in the struggle, wounds him. Later she makes a funeral pyre of her cabin, dying in the flames with her dead son. Wayne goes to the lonely meadow to kill Carey. Miss Field tries to stop him, warning him that he will murder her love for him, too, if he shoots Carey. The power of the curse is too strong. But, as Wayne lifts his gun, Carey shoots him first, to save the son from patricide. Doctors from the city keep him alive and Wayne recovers fully when he learns that Carey had been missing for so many years because he was serving a prison term for killing a man and not because he wanted to desert his wife and baby.

Seldom has a picture been so well cast as this one. Wayne's role fits his talents perfectly. He is a splendid actor. Miss Field is superb. Carrence, as the mute, is standout. Marjorie Main also is excellent.

The best of support is given by James Barton, Samuel S. Hinds, Ward Bond, John Qualen, Fuzzy Knight, Tom Fadden, Olin Howland, Dorothy Adams, Virita Campbell and Fern Emmett.

Henry Hathaway's ability as a director was never more brilliantly demonstrated than in this picture. Jack Moss proves that he ranks among the industry's top producers. The color photography is fine. Charles Lang, Jr., and W. Howard Greene, working with Natalie Kalmus, Henry Jaffa, Hans Dreier, Roland Anderson and Ellsworth have made a picture of poignant beauty.

Musical score by Gerard Carbonara is excellent.

It will take some great picture, during the rest of the year, to prevent 'The Shepherd of the Hills' from knocking over some of the 1941 Academy awards.

Moon Over Miami

which utilizes for best results the Florida backgrounds and underwater vistas from diving bells at Silver Springs and the Cypress Gardens used for the spectacular puddle jumping race which is an outstanding feature.

The camera work by Peverell Marley, Leon Shamroy and Allen M. Davey has not been excelled for clarity and lensworthiness, with many scenes more nearly approaching the third-dimensional illusion than anything recalled by this reviewer.

Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger again justify their long cleffing fellowship with a generous contribution of lilting and persuasive songs which run from tender ballad to fierce and riotuous congas, as in 'The Kindergarten Conga', a beguiling novelty. Titles of the others, suggestive, are 'Hurrah for Today', 'Miami', 'I've Got You All to Myself', 'Loveliness and Love', 'You Started Something', 'It That Good?' and 'Solitary Seminole', a spectacular Seminole Indian number in ensemble.

Ameche, Miss Grable, Jack Haley, Miss Greenwood all do their share of warbling, and effectively for their individual assignments. Ameche and Miss Grable pair off; Cummings and Carole Landis; Miss Greenwood and Jack Haley. The love scenes are superbly directed by Lang and emotionally socked by the four chiefly involved. Miss Landis, particularly, takes a long stride ahead, showing poise, dignity, sincerity and acting skill which will carry her far if properly handled. Others in the cast showing effectively are Lynne Roberts, Robert Conway, George Lassey, as the debonair father of Robert Cummings; the Condon Brothers and Jack Cole & Company in specialties, Robert Grieg, Minor Watson, Fortunio Bonanova.

The Reluctant Dragon

through Benchley's inquiries.

A second phase of the entertainment is the several animation stories reeled off for Benchley. A brief and hilarious one is the fierce ride of a personified train. An elaborate one is about 'Baby Weems', the prodigy who spoke at the age of two days and set the world topsy-turvy.

Fiction phase climaxes in the fable of The Reluctant Dragon, a soft-hearted, poetic monster, who, like Ferdinand the Bull, prefers flowers, etc. Billy Lee, an eager young tyke of a harassed village where a dragon slayer, The Knight, is a great hero, brings the two together. They stage a terrific and spectacular battle to satisfy the public, then exchange poetic lore in peace. This dragon-knight encounter is one of Disney's best pieces of creative animation. The voices of the knight (Claud Allister) and the dragon (Barnett Parker) add greatly to the fabulous amusement.

Kenneth Grahame contrived the story basis, a deft piece of literary-pictorial designing. In the 'Dragon' sequence, Ed Penner and T. Hee did the story; for the 'Baby Weems' sequence, Joe Grant, Dick Huemer and John Miller.

Screenplay is by Ted Sears, Al Perkins, Larry Clemmons, Bill Cottrell and Harry Clork, a superior assembly of many nicely integrated elements.

Alfred Werker brought sympathetic and artistic understanding and excellent workmanship to the direction of the studio sequences. Cartoon sequences had Hamilton Luske as director, with Jim Handley, Ford Beebe, Jr., and Erwin Verity as assistants.

Bert Glennon handled the dramatic camera, and Winton Hoch directed the Technicolor photography, with Natalie Kalmus as color director. Gordon Wiles, Ken Anderson, Hugh Hennesy and Charles Philippi share the splendid art direction. Ub Iwerks and Josh Meador did the special effects.

Clarence Nash, the voice of Donald Duck, and Florence Gill, the voice of Clara Cluck, score in a quack-wacky duet. Frank Churchill and Larry Morey provided the excellent music score.

Please accept my appreciation and thanks—

Looking back on my thirty three years in motion pictures they prove to have been happy ones mostly because your cooperation helped me through the good years and your friendship and loyalty through the bad ones.

Hollywood Inside

SMALL town indie exhibitor is nursing a peeve against one of the smaller distributing organizations, contending that after he had booked one of the company's better pictures, and had already advertised it, booking was cancelled arbitrarily in order to permit a larger account in a different town first opportunity to screen it. First exhib feels particularly chagrined because he contends the company in question was built to its present strong position solely through small-town exhib business, and says he sees no good reason why the picture in question should be yanked from his house simply because another exhib, some distance away, is in position to pay a higher film rental, thus forcing him to break faith with his customers after his programs had been printed and distributed.

IN RESPONSE to suggestions received since David O. Selznick announced that he would operate the Lobero theatre in Santa Barbara this summer as a Strawhatter for Hollywood and guest talent, Selznick yesterday decided that any successful play tried out there will be trouped east in time for fall production on Broadway. Selznick would naturally finance the production. Play would be trouped across country, instead of going directly to Broadway, to give time and test audiences to iron out any faults. This doesn't mean, Selznick said yesterday before leaving for New York, that guest star who appears in the Santa Barbara production necessarily will head the cast east. Entire recasting might be made for the New York production.

ARBITRATOR HERBERT CAMERON, sitting in judgment on the first motion picture controversy brought before the American Arbitration Association, that of O. C. Lewis of San Gabriel against major distributors, is expected to hand down a written decision which will probably take 10 days or two weeks to prepare. Defendants introduced testimony last weekend by which they hope to blast Lewis' contention that he is entitled to a revised clearance for his Mission theatre in San Gabriel, and issue now rests solely with the AAA arbitrator. Outcome of this first case is expected by interested parties to have a bearing on future clearance actions tried before the association.

MYSTERIOUS reason for sound recording that wasn't up to standard on the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy pictures was solved the other day at RKO, where the ventriloquist and his dummy are working. As in previous pictures the sound seemed to fade a bit now and then. Finally, it was determined that the mike boom, when Charlie McCarthy's lines were being spoken, was shifted away from Bergen and then back to Bergen when he addressed Charlie. Now they leave the mike in front of Bergen all the time. Works fine.

Another Selznick innovation is the idea of producing pictures of varying footage according to their literary values, a direct violation of the Hollywood code that drama is divided into two classes — feature lengths and shorties. The Parson of Panamint

(Drama)

Paramount release. Stars Charles Ruggles, Ellen Drew, Phillip Terry, with Joseph Schildkraut, Porter Hall, Henry Kolker, Janet Beecher, Clem Bevans, Douglas Fowley, Paul Hurst, Minor Watson, Frank Puglia, Harry Hayden, Russell Hicks. Director, William McGann. Producer, Harry Sherman. Associate producer, Lewis J. Rachmil. Screenplay, Harold Shumate and Adrian Scott, based on the novel by Peter B. Kyne. Photography, Russell Harlan. Art director, Ralph Berger. Assistant director, John Sherwood. Wardrobe, Earl Moser. Film editor, Sherman A. Rose. Associate film editor, Carroll Lewis. Sound, Charles Althouse. Set decorations, Emile Kuri. Musical direction, Irvin Talbot. Music score, John Leipold. Previewed June 16. Running time: 84 mins.

Intensely moving and human drama is Peter B. Kyne's story of a fighting parson as brought to the screen by Harry Sherman. In every department it reflects the utmost use of technical advantage and talent and carries an audience appeal far beyond that usually associated with dramas laid in the mining towns of the old, gold-hungry west.

Its story has been seen on the screen before, but so well have scripters Harold Shumate and Adrian Scott built the screen play from the Kyne novel that there is a freshness and a tight-moving continuity that holds close attention. The story concerns a young parson, brought into a rowdy mining camp to spread the gospel, his struggles with the respectable elements, and the wicked, his trial for an accidental killing and near lynching, and the fading of the town's glory when the gold which was its life is gone.

Charlie Ruggles scores a perfect job as the old prospector who tells the town's story in flashback, with himself as one of the principals. Ruggles has never been seen to more advantage. Ellen Drew is the dance hall singer saved by the parson, and brings spirit, beauty and talent to the role, in addition to a standout vocalizing of 'Rock of Ages'. Phillip Terry fulfills all the promise he has shown in previous Paramount assignments as the young parson, gifting the character with an understanding, intelligent delineation.

The smaller parts are filled by a troupe of players who make their footage stand out. Joseph Schildkraut, swell as the gambler. Porter Hall, great as a crooked, but respectable mine operator. Henry Kolker, the pious judge. Janet Beecher, helper to the parson. Clem Bevans, a delight as the liquor-soaked cook. Paul Hurst, Douglas Fowley, Minor Watson, Frank Puglia, in an unusually good spot, Harry Hayden and Russell Hicks are among those who add importance to their parts.

William McGann's direction captures the spirit of Kyne's writing and enthuses the players to earn himself a top credit. Lewis J. Rachmil, as associate producer to Sherman, shares in the showmanly honors. Russell Harlan's photography adds considerable to the story; the film editing has been wisely performed, and the musical background socks over every dramatic point.

Hogan Does 'Port'

Michael Hogan has been signed at Paramount to do a polish chore on the screenplay of 'Channel Port'.

No Greater Sin

(Melodrama)

University Films production, presented by Edward A. Golden. States Rights release. Cast: Leon Ames, Luana Walters, Malcolm McTaggart, Adele Pierce, John Gallaudet, Guy Usher, Bodil Ann Rosing, Henry Roquemore, Frank Jaquet, Tristram Coffin, Lee Shumway, William Gould, Adelaide Whytal, J. Arthur Young, Jessie Arnold, Rolf Harolde. Producer, Jeffrey Bernerd. Director, William Nigh. Original story, Mary Ransone. Screenplay, Michael Jacoby. Film editor, Robert Golden. Phitography, Harry Neumann. Previewed June 16. Running time: 81 mins.

This is chiefly a vociferous preachment against neglecting the cure and prevention of venereal disease, embellished with a thin coating of dramaturgy to make the theme palatable. It can, however, be considered a topical contribution at this time, for the story revolves about deplorable conditions existing near an army camp and a small town whose population has been swollen away above normal by heavily increased defense work in the factories. The sociological importance of the subject dealt with, combined with public curiosity and interest in a problem which has been clouded in ignorance, overshadows the mild dramatic content of the production. Aside from a powerful courtroom sequence, it's a conventional recital about a young man, suffering from syphilis, who goes to a quack doctor for relief in order to effect a cure before his impending marriage. He gives up all his savings for medical fees. After marriage, with a baby coming, the boy discovers he has been duped; he had not been cured; and that he has unwittingly infected his wife. He kills the quack who imperiled his happiness, and rather than offer any testimony in his own defense which would necessitate revealing the nature of his own and his wife's affliction in public, prefers to accept the death penalty.

There is the inevitable struggle by friends to eliminate the sense of false shame and the boy finally comes through with the truth, bringing about an acquittal.

A film of this kind, tieing in pointedly with the defense effort and the additionally grave menace to the health of both army and civilian defense workers at this time, may well serve to awaken public opinion in many communities. The picture calls for open treatment of the probelm and stresses the dangers inherent in refusing to recognize it openly through a sense of hypocritical modesty. It's a finger-pointing crusade rather than entertainment, and a bit overlong for the spots intended for.

Several members of the cast contribute excellent performances, notably Leon Ames, as the cleanup health commissioner, Malcolm McTaggart, the male lead, Adele Pierce, as the wife, Rolf Harolde, as the vice king, and Luana Walters. Others in support are adequate.

Mickey Black Better

Report from Baltimore is that Mickey Black underwent a second operation by Dr. Walter E. Danby, noted brain specialist, at Johns Hopkins yesterday, with patient in fine shape last night.

D. O. Selznick Planes East on Capra Product Setup

Conference, as well, is scheduled with Henry Luce, prominent in United China Relief, for which Selznick is chairman of Hollywood division.

FAIRBANKS, UA TRIAL UP (23)

ney Sol Rosenblatt, acting for the widow, Mrs. Sylvia Fairbanks, protested the UA bid on the grounds that it was an inadequate amount of money for the stock, and claimed that offer was a private one between the Guaranty Trust, Bank of America and United Artists. Rosenblatt asserted that the UA by-laws provide for the sale of a UA owner's stock at the book value plus 25%.

Rosenblatt claimed that the Fairbanks stock was worth from $800,000 to $1,250,000, against the UA offer to purchase at $100 per share, or $400,000. Attorney stated that, basing its value on the company's earnings for the past five years, it would be worth around $1,250,000, while basing it on dividends, plus 25%, would give it a value of $875,000, and that UA's earnings for the past year made the stock worth at least $800,000.

Trial had originally been set for tomorrow in probate court, but new developments caused it to be put over to Monday.

full Guild shop, and reinstatement of all employes as of May 15. The Disney offer called for an 80 or 90% Guild shop, and return of all workers except Art Babbitt, chairman of the Disney unit of the SCG. Both sides have already agreed to appointment of an arbitration board to pass on all dismissals under the retrenchment plan of the studio.

In the counter proposal it was pointed out that Disney would have the right to hire outside creative artists even with a full Guild shop. The only requirement would be that the artist join the Guild within a specified time if he remained in the employ of the company. This provision is incorporated in all union and guild contracts.

A committee to work out a program of financial support for the striking cartoonists was named yesterday at a meeting of business representatives of 20 studio guilds and unions. Members of the committee are Dave Lory, Laboratory Technicians Local 683; Joseph Tuohy, Studio Transportation Drivers Local 399; Pat Somerset, Screen Actors Guild; L. C. Smith was in contact with Walt Disney last night, and it was believed that suggestions of Smith and Pat Casey, Producer labor contact, would eventually result in an amicable settlement. The SCG has expressed a willingness to participate in an election by the National Labor Relations Board, but the NLRB cannot act on such an election so long as charges remain on file in the Disney case. If an agreement is reached on other points, however, these charges could be withdrawn.

Lease-Lend Can Help Pix

tively small amounts brought out under the two United States Embassy agreements, is frozen in England.

PICTURES produced with American dollars form the backbone of the supply used in the English theatres. In order to keep up the morale of the English during this terrible crisis, entertainment is needed even more so than it has been in the past. Consequently, the film industry should be able to see that some of those billions of dollars that are being disbursed under the Lease-Lend bill should reach it, without penalty or cost to the English government.

The industry, therefore, should consolidate in a united effort to secure from the Lease-Lend fund an amount at least equal to its rightful currency that now is frozen in England.

EVERY company, big and small, needs this money. The independent producer needs it particularly, because he must finance his future production, and cannot wait indefinitely for it until the freeze is over, without virtually wrecking his economic structure and possibly going out of business. For the banks that have been loaning production money on so-called residual values are gradually reaching the point where they will not advance any coin on foreign residuals.

There also are blocked currency conditions in many of the South American countries, as well as nothing being forthcoming from the Axis-controlled nations; but it is English money that represents the big blocked money.

CONSEQUENTLY, a concerted drive should be made by the industry through the Lease-Lend bill to get most, if not all, of blocked coin in England, through an arrangement whereby the Motion Picture industry could get from the United States government in dollars, on the $4.00 to a pound basis, all frozen pounds. Then each of the English distributing agents of the American film companies could turn over to the British government all blocked or frozen pounds for which the dollars are paid out in this country.

Now is the time to take that action, before all of the Lease-Lend coin is doled out, and should the move prove successful the industry would be able to carry on and turn out bigger and better entertainment to help bolster the world during these trying times and stress.

fixed at $125 per week after the contract has been in force for one year.

The minimum employment period for writers on a week-to-week basis and receiving up to $250 per week, will be two weeks. For those receiving more than $250 per week but less than $500, the minimum employment period will be one week.

For writers employed on 26 to 52 weeks' contract the layoff periods shall be in blocks of not less than three weeks, except when the layoff occurs at the end of the contract term.

CONTRACT PROVISIONS

The contract provides for appointment of a committee for conciliation and revision of the agreement, but its powers shall be limited to settlement of differences between the Producers and the Guild on provisions definitely included in the basic contract.

The right to arbitration is granted, with a proviso that the arbitrator shall be somebody other than the American Arbitration Society. It is understood the Producers objected to the selection of the Society.

Writers employed on a week-to-week basis and receiving $500 per week or less shall be entitled to one week's notice of contract cancellation if they have been employed for eight weeks. If they have been employed for 52 weeks the notice period of cancellation shall be two weeks.

The first option period for writers shall be at the end of three months, the second and third at the end of six months, and thereafter one year. This does not apply to options to do another picture, nor if the writer himself wants an extended layoff.

The Producers agreed to supply the writer with two copies of his contract, so that one may be filed with the Guild. Requests of the writers for separate contracts for studio, screen and radio work was denied.

$125 FOR ALL WRITERS

A minimum wage of $125 per week for all writers, including shorts, was agreed upon, to become effective within one year after signing the contract. In the meantime, any writer who has worked 52 weeks in the industry prior to signing of the contract will be immediately entitled to a minimum of $75 per week. Any writer who has worked 52 weeks in the industry prior to signing of the contract and has at least one screen credit shall be entitled to a minimum of $100 per week immediately. Any writer employed in the industry, but who has not worked 52 weeks, shall be credited with 50% of his employment time to be applied on the one-year writing period and he shall be entitled to a minimum of $75. Writers under contract will not be affected by the minimums.

The contingent payment clause was granted by the Producers in principle, provided payment is dependent upon the material being written at request of the Producers.

All flat deals for features under $1,500 are ruled out. Flat deals for westerns and action pictures must be for not less than $1,000. No minimum is fixed for flat deals for shorts except that they must not be for less than the minimum wage scale. There will be two option periods for flat deals, rather than three. One-third payment will be made upon submission of the treatment and the remainder on the acceptance of the story.

Vacations with pay were denied for writers receiving up to $200 per week, but it was agreed this question could be opened for arbitration at the end of three years. It also was agreed that a writer upon request must be notified of any other writers assigned to the same story he is working on.

Extra expenses for location work will be granted. The SWG is given the right to allocate screen credits, and is recognized as the sole bargaining representative for all writers in California.

REOPENING ANGLE

The seven year pact is subject to reopening after the first three years and thereafter at intervals of two years, for the question of revising flat deals, minimum wage and vacations with pay.

A standing committee is to be appointed by the two groups to handle any revisions in the screen credits that may come up.

It also was agreed that writers employed at a studio will have the right to attend sneak previews of pictures he has worked on.

The ownership of material written during layoff periods is not included in the contract, the Producers taking the position that there was no way of definitely determining whether the story was conceived when the writer was employed or while he was on layoff.

Action of the SWG of accepting the proposals eliminates any possibility of a writer strike. Attorneys for the Producers will now begin reducing the various provisions to contract form. It will then be submitted to counsel for approval before the two groups officially sign.

Print Situation Easing Up Here On F-WC Move

Print situation is starting to ease up substantially in many of the local film exchanges, due to embargo on tagging recently set up by Fox West Coast. As a result a number of the distributing organizations are already starting to get extra prints on some of their outstanding pictures, and more are expected to follow suit during the next few months.

F-WC has decreed that hereafter tagging or bicycling of prints will cease so far as their theatres are concerned. Ultimatum issued by the circuit puts it squarely up to the various exchanges to supply a sufficient number of prints to take care of bookings, and will put an end to the practice of tagging one print between two or three theatres, as has been done hereabouts for a number of years.

Under the new setup it is the plan of F-WC to have a sufficient number of prints from the exchanges to take care of all bookings, and each house is to be provided with an individual print, thereby eliminating the time, worry and expense caused by bicycling between houses, sometimes five miles or more apart.

RETROACTIVE PAY MULLED BY EXECS, LABOR TOPS

Major studio executives and attorneys spent several hours last night discussing methods of arriving at the amount of retroactive pay due hundreds of film workers since the Wage-Hour Law became effective in 1938. Pat Casey and Fred Pelton, Producer labor contacts, sat in on the huddle. While company auditors already are checking the payrolls, there has been some difference of opinion as to what period constitutes a work week, how to compute the time of an employe who works part of a week on location and the remainder at a studio, etc.

HINT COURT ACTION IF PARLEY FAILS

Joint negotiating committees representing 10,000 film technicians in the 10 studio locals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes last night turned thumbs down on the requests of Producers for an eight-hour day, five-day week. It was stated that when negotiations are resumed today with Pat Casey and Fred Pelton, Producer labor contacts, the unions will insist on retaining the current six-hour day and will demand a minimum six-hour call.

The unionists branded the eight-hour day proposal as a move by

Washington, June 18.—Insinuations that Columbia and NBC are footie-footie provoked an irate complaint today from Niles Trammell, NBC president, who told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee the Federal Communications Commission's anti-monopoly rules threaten 'the worst domination' that could be inflicted on radio. Order directing NBC to unload the Blue web will deprive the public of many valuable programs and jeopardize the company's entire operating structure, Trammel yelped. Idea that anybody

Hollywood Inside

ORSON WELLES, in one of his few recent appearances, yesterday was guest speaker before the Hollywood Women's Press Club at the Vine Street Brown Derby, and took a few hefty swings at producers and agents. 'The agent', Welles said, 'takes 10 per cent from the actor, then he goes to the producer and tries to intimidate him. Nothing happens. Who could intimidate a producer around Hollywood? Or the agent insults the producer. Then you're worse off than ever.' Speaker said that 'producers are the silent men who have nothing to say. In other words, they produce pear-shaped tones.' Welles declared that the theatre is dying and that the films would be all right if the medium was returned to writers, directors and technicians. Sidelight of the meeting was that Peggy McEvoy, member of the Club, brought her husband, J. P. McEvoy, along as a guest. Meetings are supposed to be strictly for the gals, but McEvoy brazened it out, taking notes as Welles spoke. Club leaders talk darkly of punitive action against Mrs. McEvoy, as their meetings bar attendance of all journalists in a professional capacity.

ICE SKATERS in the roadshow company of 'Ice-Capades', which Republic is filming as a special production, didn't lose any time to get wise to Hollywood angles. Studio had planned an elaborate set on which the chorus skaters would come sliding down a high chute on to the rink, along with Dorothy Lewis and other principals and specialty acts. Chorus skaters said it would be all right with them—if the studio kicked through with stuntmen pay checks. Production number ended up with the principals and specialties only sliding down the chute while the chorus made their appearance from the wings.

Underground

(Melodrama)

Warners production. Features Jeffrey Lynn, Philip Dorn, Kaaren Verne, with Mona Maris, Peter Whitney, Martin Kosleck. Supporting players: Erwin Kalser, Ilka Gruning, Frank Reicher, Egon Brecher, Ludwig Stossel, Hans Schumm, Wolfgang Zilzer, Roland Varno, Henry Brandon, Lotte Palfi, Lisa Golm, Louis Arco, Roland Drew. Director, Vincent Sherman. Associate producer, William Jacobs. Screenplay, Charles Grayson. Story, Edwin Justus Mayer and Oliver H. P. Garrett. Photography, Sid Hickox. Art director, Charles Novi. Film editor, Thomas Pratt. Sound, Charles Lang. Gowns, Damon Giffard. Music, Adolph Deutsch. Musical director, Leo F. Forbstein. Assistant director, Bill Kissel. Jack L. Warner in charge of production. Previewed June 18. Running time: 94 mins.

'Underground' is harsh and heavy melodrama, spun at a gripping pace as it unfolds the brave exploits of a small band of patriots, working under cover to upset National Socialism in Nazi Germany. A finely-told picture in every respect. Its box office fate will depend upon the entertainment mood of the theatre patrons and the careful execution of its exploitation possibilities, but none who see it will be unmoved by the intense, often shocking, dramatic contents so tellingly developed in writing, direction and playing.

Its story, scripted by Charles Grayson from the original by Edwin Justus Mayer and Oliver H. P. Garrett, deals with two brothers, one a loyal party member, minus an arm after action at Dunkirk, and the other the chief of underground activities. Each exploit and escape of the secret band is vividly etched on the screen without forced propaganda speiling. The climax comes when the loyal brother unknowingly turns in his kin to save a femme member of the small band, with whom he is in love. When the impact of his deed strikes home, he takes his brother's place to help carry on the work of saving Germany.

Jeffrey Lynn, the loyal party member, gives his talent rating new importance in his assignment, Philip Dorn demonstrates the utmost skill of voice and expression as the other brother. Kaaren Verne is an appealing femme member of the small band whose tragic love for Lynn brings down disaster on Dorn and the boys' family. Mona Maris intelligently portrays her role as secret helper of the patriots, as does Peter Whitney, the tragic 'Alex'. Martin Kosleck achieves perfect despicableness as the Gestapo officer.

Each of the supporting players are wisely chosen contributors, earning themselves top credits. Among these are Erwin Kalser, Ilka Gruning, Frank Reicher, Egon Brecher, Ludwig Stossel, Hans Schumm and Wolfgang Zilzer.

Vincent Sherman has imparted every phase of human drama in his direction, a distinguished credit. Sid Hickox's camera adds to every mood. The film editing by Thomas Pratt; the music by Adolph Deutsch and its direction by Leo F. Forbstein, and the art direction by Charles Novi are major factors. William Jacobs fulfills the associate producer spot with a creditable production, flawlessly executed.

The Medico of Painted Springs

(Western)

Columbia production. Stars Charles Starrett. Supporting cast: Terry Walker, Ben Taggart, Ray Bennett, Wheeler Oakman, Richard Fiske, Edmund Cobb, Edythe Elliott, Bud Osborne, Steve Clark, Charles Hamilton, George Chesebro, and the Simp-Phonies. Produced by Jack Fier. Directed by Lambert Hillyer. Screenplay by Winston Miller and Wyndham Gittens. Story by Wyndham Gittens. Based on book by James L. Rubel. Photography, Benjamin Kline. Film editor, Mel Thorsen. Previewed June 18. Running time: 59 mins.

Columbia launches its new Charles Starrett starring series with an excellent fighting western. Introduced is the interesting character of the young frontier doctor of Painted Springs, taken from the book of James L. Rubel, and developed for the screen by Wyndham Gittens and Winston Miller in a sound, substantial and colorful script. The initial offering, ably headlined by Starrett and supported by a thoroughly competent cast, sets up the expectancy for more of the same, which must be evident for any series which is to survive. Jack Fier as the producer gives the picture a quality and an entertainment value which will score a hit wherever westerns are in demand.

Starrett's role is given a reflective timeliness in that his first job, upon reaching the range community where he sets up practice, is the examination of recruits for the Rough Riders division for the Spanish-American war. He gets caught in the middle of a cattlemen and sheepmen war, fomented by a band of rustlers who expect to profit by the counter attacks of range neighbors. The boss cattleman's daughter, Terry Walker, provides the required note of romantic interest, with a range foreman, played by Richard Fiske, in the complementary role as a jealous enemy of the young doc, which finally turns to friendship when fist and gun battles are over and Starrett has saved his life. Miss Walker is pleasant to look at and does her riding and acting chores with crisp, blonde freshness. Ben Taggart is the girl's father. Every other member of the cast also performs ably: Ray Bennett, Wheeler Oakman (a carefully characterized heavy), Edmund Cobb, Edythe Elliott, Bud Osborne, Steve Clark, Charles Hamilton, George Chesebro. The sum total of their playing spells an unusual credibility for an action western.

Lambert Hillyer does his practiced job with the direction, giving the film that touch of distinction which labels all his western melodramas, lifting them always well above average of similar offerings.

The Simp-Phonies, a singing-string orchestra combination, chant one of the most promising western ballads heard in many moons, 'Lonely Rangelands', written by Enright (Hy) Busse. Camera of Benjamin Kline catches some mighty pretty scenery and does full justice to the violent action.

BEST DRESSED GAL OF THE WEEK—

Irene Dunne, lunching at the Hollywood Brown Derby, in a grey-brown light weight wool suit with stitched pleats all around the skirt and a buttoned all the way up long jacket. Her shoes and bag were brown sealskin and her hat, veil and gloves, surprisingly enough, sunny white. On her suit lapel she wore her stunning six-inch-long cascade clip of canary and blue white diamonds, while on her finger was the large canary diamond her husband, Dr. Francis Griffin, had just given her as a tenth wedding anniversary memento.

MARY BURGESS, who made her bid for a role in Cecil B. DeMille's 'Reap the Wild Wind' by setting up a 'picketing' auto cruiser in parking lot across from the Paramount studio, and who got the coveted spot, yesterday was revealed as sister of the late Helen Burgess, DeMille screen protege who died of pneumonia in 1936. During a long campaign around studios to get a screen foothold, she did not reveal her relationship and was never given a break until yesterday. She may also get a junior player contract. . . American Legion's Loyalty Day will be observed here tomorrow with all civic, educational and patriotic organizations participating. Loyalty-Unity pledges being distributed by the Legion to be signed and deposited at any picture theatre in the city. Pledge reads 'I pledge myself to support and uphold the government of the United States of America in this present emergency.' All cards will be mailed to President Roosevelt.

RKO Trade Showings Of First Block Week of July 7

New York, June 18.—RKO will hold trade showings of its first block of five pictures at each exchange city the week of July 7, and selling under the consent decree will be started immediately afterward. Date of company's first trade showings was announced by Andy Smith, sales manager, yesterday at the 10th annual convention, who said each picture will be given a classification and that the sales staff is already acquainted with the plan for selling the initial five. Details now are being worked out in the field by salesmen, branch and district managers.

Smith also announced deals whereby the March of Time is booked to play the Balaban & Katz circuit in Chicago, and for 'The Reluctant Dragon' to play the Canadian-Famous Players circuit.

Joseph I. Breen was introduced by George J. Schaefer, who told convention delegates that Breen will be general manager in charge of the studio under his now contract, and also would be elected executive vice-president in charge of production at the next meeting of the board of directors. Breen bluntly denied to VARIETY the 'fantastic yarn' regarding his returning to the Hays office in any capacity.

Delegates looked at additional screenings of RKO features today, as well as tests of several new players that studio has earmarked for buildups. Screening, at the Trans-Lux theatre, was followed by business sessions in the Waldorf Astoria Sert Room, at which Schaefer, Breen, S. Barret McCormick, director of advertising and publicity; Perry Lieber, studio publicity director, and Andy Smith spoke. Sessions were followed by a beefsteak dinner and delegates then moved en masse to the Polo Grounds to see the Louis-Conn fight. RKO will distribute pictures of the ring battle if the fight is rated sufficiently interesting.

Herbert Wilcox told the conventioneers that Anna Neagle would switch from musicals to a dramatic vehicle for her next, and that he was now looking for stories.

Delegates meet according to districts tomorrow, with no special events scheduled, and start checking out for their bases Friday.

FILM DELIVERY STRIKE SETTLEMENT SETS RECORD

One of the shortest strikes on record, wherein a tieup of about 90% of the film deliveries within the Los Angeles district loomed, was settled in two hours yesterday as truck drivers employed by the Goldberg Delivery Service went on strike at noon and were back at work after lunch. The sudden walkout threatened to darken houses in many parts of the city as well as in outlying districts, as among prints scheduled to be picked up were some needed in town.

Truck men went on strike because they claimed the delivery trucks were too big for the pay they were getting, asking a five cents per hour increase or smaller trucks. Ben Goldberg reports he solved the problem by cutting down the size of the trucks by putting in bulkheads, thereby reducing the loading capacity.

Burns, Allen Deal Given the Ink

Deal for Burns and Allen to broadcast in the fall for Lever Bros. (Swan soap) was signed here yesterday, with Tom Lewis officiating for Young & Rubicam. Agency is shopping for the best available network time. Negotiations are being continued in the east for Paul Whiteman in the music spot.

the various studio unions and guilds.

The committee also sent a wire to Walt Disney replying to charges that subversive groups were back of the walkout, and declaring that the strike was being supported by reputable leaders in the American Federation of Labor. The wire, signed by L. C. Helm for the union committee, follows:

'As a committee appointed by, and representing all of the American Federation of Labor unions in the motion picture studios, we have been advised through the medium of the press and anonymous letter that this strike is being led by a subversive group, that are being announced as communistic and undemocratic. We feel it our duty to advise you that no organization of the AFofL can wilfully harbor any one of this nature within their organization. In intervening in this matter, let us assure you that in so doing we have in sympathy those members of the AFofL involved in this dispute. In no case do we seek to hide or console any individual group or individuals for any individual achievement. We feel that this strike was right in principle and that we are obligated to support it financially, physically and morally, and that regardless of the individuals involved, may we again assure you this strike does have the backing of reputable leaders of the AFofL, who stand willing at all times to help bring this situation to a conclusion in the best interests of all concerned.'

Strike leaders also announced yesterday that musicians would refuse to make recordings for Disney during duration of the strike. Teamsters, film editors, soundmen and other crafts are refusing to cross the picket line.

Other members of the financial committee, in addition to Helm, are Joseph Tuohy, Dave Lory, Pat Somerset and Aubrey Blair. It was stated that funds will be raised through assessments, solicitation, contributions, etc. The Screen Publicists Guild has already pledged $25 per week during duration of the strike. The Screen Actors Guild contributed $1,000, Laboratory Technicians Local 683, $500, and many other crafts $100.

Counter proposals of the SCG for a settlement have been submitted to Disney representatives by Harold V. Smith, who is acting as a strike mediator. No reply is expected by the SCG until Disney returns to the Coast.

Using the educational potentialities of the films, the Society seeks to foster unity in our hemisphere, based on an intimate first hand knowledge of each nation's art, music, literature, history and ways of life.

'Those of you whose homes are in Mexico City will remember the happy results of a visit by 50 of our leading actors, directors, writers and executives to your city in April. Others of you whose homes are in the other American republics we hope to see and meet with personally on future trips to Central and South America. We will come to you for advice and counsel. If you wish us to, we will make motion pictures in your countries. The films which we make in our country, and send to you for your entertainment, will, we hope, be consistent with your culture and your ideals. TRAMMELL HITS FCC IN SENATE HEARING would be anxious to buy the blue skein under the stringent regulations is laughable, he added, since neither seller nor buyer can estimate the value and the future stability is entirely problematical.

FCC Chairman James L. Fly described 'a synthetic creature composed of two vigorous rivals' in order to alibi the stringent commandments, Trammel commented. Report of the comish majority is unfair because it lumps their business volume and disregards the incontrovertible fact they fight bitterly for programs, accounts, outlets, scoops, audience and prestige. Trammell complained Fly deliberately fabricated a Siamese twin. Divestiture of the Blue would impede television development, which has cost $12,000,000, the solons were advised by Trammel.

Abandonment of many highly popular programs will be inevitable under the rules, in Trammell's estimation. Among them are Toscanini, Damrosch, Fram and Home Hour and Metropolitan opera. New operators of the Blue—if any should materialize—would hesitate to take on such expense, he noted, and the Red would not be able to accommodate all of them because of bookkeeping difficulties. 'Vivisection' of NBC would harm the public more than it would benefit. Dangerous precedent is set by the reform attempt, Trammell warned. If the comish majority can force NBC to get rid of its lawfully acquired property and Congress doesn't intervene, there would be no reason why Fly & Co. could not force a splitting of the Red combination. 'The first cracks in the structure of Democracy are often invisible to the unaided eye, but if Congress, by failure to act now, concedes to Chairman Fly the power to force us to give up half of our property then Congress should not be surprised when it learns in the not too distant future that Chairman Fly has taken over the entire radio industry', he gloomed.

Profits of NBC are reasonable, Trammell maintained. Average has been under $2,000,000 annually over a 15-year period, which is 7.29% of the gross revenues. Last year's tax bill, he pointed out, was $2,510,000. Trammell engaged in detailed discussion of the way each rule would work, frequently harpooning the comish and denying statements in the majority report. He pointed to 3,993 cancellations of web programs by affiliates in five months to show the chain does not deprive local management of opportunity to exercise its own discretion.

Producers to stall the negotiations. It was indicated that unless the companies exhibit good faith in the negotiations, with the idea of completing the contract revisions by July 1, the unions will apply to Federal court for relief, charging that their efforts to bargain collectively are being blocked.

A majority of members of the joint committees were hot over the Producer proposals. One leader said, 'They haven't offered us anything. We went into the negotiations to better our conditions, not to make those conditions we have worse. If the negotiations are not carried on in good faith, we intend to ask the government to look into the situation.'

The Producers have offered to tilt the current three-hour minimum call to four hours, but the proposal was unanimously rejected last night as unsatisfactory. Union heads said they were interested solely in bettering conditions for the workers, not in increasing their hours of work.

The discussions with Producers so far have been confined to 16 standard conditions applicable to all of the crafts. The agreement was that when these are disposed of, each of the individual locals will then take up its demands, wages and conditions.

$8.25 and $11 classifications, regardless of what scales are negotiated with the Producers by the Screen Actors Guild.

Players who work as cowboys, policemen, waiters, bartenders, athletes, etc., also are demanding higher pay scales. The cowboys are demanding $16.50 per day, contending their outfits cost even more than wardrobes maintained by dress extras, while the others say their work is highly specialized. All of the groups insist they will not work on a $10.50 ticket, proposed by the SAG to replace the $11 and $8.25 brackets.

The dancers are the most militant group, several having recently negotiated their own wage adjustments when they were called upon by the studios to do a ballet and several special numbers. They say the necessity of keeping in perfect physical trim, learning new dance routines, etc., costs money and takes away a big part of their earnings.

The dancers and other groups have contacted Harry Mayo, chairman of the Extras Advisory Council, and say protests also are being filed with the SAG. The groups say that no extra was appointed to sit on the negotiating committee that met with the Producers, and that the reclassification of brackets proposed by the SAG will actually reduce the pay scales and result in a saving to the Producers.

A tentative agreement to replace the $8.25 and $11 scales has already been reached with the Producers and is now being reduced to writing. The contract revisions will call for improved pay and conditions for small free-lance actors and day players.

Hollywood Inside

OLSEN AND JOHNSON are shrouding their script for 'Hellzapoppin' at Universal in secrecy, but some idea of the way they hope to get audience participation in the show as they did in the stage production is beginning to leak out. Before the credits come onto the screen there will be an intelligence test for the audience. When the story opens, showing a scene in Hell, there is a story within a story within a story. As patrons enter theatres where the picture will play they will be handed a cardboard stereopticon glass and told, by the ushers, to keep the glass handy. From time to time Olsen and Johnson will appear on the screen to tell 'em it's almost time to use the stereopticon glass. When a fast and furious fight scene is shown the audience will be told to look through the glasses, bringing the punches of the battlers up so close there ought to be a lot of ducking and wincing among the patrons. Comedians are also dreaming up other gags to bring about audience participation, the toughest thing in making the picture.

FRED ASTAIRE, who left the RKO contract list to freelance so he would have plenty of time off between pictures, finds himself with commitments that will allow him few holidays between films for a long period of months. Now working in 'You'll Never Get Rich' at Columbia with Rita Hayworth, he next goes to Paramount for 'Holiday Inn' with Bing Crosby. After that musical he journeys back to Columbia for another film with Miss Hayworth, 'Too Beautiful', and then has a commitment, although papers have not been signed, to appear with Bob Hope in a picture for Samuel Goldwyn. Astaire allows himself anywhere from six weeks to three months for preparing and rehearsing dance routines for each film so will find little time between assignments to relax.

ALTHOUGH the Mutual network with its 178 stations is wide open for filmusical exploitation both on a sustaining and commercial basis, not one studio has taken advantage of the only chain medium airing the music of American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers. When Mutual-Don Lee signed the new Ascap contract it was generally believed that there would be a rush of tunefilms to the only ethered web outlet. There have been some inquiries from studios but to date not one musical film has made a kilocycle splash across the nation.

Kiss the Boys Goodbye

(Musical Comedy)

Paramount production and release. Stars Don Ameche and Mary Martin. Features Rochester, Oscar Levant, Virginia Dale, Barbara Jo Allen, Raymond Walburn, Elizabeth Patterson, Jerome Cowan, Connie Boswell. Supporting cast: John Scott Trotter, Minor Watson, Harry Barris, George Reed, Thelma Long. Producer, William LeBaron. Director, Victor Schertzinger. Screenplay, Harry Tugend, Dwight Taylor. Based on play by Clare Boothe. Photography, Ted Tetzlaff. Film editor, Paul Weatherwax. Musical director, Victor Young. Musical adviser, Arthur Franklin. Music and lyrics by Victor Schertzinger, Frank Loesser, G. H. Clutsam. Songs arranged and conducted by John Scott Trotter. Previewed at the Alexander, Glendale, June 19. Running time: 83 mins.

Clare Boothe's glittering satire, still bristling with wisecracks, penetrating wit and well-turned phrases following the transition to the screen, should do well in the de luxers, the neighborhoods, the grinds and wherever it may eventually be booked. It's the type of gay, sophisticated comedy which is currently much in demand. While it is not likely to smash records, solid business is in the cards. The feminine appeal is self-evident, and the male customers won't consider themselves short-changed either.

The saga of Cindy Lou, the naive Southern girl who purposely loses her Georgia accent trying to crash the stage on Broadway, picks it up again to perpetrate an ingenious hoax on a famous impresario and drops it again before rushing back broken-hearted to the plantation, has been woven into a compact, spirited, smartly paced script by Harry Tugend and Dwight Taylor. Gags tumble forth in rapid succession, but many a laugh is lost despite obvious efforts to broaden Clare Boothe's barbed shafts for assimilation by picture audiences. Despite this profusion of comedy, a major percentage of the hilarious material registers.

For Mary Martin this vehicle is an advent of considerable importance. She's a decided click here, scoring repeatedly in dramatic, comedy and vocal sequences. This is perhaps her best showing in films. The strip-tease scene, where the yo'-all girl figures on making a chump out of the ultra-modern city slickers who thought she was a country hick, clinches a running series of caustic comments on the South of the Civil War era.

The story, revolving about a nationwide search for a genuine Southern girl to play the lead in a Broadway musical, has been given stimulating and delightful impetus under Victor Schertzinger's deft directorial guidance. Slow spots are rare in approximately 83 minutes of running time, which is a feat of no minor import. Schertzinger wrote the music, Frank Loesser being responsible for the lyrics of five of the songs: 'Kiss the Boys Goodbye', 'Find Yourself a Melody', 'My Start', 'I Never Let a Day Pass By', and 'Sand In My Shoes'. Of these, 'Find Yourself a Melody' and 'I Never Let a Day Pass By' shape up as likeliest potential winners, with the three others of indifferent pop appeal.

Don Ameche contributes an excellent performance as the brusque stage director who tries to keep the

North From the Lone Star

(Western)

Columbia production. Stars Bill Elliott. Features Richard Fiske and Dorothy Fay. Supporting players: Dub Taylor, Arthur Loft, Jack Roper, Chuck Morrison, Claire Rochelle, Al Rhein, Edmund Cobb. Produced by Leon Barsha. Directed by Lambert Hillyer. Assistant director, Bud Brill. Screenplay, Charles Francis Royal. Film editor, Mel Thorsen. Photography, Benjamin Kline. Reviewed at the Hitching Post, June 19. Running time: 58 mins.

The latest in the Wild Bill Hickok series still has Bill Elliott portrayed as a peaceable man looking for a quiet place to spend the declining days of his youth. The spot Wild Bill thinks of settling down in is brimming over with vice and corruption, under the control of as rapacious a scoundrel as any western fan could wish for. Arthur Loft's impressive impersonation of the cold, vicious, brainy trigger man serves as an excellent foil for Elliott's straightforward role as the conquering hero. There isn't a great deal of riding in this episode but plenty of gunfire and fist brawls and action sequences have been well handled by Director Lambert Hillyer. Richard Fiske, as the hot-headed horse dealer who is constantly being thrown on his ear, is also given camera opportunities but registers negatively owing to rough scripting and indifferent piloting. Scenes with Fiske are stagey and denote hasty preparation.

Charles Francis Royal's story has Loft taking over a gambling joint by the simple expedient of placing heavy bets on the wheel, cashing in every time through a secret arrangement with the crooked croupier, and demanding ownership of the place when the operator can't pay off on the final spin.

From them on Loft proceeds to muscle in on every worthwhile legitimate business in town, getting no opposition until he tried to ride herd on the livery stable proprietor. Wild Bill appears on the scene in time to prevent a forced sale of horses at ridiculous prices, and then becomes sheriff in order to be able to clean up the gang legally.

NO TIME FOR COMEDY

San Francisco, June 19.—Francis Lederer walks away with Henry Duffy's version of 'No Time For Comedy', which opened at the Alcazar tonight. The Duffy presentation is beautifully mounted, although somewhat slowly paced. Lederer's excellent trouping carries the load. Rose Hobart is charming as his efficient wife.

Particularly good support is given by Paul Movey as the quiet husband of Amanda, who makes the play for Lederer. This role is nicely handled by Doris Dudley, who shades her work well. Dan Tobin gets a lot out of Makepeace and Marietta Canty is excellent as the Negro maid.

Cowan, Brissac Set

Warners has signed Jerome Cowan and Virginia Brissac for 'One Foot In Heaven'.

I Was a Prisoner on Devil's Island

(Melodrama)

Columbia production. Features Sally Eilers, Donald Woods. Supporting players: Edward Ciannelli, Victor Kilian, Charles Halton, Dick Curtis, John Tyrrell, Eddie Laughton, Edmund Cobb, Robert Warwick. Director, Lew Landers. Producer, Wallace MacDonald. Screenplay, Karl Brown. Story, Osso and Edgar Van Eyss. Photography, John Stumar. Film editor, Richard Fantl. Art direction, Lionel Banks. Musical director, M. W. Stoloff. Assistant director, Gene Anderson. Sound, Lodge Cunningham. Previewed June 19. Running time: 70 mins.

Efforts by the cast and director to add some distinction to 'I Was a Prisoner On Devil's Island' fail to lift the material above the average program classification. Story hindrances and weak dialog account for the trouble, and the slicing of some unnecessary footage is needed to improve the running time, overlength for its bracket.

Donald Woods, ship's officer, falls in love with Sally Eilers during a holiday at a French port near Devil's Island. He decides to jump ship, has an argument with his skipper and accidentally kills him. Sentenced to three years on Devil's Island, he finds the girl is the wife of the prison doctor, unhappy in her marriage. During a fever epidemic Woods and several other prisoners earn the governor's approval by their emergency work and salvaging of a needed drug, illegally sold by the doctor from the prison supplies. When the doctor and prison commandant are proved to be guilty of selling government equipment, they make a break, are killed and Woods and Miss Eilers reach a happy ending.

Both Miss Eilers and Woods are superior to the material and manage some credence in their respective characters. Edward Ciannelli is the crooked doctor, Charles Halton the sly prison head. Victor Kilian does well by the part of an honest guard, and others supply the supporting characters satisfactorily.

Lew Landers was considerably handicapped in trying to put life into the yarn, but at times is able to instill interest. Wallace MacDonald produced and John Stumar photographed.

NEVILLE MILLER CAUTIONS SENATE GROUP OVER FCC

ence for keeping the status quo, Neville Miller, president of National Assn. of Broadcasters, cautioned against destroying public desire for radio service. Comish regulations may curtail network operations to the point where the public fails to turn on the switch, he advised.

There is no serious complaint about the present service, the NAB prexy observed, from the public, advertising agencies, sponsors, affiliates or non-web outlets. Chairman James L. Fly's idea that the rules are a Magna Carta was derided with the comment that Miller is 'sure the first emancipation proclamation was received more enthusiastically than this one.'

Great value of radio, Miller remarked, is mass communication. Though millions of persons listen daily, they will lose interest if the present good service is curtailed, which the regulations may do. Chairman Fly thinks it is possible to tinker with the industry but doesn't realize that too much tinkering will alienate listeners.

Legal shortcomings of the present law were outlined by Duke M. Patrick, resident NBC counsel, who said both stations and chains deserve a chance to take their grievances to the courts. He complained about confusion and uncertainty regarding methods of litigating the reform rules, outlining many perplexing angles and echoing prior charges that the comish has added doubt about getting a complete review. When Fly comes back to the stand he ought to be pinned down on several points, Patrick declared, such as the power of the District Columbia Court of Appeal to grant 'interim relief'.

Objections to the commission's solicitous attitude were registered by three station bosses, Paul Morency of WTIC, Hartford, Conn., vice-chairman of Independent Radio Network Affiliates; John J. Gillin, WOW, Omaha, and Samuel Cook, WFBL, Syracuse. All saw trouble ahead. While affiliation contracts are not wholly satisfactory, there has been substantial progress in ironing out troubles, Morency testified. Operators would rather do their own fighting than make the comish their protector, he opined. Same view was taken by Gillin, who said he never has had trouble with NBC in clearing time for local programs, and Cook, who termed his station's CBS contract one of its assets.

Hearings are likely to wind up tomorrow, with Fly coming back to rebut the arguments of regulation foes, but the committee probably will not get around to deciding for another week what to do with the White resolution calling on the comish to suspend the reforms pending a more comprehensive Senate probe.

F-WC LOWERS PRICES FOR SERVICE MEN

months ago about getting together to work out a reduced price scale for men in uniform on a national basis, nothing was done about it and F-WC is believed to be the first circuit to adopt junior admission prices for service men officially as a company policy.

Individual chain theatre managers and independent operators have at various times in recent months broached the subject of lower theatre prices for men in uniform and at one informal gathering of showmen in the east several exhibitors said they often allowed men on service into their houses at reduced rate or without charge. This method was admittedly inadequate and a move got under way to have the matter taken up with the chains with the object of establishing a uniform policy. Up until the Fox West Coast move no further progress had been made.

With savings running as high as 25c on a 50c regular theatre ticket the convenience extended to service men may well increase patronage and maintain interest in films among a tremendous potential audience after the conflict is over.

Junior admission prices will be available to all uniformed privates and non-commissioned officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps and will effect savings up to 50% in approximately 200 F-WC houses in California. Men in the armed forces for whom special policy will be available include those of private to top-sergeant rank in the Army and Marine Corps and from Seaman 3rd Class to Chief Petty Officer in the Navy.

Savings will run as high as 25c on general admissions at the Los Angeles first run houses while the saving will be greater at the Carthay Circle. Where general admission price is 40c and 50c, tariff to men in uniform will be 25 cents; 36c and 31c tickets will sell for 21c; 30 and 27c prices are reduced to 20c; 25c tickets will sell for 17c; 20c and 15c tickets will be lowered to 15c. Tax is extra in every case.

Jerome Cowan, as the Broadway producer; Raymond Walburn as the angel, and Elizabeth Patterson make subordinate roles important. 16 Standard Working Conditions For 10,000 Up Today unions have turned down proposals for an eight-hour day, five day-week, and a minimum four-hour call, with time and half for Saturday work. The unions told Casey yesterday they will insist on adoption of all standard conditions submitted, and will oppose any change in the ratio of apprentices and helpers.

The unions are asking that the work day start at 7 a.m., with time and half after six hours, double time after 12 hours, and triple time after 16 consecutive hours. They also are demanding that the current time and half for Sunday be increased to double time. They demand a tool pass and immediate payment for workers at the end of a shift when they are not given a call back for the next day.

> Negotiating committees representing the 10 studio locals of the IATSE have adopted a resolution asking the Producers to delegate authority to their representatives to set a deal with the unions. They contend negotiations are slowed by the necessity for the Producer negotiators to take all proposals back to the executives before making a decision.

The unions also want an eight-hour rest period, with the proviso that if a man is called back during that time he must be paid for the time he has been idle. The Producers are demanding a ratio of 20 apprentices for each local, with the unions contending that the question of apprentices and helpers should be left up to each local.

ACTORS, EXTRAS GET PAY BOOST OF AROUND 300G

at least 30 $5.50 players are called at the same time for that specific set. Where less than that number are called, the extras will receive $10.50 per day. The $16.50 check for dress extras will not be changed, the players themselves having opposed any change on the theory less extras would be used.

Rehearsal pay for singers is increased from $11 to $15 per day; recording pay from $16.50 to $20 per day, with pay for 'mouthing back' set at $10.50 a day. When singers are employed for solo, duet, trio and quartet work they will be salary classified as day players and will receive a minimum of $25 per day.

Pay for stand-ins will be tilted from $6.50 to $8.25 per day. The Guild estimates this will increase their earnings $55,000 annually.

Riders will continue to receive $11 per day. The Guild felt that any pay increase would encourage productions outside the 300-mile Guild zone.

The minimum scale for dancers will be increased from $11 to $13.75 per day. This rate also applies to ice skaters when doing dance routines.

The minimum scale for stunt men is fixed at $200 per week. On term contracts (10 out of 13 weeks or multiples of this), the minimum will be $100 per week.

The weekly minimum scale for day players will be raised from $66 to $100, although the daily scale will remain at $25. The minimum pay for freelance players also will be raised from $66 to $100 weekly. In addition, an intermediate classification has been created, with a minimum of $75 per week, for 'glorified extra work' such as posses.

Improved working conditions for extras were announced as follows:

'Cancelled calls: Extras will receive a quarter check for any cancellation of a call for reasons beyond the control of the Producer, and where the extra is not notified of the cancellation before 6 p.m. of the day previous to the work date. However, this will not apply if the extra is re-employed on the same day at a rate equal to or higher than the cancelled call.

'An additional day's pay will be received by the extras for each hour, or fraction of an hour, worked beyond 16 hours.

'When an extra is requested to bring his automobile he will be paid $2.50 if the car is not used; $3.50 if the car is used within the six-mile limit; $5 if the car is used outside the six-mile limit.

'Extras required to work on legal holidays shall receive time and one-half, if they have been hired by the day, and an extra day's pay if hired by the week.

'For travel time, when an extra player leaves for location before noon, he shall be paid for a full day; if he leaves between 12 noon and 6 p.m., he shall be paid one-half day, unless travel time exceeds four hours, in which event actual travel time shall be paid but not to exceed one full day; if he leaves after 6 p.m. he shall be paid for actual travel time. Travel time stops at midnight. If the player does not work the day following arrival, he shall receive a full day's check.'

CALLS FOR FITTINGS

The number of days on which a day player may be called for fittings is limited to the equivalent of the number of days' work given the player, plus one. Fitting time is limited to four hours for the first day's employment, plus two hours for each extra day of employment, all accumulative. For fittings in excess of these limitations, the actor will be paid on the basis of hourly units at straight time. This applies only to day players receiving under $200 per day. Travel time is the same as that provided for extras.

A freelance player shall receive a full day's pay for each fitting day, if he is not used after fitting. If a written contract is entered into before fitting, this rule does not apply.

The question of options for freelance players has been referred to a sub-committee, which will seek to work out rules governing the situation. The Guild contends that under the present contract with the Producers, options may not be attached to freelance contracts.

STUNT ADJUSTMENT

When a freelance player receiving less than $200 a week is asked to do a stunt, he shall receive at least a minimum adjustment to $35 for that day. On overtime, the freelance actor's salary shall be figured under the freelance terms.

Ballots are now being prepared for a referendum of the SAG membership on acceptance of the new scales and conditions. The deals were negotiated by a SAG committee composed of Edward Arnold, chairman; Edwin Stanley, Walter Abel, Kenneth Thomson, Laurence W. Beilenson, John Dales, Jr., and Antrim Short. The Producers were represented by Y. Frank Freeman, E. J. Mannix, Cliff Work, John Zinn, Fred Beetson, Mendel Silberberg, Herbert Freston, Fred Pelton and Howard R. Philbrick.

BUELNA FETE ARRANGED FOR GOODWILL

Alejandro Buelna, chief of the Mexican Tourist Bureau, will be guest of honor Monday night at a dinner being planned by the Jack Whitney committee to build Latin American good will. Buelna, who arranged all details in connection with the Mexican Motion Picture Festival last April, which was attended by a Hollywood group, will bring a personal message from President Avila Camacho.

Whitney is sponsoring the dinner, through Y. Frank Freeman, head of the Producers association. Invitations will be sent out today. Those who made the trip to Mexico, the studio publicity committee and studio heads will be among those sent bids to the dinner, which will be formal.

Buelna is bringing personal gifts to all those who went on the April junket to Mexico.

Hollywood Inside

'THE WATCHMAN' issued an extra edition of 'Hollywood Merry Go Round' yesterday, in which he charged that a move is now underway to use certain American Federation of Labor leaders in the studios to aid the defense of Willie Bioff when he goes to trial on charges of tapping four major film companies for $550,000. 'The Watchman' said current plans call for the leaders in certain studio unions to be rushed to New York to tell the court that Willie is an 'indispensable man' to the union, and that he 'never sold anybody down the river.' 'The Watchman' indicated that none of these leaders are connected with the studio locals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes. The latter are now operating on their own, and have notified the Producers they will handle their negotiations without aid or interference from the IATSE International. The IA studio locals have banded together in a Federation, suggested by Harold V. Smith, chairman of the Business Representatives Committee originally appointed by the various crafts. 'The Watchman' says that Willie does not expect to get any aid from the IATSE locals, one of which has requested that he and Prexy George E. Browne resign, but that he is conferring with other AFofL studio leaders at his San Fernando Valley ranch. 'The Watchman' also states that representatives of the employers have been among the visitors at the Bioff home.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN announced over the weekend that he will make '7th Cavalry' early in the fall, with Gary Cooper playing the part of General George Custer. Meanwhile, Warners is preparing to begin shooting Wednesday on 'They Died With Their Boots On', with Errol Flynn in the role of General Custer. Raoul Walsh is directing for Warners and the story was written by Wally Kline and Captain Aeneas MacKenzie. Goldwyn's yarn is being scripted by Robert Presnell, whose father was medical officer for the 7th Cavalry. Presnell was mascot of the regiment when he was a boy. Goldwyn says he is moving the '7th Cavalry' picture ahead on his schedule at the request of the War Department. Cooper has two other films to make for Goldwyn, an untitled comedy and 'The Singing and the Gold'. The comedy will precede the Army picture. Goldwyn's picture will be filmed at Fort Bliss, Texas, where the 7th Cavalry headquarters are located.

IT IS a safe bet that Paramount will strive to outdo the 'Gone With the Wind' publicity campaign for its 'For Whom the Bell Tolls'. Studio will also have a far greater number of tests for characters in the Ernest Hemingway story than were necessary for the Selznick opus. Testing begins this week with Paulette Goddard trying for the roll of Maria. There are eight important characters in the Spanish civil war yarn for whom exhaustive tests will have to be made. Buddy De Sylva will not use players simply because they are under contract to Paramount and is letting the word go out that the roles are wide open to all comers. Public interest in the picture is manifest in the fact that some 6,000 letters have been received from customers with suggestions for casting. Sam Wood, director, will have the assistance of William Cameron Menzies, who sketched out every camera setup for 'Gone With the Wind.'

RKO has personalities in 'Look Whose Talking' with a combined Crossley rating of 60.3, which means that more than 60 million people listen each week to their radio programs. Fibber McGee and Molly have a Crossley roting of 32.0, while the Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy rating is 28.3. Also on the RKO lot is Kay Kyser, whose rating in 21.8. Terrific air plugs can be expected on 'Look Whose Talking.' However, Universal recently made 'Radio Revels of 1942', a picture built around the world of radio and cast with radio personalities like Ken Murray, Don Wilson, Frances Langford, Skinnay Ennis, Senor Lee, Hanley Stafford and Elvia Allman, and then nixed the idea of stressing the radio appearances of the players in advertising and publicity.

LT. COL. DARRYL ZANUCK who attended sessions at the Army War College in Washington recently, according to reports from regular officers who came in contact with him, won the admiration and respect of the West Pointers who attended the sessions with him. Zanuck put in ten hours a day at study and was able to grasp the problems that confronted the old-time army officers as easily as they did, with General George Marshall, chief of staff, letting it be known that the former AEF 'dough boy' was the type of man that should be sought by the government to help in defense measures. Zanuck, a 'buck private' in the last war, was flattered to have regulars, especially West Point graduates, address him as 'Colonel'.

They Met in Bombay

Metro release of a Clarence Brown production. Stars Clark Gable, Rosalind Russell. Features Peter Lorre, Jessie Ralph, Reginald Owen, Matthew Boulton, Supporting players: Edward Ciannelli, Luis Alberni, Rosina Galli, Jay Novello. Director, Clarence Brown. Producer, Hunt Stromberg. Miss Russell's hair styles, Sydney Guilaroff. Makeup created by Jack Dawn. Technical advisor, Major G. O. T. Bagley. Film editor, Blanche Sewell. Previewed at the Alexander, Glendale, June 20. Running time: 92 mins.

High adventure, action, suspense, and good old hoke, are so adroitly packaged under the Clark Gable-Rosalind Russell names that 'They Met In Bombay' means top theatre business. Its production presentation by Hunt Stromberg, the direction by Clarence Brown, the playing of the cast, and the writing, give free rein to adventurous imagination for solid audience enjoyment, from the de luxe houses right on down to the last play date.

The teaming of Gable and Miss Russell, the first time since their appearance in 'China Seas', is most advantageous. Their styles, light, breezy and sure, form a perfect complement as they demonstrate with delightful assurance the personality and ability that has placed them up among the top box office names.

Gable is a suave jewel thief who encounters Miss Russell, an equally smooth lady crook, in India. Both are after the same loot, a fabulous diamond pendant owned by a champagne-thirsty duchess, Jessie Ralph. Miss Russell makes the heist, is tricked out of the jewel by Gable, and they flee the police together in a typical old-time chase sequence packed with action. They take refuge on a tramp freighter, are exposed by the skipper, Peter Lorre, to the pursuing police inspector, Matthew Boulton, but again escape. Circumstance forces Gable to aid in the evacuation of British subjects from a Japanese-stormed town, he is wounded and decorated for bravery. Miss Russell gets him to return the jewel and picture ends on a reform note indicating future happiness for the couple, within the law. There is lightness, brisk movement, intense suspense, sharp dialog and situation in the script as written by Edwin Justus Mayer, Anita Loos and Leon Gordon from a story by John Kafka.

Lorre's portrayal of the Chinese skipper is another of his superior character etchings. Jessie Ralph is grand as the tippling duchess. Reginald Owen, the general who commands Gable during the latter's involuntary soldiering; Boulton, the police inspector; Edward Ciannelli, the hotel manager; Luis Alberni, Rosina Galli, Jay Novello and a number of uncredited players contribute a cast whose smaller assignments lend bright moments to the picture.

Clarence Brown's directorial guidance is an outstanding job. The Universal production. Stars Edward Everett Horton, Donald Woods, Raymond Walburn and Baby Sandy. Supporting cast: Franklin Pangborn, Evelyn Ankers, Kathryn Adams, Jed Prouty, Hardie Albright, George Meader, Bert Roach, Juanita Quigley, Bobby Larson, Mira McKinney. Directed by Harold Young. Associate producer, Burt Kelly. Original screenplay, Robert Lees and Fred Rinaldo. Photography, Milton Krasner. Film editor, Paul Landres. Musical director, H. J. Salter. Previewed January 20. Running time: 60 mins.

Originally titled 'Sandy Steps Out', this Universal comedy is a walkaway for company's several-year-old moppet. Baby Sandy romps through the film with an ease which at once stamps the youngster as a sure-fire box office bet. Exhibitors who get after this one are bound to cash in lucratively.

Baby Sandy gets mixed up in all kinds of childish difficulties, and leads her screen mother, Kathryn Adams, and the three Smith brothers, Edward Everett Horton, Donald Woods and Raymond Walburn, to say nothing of Franklin Pangborn and Bert Roach, through all kinds of difficulty before the story finally is unfolded. It all happens because the mother, arrested on a charge of making candy without a license, seeks to protect her youngster and sends him to the Smiths at a bachelor hotel. The brothers take to Sandy like a long-lost relative, but keeping the youngster in the sacred portals of a club where women are absolutely taboo, has its difficulties.

To make matters worse, Pangborn is an officious type of club manager and Hardie Albright a suspicious probation officer to whom Kathryn's case has been referred. Then, too, there's jealous Evelyn Ankers who has her cap set for Donald Woods; Bert Roach, the combination bellhop and elevator operator at the club, and Jed Prouty, who vacilliates hot and cold on his deal with the Smith brothers. Finally everything is straightened out, Woods claims Miss Adams and peace once more reigns.

Bulk of the principals in the large cast turn in fine bits of work, particularly Baby Sandy and Horton. Miss Adams does not seem to fill the mother role adequate, but Evelyn Ankers is excellent as the jealous daughter of Jed Prouty. Woods and Walburn are particularly good as the other brothers, and Pangborn turns in his usual superb portrayal. Albright is weak as the probation officer.

Harold Young has directed for laughs, with the action wholly centered around Baby Sandy, and in this respect turns out an excellent bit of work. His direction of some of the other characters does not appear quite up to standard, but, after all, it's a Baby Sandy picture, and that's what counts at the box office. Burt Kelly, the associate producer, has not stinted on production, and Milton Krasner has done a most capable photographic job. The screenplay by Robert Lee and Fred Rinaldo is as expertly handled as might be expected of a film of this type.

Agnew, Gillham Due In Today To Join Par Products Confabs

Neil Agnew and Robert Gillham, eastern publicity director, are scheduled to get in from New York today to join other Paramount executives in production conferences set for this week at the studio.

Arthur L. Pratchett, Paramount's general manager for Cuba, Mexico and Central America, also planes in from Mexico City today. John W. Hicks, Jr., vice-president in charge of the foreign department, and Russell Holman, eastern production head, arrived Friday.

First arrivals were Barney Balaban, Paramount president; Stanton Griffis and Paul Raiburn, joining Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board.

Radio, FCC Decish Goes Over Until After July 4

Washington, June 22.—Outcome of the radio industry's fight to stave off drastic Federal Communications Commission anti-monopoly reforms and obtain a new statute more clearly defining broadcasters' rights and duties will not be known for at least a fortnight. The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, after hearing several independent web affiliates back up the alleged 'big bad wolves', recessed last Friday until road-touring war debaters can reassemble to listen to rebuttal testimony of Chairman James L. Fly. The White resolution is in the refrigerator in the meantime.

It is unlikely that Senators Burton K. Wheeler, chairman; D. Worth Clark, Wallace H. White and Charles W. Tobey—those most interested in the subject — will be available simultaneously until after July 4.

Final meeting of the three weeks of intermittent testimony was marked by the injection of a new topic, line charges of the telephone company. Repeatedly, Senator Homer T. Bone of Washington threw out suggestions that either the commission or Congress should gander the tariffs and find out how the Bell System justifies its mileage rates, connection costs and other levies.

Question was brought up when J. W. Lee of KGFF, Shawnee, Okla., related his returns from Mutual (he is now affiliated with the NBC Blue) were not ample to pay the line charges. For every dollar he took in from the chain, he had to fork over $1.18 to get their features. Bone then quizzed each succeeding industry witness about his wire costs and instructed Seymour Creager of the FCC staff to supply information about the basis on which the tariff is figured, the telephone company's annual take, and what the regulators have done about this expensive item.

It looked to Bone, he said, as though the telephone company has 'fastened itself' on the industry to the point where it makes a profit even if nobody else does.

More rocks were chucked at Mutual during the final canto. Lee, the principal heaver, said that Mutual is 'neither Mutual nor a network'. The Blue web's sustainings are undisputably superior, he said, and Mutual does not pay off as liberally as its executives claim, and listeners are confused by the Mutual plugs for the originating station.

There was a Mutual counterattack when Hope H. Barroll of WFBR, Baltimore, related why he decided to quit the NBC family. Reluctance to displace a public service program for the Maryland National Guard (carried in network option time in order to accommodate Oxydol) brought a threat from Vice-President William S. Hedges that his outlet would be shifted from the Red to the Blue, Barroll said. Though Niles Trammell, NBC prexy, denied any such thought, Barroll pointed out that he later was told he would be moved—and offered higher rates and an annual guaranty, which he never got while on the Red, and WBAL, a rival outlet of the Hearst paper, would replace him. His plant goes on Mutual Oct. 1.

Uplift groups lined up behind the affiliates in urging adoption of the White resolution. Fear that religious programs would be knifed was voiced by the Federal Council of Churches and the National Council of Catholic Men, and general opposition came from the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Strikers Seeking $100,000 Back Pay From Walt Disney

Hour complaint will charge that from Oct. 24, 1939, to Oct. 24, 1940, Disney required his employes to work four hours on Saturday, although only two hours were recorded on their time cards. At that time the legal work week for those under the Wage-Hour Law was only 42 hours, and it is contended that some 80,000 work hours of the employes now on strike were concealed.

The new NLRB unfair labor practice charges will assert that Art Babbitt, chairman of the Disney unit of the SCG, and other leaders were discharged because of their union activities. It also is alleged that employes were required to take work home with them in violation of the law.

Bodle said: 'Walt Disney on May 22 entered into a stipulation with the NLRB for the dissolution of the Federation of Screen Cartoonists, and promised to desist thereafter from influencing or interfering with the free choice by his employes of a bargaining agency. We maintain that the subsequent formation of the ''American Society'' and now the ''Associate'' by the same leaders of the same small group of 50 persons is an evasion of that stipulation.'

Herbert Sorrell, business representative of the strikers, read a letter from Walt Disney at a meeting Friday in which Disney refused to make concessions in an effort to reach a settlement. Art Babbitt, chairman of the Disney group, stated:

'This attitude is no more than we had reason to expect from Mr. Disney. Our efforts to persuade him to discuss our vital problems repeatedly fail. The men and women who went out on this strike were aware of this attitude from the start. We are prepared to meet it steadfastly until our rights are agreed upon and protected, in writing.'

In the meantime, committees were completing arrangements to finance the strikers indefinitely. It was reported that the International Brotherhood of Painters would contribute $1,000 weekly to pay pickets. The Screen Actors Guild, Screen Publicists Guild and other studio crafts also have promised financial aid, several of them having already contributed.

Picketing of all theatres showing Disney products is being resumed, as the national boycott ordered by the American Federation of Labor, through the Central Labor Council, becomes effective. A group of 12 pickets marched in front of El Capitan last night. It is understood arrangements also are being made to picket theatres throughout the country where they exhibit Disney films.

Pressure also will be renewed on RKO to stop distributing Disney products for the duration of the strike. It is understood that new demands will be made on the company when studio heads return from the eastern convention.

Indie Leader Says Rodgers Plan Would Kill Films

Minneapolis, June 22.—S. G. Lebedoff, chairman of the Northwest Allied Exhibition Association problems committee, has issued a statement bitterly assailing W. F. Rodgers, Metro sales chief, because of the latter's declaration before the convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America at Los Angeles, asserting high admission prices and more percentage pictures and playing time are necessary to enable producers to turn out better product and bring the public back to the theatres. Lebedoff, who also is treasurer and Minneapolis governor of the territory's independent exhibitors' organization, declared the proposed remedy of Rodgers, instead of curing the present box office ills, would kill the industry by sounding the death knell for the indie theatre operator.

Instead of the Rodgers program, there should be an entire elimination of percentage pictures to pave the way for a box office revival, Lebedoff states. He wants the independent leaders to sponsor a federal law to permit exhibitors to bargain collectively, a la trade unions, with distributors, and believes this is necessary to 'save' indie exhibs.

Leaders of Northwest Allied are inquiring into legal aspects of wholesale closing of theatres as a 'strike' for film rental reductions in line with the lower grosses. Even if their counsel decides that such a 'strike' would incur the risk of indictments for conspiracy in restraint of trade, Bennie Berger, owner of one of the largest indie circuits, advocates that all exhibitors close their houses at least during July, not as a 'strike', but for the benefit of the box office.

Shrinking grosses have brought in their wake exhibitor chiseling on a record-breaking scale, according to distributors here. Many exhibs are attempting to allocate pictures themselves and, instead of remitting the amount billed, send in what they think they should pay and what they consider a 'fair' amount for the distributing organizations, based on box office returns.

Committee has been appointed by Allied, locally, to make a study of what the public wants in the way of film entertainment and ways and means to stimulate box office attendance. It proposes to work out a campaign to be launched in the early fall.

Even though they are threatened with an indefinite prolongation of the state ban against selling by five of the leading major companies, that may leave them without sufficient product to keep their theatres open by next winter, Allied members have voted to continue to stand behind the Minnesota law outlawing the consent decree's blocks-of-five sales provision, and requiring distributors to sell their entire season's product.

Nine weeks have elapsed since the Minnesota law went on the statute books, and the five consent decree major companies still have taken no steps toward selling in this state, and have not initiated any move designed to knock the law out or to come under its provisions.

Park-In-Theatres, Inc. Loses Action Over Colton House

Holding with the defense that the Hollingshead patent claimed for drive-in theatres is invalid because of architectural designs, and did not infringe on any manufacturing set-up, U. S. District Court Judge Harry A. Hollzer dismissed the complaint of Park-In-Theatres, Inc., against M. A. Rogers, who for a time operated an outdoor drive-in theatre near Colton. Case was thrown out of court without a trial after Attorney Herbert A. Huebner, for the defense, asked for dismissal on the grounds as stated.

Park-In-Theatres, Inc., comprising principally Richard M. Hollingshead, Jr., in whose name a patent has been issued, and Warren Smith, sued Rogers, asking for damages and an injunction. The Hollingshead patent, numbered 1,909,537, covers an improvement for drive-in theatres. According to affidavits filed by the plaintiff, there were 25 theatres using the Hollingshead patent on Dec. 5, 1940, when suit against Rogers was filed. Theatres in course of erection or contemplated brought the list to around 60.

First theatre patented under the Hollingshead plan was the Los Angeles Drive-In, in Sept., 1934. Cost of these patents ran $1,000 for a theatre, the average cost of which ran around $40,000. In later deals the patent was granted for a lump sum plus 5% of the gross receipts of the theatre.

Acad Research Group Gives Acoustical Recommendations

A bulletin on theatre acoustic recommendations is being issued by the Research Council of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The bulletin was prepared by the Council's theatre sound standardization committee under the chairmanship of John K. Hilliard.

One of the recommendations calls for heavily upholstered seats and ozite-lined carpet in the aisles. It also states that long, narrow auditoriums, high ceilings, excessively long and narrow balcony overhands, concave focusing surfaces, and large underbroken reflecting areas should be avoided, as acoustical faults always result from their use.

In a letter sent to the president of each chapter of the American Institute of Architects as well as other architectural groups, Darryl F. Zanuck, Council chairman, pointed out the practical value of the information contained in the bulletin. He offered a limited number of copies for transmission to the membership of each group.

F-WC Draws Up Brief For Revision of Zoning, Clearance Problems

Additional clearance protection and revision of clearance and zoning conditions in many situations in the Southern California district are being requested by Fox West Coast Theatres, wherever negotiations with major film companies for next year's product have come up. With the consent decree provision allowing for 'reasonable clearance', F-WC has drawn up statistics showing that in many instances admission prices have been raised in their theatres without a corresponding boost in houses operated by independents in competitive situations. F-WC executives contend that circuit theatres should be given a week or two additional protection in various territories unless the subsequent runs increase admissions in proportion.

A brief on the proposed new clearance and zoning, listing all the situations involved, has been drawn up by Fox West Coast, from accounts, with figures denoting current and proposed scales of admission prices.

Deals for next season's product have already been discussed with 20th-Fox, and begin today with Metro. But though a basic formula has been arrived at between 20th-Fox and F-WC, the distributing company has yet made no commitments on the more favorable clearance terms being asked by the circuit heads, and a final basis for product booking in individual situations is still in process of being formulated.

The Metro franchise, on the last year of a three-year contract, which is up for discussion this week, is subject to modification annually under the terms of the agreement. Metro has so far made no move to grant the request for additional clearance asked by F-WC, and much additional study likely will be given the matter before the deal is set.

The question of additional clearance has so far been taken up only with Metro and 20th-Fox, the former because of a three-year franchise and the latter due to its circuit affiliation. Product deals cannot be discussed with the other signatories to the consent decree except in blocks of five, and only when pictures are completed, in line with regulations.

Far-Reaching Decish In NY Over Radio Plagiarism

New York, June 22.—The appellate division of the New York Supreme court, unanimously reversing a decision of the Supreme court, handed down an opinion of far-reaching importance Thursday (19) in a ruling on the plagiarism of formula as applied specifically to radio.

In October, 1940, Justice John McGeehan ordered a Supreme court jury to dismiss a $25,000 action brought by Alonzo Deen Cole, writer, actor and radio director, against Phillips H. Lord, Inc., in which Cole charged that a radio program idea of his entitled 'Ex-Racketeer and Co.', later changed to '137 Centre Street', had been appropriated by the defendants in a radio program called 'Mr. District Attorney'. Cole, who went to work for Lord, Inc., in September, 1935 at $200 weekly, contended he submitted the script as a radio idea while there. Lord claims to have been working on the idea for a considerable period before Cole submitted his plans. Both scripts are about the activities of a district attorney and racketeers but plagiarism of formula, not any particular part of the script, was charged.

The appellate division, in reversing the earlier decision, ordered a new trial declaring 'That a property right exists with respect to a combination of ideas evolved into a program as distinguished from rights to particular scripts finds support in the defendants own course of conduct. When it transferred any rights to "Mr. District Attorney" it sold not the script but the basic idea. In the radio field there is a well recognized right to an original idea or combination of ideas set forth in a formula for a program. We care clearly of the view that the plaintiff established prima facie, an express contract under which he had intrusted his work to the defendant. This contract afforded him protection even as to his mere idea.'

GEO. BROWNE TO BE TRIED ON BIOFF DAY, AUGUST 18

New York, June 22. — George E. Browne, prexy of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, will face trial in Federal court Aug. 18 on charges that he and Willie Bioff extorted $550,000 from four major film companies. Bioff, who recently served six months on a pandering charge, is scheduled to face trial on the same date.

Browne appeared before Judge Edward A. Conger here Friday. He pleaded innocent, and was released in $50,000 bond, after being warned that he would be jailed if any effort was made to tamper with government witnesses.

Browne was well represented in court, having as his attorney Martin Conboy, who was formerly U. S. Attorney for New York, holding the same position in 1933-35 as Mathias F. Correa now does. Bail of $50,000 was set for Browne, this being the amount asked by Correa, although Conboy requested $20,000, pointing out that Browne was a family man, father of three children, who had no past criminal record, and who had surrendered to the authorities voluntarily. Judge Conger stated that 'I see no reason for a differentiation between the two defendants', and set bail at $50,000, the amount set for Bioff.

Correa made the same request for the protection of government witnesses that he had previously stated before Judge John C. Knox. Judge Conger followed Judge Knox's ruling, and told Browne that if any letters or calls were received by government witnesses, bail would be revoked, and Browne jailed. Browne was given 10 days to make any motions he saw fit to the court, and he was released.

working relationship between the radio networks and radio performers.

The SAG's action in supporting AFRA prohibits any screen actor from performing for the Cincinnati station. This affects nearly all of the major radio performers, since they are members of the Guild as well as of AFRA. Any person not now a member of the Guild who accepts employment from the Cincinnati station will be ineligible for future membership in SAG.

It also was indicated that SAG and other actors' organizations may refuse to permit their members to perform for any stations that furnish entertainment to WKRC. The major networks are disturbed over the situation and are reported bringing pressure on Taft to settle with AFRA. The strike was ordered after the WKRC management refused to negotiate with AFRA, and after Taft was reported to have stated that $20 a week was enough to pay any performer appearing on WKRC programs.

Loew's Loses NY Suit For Failure To Give Actor Film Test

New York, June 22.—In awarding Conrad Noles, actor, $1,500 against Loew's, Inc., for failure to go through with a screen test, New York City Court Judge Frank A. Carlin for the first time ruled on the question of obligation on the part of an organization offering to hire talent, tying up the talent and allegedly failing to go through with a deal.

Noles, who had played the part of Huey Long in 'The First American Dictator' on Broadway, was signed to a contract by Loew's March 22, 1939 to make a screen test. Under the agreement Noles gave Loew's an exclusive option on his services for four weeks from the date of the test. If accepted Noles was to receive $150 weekly on a term contract. The plaintiff contended that Loew's never went through with the test and alleged that he was idle for 10 weeks as a result of waiting for the contract.

comedy, the suspense, and each incidental part are correctly valued to garner every bit of entertainment. The peak of excitement he builds in the battle between Gable's small band of soldiers and the Japanese reaches a thrill limit. Hunt Stromberg's marshalling of the production is class showmanship, which will be realized on by the healthy box office return in store for this money picture.

The photography by William Daniels captures the movement with clarity. Herbert Stothart's musical score helps in creating the mood, and the art direction by Cedric Gibbons and his associate, Randall Duell, combine with Edwin B. Willis' set decorations and Warren Newcombe's special effects to add picturesque backgrounds for the action. Adrian has gowned Miss Russell in striking fashion, and Sydney Guilaroff has given her fetching hairdress. The film editing by Blanche Sewell, the recording under Douglas Shearer, and other technical departments share ably in the credits.

Hollywood Inside

THE NEW YORK TIMES this week discontinued sending messages of its correspondents from all parts of the country by wire and the correspondents are telephoning their stuff directly to the newspaper's editorial offices. Instead of giving their stories to rewrite men the correspondents dictate over the telephone and the yarns are electrically transcribed. According to Doug Churchill, the Times Hollywood correspondent, the new method cuts 20 per cent off the cost, even if stories are read slowly. When the diction of the reader is clear the errors are cut to an absolute minimum. Only large difficulty has been in spelling names with which copyists in the editorial office are unfamiliar. System allows for a much later deadline. New York Times started the method first in getting fast stories from war correspondents in Europe. Credit lines over correspondence now read: 'By telephone to the New York Times.'

New York, June 24.—Three causes of action out of the five made by Konrad Bercovici against Charles Chaplin and United Artists were dismissed today by U. S. Remaining is the action for $3,067,500, which also seeks damages for plagiarism of the story idea which allegedly resulted in the picture, and asks other monies for unpaid work not used by Chaplin.

Film Previews

Blossoms In the Dust

(Drama)

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release of a Mervyn LeRoy production. Photographed in Technicolor. Stars Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon. Features Felix Bressart, Marsha Hunt, Fay Holden and Samuel S. Hinds. Supporting cast: Kathleen Howard, George Lessey, William Henry, Henry O'Neill, John Eldredge, Clinton Rosemond, Theresa Harris, Charlie Arnt, Cecil Cunningham, Ann Morriss, Richard Nichols, Pat Barker, Mary Taylor, Marc Lawrence. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. Associate producer, Irving Asher. Screenplay by Anita Loos, from a story by Ralph Wheelwright. Cameramen, W. Howard Greene with Karl Freund. Technicolor supervised by Natalie Kalmus. Musical score, Herbert Stothart. Recording director, Douglas Shearer. Art director, Cedric Gibbons. Film editor, George Boemler. Previewed June 24 at the Four Star theatre. Running time: 98 mins.

In 'Blossoms In the Dust' Metro has turned out a tear-jerker that should rate tops in the 1941-42 product program for which it is destined. It is in every sense a film production that any major producer might well be proud to have turned out. As a box office attraction it should, and probably will, amass top grosses. Women, particularly, will welcome it with open arms, and advocates of better pictures should give it highest praise.

Propaganda, in a sense, in that it tells the story of an understanding Texas woman who, through her human and tender feelings, has found homes for more than 2,000 babies. 'Blossoms In the Dust' is more than an epoch portraying an incident of life. It is a stirring drama, superbly produced and acted, and bringing new laurels to Mervyn LeRoy who has directed brilliantly.

For Greer Garson, who is starred, it affords the greatest screen role of her career, and even at this early date there will be many who will insist that the Academy Award for the 1941-42 season is already settled. The titian-haired actress has never portrayed a more human role than that of Mrs. Edna Gladney, the simple and kindly Texas woman who brought thousands of children out of bondage.

Picture was inspired by the life of Mrs. Gladney, a former midwesterner who moved to Texas, and there devoted more than 30 years to child welfare. Film is done entirely in Technicolor and is one of the first dramas to be so made, with a new, natural color scheme developed after long experimentation. In developing this technique it was intended that the coloring should be an integral part of the picture's moods. In addition, it also reveals for the first time the coloring of the red-haired Greer Garson, bringing out every detail of her loveliness perfectly.

Anita Loos has made a most acceptable screenplay of Ralph Wheelwright's story, the theme being of particular timeliness, especially in Hollywood, with thousands of childless homes today being brightened by adopted infants. The story tellers have not been forced to inject a lot of extraneous material. It was there for them, and both story and screenplay bear witness to this.

Mervyn LeRoy, long associated with screen successes, has added an unusually bright feather for his expert and intelligent handling of

Murder By Invitation

(Melodrama)

Monogram production. Stars Wallace Ford. Features Sarah Padden, Marian Marsh, Gavin Gordon, George Guhl. Supporting cast: Wallis Clark, Minerva Urecal, J. Arthur Young, Herbert Vigran, Philip Trent, Dave O'Brien, Hazel Keener, Isabelle La Mal, Lee Shumway, John James, Kay Deslys. Producer, A. W. Hackel. Director, Phil Rosen. Story and screenplay, George Bricker. Film editor, Martin G. Cohn. Photography, Marcel Le Picard. Previewed June 24. Running time: 67 mins.

This well knit, smartly paced mystery melodrama will prove a welcome addition in dual bill houses where the need for modestly priced but adequate supporting features has long been a problem. Director Phil Rosen has assembled an interesting group of performers and has deftly maintained suspense and action in a yarn which is of the conventional pulp magazine type but nonetheless absorbing. The production is distinguished by the number of okay bit performances in addition to the leads.

The yarn opens with a courtroom sequence in which a pleasant though sharp-witted old lady is being charged with incompetence in administering her vast wealth. Accusing her are potential heirs who seek a court ruling confining the woman to an insane asylum so that they can lay hands on the money immediately. Obviously having been arraigned on unfounded charges, the woman is released.

From that point on the story quickly gathers momentum as the wealthy spinster invites all her heirs to spend a week in her country home, stipulating that they arrive at midnight. Murders follow in rapid succession, three of her kinfolk being rubbed out by a mysterious, hooded knife-thrower. Dim lighting, sliding panels that revolve with the regularity of shuttle trains, suspicious acts and looks by virtually every member of the family, are contributing factors in building toward a surprise finish.

Sarah Padden, as the wealthy aunt, registers pleasantly as one of the suspects who sets aside all question of her guilt by burning down her home in order to trap the guilty party. Gavin Gordon, as the ringleader of the family group trying to railroad the aunt into an institution, shows excellent possibilities.

Wallace Ford handles his assignment as the newspaper columnist easily and convincingly. He walks in on the story by invitation from Gordon and also plays the amateur sleuth by taking a hand in unravelling the mystery. Marian Marsh, as Ford's femme assistant, scores on appearance and contributes excellent support.

For Beauty's Sake

(Comedy Drama)

20th-Fox production. Features Ned Sparks, Marjorie Weaver, Ted North, Joan Davis. Supporting players: Pierre Watkin, Lenita Lane, Richard Lane, Lotus Long, Glenn Hunter, Lois Wilson, John Ellis, Tully Marshall, Phyllis Fraser, Olaf Hytten, Isabel Jewell, Nigel De Brulier, Janet Beecher, Helena Phillips Evans, Margaret Dumont. Director, Shepard Traube. Associate producer, Lucien Hubbard. Screenplay, Wanda Tuchock, Ethel Hill, Walter Bullock. Based on Clarence Budington Kelland's original. Photography, Charles Clarke. Art direction, Richard Day, Lewis Creber. Set decorations, Thomas Little. Film editor, Nick De Maggio. Costumes, Herschel. Musical direction, Emil Newman. Previewed June 24. Running time: 62 mins.

Clarence Budington Kelland's story of a serious young professor of astronomy who suddenly finds himself the owner of a beauty shop made a better novel than a film production. Filmed about a year ago, picture is just now going into release, and will meet with approval in only a few spots. Ineptly written, directed and played, its comedy falls flat and the pace makes the 62 minutes' running time seem longer.

Ted North, the professor, must run his late aunt's beauty salon for two years if he wants to inherit her fortune. Marjorie Weaver, a daffy dame, gets her grandfather, Tully Marshall, to loan his press agent, Ned Sparks, to help boom the beauty business. With the aid of Joan Davis, a slap-happy partner in the enterprise, a blackmail ring, murder and similar dirty work are uncovered and after a number of near-adventures, eye-rolling suspects and hard efforts at comedy everything comes to a more or less satisfactory conclusion.

The principals make a valiant attempt to put over their varied characterizations, with only so-so success. Such old standbys as Pierre Watkin, Richard Lane, Glenn Hunter, Lois Wilson, Isabel Jewell, Janet Beecher and others are wasted.

Shepard Traube directed from the screenplay by Wanda Tuchock, Ethel Hill and Walter Bullock. Lucien Hubbard was associate producer and Charles Clarke photographed. The physical production mounting and technical departments are first-class.

STRIKE AGAINST MUTUAL PROGRAMS ON WKRC

New York, June 24.—Strike against all Mutual network commercials heard over WKRC, Cincinnati, was called today by the American Federation of Radio Artists Board as meeting of Mutual, WKRC and union reps, scheduled for tomorrow in Chicago, was cancelled. Strike order, effective July 7, has been sent to all producers, agencies, etc., calling attention to the fact that the station is on its 'unfair' list. Union noted that clause in commercial network code states that all members have 'contractual obligation' to obey AFRA rules.

Tomorrow's meeting was called off after Hubert Taft, Jr., WKRC owner, said he was unable to deal with AFRA because there is another union in the field. Latter, an independent announcer union, is charged by AFRA with being Taft-dominated.

Production, which rolls next Monday, will have the colored songstress in a comedy as well as a singing role. Other specialty acts in the picture are the Merry Macs and the Hoosier Hot Shots.

he would consider terms of a licensing agreement. He said he hoped to get around to it in two or three days. It is noted that at no time has NBC broken off negotiations with the Society since Vice-Prez Mark Woods entered the picture five weeks ago. Feeling in the trade is that for the first time since the break, NBC and Ascap are somewhere near reconciliation.

Probability of Ascap and CBS getting together was shattered when the Ascap board voted to refer the contract proposal submitted by Columbia yesterday to its regular counsel and to David Podell, whom Society had already retained to start anti-trust action against NBC, CBS, BMI, RCA and National Assn. of Broadcasters. Opinion of Ascap's board was that letter accompanying the CBS proposal constituted in itself a case of conspiracy.

'Blossoms', and is deserving of unstinted encomiums.

Aside from Miss Garson, who steps head and shoulders above her magnetic roles in 'Goodbye, Mr. Chips' and 'Pride and Prejudice', an expert and altogether too short performance is turned in by Walter Pidgeon, who, as Sam Gladney, the husband, makes the Texas Children's Home and Aid Society of Fort Worth possible. He gives a clean-cut, straight-from-the-shoulder portrayal that should further endear him to his long list of admirers.

Felix Bressart, as the understanding doctor, stands out predominantly, and turns in one of the best character portrayals seen on the screen in some time. Marsha Hunt has a very small part, near the start of the story, and it is because of her tragedy that the homeless waifs of Texas no longer are forced to go through life with the stigma of illegitimacy upon them. Miss Hunt's beauty is superbly enhanced by the Technicolor filming, and her work is deserving of every credit.

Excellent performances, too, are turned in by Clinton Rosemond, Cecil Cunningham, Fay Holden, Samuel S. Hinds and Henry O'Neill. Of the youngsters, Pat Barker demonstrates the screen quality that is always in demand, and Richard Nichols and Mary Taylor also have small parts which they play admirably.

Marc Lawrence does the heavy, just a small part, but makes the most of it, and every other member of the large cast fits in admirably.

Yarn ends with the introduction of the Christmas song, 'Adeste Fidelis', with the fadeout showing Miss Garson finally convinced that she must give up the adopted waif who for some years has taken the place of her own son, and making ready to receive new charges.

Herbert Stothart has evolved a fitting musical score, most of which is played as background, and the recording of Douglas Shearer and the art direction of Cedric Gibbons are flawless. W. Howard Greene with Karl Freund did their usual expert camera chore, and the Technicolor supervision of Natalie Kalmus indicates a careful attention to every detail.

'Blossoms In the Dust' may not be the greatest picture ever filmed, but it is one of the best dramas that has reached the screen in years. Exhibitors who fail to cash in on this are lacking in every sense of showmanship. It is tailor-made for box office success.

Breen Seeks Best for RKO; Welles To Do 3 or 4 Yearly

that the only way for a studio to make good pictures is first to have a bang-up yarn. Although he said there would be no raiding of other lots' talent rosters, he said that RKO would spare no expense in getting the best available people.

'Stories make stars', Breen said, 'stars don't make stories.'

He said that Welles will produce some of the pictures under the agreement about to be signed, and that he will produce, write, direct and act in others.

'Heart of Darkness', 'Smiler With a Knife' and an untitled melodrama, with a Mexican background, will be among the first three pictures Welles will make for RKO, Breen said. 'Heart of Darkness', by Joseph Conrad', and 'Smiler With a Knife' are two pictures Welles has been trying to make since he came to Hollywood. They were both nixed by George Schaefer before Welles made 'Citizen Kane'.

Breen said that 'Kane' would be given its general release in September, going out in the second package of RKO product under the consent decree. He was lavish in his praise of Welles:

'You have to watch him or he'll write a script overnight. He is a great artist. On the slightest provocation he'll write a screenplay.' He also said that Welles 'will have the same freedom he's always had.'

One of the immediate tasks confronting him, the new executive vice-president said, was to build up acting talent. He said steps had already been taken in that direction, listing Ruth Warrick, Dorothy Comingore, Joseph Cotten, Ray Collins, Ann Burr and Paul Henrie as those under contract to the studio who are most likely for stardom.

All but Henrie (formerly Paul Henried, who scored in 'Night Train') are either Mercury Players, or appeared with Welles in 'Citizen Kane'. Miss Burr and Collins are now in Welles' legit production of 'Native Son'.

Breen said that RKO would make 'adult pictures', concentrating on 'escapist' films. 'People don't want preaching', he said, 'they want good stories.'

He said he believes that 'there are too many bad pictures', but that the current national box office slump cannot be blamed entirely upon poor product. He gave three reasons for slack business: that people are too busy in national defense work to go to theatres; that there are too many bad pictures, and that the 1,500,000 men in army camps, and their sweethearts, no longer are steady patrons.

Breen disclosed that he resigned from his job of administering the Producers Code simply because he was 'punch drunk'. He said that years of the grinding, heavy work in the post had been enough, and that he had refused every kind of inducement, even a handsome salary increase, when the Producers tried to make him remain in the Hays office.

Breen will not produce any pictures at the present time, he said.

An interesting aspect to the press conference, which was attended by a score of newspaper people, was Breen's easy manner with the interviewers. He answered every question put to him (sometimes off the record) with a grace that the correspondents present said every other top executive in Hollywood ought to emulate.

NY Court Extends Term Of Jurisdiction In Schenck Conviction

New York, June 24.—U. S. District Court Judge Conger, on consent of Mathias Correa, U. S. attorney, today extended the term of court to have jurisdiction over the Joseph M. Schenck-Joseph Moskowitz case until Aug., 1942. The action was at the request of the defendants, since under court rules, after a decision has been delivered, the court retains jurisdiction to modify or change its decision for three months.

The case, now being on appeal, the defendants do not desire to have technicalities of Federal court prevent them from securing such modification as Trial Judge Grover Moscowitz might want to make.

SMITH, DISNEY CONFABS ON AGAIN TODAY

sation is said to have centered largely around the question of recognizing the SCG as bargaining representative for the workers, reinstatement of all employes, withdrawal of National Labor Relations Board petitions, ban on fines and blacklists against non-strikers, etc.

In the meantime the first of 400 wage claims for workers was filed with the Wage-Hour Division by George E. Bodle, counsel for the Guild. Ed Dunn, an animator, is asking for payment of $80 for work he claims to have performed at home before the walkout. He also is seeking two hours pay weekly from October, '39, to October, '40, claiming Disney required the employes to work 44 hours weekly, although 42 were recorded in accordance with the Wage-Hour Law.

Guild leaders expressed hope for an early settlement of the controversy, but added that plans were being laid for a national campaign to stop screening of Disney pictures. They refused to reveal details of the plan, but insisted that arrangements were being made to 'lower the boom' at the proper time.

Smith declined to discuss his meeting with company representatives, but said that he was still hopeful of finding a middle ground that would be acceptable to both groups and end the walkout.

Speedy Deal Reported Between Producers, Directors Guild

Producers and the Screen Directors Guild representatives meet today to discuss the Guild's demands for minimum wage scales and other contract revisions. It is understood that a tentative accord has already been reached on several of the points, indicating that a speedy deal will be set up.

In addition to the minimum scales for low-budget pictures, the SDG is seeking an increase to 90% of the current 80-20 Guild shop agreement, and guaranteed terms of employment. The directors are asking a minimum of $300 per week for shorts, montages and second units; $350 for westerns and serials, and $500 for features. The proposed minimums are slightly lower where a director is employed on a term contract.

Milder Reveals WB 'Churchill' Pic

New York, June 25.—Warners will produce the 'Life of Winston Churchill', it was revealed today by Max Milder, company's British manager, on his arrival via Clipper from London. Picture likely will be made at the Teddington plant in London. Milder claimed he made the trip across to discuss the latest developments in England with Harry Warner, but made no mention of the purported deal to buy an interest in the John Maxwell theatre chain in Great Britain. His visit here has been linked by London reports with the possibility that Warners might buy.

SCARCITY OF LABOR FACES STUDIO UNIONS

Film unions are experiencing difficulty in filling studio calls these days. Most of the crafts are refusing to issue work permits or to call in outsiders, with the result that hundreds of technicians are drawing time and a half to work second shifts. Men employed at one studio are refusing to accept a call from another lot the same day unless guaranteed time and half.

Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644, said his organization had to call in 30 outside painters Monday to fill studio calls, and that several outsiders also were given work on Tuesday. Many studio technicians object to working double shifts, making it difficult for the unions to fill calls when production goes above the average peaks.

Fred Pelton, Producer labor contact, said work in the studios is 'terrific'. Heavy production schedules and departure of many technicians to work on Defense Program projects are blamed for the scarcity of trained men.

UNIVERSAL plans to build the Merry Macs into the comedian class, as well as using the group's musical talents in a number of pictures during the coming season. In line with the efforts to establish group as comics, studio is holding back release of 'Moonlight in Hawaii' until after the public gets a film glimpse of the boys in 'San Antonio Rose', which has them handling small comedy spots in addition to singing. In 'Moonlight', the MacMichaels, Joe, Ted and Judd, have more of a chance to display comedy talents. In their next, 'Ride 'Em, Cowboy', with Abbott and Costello, the Macs are slated to sing only two songs, their roles calling for considerable acting footage as dude ranch guides. Studio is not neglecting Mary Lou Cook, the femme member of the vocal group, planning to groom her for feature lead assignments in addition to her singing.

STUDIO politics at times are pathetically ridiculous. Execs who have nothing to do but figure in whose camp an employe may be, make blunders that can prove most costly to their companies but sometimes do not realize the fact until too late. Recently a producer left a studio after having prepared a picture for production. Director who made the picture, because having been selected by him for the task, was tabbed as 'his boy', so he was given the childish treatment of being assigned to a two by four office and having his secretary taken away. This did not dampen the director's ardor for he turned out a picture said to be one of the company's big selling standouts for the new season. But he is still in the same office and minus his secretary.

AN INDIE major studio where the habit has been not to give increases to employes regardless of servitude was most magnanimous to the son of one of its top execs. The youth, out of college only a short time, learning the biz, was getting around $25 a week. When word got out he was engaged to be married his salary was doubled to $50 a week, with a promise from the head of the studio that it would become $75 after the marriage ceremony. Employes on lot were none too thrilled as shortly before this incident a department head had asked for an increase from $20 to $25 a week for a comptometer operator who had been with the company for eight years and was told to let the employe out if they insisted on getting the tilt.

'RIDE 'EM, COWBOY' will not be filmed on location at a dude ranch in Arizona or New Mexico as previously planned by Universal, studio having failed to find a suitable ranch equipped with a large swimming pool in either state. Instead, Universal located two ranches around Newhall which will serve its purpose for backgrounds, one furnishing the necessary swank pool and the other the main and out ranch buildings. Picture's opening scenes will be started Monday on location on Alameda street in the railway stock yards, later going to Newhall. About 95% of scenes are outdoors.

Thousands of newspaper tieups are made possible by use of correspondents. Details have been worked out by Tally and S. R. Kent.

THE real reason behind the trip of Jesse Lasky to New York is not to attend the premiere of 'Sergeant York' (although he'll catch that, too), but to talk with banking houses about raising $3,500,000. A couple of bank executives stationed here caught a sneak showing of 'Sergeant York', contacted their home offices and reported that the picture looked like a winner. The bankers asked Lasky to come east. With the three and a half million Lasky hopes to raise he plans to produce three pictures.

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

There was a little hunk of clay down deep beneath the sod,
To all intents and purposes a meek and hopeless clod,
But in his soggy bosom burned ambition's glowing flame.
'I'll rise above the sod', he said, 'and grasp undying fame'.
A shovel rudely dug him up and tossed him in a truck,
And with a cheerful heart he cried: 'O boy, am I in luck'.
They flung him in an oven, which fulfilled his fondest wishes,
And presently the clod became a set of china dishes.
And now he gleams in flaming lights for all the world to see,
Along with star attractions on a movie house marquee.

Film Preview and Review

Blondie In Society

(Comedy)

Columbia production and release. Features Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake, Larry Simms, Daisy. Supporting cast: Jonathan Hale, Danny Mummert, William Frawley, Edgar Kennedy, Chick Chandler, Irving Bacon, Bill Goodwin, Robert Mitchell's Boys' Choir, Chin-Up-White-Tie-For-Dinner (dog). Producer, Robert Sparks. Director, Frank R. Strayer. Story, Eleanore Griffin, based on the comic strip created by Chic Young. Screenplay, Karen DeWolf. Photography, Henry Freulich. Film editor, Charles Nelson. Musical director, M. W. Stoloff. Previewed June 25. Running time: 77 mins.

This is one of the best in the 'Blondie' series to date. Director Frank R. Strayer chalks up a goodly score here with a sprightly script which owes much to a number of well planned gag situations. The normal adult following, wherever these episodes are booked, will be maintained while it's an especially strong bidder for juvenile attention.

The story revolves primarily about dogs, with Dagwood bringing home a Great Dane who promptly proceeds to get the Bumstead family into hot water with the neighbors. Despite the fetching display of thoroughbred canines in various sequences, Daisy, the old Bumstead standby, is never outshone, nearly always keeping the spotlight with cut tricks.

Trouble unfolds when Dagwood brings home a great Dane champ in lieu of $50 which he loaned a friend. Though a real thoroughbred, the animal has never won a prize because he goes to sleep at dog shows. One of the gag shots has the dog devouring all the food in the Bumstead kitchen followed by a burping spree. Another funny situation is pictured at a dog hospital where an anxious owner, pacing outside the canine maternity ward like a worried father, throws a goofy smile when advised that his dog has given birth to a litter of six which he is allowed to peek at only through a glass window.

Edgar Kennedy does his slow burn with telling effect here, as the veterinary, after a deal with Blondie, whereby he gets a royal trimming on the Dane's medical and lodging expenses. Penny Singleton essays two vocal numbers and does well. The two juveniles, Larry Simms and Danny Mummert, register for light comedy returns, while Arthur Lake turns in his usual imitation of the harassed husband.

Blondie's singing is tied in with the Great Dane as she discovers that he will stand up and show whenever she tries a tune. As a result of Blondie's discovery the champion wins a $500 prize and is sold to a millionaire dog fancier for a grand.

Production shapes up as a pleasant dog picture. Robert Mitchell's Boys Choir is in for one sequence, and okay.

Mary Lee Lent Par

Paramount has borrowed Mary Lee, 16-year-old songstress, from Republic for a role in 'Sing a Song of Homicide'. William Clemens is directing.

Kaaren in 'Rags'

Suzanne Kaaren will do the femme heavy in 'Rags to Riches' at Republic. Jerome Cowan has the male meanie spot.

Shadows On the Stairs

(Melodrama)

Warners production and release. Cast: Frieda Inescort, Paul Cavanagh, Heather Angel, Bruce Lester, Miles Mander, Lumsden Hare, Turhan Bey, Charles Irwin, Phyllis Barry, Mary Field, Paul Renay, Sidney Bracy. Directed by D. Ross Lederman. Associate producer, William Jacobs. Screenplay by Anthony Coldeway, from a play by Frank Vosper. Camera, Allen G. Siegler. Edited by Thomas Pratt. Reviewed at the Orpheum theatre, June 25. Running time: 63 mins.

Three wanton murders, a house permeated with mystery and an unusual denouement keeps 'Shadows On the Stairs' from falling into the desultory film type. Lack of marquee names has probably been one of the reasons why Warners has held back a first run here, and then gave it to the Orpheum which, by the way, is hard up for pictures.

Finale, instead of determining the wholesale killings, leaves the audience perplexed until Bruce Lester reveals that he has been reading his latest play, and that all the villains concocted by him are in reality rather nice people.

Locale is laid in an English boarding house, conducted by Frieda Inescort, who has an emotional type of role which she handles most satisfactorily. Paul Cavanagh, whose business never is explained, is first suspected of the murder, and then the crime is pinned on Phyllis Barry when Cavanagh is killed. Another suspect is Turhan Bey, but in the final reading of the play Miles Mander, husband of Miss Inescort, is revealed by Lester as the killer.

Everybody gives a corking good performance and for a time it looks as though the film may get places. Charlie Irwin has a fat piece as an English Bobby. Screenplay was adapted from the stage play of Frank Vosper by Anthony Coldeway, who has turned out a most satisfactory script. Direction by D. Ross Lederman leaves nothing to be desired, and the camera work is up to snuff.

Despite these laudable efforts the film itself will have trouble getting to first base, and at most it can be considered suitable only for bottom spot of dual bills.

Crawford, Taylor Pic Rolls at Metro

'When Ladies Meet' started shooting yesterday at Metro, with Robert Z. Leonard directing. Joan Crawford, Robert Taylor, Greer Garson and Herbert Marshall have the top roles. Spring Byington also has been cast. Robert Planck is handling the camera. Red Golden is assistant director.

Sherman A. Rose has been set to edit the next two Harry Sherman productions, 'Tombstone' and 'American Empire', Richard Dix starrers. 'Tombstone' is to be filmed at Monument Valley, Utah, with 'American Empire' crew to go on location on Superstition Mountain, Ariz.

Chapin Additions

Anna Morrison Chapin has been set at Universal to do additional scenes for 'Sunset In Wyoming', Gene Autry western. Don Ryan started work at the studio yesterday on 'West of the Range' for George Sherman.

Film Players Ready Weekend Shows For 6 Camps

The Motion Picture Committee for Talent and Camp Recreation is now lining up film names for a tour of six army camps and air fields over the weekend as the 10th special show to be staged for members of the army service stationed on the Pacific coast.

Kay Kyser and Marlene Dietrich will headline this week's talent array and Kay Francis, Lucille Ball, Judy Canova, Desi Arnaz, Ann Miller, Pat O'Brien and Jimmy Durante are lending their services for the junket. These names will be augmented by others being set by the committee, depending upon studio and other commitments, and not all will appear at each of the six entertainment points.

Troupe leaves by automobile and bus tomorrow for Camp Callan to stage the first show. The second will be held at Camp Haan Saturday. The group trains out Sunday for San Francisco to work the remaining spots, Camp McQuaide, Hamilton Field, the Presidio and Moffett Field. Swing of the six camps will take about six days in all and is the longest coverage yet undertaken by the committee in setting up special entertainment for the soldiers. It is figured film names will play to around 100,000 enlisted men and officers on the junket.

May Wage Earners' Payroll in Pix Off $59,182

Heavy spring production surge that sent total weekly payrolls to wage earners soaring to new highs in April, declined during May, according to figures released by the California Labor Statistics Bulletin covering the motion picture production field. Decline in work nicked the average weekly payroll by $59,182 and there were 1,006 less workers employed each week than during the preceding month. Total weekly payroll averaged $643,008 for May as against $702,190 paid during April, and wage earners numbered 13,821 for May as compared to 14,827 for April.

Wage earners worked an average of 35.3% hours each week during May to collect an average pay check of $46.52 at an hourly rate of $1.316. Hourly rate averaged slightly higher than the $1.308 paid workers during April, but that month saw pay checks averaging $47.36 each for a total weekly hours of 36.2%.

Paramount To Pre-judge Tunes on Exploitation Lines Before Pic Starts

As a means of gauging potential film exploitation possibilities, sheet and recording sales value, and affording additional protection for elaborate production numbers costing from $15,000 to $50,000, tunes to be used in expensive musical sequences at Paramount are to be pre-judged in the future before shooting begins. Closer working arrangements between Sidney Kornheiser, general manager of Paramount and Famous Music Corporations, Lou Lipstone, music head at the studio, and all directors working on musicals, have been set with the object of determining in advance whether songs to be used in pictures are exploitable and how weaker numbers with possibilities can be salvaged by revamping.

Kornheiser, who planed in from New York early this week, is going over individual musical problems with Paramount producers and directors and has also evolved plans for plugging Ascap tunes from films over the air. Kornheiser has worked out a program which he believes will be acceptable to Ascap and at the same time give pictures the invaluable ether exploitation which cannot be replaced in any other way. Stronger plugging of filmusical tunes via trailers also is being arranged.

Of major significance in Kornheiser's confabs is the decision to get the musical publishing reaction to tunes before they are filmed. Instead of sending music back east for plugging, sheet and recording sales, after the tunes have been filmed, publishing execs first will be consulted.

While here Kornheiser has been auditioning numbers from 'Glamour Boy', 'Louisiana Purchase', 'Birth of the Blues', 'Sing a Song of Homicide' and 'The Fleet's In'. He estimates that from 12 to 15 numbers suitable for sheet sales and recordings will be selected from these productions. Kornheiser, who holds a union card in the Music Publishers Contact Employees of Greater New York, also has been making the rounds with Tubby Garron and Nat Winecoff, plugging tunes at local niteries and hotel dance rooms.

AFL Exec Council Refuses To Enter Xtra, SAG Fite

by Harry Mayo, chairman of the Extras Advisory Council, who stated he had received the following telegram from William Green, AFofL president:

'The Executive Council found from an examination of records and facts it lacked authority to interfere in the Screen Actors Guild situation. The Council, however, wishes to be helpful in bringing about an adjustment in every possible way. Suggest you present your case to Organizer Aubrey Blair, representative of the AFofL in Hollywood'.

It is understood that Mayo and the Council have wired Green that they refuse to accept the decision as final, and that their demand for a vote in the Guild will be taken over his head. It was reported, however, that with the Council having ruled against interference, the only other step in the AFofL would be to appeal direct to the convention.

The Council decision is said to have been based on the fact that the extras themselves voted in favor of abolishing the SAG Council and designating the SAG board of directors as their bargaining representative. They are said to have taken the position the matter was an internal jurisdictional dispute that should be settled by the SAG and its parent body, the Associated Actors and Artistes of America.

The extras had asked the AFofL to investigate failure of the SAG to give them equal voting privilege with Class A members.

MG Collarites Rap Non-Strike Idea

Metro members of the Screen Office Employes Guild last night voted full confidence in their negotiating committee, and adopted a resolution directing the committee to call upon the membership when it was felt necessary to make their 'voice more emphatic'. The White Collarites gave a bronx cheer to a proposal calling for a non-strike clause in the five-year contract, and cheered reports of strike actions that brought Producer agreements to the Screen Cartoonists Guild and other crafts.

The group named Ken Andrews, Martha Lindeman and Paul Sanders on a grievance committee to take up current problems pending signing of a contract. Bernard Lusher presided as chairman. George Macon reported on the progress of negotiations, and Attorney George E. Bodle spoke on the Disney Cartoonists strike.

The meeting was attended by approximately 250 Metro workers, who pledged full support to the committee. It was agreed that no definite action would be taken pending receipt of full counter proposals, promised by the company in time for consideration at the next SOEG meeting.

The distribution of a pamphlet calling the meeting and charging that Metro executives had been stalling and that 'meetings are cancelled on one pretext or another', is said to have resulted in a hurried conference of studio executives including E. J. Mannix, Nicholas Nayfack, and Fred Pelton, Producer labor contact. The executives are said to have discussed the negotiations held with the SOEG, most of which have been handled by a committee headed by Nayfack.

player for the lead in 'The Admirable Crichton' while on the Coast, as company is having trouble casting for this British production.

The Par manager praised British morale lavishly, saying whole sections had been bombed out of the Leeds and Birmingham Par branches, and that Manchester and Liverpool had been blasted out of operation. He said about 450 cinemas out of a total of 5,000 in the United Kingdom have been shuttered by bombing or other reasons, but that business continued remarkably strong, people still having money to spend for pictures.

Rose expressed the hope that the new British frozen coin pact, being readied for fall, will be more lenient in view of the Lend-Lease law. Well over $20,000,000 due American distributors has been frozen by the British, Rose said.

When first reports of the Russian-German war were received in Lisbon on Sunday, Rose said, nobody believed them for hours.

Lamb was one of the most popular executives at the studio, and handled most of the negotiations with officials of the Wage-Hour Law Division pertaining to classification of film workers at the plant.

Smith was reported to be in a huddle with William Garrity and other company representatives on proposals for ending the union controversy. It was said that if a set of proposals could be agreed upon they would be submitted to members of the SCG today for rejection or acceptance.

NOLAN LEAVING RKO AFTER 21 YEARS

J. J. Nolan, assistant secretary of RKO Pictures, leaves the company July 15 for an extended vacation. He will announce his future plans at a later date, having several studio offers under consideration. Nolan has been with RKO for the past 21 years, holding executive spots in the accounting, advertising and bookkeeping departments before being elected assistant secretary in 1929. He came to the Hollywood studio in 1934 and was made vice-president in charge of the studio in 1939.

PRODUCER RULE HITS HOURLY WAGE WORKERS

The Producers have turned thumbs down on union demands for paid vacations for hundreds of film technicians and other film workers who are employed on hourly wage rates. The ruling applies to workers who are steadily employed but who are paid an hourly scale, it was disclosed yesterday as studio managers and laboratory superintendents met to discuss counter proposals for submission to Laboratory Technicians Local 683 of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes.

Demands of Local 683 were explained by Pat Casey and Fred Pel-

UNION JURISDICTIONAL SHOWDOWN AFTER JULY 1

A showdown in the union jurisdictional dispute involving several thousand studio laborers is expected shortly after July 1. A deal is reported in the making in the east with Prexy George E. Browne, of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, which would give the jurisdiction to Studio Utility Employes Local 724.

Anticipating such a move, however, Studio Laborers and Utility Workers Local 727 of the IATSE, has filed a petition with the National Labor Relations Board asking to be designated as bargaining representative for all studio workers. Both crafts were designated by the NLRB in the IATSE election when the United Studio Technicians Guild was defeated. Since that time both crafts have been claiming jurisdiction.

IATSE heads here believe that the petition pending with the NLRB would automatically block any move by union heads to settle the controversy unless approval of the board was secured.

CARRY ON DISNEY PEACE SESSIONS

Hollywood Inside

HARRY WARNER undertook to underwrite overhead and expenses of the United Service Organizations show at Hollywood Bowl on Sunday night. Besides Jack L. Warner contributed $250 to provide tickets for soldiers from Camp Haan who will attend the show. Others who contributed large amounts to take care of the boys were Earle C. Anthony, $500; Ronald Colman, $250; Herbert Marshall, $250; Arthur Lyons, for a client, $250, and Jules Stein, $250. Plan is to take care of 5,000 men with tickets costing 50 cents. Returns show that $1,600 has been subscribed and that another $900 is necessary. Report is the ticket sale has been very good outside of picture industry, but apparently those in it have forgotten the request over radio and in newspapers to buy tickets for the all-star performance.

OLSEN AND JOHNSON were hard pressed last month to find comics to take their roles in the stage version of 'Hellzapoppin'' so they could report here by June 1 for the film version of the show being made by Jules Levey's Mayfair Productions at Universal. Nevertheless, they made it, and they've been cooling their heels around town until yesterday, when the camera first rolled. They had been admonished to report on June 1 so that work could begin at once. After elaborate preparations and rehearsing Wednesday night so they would be letter perfect in their first scene yesterday morning, they came on the set at 8 a.m., as they had been ordered to do. Nothing happened until 12:45 p.m. Then they were given a scene to do that they had never read before.

INSTEAD of shooting all of the location scenes (at Brent's Crags) and then moving into the studio for exteriors on 'How Green Was My Valley', John Ford and the 20th-Fox company are shuttling back and forth between the two spots. Ford figures that shooting the picture as much as possible in sequence gives greater smoothness and flow to the story. Director is also adding to the expense of the production by recording the music on the sets as the camera rolls. A chorus of Welsh singers is being used throughout almost a third of the picture. With the music going at the same time the actors go through their paces, the acting is given a new vigor, Ford believes. He first tried out the idea of recording music on the set in 'Tobacco Road'.

EMPLOYES in the various studio departments who have vacations slated to start July 7 have found out they won't be able to take advantage of the Fourth of July weekend and leave their duties Thursday night, July 3, without losing a day's salary for the following Saturday. Usual practice in former years has been to gain the extra vacation days when a holiday fell on a weekend without objections from department heads. As further evidence of the general tightening up on employes, orders have been issued at one studio that anyone failing to report for the half-day work period Saturday, July 5, will be docked two days' pay, including the holiday.

BIGGEST influx of out-of-towners in years is proving a source of worry to publicity heads at the networks. Nearly all make for the radio studios the day they get in town, bearing letters from local newspapers, radio stations and other connections. What makes the problem all the more acute is that most name shows are either off for the summer or pitching at training camps. NBC is especially hard hit as its studios are small and the ad agencies distribute most of the ducats. Shows ordinarily snubbed by the locals are playing to SRO at every broadcast.

THAT western dailies are not overwhelmingly anti-radio is indicated by a survey taken by NBC sales promotion department. Canvass of nine states and Canada, through a press clipping bureau, reveals that for an average day in the month of May NBC's red network shows received 151 mentions; CBS programs, 143; NBC blue, 151, and Don Lee-Mutual, 130. Aggregate of California papers is more than double all others combined despite the local blackout, excepting Zuma Palmer's Citizen-News column.

THERE'S one director in town who would rather work at Republic than at Metro. He's at the Valley lot now, after talking his way out of a contract renewal at Metro. When he moved over to Republic he was immediately put to work on a picture and assured that there would be plenty of jobs to follow. He's been sitting out at Culver City, drawing his check, but without directing a film for the past two years.

NOT only Orson Welles name, but his picture appeared yesterday for the first time in the local Hearst papers since his feud with the publisher over 'Citizen Kane'. The Bride Came C.O.D.

(Comedy)

Warner Bros. production and release. Stars James Cagney and Bette Davis. Cast: Stuart Erwin, Eugene Pallette, Jack Carson, George Tobias, Harry Davenport, William Frawley, Edward Brophy, Harry Holman, Chick Chandler, Keith Douglas, Herbert Anderson, William Newell, DeWolf Hopper. Producer, William Cagney. Director, William Keighley. Screenplay, Julius J. and Philip G. Epstein. Story, Kenneth Earl, M. M. Musselman. Photography, Ernie Haller. Film editor, Thomas Richards. Music by Max Steiner. Previewed at the Studio City theatre, June 26. Running time: 86 mins.

In 'The Bride Came C.O.D.' Warners has turned out a splendid light comedy that is liberally garnished with slapstick and one that has a huge potential draw through the box office names of James Cagney and Bette Davis.

Cagney is an aviator about to take Miss Davis and Jack Carson from Los Angeles to Las Vegas on an elopement flight when he learns that the girl's father, Eugene Pallette, a multi-millionaire oil man, will pay him handsomely to prevent the marriage. He lures Carson and Stuart Erwin, a radio gossip, out of the plane and takes off alone with Miss Davis. The ship he is trying to keep out of the hands of the finance company crashes in the desert near a ghost town inhabited only by Harry Davenport. Davenport believes Cagney has kidnaped Miss Davis and locks him up in the old town's jail. Later, he realizes that Cagney is in the right. Pallette, in one plane; Carson in another, and a flock of newspapermen in still another, search for the ghost town.

Pallette hopes to get there in time to keep his daughter from marrying. Carson brings a Nevada justice of the peace with him in his anxiety to be married. Meanwhile, Miss Davis falls for Cagney. But by the time Carson has arrived she has changed her mind and, to spite Cagney, marries Carson. Wedding is illegal, however, because the judge is from Nevada and the ghost town is in California. Cagney wins the girl.

Miss Davis does a fine piece of work as the spoiled, naive heiress who has a penchant for falling on her derriere into patches of desert cactus. Cagney is Jimmy at his best: the good, clean-cut American youngster, who goes after the gal only because he loves her and not because her old man has pots of dough. Carson turns in a good performance as an orchestra leader with a yen for the deb. Davenport is standout as the understanding old ghost town inhabitant, getting true warmth and sympathy into his part. Such comedy veterans as Erwin, Pallette, George Tobias, William Frawley, Edward Brophy, Harry Holman and Chick Chandler keep the action lively with their excellent support.

Screenplay, by Julius J. and Philip G. Epstein, is slow in starting, but it is packed with sly twists and situations that bring out the best in Cagney and Miss Davis. William Cagney qualifies as a top producer with his work. Direction, by William Keighley, is up to his usual standard, which is to say, tops. Technical assistance, in every department, is first-class.

INDIE PRODUCERS FIGHT TO SAVE DOUBLE BILLS

the tide of opinion against dualings, all those whose livelihood would be endangered will be asked to join in a fighting campaign against movements to curtail picture house programs. It was pointed out at the meeting that most of the labor and technical crews, and many of the actors working for the independents, are not employed by major companies and depend almost exclusively on dual bill products.

Gathering under the chairmanship of I. E. Chadwick, the Producers also drew up a counter proposal on the purity seal charge which the Hays office recently fixed for low budget films, ranging from a minimum of $100 for pictures costing up to $25,000. The IMPPA proposes a payment of $50 for pictures costing up to $25,000, increasing to $150 for films costing $100,000, the scale beyond that figure to conform with the fees paid by major companies.

The meeting last night was called primarily to revive the long dormant Independent Motion Picture Producers' Association with an active campaign to get recognition from the industry for independent producers. In addition to enlisting the support of the unions against single bills, the IMPPA also will map plans to prevent the introduction of legislation or any other movements to stop dual bills. Exhibitors who cannot operate profitably with single bills will be asked to line up with the independent producers.

Attempts will be made to get all independent producers not currently in the association to become members. Among the companies represented last night were Monogram, Producers Releasing Corp., Banner, Supreme, I. E. Chadwick, Gold Seal, Million Dollar, Mascot, Kozinsky Bros., Boots and Saddles, George Weeks, Al Herman, Sarecky-Horwin, Alexander, Cinecolor and Windemere Productions. All independents who come into the association by July 30 will not be taxed with the $100 initiation fee, which becomes effective after that date.

Among the first problems to be tackled was the case of an independent producer who was obliged to pay time and a half for electricians on the set because no other union men were available to take their place after the six-hour shift.

In connection with the campaign against single bills a committee was appointed to consult with the Screen Actors Guild, Screen Writers Guild, the Cameramen and other guilds and unions.

Officers of the IMPPA were elected as follows: I. E. Chadwick, president; William Hackel, vice-president; Lindsley Parsons, second vice-president; Edward Finney, secretary-treasurer.

Play Review

THE VINEGAR TREE

Paul Osborne's tangy comedy of love on the loose and everyone on the make, sophisticated in its day (ask dad, he knows), serves well the talents of another fine actress, Billie Burke. Henry Duffy put the ancient piece on display at El Capitan last night for what is hoped to be a run of four weeks or more after carrying on in Frisco for six weeks. If the reception of the first nighters is any yardage of its revived popularity, it should make a healthy go of it at the boulevard playhouse.

Miss Burke is her fluttery self, a glove-fit for the part. She makes every line tingle with laughs, albeit her punchiest dialog trails off into thin little squeaks. She's mistress of the role all the way, however, and plays it to the hilt. Her artistry overcomes some of the dated repartee and indelicate passages. Every line is geared for a laugh and no holds barred.

Supporting cast is small but competent. Paul Cavanagh and Charles Waldron carry the featured billing. Both seasoned troupers, they never let the pace slacken, and are expert foils for Miss Burke's caperings. An interesting youngster is Eleanor Lawson, who shapes up as picture material. She handles her lines well and holds her own with the more mature troupers. Leona Maricle gives a forthright performance and Henry Wadsworth is okay as the juvenile patsy.

Russell Fillmore directed the three-acter with brisk tempo, and Ernest Glover's set is colorful.

Mutual, WKRC, AFRA Meet in Chicago On Cin. Station Strike

Chicago, June 26. — Representatives of Mutual Broadcasting Co., Station WKRC, the network's Cincinnati outlet, and the American Federation of Radio Artists meet tomorrow morning at the Drake hotel here to try and settle the union strike against the broadcasting station. Session was originally slated for yesterday morning, but was cancelled late Tuesday when Hulbert Taft, Jr., owner of WKRC, declared he was unable to deal with AFRA because there is another union in the field.

AFRA claims the latter, an independent local organization of announcers, is Taft-dominated. AFRA's national headquarters has not yet sent to the agencies the resolution passed by the national board last Tuesday calling a strike as of July 7 against all Mutual sponsors' programs fed to WKRC. That move is now in abeyance pending the Chicago conference.

Meanwhile Ascap counsel warned members of the board not to discuss any terms with CBS since this might jeopardize the anti-trust suit which Ascap is set to file against CBS, Broadcast Music and National Assn. of Broadcasters early next week.

Two Radio Programs For Fall Sought Here by R&R

Two radio programs for the fall are being sought here by Ruthrauff & Ryan agency. One is understood to be a replacement for the daytime serial, 'Big Sister'. Bob Burns has been auditioned for a prospective client, said to be Lever Bros. or an oil company. Burns has a contract with Kraft Music Hall running to the first of the year but sponsor would give him his release as it is doubtful he will be renewed unless he agrees to a deep salary cut.

Edward G. Robinson's 'Big Town' series for R & R's Rinso has been renewed for the fall along with the entire cast and production setup, quieting reports that one of the shows sought by the agency would replace the dramatics. 'Big Town' takes off July 2 for the summer, returning Oct. 8. Pinch hitter is 'Grand Central Station'.

RKO Re-arranges Setup Of Blurbing Films Under Consent Plan

RKO is changing its usual publicity handling of pictures to meet new problems that might arise under consent decree selling. New setup will have publicity campaigns started on a picture at least two weeks before it begins production and following through until after the time of trade showings and first runs are cleared.

Change in method of publicizing features also will aid studio publicity department in servicing publications that require feature stories and art far in advance of a film's release due to printing deadlines. Operation under the consent decree with the greatly lessened time between production and exhibition would stymie such mag planting unless unit publicity work was geared to get under way at an earlier date than has been the customary practice.

Linda Grey of 'Purchase' Signed for Par Pic

Linda Grey, who appeared in the stage production of 'Louisiana Purchase', has been signed at Paramount to do one of the 12 models studio is lining up for the film version of the musical. Miss Grey makes the fourth member of the original cast to be set for the picture and arrives Monday along with Irene Bordoni. Others are Vera Zorina, already here, and Victor Moore, due next week. Picture starts July 7 with Bob Hope starred and Irving Cummings directing.

Dekker is now on loan to Metro for 'Honky-Tonk'. Small has signed Nicolai Remisoff to do the production design for 'Corsican Brothers'.

ton, who have been handling negotiations with the IATSE studio locals. Laboratory heads attended from Paramount, Metro, Warners, 20th-Fox and Columbia. One counter proposal from the Producers calling for slight wage adjustments has already been vetoed by the union.

Representatives of Motion Picture Set Electricians Local 728 and other IATSE crafts talked briefly with Casey and Pelton regarding their demands. Sound Technicians Local 695 and Motion Picture Studio Projectionists Local 165 have already presented their individual demands on wages, hours and conditions. The Producers have promised them a rejection, acceptance or counter proposals early next week.

The IATSE studio locals have set a deadline of July 1 for consummation of negotiations covering proposed contract revisions. The Producers have agreed to the deadline, but because of the vast amount of details to be covered there is a probability company representatives will ask that the time be extended.

Practically all the film unions are requesting vacations for their members, including the IATSE studio locals, Moving Picture Painters Local 644, and other crafts which have contracts calling for hourly wage scales.

or all proposals for an agreement exhausted.

The company is being represented by William Garrity and Verne Caldwell. The Screen Cartoonists Guild committee of six is headed by Herbert Sorrell, business representative of Moving Picture Painters Local 644 and business manager of the SCG strike.

It was reported that the question of recognition of the Guild has been temporarily sidetracked to see if an agreement can be reached on other points. If the two groups get together on all other points and the company is convinced the SCG has a majority of the workers, it was believed the question of recognition might be settled without the necessity of a National Labor Relations Board election.

The discussions now are understood to center around reinstatement of all employes as of May 15, dismissal of all NLRB complaints, ban on blacklists and fines for nonstrikers, acceptance into Guild membership of non-member workers, proposed wages, hours, conditions and dismissals under the announced studio retrenchment policy. Walt Disney and other company heads are being advised as to the daily conversations at the mediation meetings.

New York, June 26.—Suit for $250,000 against George S. Kaufman, Arthur Sheekman and Margaret Shane, writers, by Edward Choate, legit producer, was revealed in New York Supreme court today when Justice Dineer ordered Kaufman's examination before trial on July 21.

Choate claims he advanced $200 to the authors for production rights to the play 'Mr. Big', for the United States and Canada, and for 40% of film, radio and television rights. Kaufman persuaded the writers to refund the $200 and give him the play, Choate claims, in seeking damages and a renewal of the original agreement.

Rodgers, general sales manager for Metro, yesterday issued a statement to the effect that films will be sold on a percentage to those who usually play on percentage, and a fixed price basis to those who usually buy on a flat rental. A new vice-president of Screen Office Employes Guild will be elected at the general membership meeting scheduled July 1 at the Roosevelt hotel. The office became vacant when Peggy Vaughn was elevated to president to succeed Glenn Pratt, who resigned to become SOEG business representative.

Since the Guild Constitution provides no two officers may be employed at the same studio, the new vice-prexy will have to be selected from companies other than RKO and Metro. The SOEG vice-prexy presides as head of the membership committee, and is responsible for co-ordination of the committee's work and the collection of dues.

WRITERS

The boys in the Army camps must be entertained.

Through the Motion Picture Defense Committee, elaborate shows have already appeared in quite a few camps. They had unprecedented success.

It is now planned to organize a large number of units so that every camp West of the Mississippi will be provided with entertainment out of Hollywood.

All motion picture and radio stars who have been approached are ready, willing and eager to contribute their services.

But we need material for them. Therefore this appeal to the writers.

We need skits, sketches, blackouts, routines for individuals.

If you have any such material stuck away in that file, dig it out, and send it to Robert Riskin at Warner Bros. Studio.

If you have any new ideas, get them down on paper. You can write for any personality or personalities. Virtually all of them are available to us.

There is no reason why Hollywood should not be the fountain from which flows all Army and Navy entertainment in the country.

We need your help!

Hollywood Inside

GOVERNMENT check on Communists, Nazis, etc., in the industry is reported to have revealed a lot of unAmericanism in the studios. As a result specific cases will be cited to studio heads with recommendations that foreigners who have been acting as agents for belligerent European nations be eliminated from payrolls as expediently and graciously as possible, as otherwise the Government would take drastic steps that would possibly bring unfavorable publicity on the industry. The reports also cover number of writers of foreign extraction, as well as Americans, who have been espousing Communistic and Fascistic doctrines unreservedly and either must be straightened out or forgotten about by the business. Report is said to cover around 200 names and among them people whom no suspicion has been cast upon. Understood that the cleaning out process will begin shortly and the Government agents feel they can have it completed within a month.

WARNERS U. S. distribution of 'The Prime Minister', made in England with John Gielgud and Diana Wynyard co-starred, marks the first time in years that company has placed one of its English-produced film on its release program in this country. Picture will be distributed this fall as one of Warners deliveries for 1941-42 and is expected to be included in one of the first groups to be sold under the consent decree. When film was received at the studio, executives put it into the editing rooms for general tightening and to speed the action. Footage totaled 14,200 on delivery and has now been trimmed to 11,000 feet. Because execs believe picture has box office possibilities that will match successes established by a few other features made in England, a special exploitation and advertising campaign will be lined up to sell it in this country.

PARAMOUNT is forming plans to sell 'The Remarkable Andrew' as a modern comedy, while at the same time maintaining the value of the historical characters that appear in the picture. Problem is to keep the public from getting the idea that picture is a costume drama, which might result from the use of such names as Andrew Jackson, George Washington, Benjamin Franklin and other such historical figures who, according to the story, reappear on the earth during present times to take part in the events in a human's life. Studio is also having some difficulty lining up actors to portray the various figures, having so far set only two. Brian Donlevy, who plays the top role of Andrew Jackson, and Rod Cameron, who will do Jesse James.

NO OFFICIAL confirmation has been made by Warners as to whom will play the title role in 'The Man Who Came to Dinner', although current reports have Monte Woolley, playing the role in the New York stage version, as the most likely winner. Studio has tested John Barrymore, Fredric March, Charles Laughton, David Cowles and Laird Cregar for the role and at one time was discussing the possibility of testing Director Edmund Goulding for the spot. Since the assignment of Bette Davis to the secretary role, there has been renewed activity from players who would be available for the part, all seeking the assignment.

CAST juggling at Universal over the weekend resulted in switches on three player assignments for as many pictures. Robert Stack, originally slated for 'Hellzapoppin',' now goes to 'Bad Lands of Dakota'. Robert Paige jumps from 'Ride 'Em, Cowboy' to the Stack role in the Olsen and Johnson feature. Dick Foran joins 'Ride 'Em, Cowboy' to replace Paige. Johnny Mack Brown, Universal western star, also joins the latter picture to play the role of the ranch foreman.

HOLLYWOOD offices of Kay Kamen, Ltd., handling commercial tieups for products using Walt Disney characters, have been closed and company will continue to handle the majority of its business in its New York headquarters. Local offices were opened several months ago as a test to see if commercial tieup business on the Coast would justify expansion of company to Hollywood.

Film Previews

Barnacle Bill

(Comedy Drama)

Metro production. Stars Wallace Beery. Features Marjorie Main, Virginia Weidler, Leo Carrillo, Barton MacLane, Donald Meek. Supporting players; Connie Gilchrist, Sara Haden, William Edmunds, Don Terry, Alec Craig. Director, Richard Thorpe. Producer, Milton Bren. Screen play, Jack Jevne and Hugo Butler, based on an original story by Jevne. Photography, Clyde De Vinna. Musical score, Bronislau Kaper. Recording director, Douglas Shearer. Art director, Cedric Gibbons; associate, Urie McCleary. Set decorations, Edwin B. Willis. Film editor, Frank E. Hull. Previewed at the Alexander, Glendale, June 27. Running time: 92 mins.

'Barnacle Bill' would be a better general audience picture if much of its excess footage was trimmed, but as it stands there are a number of swell laughs and typical Wallace Beery mugging to help sell it to his fans. The Bill Johansen he portrays is reminiscent of his 'Bill' in 'Min and Bill', made years ago with Marie Dressler—the same type of lazy, dirty, uncouth fisherman with questionable ethics. The plotting of the story could have been presented in a tighter, snappier form if so much attention had not been paid to surplus material.

Beery goes through the usual paces as a seldom-working fisherman at San Pedro, completely useless and cadging from friends to get along. To bring about a character rejuvenation, the story introduces a long-absent daughter. Her pride in his sailing ability and the affection which springs up between them gradually works a change. He renounces old habits, aids the other fishermen get fair prices for their catch and marries the operator of a boat ways, Marjorie Main. A big laugh is the sequence in church, where Miss Main and Virginia Weidler, the daughter, have dragged him, as they raise cracked voices in hymn-singing. Thrilling are the seascapes of a schooner battling a storm.

Miss Main hits full stride as the blowsy, raucous waterfront business woman. Miss Weidler accounts for an appealing character as the daughter. Leo Carrillo is prevented from giving his customary exhuberance to the role of Pico, Beery's stooge, but makes the part important. Barton MacLane is villainous as the fish-buyer and Donald Meek does well by the part of Miss Main's father. Others capably take care of supporting assignments.

Richard Thorpe's direction from the screenplay by Jack Jevne and Hugo Butler, based on Jevne's original, keeps the action rolling and best displays the material supplied him. Production values marshalled by Milton Bren catch the flavor of the San Pedro fishing wharfs. Clyde De Vinna has handled his camera in excellent style. The musical score by Bronislau Kaper is good, and other technical appurtenances are topnotch.

Spot Alan Mowbray

Alan Mowbray will play the role done by Arthur Treacher on the New York stage in Metro's picturization of 'Panama Hattie'. Mowbray also is up for Warners 'The Man Who Came To Dinner'. Sam Jaffe agented.

Hello Sucker

(Comedy)

Universal production. Stars Hugh Herbert. Features Tom Brown, Peggy Moran, Lewis Howard, June Storey. Supporting players; Walter Catlett, Robert Emmett Keane, Mantan Moreland. Director, Edward Cline. Associate producer, Ken Goldsmith. Screen play, Maurice Leo, Paul Gerard Smith. Original, Arthur T. Horman. Photography, Charles Van Enger. Art direction, Jack Otterson; associate, Ralph M. DeLacy. Film editor, Ralph Dixon. Musical director, H. J. Salter. Sound supervisor, Bernard B. Brown; technician, Hal Bumbaugh. Gowns, Vera West. Set decorations, R. A. Gausman. Previewed June 27. Running time: 60 mins.

Another of Hugh Herbert's zaney celluloid adventures that will bring chuckles to his fans and serve well in its secondary billing position. The pattern used is the usual Herbert formula of hoke comedy, sold in his style of funmaking for satisfactory results all around. The cast of younger players lends good support to the doings and Edward Cline's brand of direction is geared to develop laughs.

Tom Brown and Peggy Moran, bumpkins fresh from the country, are sold a defunct theatrical agency by sharpers Walter Catlett and Robert Emmett Keane. Herbert is a magician who had previously been a sucker-buyer in the agency, and aids the new owners to build a successful business. Romantic interest between the partners, then jealousy when June Storey, a sexy model, is discovered undraped in Brown's office, serves to carry the skimpy plot along for sufficient footage. Miss Moran loses her farmer fiance, Lewis Howard, to the physical blandishments of Miss Storey, and rights her troubles with Brown for the tag in the script developed by Maurice Leo and Paul Gerard Smith from the original by Arthur T. Horman.

Herbert carries off the star billing with his usual aplomb. Brown takes care of the romantic male lead capably. Miss Moran shows increasing promise as a femme lead with a flair for lighter portrayals. Howard does okay by the country fiance part, and Miss Storey is good as the model. Catlett and Keane team well as the city slickers, and Mantan Moreland has a funny elevator boy bit.

Production is neatly presented within budget requirements by Ken Goldsmith. Charles Van Enger's photography and other technical aids are good.

Studio Machinists Demand 10% Tilt

Studio machinists are demanding an immediate 10% wage tilt. They claim the machinists were not included when the other American Federation of Labor studio crafts were given a wage boost and are insisting this oversight be rectified before they start negotiations on current contract revisions. The demand is being given serious consideration by company executives because of the scarcity of machinists who are being given attractive offers to work on Defense Program projects.

Webster On 'Danger'

Warners has signed M. Coates Webster to polish the screenplay of 'Background to Danger'. A. & S. Lyons agented.

Odlum Power Boosted On KAO as Comish OK's Stock Deal

Washington, June 29.—Floyd A. Odlum's move to grab control and a much tighter grip of Keith-Albee-Orpheum, with the reduction in the importance of Michael J. Meehan in the enterprise, is seen in the back-and-forth details in KAO paper. Securities and Exchange Commission has given its approval to the deal and Odlum's power is thus increased.

Holding that the transactions were fair and reasonable, the comish ratified the sale of 70,386 shares of KAO preferred for $5,580,669.75, and voting trust certificates covering 6,000 more ducats for $600,000.

KAO bought 48,586 shares of its own preferred stock from Radio-Keith-Orpheum for $3,090,019.17 and Atlas Corp. (Odlum) and American Company bought 21,800 shares of KAO preferred from Meehan for $2,490,650.

Commission noted that Atlas and American bought on behalf of RKO. In addition, RKO took from Atlas and American for $600,000 the batch of voting trust certificates.

PROD'S RECONSIDER UNION VACASHES

Producers meet today to consider demands of the studio locals of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes for paid vacations, wage tilts, improved conditions and a six-hour minimum for men on daily call. The executives first turned thumbs down on vacations, but are said to have agreed to reconsider when unionists pointed out that company heads in the east had okayed vacations for workers who had been steadily employed for certain periods.

A conference with local heads will be arranged after today's session to discuss counter proposals to be drafted by the Producers. A deadline of Tuesday has been set by the IATSE negotiators headed by Harold V. Smith for completion of proposed contract revisions.

issue; William R. Walsh, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board; company executives and officials of the Screen Cartoonists Guild. Walsh met with Storey Saturday, and later in the day both of them discussed the situation with Herbert Sorrell, strike business manager, and George E. Bodle, SCG counsel.

In the meantime conferences arranged by Harold V. Smith between Disney studio managers and Guild leaders have been temporarily suspended to give the company an opportunity to digest the proposed SCG contract. Smith, who is business representative of Sound Technicians Local 695, has been acting as strike mediator in an effort to get the two groups together.

Another conference between Storey, Walsh and other executives is expected to be held today. It is understood the two hurdles to be overcome before a settlement is reached deal with the demand for retroactive pay and the disposition of employes who signed pledge cards with the Guild and then returned to work. The latter, however, probably would be solved by the reductions to be made under the retrenchment policy planned by the studio.

Aubrey Blair, American Federation of Labor organizer here, is continuing a drive by his committee to raise financial support for the strikers. He also has discussed the requested national boycott of Disney products with William Green, AFofL prexy, but is said to be holding off a few days in the hopes that an agreement can be reached without taking that drastic action. The move has already been approved by the Central Labor Council, which made an unsuccessful attempt to settle the 33-day strike.

Ascap Board Huddles Trammell's Four Point Proposal

network commercial business while it proposes that the individual stations pay 2% on local and national spot commercial business.

2. NBC will clear and pay for the use of Ascap music on all network sustaining and public service programs.

3. NBC proposes that Ascap offer to the independent network stations four alternate methods for the use of Ascap music locally.

4. NBC proposes that the new services of television, frequency modulation, shortwave, etc., pay for the Ascap music on the same basis when commercial revenue for such services is received.

Proposal is subject to the acceptance by NBC affiliates of their portion of network commercial license fee which NBC, under terms of the Ascap consent decree, must pay for clearing all network music at the source. Copies of the proposal have been sent to all independent stations affiliated with NBC.

Trammell said he was hopeful that the terms would be acceptable to Ascap, adding that 'NBC will pay Ascap somewhat more than it has previously'. The proposal, he said, represents a sincere effort on the part of NBC to return Ascap music to the air on a basis equitable to all.

'Independent stations aligned with NBC remain free to negotiate local licenses with Ascap if they so desire', Trammell declared. 'The alternative methods we have suggested permit of great flexibility in negotiating agreements for the use locally of Ascap music and at the same time provide for fair payment to Ascap.'

Trammell said that Broadcast Music, Inc., would be continued 'and with the completion of negotiations with Ascap a competitive market for music will have been established'. He declared that was the purpose behind the formation of BMI and 'I am sure that if our proposal to Ascap is accepted, the composers, lyricists, arrangers and publishers throughout the country will find an ever-widening use for their music and receive fair and equitable compensation for it.'

Theatre Grosses Show Big Improvement In Past 2 Weeks

$170,000 of the record established since the tax schedule was stiffened, and is the second biggest amount received by the treasury this year.

The cumulative receipts for the first five months of this year are $32,776,901, which is more than three times the treasury's haul in the same portion of 1940.

Theatre biz is on the pickup. Whether it is just a flash in the pan, or whether houses are geared for a general uptrend, industry does not profess to know. But the fact remains that grosses during the past week or so have shown a material improvement over takes a year ago.

In 25 key cities, as figured by VARIETY, first run takes are up nearly 200 grand over the corresponding week a year ago. Total gross last week is estimated at $1,411,400 as compared with a combined first run gross in the same number of key spots of $1,292,000 in 1940. This year's estimate is based on 164 theatres as against 167 a year ago.

In New York City grosses were up during the last stanza slightly over what they were a year ago. Twelve theatres last week reported a total take of $251,000, compared with a $244,000 combined gross in 11 houses in 1940.

Subsequent runs also, particularly in the Southern California sector, are reporting an improved tone in attendance. Some of the circuit houses are doing considerably better than they were just a year ago, and general tone of improvement is noted throughout the entire territory.

In Los Angeles the first run situation is materially improved on the current week, takes being considerably above what they were one and two weeks ago, with the exception of the holdovers which are holding their own.

Wobber Sees More Big Pix Through Decree Operation

Operation under the consent decree will mean the highest negative investment for 20th-Fox in its history and a more vital concern for the individual picture, according to Herman Wobber, general manager in charge of distribution. Bigger budgets will result, not from the expenses attached to decree regulations, but because it is invariably the costly production that shows the most satisfactory box office return, Wobber declared. This type of film and the more careful overseeing of it from the production line to the theatre, is the picture that will be the leader in the 1941-42 consent decree market, he said.

Wobber, here to prepare for the company's national sales convention, to be held at the Ambassador hotel July 16-17-18, stated sessions will be the most important 20th-Fox has ever known, what with the revamping of selling ideas and other operation changes necessitated by the consent decree, but hit an optimistic note as to the new season's outlook because of a number of decree factors that should mean more profitable business, if product is right.

At a conference with representatives of trade publications, Wobber stated 'the trade papers have a function that must be continued'. He refused to be quoted on just how he thought the problem of trade and daily press previews should be solved when asked if he didn't believe film publications should see pictures before the exhibitor screenings.

PREVIEW SITUATION

Solution for the daily press previews will be doped out in New York, where huddles between distribution representatives take place this week. Wobber stated the question of trade press screenings is one that must be answered locally by the producers. He pointed out that the consent decree requires the advertising of exhibitor screenings and that a method is being devised in the east for running the dates of such showings in directory form in film papers.

Regarding the coverage of new pictures by both the trade and daily press, Wobber added that 'from the standpoint of the producers personally we would be much better off without comment by the columns.'

Going into the distribution questions that will arise from the decree, Wobber declared sales problems will be greatly multiplied, but because the decree will not hold companies to a rigid selling policy there is opportunity for great forward strides. He pointed out that had 20th-Fox sold 'Alexander Graham Bell' under the new regulations the company would have realized around 35% more. But again, he added, in the case of 'Chad Hanna' the profit would have been smaller.

Because of the advantages offered in the new season, the company's policy will be geared to make the most of its high-budgeted product through close watching of public tastes and the building of new faces. The old selling method failed to give a true picture of the film's box office value, and by the same token often allowed false star values to be established, he said.

'The old faces are beginning to wear out, at least in box office draw', Wobber said, 'and there is a crying need for new faces to replace them. 20th-Fox will stress every effort and spare no expense to build new ones'. Sales head then named Carole Landis, Gene Tierney, Anne Baxter, John Sutton, Dana Andrews, George Montgomery, Elaine Shephard among those the company is concentrating on at the moment.

CAN'T FATHOM B.O.

The reason for the bullish theatre business around the country at present was something Wobber couldn't give. He said the real dope on why a picture sets new box office records in one spot and then in the next reaches a new low has yet to be analyzed correctly. 'This is the first time motion picture companies have failed to receive their usual share of box office business when there was as much money in circulation among the working class as there is today.'

20th-Fox's first group of five will be decided after the convention, Wobber stated, but among it will be a 'Michael Shayne' and 'Private Nurse'. As 20th-Fox starts its new releasing season Aug. 1 the company is late with its first negatives, he said, and among those to be shown salesmen are 'Charley's Aunt', 'Sun Valley', 'Wild Geese Calling', 'Belle Starr', 'A Yank In the R.A.F.', 'Weekend In Havana' and 'How Green Was My Valley', plus a number of smaller features already completed. Company will not include its Zane Grey western series in any of its groups, but will sell the pictures separately. 20th-Fox is announcing 50 features for the new season, but Wobber declared no one has any knowledge at this time just how near the company will come to that total.

Fairbanks Court Case—
Mrs. Sylvia Fairbanks, widow of Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., goes to probate court here today in an attempt to prove that it is necessary for her to have no less than $3,000 a month for living expenses. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Robert Fairbanks, Letitia and Lucille Fairbanks, Flobelle Burden and Mary Margaret Chappellet, others of the actor's heirs, oppose the $3,000 monthly payments to the widow, claiming that she already has received $45,000 and that she will, if the sum is paid her each month, get more than her legal share of the estate.

Universal Wins Suit—
Edward Roller, sculptor, lost his $51,000 damage suit against Universal Pictures Corp., when Superior court ruled that it didn't make any difference how many times the artist's 'Adam and Eve Torso' statue had been copied for film use.

25,000 OVERFLOW BOWL FOR HUGE USO BENEFIT

ment by Edward Arnold that Edward G. Robinson had given a check for $100,000 as his personal contribution to the USO.

With the Stars and Stripes as a backdrop and batteries of lights flooding the hills, the first half of the 'Star Show for USO', broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System, had names, but gave every evidence of hasty preparation. This was in sharp contrast to a bang-up show arranged by Marco for the second half. Some of the best talent from the studio was handicapped with mediocre material, notably skits which had Fanny Brice, Rosalind Russell, Charles Boyer, Irene Dunne, Frank Morgan, John Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore and Rudy Vallee. Others, reading speeches calling for contributions to the USO, were Tyrone Power, Bette Davis, Norma Shearer, Edward G. Robinson, Hattie McDaniel, Robert Taylor, Barbara Stanwyck and Loretta Young.

NATION-WIDE APPEAL

As a lineup designated to carry weight in a nation-wide appeal for funds to millions of radio listeners, the early portion of the program was understandable. As entertainment it missed fire, a few acts excepted. Orson Welles, reading a few lines from Walt Whitman on America's future, held his audience. Bob Burns sugar-coated his appeal with a few well turned gags and wound up playing his bazooka. Judy Garland delivered in grand style, singing 'America' with the Los Angeles City College choir. Gene Autry, Connie Boswell, and to a lesser extent Dick Powell teamed with Frances Langford, did well with vocals. Burns and Allen with their standard 'Brother Willie' routine, scored, but came on too early, as customers still arriving well after 7:30 p.m. created a little static. Nelson Eddy was another who profited little owing to early spotting.

For radio and as an eye-and-ear stage presentation the first half was out of balance and lacking in comedy, a prime essential. The three-way ribbing contest, with John, Lionel Barrymore and Rudy Vallee, was off key, and at one point off color. Frank Morgan tried hard but unavailingly for laughs with a dull script, while the quartet including Cary Grant, Rosalind Russell, Charles Boyer and Irene Dunne, also toyed with an indifferent comedy skit.

The second half of the program, not on the air, started off with a terrific wallop as soldiers, marines and blue-jacketed sailors marched on stage for a short drill. The lean, bronzed, businesslike boys in uniform bowled them over, with bugles and drums alternately furnishing the musical background. From that point on the show swung into high, with Leo Carrillo, as master of ceremonies, making a flash appearance on horseback. The Ada Broadbent Ballet, the Fanchonettes and the Rogers Dancers clicked smoothly and solidly. Lowe, Stanley and Height, three comic hoofers, scored heavily; the Nicholas Brothers delivered with their smash number from 'Down Argentine Way', and Rufe Davis drew phenomenal returns with imitations. Virginia O'Brien, eccentric songstress, was on too briefly, but managed to get across nonetheless.

Edward Arnold, acting as emcee in paying tribute to Harry M. Warner for starting the USO ball rolling, mentioned H. B. Warner instead, and later called on Harry Maizlish, manager of Warner Bros. Station KFWB to take a bow for handling the arrangements and ticket sales. A gross of approximately $15,000 is expected from the show.

Edward G. Robinson last night gave $100,000 to the United Service Organizations. Announcement of the actor's contribution was made at the USO show in Hollywood Bowl by Edward Arnold. The gift was one of the largest ever made to any organization for any cause. Robinson said 'The army, naval and marine bases are full of boys who have given more. They've given their freedom for an indefinite time; they've given up their own revenue from civil life and they've offered to risk their lives so that we can remain a free people. I just made a small down payment on the privilege of being an American'.

Thomas Dewey, national campaign chairman of the USO, spoke from New York, thanking the industry for its efforts. He acknowledged the Robinson gift and commented dryly that he would rather hear the orchestra leaders who had taken part in one number play in their own bands. Dewey also reported that $7,500,000 had already been raised for the USO with two-thirds of the 3,700 organized communities yet to be heard from.

Obituary

RICHARD CARLE

Funeral services for Richard Carle, 69, will be held at 11 a.m. today in the Steen chapel, North Hollywood. Carle died early Saturday of heart trouble after being taken ill a week earlier on the set of 'Almost an Angel', in which he was appearing at Universal. The body will be shipped to Melrose, Mass., for interment. Surviving are the widow, Dolly Carle, former stage actress, and a brother, E. W. Carleton, of Melrose.

Carle, who would have been 70 years of age July 7, began his professional career at the Bijou theatre in New York, doing a bit in 'Niobe', later rising to prominence in both straight and musical comedy parts. He appeared in many legit productions in theatres all over the United States and abroad, and made his film debut in 1916 for Paramount, playing in 'It Can't Be Done'. Until 1930 he shifted between films and legit appearances, but since that time had appeared almost entirely in pictures, doing character roles. Among his most recent pictures were 'Moonlight In Hawaii', 'One Night In the Tropics', 'Seven Sinners', all at Universal; 'The Devil and Miss Jones', RKO; 'The Dangerous Game' and 'Ma, He's Making Eyes At Me'.

At the time of his death he was unaware that his friend, Walter Catlett, had replaced him in the cast of 'Almost an Angel' at Universal.

Picture will be made at the Trenton and North Bay, Ontario, air fields, and Uplands Field, Ottawa, with the cast living under military conditions in barracks at the three spots. Flight-Lieutenant Owen Cathcart-Jones, who has been working on the script for the past month with Norman Reilly Raine and Arthur Horman from the latter's original, will serve as technical advisor on the production.

ADMISSION TAX BASE REPORTED PUT AT 10c

Washington, June 29.—Lowering of the admissions tax base from 21 cents to 10 cents was reported to have been decided upon over the weekend by the House ways and means committee in its search for remaining millions to bring in $3,-000,000,000 of additional federal revenue. No estimate of the amount which such a change would produce has been made, though guesses as to the added yield range up to $70,-000,000. This would bring the contribution of amusement seekers towards maintenance of the federal government to around $150,000,-000 annually, against totals of around $20,000,000 under the old scale (starting at 41c) and the indicated yield of $75,000,000 from the present tariff.

Reduction of the starting point was urged by the Treasury and by Allied States Association during hearings several months ago. Abram F. Myers, Allied board chairman, urged competing diversions be taxed and said it is unfair to draw a line between theatres as is done at present.

Independent Producers Stymie Wage Deal Between SDG, AMPP

cluding an agreement on Guild contract revisions that will carry the approval of the independents.

While the indie producers are not affiliated with the Producers association, executives and attorneys for the major companies are understood to have been apprehensive that the indies might raise the contention that a minimum wage contract was being negotiated to put them out of business. Certain representatives of the SDG are said to have echoed these views and to have expressed a desire for a favorable nod from the boys who turn out small budget pictures.

Indie representatives are said to have pointed out that they are more directly involved than the majors, since the proposed minimum salaries would apply exclusively to small budget pictures, westerns, serials, shorts and low-cost features.

Both the Guild and major companies said they had no desire to adopt any wage scales that would work a hardship on the small producer. Guild representatives said that naturally they realized that the more producers there are the more work that will be provided for directors.

The Guild also is asking that the current 80-20 Guild shop agreement be tilted to 90-10%. This is not expected to meet with any serious objection from the indies, since practically all directors in the business are now affiliated with SDG, including those who work for the leading indies.

The rates requested by the SDG call for a minimum of $300 per week for shorts, $350 for westerns and serials and $500 for features. The minimum would be lower for directors employed on term contracts.

Representatives of all three groups expressed the belief yesterday that an amicable arrangement will be worked out today.
